Independent Living Best, And Preferred, By Elderly

Almost eight per cent of Minnesota residents over the age of 65 live in nursing homes, compared with the national average of five per cent. The state ranks third in the nation in nursing home spending per person and the age group of people 85 years of age and older is the fastest growing age group in the state. Minnesota leads the nation in the number of nursing home beds per 100,000 population and 85 per cent of these beds are occupied at public expense.

These statistics combine to illustrate a situation which is presently expensive and which has the potential to become an almost unbearable tax burden in the near future if the trend continues. Nursing home care and attendant costs average $25,000 to $50,000 per year—certainly making it understandable that most Minnesotans, even after a lifetime of saving and converting assets, could only pay for such care on a private basis for a relatively short time.

It is estimated that at least one in five of present nursing home residents would prefer to live independently if they could have the help available to make that possible. When people are capable of independent living with only a degree of professional assistance, it is certainly cost effective for the public to pay for that service in preference to full custodial care in a nursing home or other home for the aged. Just as important is the fact that it is better for the individual to live independently for as long as possible.

Progress is being made in devising methods to provide such service and deferring full nursing home care—important as that is when it becomes necessary. Six projects serving a total of 36 counties have been started under a program called Seniors' Agenda for Independent Living. They have been working on local long-term care strategies since 1992.

"The goal is to move toward more community-based long-term care to help the elderly remain independent as long as possible," states Sen. Duane Benson of Lanesboro, a member of the Minnesota Senate Health Care committee.

"We need to increase the use of low-cost home care. It's not just less expensive—it's usually better care. We must develop a better supply of these alternatives to keep pace with the growing elderly population. We cannot just keep building more nursing homes. We need attractive, cost-effective alternatives so we can do more with less."

We don't think Sen. Benson was being critical of nursing home care when he said home care is usually better care. We think he meant that home care is better for those who are able to maintain their independence. We salute the state's nursing home workers who do their best to make nursing home stays as pleasant and comfortable as possible for residents who are not always the easiest or most cooperative to serve.

Any health care system must address the long term care of the elderly, and home care should be a primary consideration in any program. The longer that quality independent living can be maintained, the longer more costly nursing home care can be avoided or postponed and the elderly can live happier, more contented and comfortable lives.

U.S. Style Democracy Not Best For All Nations

As much as Americans prize our freedom and the governmental system under which we live, we probably should recognize that it has evolved over a couple of centuries and may not be the best method for all countries and all cultures.

Efforts of the United States government to direct other nations to adopt similar forms of democratic government have met with little success. This has been due to a failure to recognize that citizens of other nations have grown up under a myriad of other types of leadership and control and are not prepared to undertake the responsibilities of representative government.

Cases in point are Haiti and Somalia where U.S. involvement in attempts to establish or change governments have been met with rejection and violence.

James Tyson, author and president of the Council for the Defense of Freedom, notes that the United States, with laudable intentions, has led the Western powers in promoting democracy in many of the world's newly-independent nations.

"But in a majority of cases," he adds, "the results have been disappointing and democracy has failed to take hold effectively." He suggests that what might be needed is an alternative form of democracy, more like the Swiss Confederation structure. "It has worked well for more than a century in a country with religious and language differences that would make the Anglo/American model almost intolerable," he said.

"Many of the 22 Swiss states, or cantons, are the oldest democracies still in operation in the world. Originally they were small independent identities, some of which had been making democracy work at the local level for centuries. In 1848, they drew up their first federal constitution."

"The founders of this confederation were faced with problems similar to those of many of the present new democracies. The population was divided into three language groups: German, French and Italian (and even a fourth lesser-known: Romansh). If they had adopted the Anglo/American system with national parties, nationwide elections, a national legislature and a powerful chief executive, then one language group, almost certainly the Germans, would have won the majority in parliament, elected the chief executive, and wielded power that would have been intolerable to the other communities.

"Instead, they developed the federal cantonal system with many functions reserved for the cantons and the powers of the central executive limited to certain essentials like foreign affairs, security, international trade and finance.

"The result of this structure," Tyson concludes, "has been that the four language communities have lived in peace and prosperity for more than a century—and with one of the most stable societies and currencies in the world."

While it seems to be in the United States' interest to have emerging nations take the path to democracy, perhaps a path that leads to a solution similar to that of Switzerland is the one to promote.

Letters To The Editor and Corrections

CAPITOL COMMENTARY

LeRoy Stumpf
State Senator, District 1

Some laws get tougher every year. One that seems to fall into this category is the Minnesota law against drunk driving. Here are a few of the changes made by the 1993 Legislature.

One amendment affects people under age 21. Anyone in this group caught driving after consuming any alcohol will face a 30-day mandatory license suspension. In other words, they will be subject to a much stricter limit than the .10 blood-alcohol level that usually applies to people over age 21.

The idea behind this change is that the under-21 group often faces more trouble behind the wheel. Inexperience with alcohol and inexperience with driving make a lethal mix.

People under age 21 who get a second conviction will face license suspension for six months.

This age group was also targeted by an amendment to the law's implied consent section. If they refuse to take a blood alcohol test they will lose driving privileges for six months.

Violators over age 21 also face changes related to blood-alcohol limits. While the legal level for intoxication will stay at .10, prosecutors will have the option of introducing levels as low as .04 as evidence. (Previously this figure was .05).

This amendment was adopted to give county attorneys more flexibility in dealing with repeat offenders or unusually violent cases.

Another amendment you may have heard about involves endangering young passengers. If there is a passenger who is under age 16, and at least three years younger than the drunk driver, the driver is guilty of a gross misdemeanor.

Someone who violates this provision a second time within five years, or a third time within fifteen years, could get his license plates taken away by the court.

Education about DWI and its consequences will get a boost from another law change. When vehicles forfeited by repeat DWI offenders are sold, the State Patrol will use the money for public education on DWI laws. In the past, the proceeds had to go to the general fund.

All of these changes have taken effect in the past few months. All of them give people more reasons to not drink and drive.

NW Minnesota youth participate in ELCA meet

Seventh and eighth grade youth from Redeemer Lutheran, Zion Lutheran, Holt, Viking and Trinity Lutheran churches will participate in the "I Call You Friends" 1993 Junior high gathering of the Northwestern Minnesota Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, November 19-20 and November 20-21 at the Holiday Inn in Bemidji. They will join the anticipated 1400 participants attending the gathering. The event is scheduled twice to accommodate the large registration from the 10 conferences of the synod, which have been assigned to one of the two dates.

Main speaker is the Rev. Dennis "Tiger" McLuen, director of Youth Leadership, a graduate school of youth ministry at Luther Northwestern Theological Seminary in St. Paul. McLuen is a popular speaker at youth gatherings around the country and is a regular workshop leader.

Other program features will include dramatic presentations by the "Skitsos", a group of high school and college youth from Hudson, WI, who use drama to portray the struggles facing teenagers. Small-group discussions, Karaoke, Bible study, pizza and worship will also be part of the program at the gathering.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our appreciation to all who were so kind and thoughtful at the time of our son, Steven's death. We would especially like to thank Pastor Clarence Johnson for his words of comfort, Dorothy Larson & Joel Kezar for their beautiful music, the Green Funeral home, the pallbearers and the Trinity Ladies Aid for serving the lunch. To those who sent flowers, cards and memorials, food to our home and to all of Steven's neighbors and friends for all their help, your kindness will always be remembered.

Sadly missed by his parents,
Marvin & Delores Rolsland
and his family.

THANK YOU

We want to thank everyone who helped make our golden wedding anniversary such a special day. Thanks for the lovely cards and gifts. A special thanks to our family for hosting it. This was a day we will always remember.

God bless you.
Allan and Mayme Boughton
1t94p

A SPECIAL THANK YOU

We would like to thank everyone for the words of encouragement and support during the sudden loss of our wife, mother and grandmother, Mabel Sigerud. Thank you to everyone who brought all the wonderful food to our home and for sending flowers. Also to Pastor Palmer, Vernon Iverson, Grace Hammer and the Reiner Ladies Aide for the sermon, music and lunch. You are all wonderful friends.

Harry Sigerud and family

Pennington Co. board meeting
(October 12, 1993)

■ A number of items from the County Engineer's office were discussed.

■ Commissioners Naplin and Murphy were appointed to a committee to work with Inter-County Nursing Service and SD 564 on obtaining Knox school for offices for health oriented programs.

November 24, 1993
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
PENNINGTON COUNTY
OCTOBER 12, 1993 - 10:00 A.M.

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Commissioners room in the courthouse in Thief River Falls, on Tuesday, October 12, 1993 at 10:00 a.m. Members present: Jensen, Swanson, Murphy and Naplin. Members absent: Comstock.

County Engineer, Delton Shultz and Assistant County Engineer, George Broadwell discussed the status of Bridges LO299, LO241, and LO297. The paper work for these bridges is being held up with MnDOT. The replacement of these bridges will start in the spring of 1994 and until then there will be temporary detours set up. Al Steinhauer and other members of the public affected by the replacement of bridge LO241 and the detour route also met with the County Board to express their concerns.

The County Engineer then informed the County Board that the Wold and Moe Survey was almost completed but there are a couple of corner posts that can't be placed until winter.

Delton Schultz informed the County Board that the Highway Department will be replacing approaches across CD#1, Sanders/Black River to Wolds and Steve Mosloff. The cost for replacement of these approaches will be billed to Steve Mosloff.

The County Highway Department will be lowering pipe west of CR #74 across CD #70 after the ditch is cleaned by Lloyd Howick.

Pennington Co. board meeting

(October 26, 1993)

■ The board approved a resolution to apply for a Cooperation Planning Grant to the Board of Government Innovation and Cooperation regarding making the courthouse and city auditorium accessible to handicapped persons.

■ The board set the charge for weighing trucks on the scale at the Solid Waste facility at $2 per truck load.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
PENNINGTON COUNTY
OCTOBER 26, 1993 - 5:00 P.M.

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Commissioners room in the Courthouse in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, October 26, 1993 at 5:00 p.m. Members present: Jensen, Comstock, Swanson, Murphy and Naplin. Members absent: none.

George Broadwell, Assistant County Engineer informed the County Board that the paper work for Bridge LO299 is complete and ready for bids. Moved by Commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to advertise for bid opening on January 4, 1994. Motion unanimously carried.

The Assistant County Engineer then discussed a letter that was received by Orrin Haugen pertaining to the County Highway Department being unauthorized to enter upon his land in Section 36 of Star Township. Moved by Commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to direct the County Attorney to send a letter to Orrin Haugen addressing this problem. Motion carried.

The County Sheriff than met with the County Board requesting authorization to use Pennington County safety/crime watch as the name for the safety/crime watch program in Pennington County. Moved by Commissioner Comstock, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to authorize the safety council to use Pennington County safety/crime watch as the name for the safety/crime watch program in Pennington County. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to authorize the Pennington County Sheriff Department to employ a Green Thumb worker at the Law Enforcement Center through the Green Thumb Program. Motion unanimously carried.

The Sheriff then discussed with the County Board what should be done with the squad car that was smashed up in a car/deer accident. Pennington County has received a check from the insurance company for $2,659.00. The cost to get the squad car fixed was estimated at $3,100.00 as there was a $500.00 insurance deductible on this car. The County Board instructed the Sheriff to have the radio equipment removed from the car and advertise it for sale with proceeds going for a new squad car in 1994.

Moved by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to appoint Commissioner Comstock as a County Board representative for Law Enforcement issues. Motion unanimously carried.

The following resolution was moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Naplin and upon vote was unanimously carried.

WHEREAS, the Board of Government Innovation and Cooperation will award grants of $50,000 or less to Local Governments to help them develop plans for Intergovernmental Cooperation in the delivery of specific public services; and,

WHEREAS, Pennington County and the City of Thief River Falls elected officials have met and agreed to pass resolutions approving the application for the Cooperation Planning Grant that would request $50,000 for the development of a plan to make the Pennington County Court House and the City Auditorium accessible to handicapped persons; and,

WHEREAS, to be eligible for a grant the applicants must agree to implement the plan for Intergovernmental Cooperation once it has been developed; and,

WHEREAS, it is felt by both the Pennington County Board of Commissioners and the City Council Members that there would be an improvement in the overall quality of government service by making both buildings available to handicapped persons; and,

WHEREAS, the development of a plan for Intergovernmental Cooperation prepared in this community could be readily replicated by other Local Governments that have a County Court House and City Offices in close proximity to each other.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, by the Board of Commissioners, Pennington County, Minnesota to approve the application for the Cooperation Planning Grant and to authorize and direct the City, County and Regional Development Commissioner Staff Persons to submit the completed application form, Part 1, to the Board of Government Innovation and Cooperation pursuant to Minnesota Statues 465.799.

The following resolution was moved by Commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Murphy and upon vote was unanimously carried.

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners intends to enter into a Joint Powers Agreement with the City of Thief River Falls City Council for the development of a plan and construction of a structure between the Pennington County Court House and the City Auditorium to make both buildings and their services handicapped accessible.

The County Auditor then discussed a request from the City of Thief River Falls Park and Recreation Department to place an ice rink on tax forfeited property in Arthur's 3rd Addition, Lots 11, 12 and 13, Block 3. No action taken at this time.

Moved by Commissioner Comstock, seconded by Commissioner Naplin that the Pennington County Board authorizes the Clearwater County Auditor to function as the Business Administrator for the Northwestern Counties Data Security Association (NCDPSA), to include the application for an Administration of a "Cooperative Planning Grant," which will assist the Thirteen County Associations efforts to establish and maintain a functional and verifiable Data Processing Disaster Recovery Plan and establish accounts within Clearwater Counties financial systems to receive and disburse funding on behalf of the NCDPSA. Motion unanimously carried.

Howard Person, informed the County Board that there will be a Household Hazardous Waste Collection day scheduled in May.

Rick Nordhagen, from Future Fuels, Inc. to discuss solid waste issues.

Moved by Commissioner Comstock, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to approve paying for Rick Nordhagen to attend a meeting in Minneapolis on November 3rd, 1993 pertaining to Compost Regulations. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Commissioner Jenson, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to set the charge for weighing trucks on the scale at the Solid Waste Facility at $2.00/truck load. Motion unanimously carried.

Steve Nordhagen from Les's Sanitation met with County board pertaining to the garbage dumpster that was removed from the Welfare Building upon request by the County Board. The custodians did not feel that this service was needed at the Welfare Department. A week later the dumpster was moved back to the welfare department's lot with the Welfare department garbage placed in it. Mr. Nordhagen is asking whether they want the services provided by Les's Sanitation or not. The County Board directed Mr. Nordhagen to keep the dumpster at the Welfare Department and keep billing them as they have been.

Moved by Commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Murphy to approve the minutes of September 28, 1993 and October 12, 1993 with changes. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Auditor then discussed a request for abatement of interest on property owned by Charles Joyce described as: The East 147 feet of Lot 3, Block 8, of Riverside Addition to Thief River Falls. No action was taken at this time.

Moved by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to advertise for part-time help in the Motor Vehicle Department. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Auditor then informed the county Board that the State Auditor's Office have now issued their rules for publishing a summary of the county's Financial Statement and that Pennington County's Statement will be published soon.

Moved by Commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to adjourn to November 9th, 1993 at 10:00 A.M. Motion unanimously carried.

The Board wishes to express a special thank you to Mrs. Magnusson and staff for all of the time and energy they have spent in the preparation of the Education Fair.

Dan Olson updated the board on the progress of the building committee and submitted additional names of people to serve on this committee. Next committee meeting will be Tuesday, November 9th at 7:00 p.m.

Donna Fosholm reported on the progress of the Policy Committee and negotiation with Floyd Olson. A statement of agreement with Mr. Olson was presented for Board approval.

Mark Carlson presented possible dates for a joint board meeting with Tri-County. Meeting was scheduled for Monday, December 6th at 8:00 p.m. in Newfolden.

Chairman Augustine appointed the following people to serve on the Bus Mechanic Committee: Scott Peters, Dan Olson, Leonard Blazejewski, Ron Paggen & Jim Hodny. The Committee will be writing a job description and interviewing applicants.

Motion by Scott Peters seconded by Mark Carlson to approve the following people for the Newfolden Elementary Building Committee: Wayne Peters, Don Larson, Ron Kragness, Richard Ness, Melanie Nelson, Doug Haven and Sue Hagen. UC.

Motion by Dan Olson seconded by Keith Ranum to approve the MCC student trip to Mexico. UC.

Motion by Scott Peters seconded by Donna Fosholm to approve the policy concerning Head Coaches/Tournaments as follows:

Extra Benefits for Head Coaches:

Head Coaches of any Category I activity (MSHSL) shall be permitted the use of a school vehicle to attend Sub-Region or Regional tournaments. A head coach may attend state tournament/contest with the school district contributing the following:

1) one day of professional leave, with substitute paid by school district, if tournament/contest is on a school day;

2) additional compensation for expenses, to a maximum of $150.00 per season, with the cost for the use of a school vehicle (at current rate) considered part of the $150.00. UC.

Motion by Mark Carlson seconded by Doreen Amundson to approve the insurance settlement with Cigna on the contents of the building as proposed. UC.

Motion by Donna Fosholm seconded by Scott Peters to approve the hiring of Pam Wockenfuss as a high school cleaner on a probationary period of three months. UC.

Motion by Mark Carlson seconded by Keith Ranum to accept Gerald Pederson's letter of resignation as bus mechanic and thank him for his years of service to our district. UC.

Motion by Dan Olson seconded by Scott Peters to accept the resignation of Mark Jorgenson as assistant Girl Basketball coach. UC.

Motion by Donna Fosholm seconded by Keith Ranum to approve the winter activity assignments for the 1993-94 school year as follows: Boys Basketball: Head Coach: Ron Ueland; Asst. Coach: Jim Pederson; Jr. High: Kent Warne; Girls Basketball: Head Coach: Tom Mjelde; Asst. Coach: vacant; Jr. High: Jerald Hagen; Speech: George Liapis; One Act Play: Linda Hane. Additional coach(es) may be necessary after we can tell how many participants there will be in each grade level.

The opening as Asst. Coach for Girls has been listed among staff members – it will be open until November 1. If any current coach applies for and gets the Asst. job, there will likely be another opening which will need to be filled (and filled quickly). UC.

Motion by Donna Fosholm seconded by Doreen Amundson to approve the Statement of Agreement as written with Floyd Olson. UC.

Motion by Mark Carlson seconded by Scott Peters to change the teacher's inservice day January 21st to February 7th. UC.

Motion by Mark Carlson seconded by Keith Ranum to transfer $40,000.00 from Capital Outlay facilities fund to Capital Outlay equipment fund. UC.

Motion by Keith Ranum to adjourn, seconded by Scott Peters. UC.

NOTICE OF HEARING
PRELIMINARY PLAT REVIEW
PLANNING COMMISSION
CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to Chapter 12 of the Thief River Falls City Code, that School District No. 564, 230 LaBree Avenue South, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, has submitted a Preliminary Plat for review by the City of Thief River Falls. The properties to be platted are legally described as follows:

An unplatted tract of land which is part of Government Lot 5 and a part of the Southeast Quarter (SE 1/4) of Section 34, T. 154 N., R. 43 W., and a Replat of Outlot "A" of Green Acres Addition, containing 30.0 acres, more or less.

The properties to be platted are the site of Franklin Middle School and Mark Twain Elementary School. The School District also owns Lot 4 in Block One and Outlot "A" of Knight's First Addition in this area. These two properties are not included in the replatting. The properties are zoned R-1 Suburban Residential District and no change in the zoning is anticipated at this time.

Most of the properties which were acquired for the Middle and Elementary Schools' Site are described with metes and bounds legal descriptions. The purpose of the proposed platting would be to provide clearer legal title to the property owned by the School District.

Notice is further given, that the Planning Commission will conduct a Hearing on the Preliminary Plat at approximately 7:10 P.M. on Monday, December 6, 1993, in the City Council Chambers, City Auditorium, 123 Main Avenue North, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. All persons wishing to comment on the Preliminary Plat will have the option to be heard at this time. Persons who wish to submit written comments prior to the Hearing or who have questions should address them to the Office of the Community Development Director, City Auditorium, P.O. Box 528, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, or telephone 218-681-2500.

NOTICE OF HEARING
PLANNING COMMISSION
CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to Chapter 12 of the Thief River Falls City Code, that Mike and JoAnn Novak, 425 Hickory Road, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, and owners of part of Lot 7 in Block One and part of Lot 3 in Block Four of Noreen's First Addition, have submitted a Registered Land Survey for review by the City of Thief River Falls. Approval of the "Certificate of Survey" by the City would allow Mike and JoAnn Novak and Delray and Barbara Ness, 113 Willow Road, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, the owners of Lot 4 in Block Four of Noreen's First Addition which abuts the Novak's property, to transfer ownership of two tracts of land as follows:

Tract "C" (D. & B. Ness to M. & J. Novak):

That part of Lot 4, Block Four, Noreen's First Addition, Thief River Falls, Minnesota, according to the recorded plat thereof, described as follows:

Beginning at an iron pipe monument at the southwest corner of said Lot 4; thence North 36 degrees 35 minutes 34 seconds East, assumed bearing, along the westerly line of said Lot 4 a distance of 48.28 feet; thence South 17 degrees 41 minutes 04 seconds West 49.40 feet to an iron pipe monument on the southerly line of said Lot 4; thence North 58 degrees 54 minutes 11 seconds West along the southerly line of said Lot 4 a distance of 16.08 feet to the point of beginning, containing 386.47 square feet, more or less.

Subject to easements, restrictions or reservations of record, if any.

Tract "D" (M. & J. Novak to D. & B. Ness):

That part of Lot 7, Block One, Noreen's First Addition, Thief River Falls, Minnesota, according to the recorded plat thereof, described as follows:

Beginning at an iron pipe monument at the northeast corner of said Lot 7; thence South 36 degrees 35 minutes 34 seconds West, assumed bearing, along the easterly line of said Lot 7 a distance of 60.90 feet; thence North 17 degrees 41 minutes 04 seconds East 51.29 feet to an iron pipe monument on the northerly line of said Lot 7; thence North 89 degrees 55 minutes 39 seconds East along the said northerly line 20.72 feet to the point of beginning, containing 506 .16 square feet, more or less.

Subject to easements, restrictions or reservations of record, if any.

In September, 1993, the City approved a similar transfer of land between the Novaks and Jack Milender, owner of the abutting Lot 3 in Block Four of Noreen's First Addition. The purpose of the transfer between the Novaks and the Nesses would be to straighten the ownership lines common to the three properties. It should also be noted that there are existing utility easements in the vicinity of the proposed transfers, which easements will remain as originally platted.

Notice is further given, that the Planning Commission will conduct a Hearing on the Request for Approval of a Registered Land Survey at 7:00 P.M. on Monday, December 6, 1993, in the City Council Chambers, City Auditorium, 123 Main Avenue North, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. All person wishing to comment on the Request will have the option to be heard at that time. Persons who wish to submit comments prior to the Hearing or who have questions should address them to the Office of the Community Development Director, City Auditorium, P.O. Box 528, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, or telephone 218-681-2500.

HOME IMPROVEMENT

Just like your car, your home needs regular service check-ups too. Maintenance of your property can make your home a safer place, increase its market value, and help avoid or minimize potential insurance losses. Here are some things to look for:

- Have the furnace, woodburning stove and/or chimney checked and cleaned to avoid smoke damage and eliminate unwanted fire hazards.
- Remove dead tree limbs that could break off in the wind and cause damage to your roof or car.
- Clean out your gutters. Sticks and leaf build-up force water or melting snow under your roof, leading to damage to ceilings and walls.
- Before you store garden equipment, drain all gas and oil. Never store gas or other petroleum products in your home or near a heating source.

For your Insurance service check-up, NORTHERN STATE AGENCY is available and willing to assist you. Our office is conveniently located in the Northern State Bank building. Office hours are 8:30-4:30 Mon.-Fri.; 8:30-6:00 Thurs.

Lorenson discharged at Plummer

In an action taken at its meeting November 22, the Plummer school board adopted a resolution to "immediately discharge Richard Lorenson and to suspend Richard Lorenson with pay."

Lorenson has been the superintendent and principal at Plummer schools and was suspended with pay several weeks ago following an alleged striking of a student. Questions regarding the board's action have been referred to the district's attorney who was out of her office and not available for comment this morning.

The action by the board was stated in the school board minutes distributed in the school district's monthly newsletter.

At its November 15 special meeting, the board hired Robert Anderson of Thief River Falls as temporary/interim principal and superintendent effective immediately. Anderson most recently was principal in the Greenbush-Middle River school system for three years and previously had served as principal or superintendent during a five-year period in the Red Lake Falls schools. He was not presently employed when hired for the interim position.

At the November 22 meeting the board closed the meeting at 8:56 p.m. to discuss threatened litigation, then reconvened for open session at 10:35 p.m., at which time the resolution discharging Lorenson was adopted. The vote was 4-2 with chairman Jim Hagge and members Betty Halvorson, Jeanine Pahlen and Roger Walter voting in favor and clerk Karen Fossell and Joe McMullen opposed.

Lorenson has been in contact with the Minnesota Association of Secondary School Principals regarding legal representation.

TRF council considers '94 water rate increase

Thief River Falls city council is considering a water rate increase that could raise an anticipated $75,000 in revenue. The council met Tuesday and discussed several items on the agenda including a construction schedule for the arena floor at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center, inclusion of a park plan into the city's comprehensive plan, and the upcoming Truth in Taxation hearing.

Arlo Rude, superintendent of utilities, informed the council of the Utilities Committee recommendation for a water rate increase. Rude said the water rate increase could raise $75,000. He explained that the rate increase is needed to help pay for bonds on the water plant improvement project.

Only $1.6 million of the over $5 million project came from State and Federal funds. Although the city obtained a low interest loan on the remainder, substantial payments have to be made. In fact, Rude said the Utilities Committee is considering whether to increase the water rate by similar amounts in 1995 and 1996. How much of increase actually depends on how much water is sold in the next year. Rude said the utilities department had anticipated higher sales for the past two years, but little if any increase was noted.

Alderman John T. Anderson asked if the increase was just for bond repayments or whether it also covered an increase in operations costs.

Rude said there have been some added operations costs due to the improvement project. He explained that more water is being processed and that means more chemicals. More regulations and more monitors to watch also mean more personnel.

The rate increase involves the usage charge by increasing the usage charge as follows: (Monthly service charges remain unchanged.) For the first 10,000 gallons the rate increases from $1.37 per 1,000 gallons to $1.60 per 1,000 gallons. Over 10,000 gallons, the rate increases from $1.47 per 1,000 gallons to $1.70 per 1,000 gallons.

The city council will consider the proposed rate increase on December 14.

■ Tentative plans for replacing the arena floor reviewed.

Discussion about replacing the arena floor have been ongoing for the last year. What it means to event organizers is that during the time of construction, no activities will be able to take place inside. Last year, the Stampede Rodeo was held inside the arena over Labor Day weekend. A tentative schedule announced Tuesday night, shows construction taking place between July 25 and October 28.

■ Committee to interview consultants who will prepare a Comprehensive plan for the city.

Consultant proposals for the project are due December 3, 1993. Upon receipt of the proposals, an eight person committee will review the proposals, conduct interviews and select a consultant to recommend to the city council. Members of the selection committee will include some members of the city council, park and recreation department and city staff.

The city council agreed to fold the plans for a comprehensive park plan into the City's general comprehensive plan. A memo from Community Development Director Don Stewart stated that following interviews on October 28, the interview-selection committee decided to enter into negotiations with Northwest Associated Consultants, Inc. of St. Louis Park to develop a work

Lincoln bands give concert December 6

Lincoln high school bands will present their first concert of the 1993-94 school year Monday, December 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. The public is encouraged to attend and there is no admission charge.

Included in the concert will be performances by the jazz band, freshman band, concert band and wind ensemble. The bands are under the direction of Bruce Felt.

The jazz band will present three selections featuring solos by Tyler Anderson on trumpet, Jill Dekkers on alto saxophone and Rod Joppru on baritone saxophone.

Freshman and concert band will each perform three numbers. Highlight of the freshman band portion of the concert, Felt said, will be "Celebration and Dance," an overture that contains a variety of musical styles. The concert band will perform "Star Trek: Through the Generations," a medley which includes the theme songs from all three Star Trek television series.

The wind ensemble will open its portion of the concert with a highly dramatic work based on a poem written by an American Pilot in World War II. The selection is entitled "Where Never Lark or Eagle Flew" and gives a musical interpretation of flight. The concert will end with the band's traditional rendition of LeRoy Anderson's "Christmas Festival."

The band boosters will host a reception in the cafeteria following the concert.

Members of the various bands include the following:

Jazz Band

Alto Sax—Laura Williams, Traci Lindberg and Jeremy Hulteen (also plays bass);

Baritone Sax—Rodney Joppru;

Tenor Sax—Stephanie DuRose;

Bassoon—Kendra Dimich (also plays piano);

One killed in snowmobile accident Sat.

Dean Allen Dokkin, 31, Thief River Falls, was killed in a snowmobile accident Saturday afternoon.

Minnesota state patrol received a report of a snowmobile accident at 4:54 p.m. Saturday south of Thief River Falls along Highway 32. According to the accident report, Dokkin was driving north in the west ditch and a snowmobile driven by Daniel Conrad Olson, 18, Red Lake Falls, was driving south in the West ditch when the vehicles collided head on. All were thrown from their snowmobiles. Dokkin, was pronounced dead upon arrival at Northwest Medical Center. Olson, was taken to Northwest Medical Center with a suspected broken leg and collar bone. A passenger on his snowmobile, Theresa Tischer, 18, Thief River Falls, had leg injuries and after being taken to Northwest Medical Center she was transported to Dakota Hospital in Fargo, ND.

No information was being released on the condition of Tischer, according to a Dakota Hospital spokesperson.

County and Red Lake band work on agreement

Pennington county board of commissioners has agreed to an interim agreement providing law enforcement for the River Road Casino.

Representatives of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa met with the county board Tuesday to discuss cross-deputization of law enforcement officials which would allow Pennington county deputies to enter the premises for law enforcement purposes. The board approved a motion that calls for the writing of a contract that would detail responsibilities and remuneration. In the interim, the board approved an interim agreement based on an hourly rate.

More details about the meeting will appear in the next edition of the Northern Watch.

Sally Wiltse, adaptive physical education teacher in the Thief River Falls public schools, is a state-winner of the George Hanson Developmental/Adapted Physical Education Award presented by the Minnesota Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance. Purpose of the award is "to honor and recognize the outstanding services and contributions given by an elementary, secondary, higher education or other professional worker in developmental/adapted physical education." For more about Wiltse's work and background, watch for a feature story coming soon in the Northern Watch or The Times.

One of four homes to be visited Saturday, December 4, by people participating in the annual Holiday Tour of Homes sponsored by the Friends of the Orchestra in Thief River Falls will be the home of Curt and Terryl Neumann at 1010 Oakland Park Road. Terryl said that "the kids" particularly enjoy this large family room with lots of window area. Across the room is a fireplace and decorated tree surrounded by her collection of Santa Bears. Tickets for the tour are available at $5 each from orchestra members or at Kezar Music, Jubilee Foods and Hugo's Supermarket. Tour hours are from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

NCC Masterworks Chorale to perform 'Alexander's Feast'

Northland Community College Masterworks Chorale, along with the Crookston Civic Music League and a Minneapolis-based orchestra, will perform "Alexander's Feast" by George Frederick Handel this winter.

Rehearsal will begin Jan. 3, 1994, in room D100 at Northland. Performances will be February 9 at 8 p.m. in Crookston and February 10 at 8 p.m. in Thief River Falls. Auditions are not required, however, because of the limited number of rehearsals, ability to sight read music is required.

According to Les Torgerson, music instructor at Northland and Masterworks Chorale director, arrangements are being made with Philomusica of Minnesota, a professional orchestra featuring many of the same musicians as the Minneapolis Chamber Symphony but without former director Jere Lantz.

Total project cost between Thief River Falls and Crookston will be over $14,000, much of which will be provided through grants from U.S.West and other sources, Torgerson said.

Handel's setting of Dryden's ode "Alexander's Feast" was composed in the first three weeks of January in 1736. It is the fourth wholly English choral work which Handel had presented to his London audiences by way of an alternative to Italian opera which was banned during the season of Lent. Many of Handel's oratorios were performed during the Lenten season because the theaters were closed by law.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . The Christmas Goblins Have Done It

There are Christmas gremlins or goblins of some kind in the basement of my house. I only found this out last weekend when I pulled out all of my boxes of Christmas decorations.

Last year I put away all of the Christmas decorations myself, not having the children do it like I have some other years. Last year I did it myself so I know just how well everything was packed.

I know I put everything away neatly. I rolled up the strands of lights and tied them up with wire fasteners; I put all of the breakable balls in separate boxes and packed them carefully; I packed all of the small and large Christmas gee gaws carefully so that soft ones were next to hard ones and vice versa; I put extra lights in a little box, the ornament hangers in another little box, tiny balls for my little trees in a third little box; wreaths were in a big bag so they would stay neat and not get all bent out of shape, and small trees in another bag for the same reason; and I carefully rolled the tinsel garlands so they would stay pretty and not get crimped. I packed my large nativity set carefully so that it wouldn't get any more broken than it already is after five children's sets of little fingers and I put my small nativity set in a small box so none of the numerous shepherds and kings and sheep would get lost.

Well, last weekend I started looking in the boxes and they do not look the same as when I packed them.

The strands of lights were not neatly tied. Over the summer they had all turned into snarls of tangled knots that took me hours to unravel. Not only were they in knots, but, of course, none of them would light. I don't care if the boxes did say if one went out the others would stay lit - it just doesn't work that way with my strands of lights. Now I have to sit down and try to figure out which of hundreds of little light bulbs are not working properly. I know this is not how I packed them away. When I packed them away, they were all in smooth strings and every one would light. I'm sure the gremlins or goblins or whatever have been at them.

Half of the Christmas balls are broken. How can that be? No one has touched them since they were packed away so neatly. It has to be something peculiar that has broken them.

My Christmas decorations were all jumbled into a mess, not neatly placed to protect the glass things. Glass jiggled and jangled against glass as I moved the box. I didn't pack them like that. Something has been at them.

The ornament hangers were not the way I packed them last year, either. Somehow they had been woven and twined into one large bunch. Extracting one single hanger out of that bunch was like trying to undo a puzzle. They were not that way when I put them away last year.

Wreaths and trees were not nicely packed in their plastic bags. They were still in the bags, but were all bent out of shape and looked like a cat had slept in them. I spent at least an hour bending everything back into some semblance of wreath- and tree- shapes and then they will still never look like they did last year. Besides, half of their flowers and lights are missing, heaven only knows where they went.

Tinsel - I don't want to look at another tinsel garland. Tied into knots, they were, and good, tight ones at that. I'm sure you are aware what happens to the carpet when tinsel knots are getting tugged and pulled. My carpet is now permanently decorated for Christmas in the tinsel that is no longer on the naked garland strings.

I haven't yet dared open the boxes that my nativity sets are in. I'm so afraid of what I will find that I will wait to do that until next weekend. I can only take so much before my Christmas spirit will fly away and I will never get it back again, so I'm waiting before I open any more surprise boxes.

I don't know who made such a mess of my Christmas things. All of the children swear they didn't do it and I know I didn't do it, so, who did? It had to be Christmas gremlins or goblins or something like that. I suppose I'll have to fumigate the basement before I pack away the Christmas things this year.

Bemidji State University will offer renewable full-tuition scholarships

Bemidji State University will offer full-tuition scholarships, renewable for up to four years, to qualifying students starting in the fall of 1994.

All entering freshmen ranking in the top 10 per cent of their high school class with an ACT composite of 28 or above will be awarded a full-tuition scholarship, which will be renewed providing the student completes at least 45 credits per year while maintaining a 3.50 grade point average. Minority students ranking in the top 10 per cent of their class will be awarded full-tuition scholarships renewable under the same conditions.

Based on current tuition costs, the scholarship is worth an estimated $10,000 over the four years. To receive the award, students must have applied and been accepted for admission by April 1, 1994.

Also new to BSU financial offerings next fall are Transfer Leadership Scholarships. Each school in the Clearwater and Arrowhead community college systems will select an outstanding transfer student to receive $1,000 over a two-year period. The grants will be based on academic success, leadership and volunteerism.

Deer Park Garden club meets

The Deer Park Garden club met at the home of Helen Chervestad the evening of November 9. She and co-hostess, Ethel Wiseth, instructed the club members on the art of making a pine cone centerpiece and wall hanging, using cones, berries, pine branches, a dove and paper bows.

The business meeting was chaired by the secretary in the absence of the president and vice president. Members recited the club creed and roll call was answered by "My Thanksgiving Plans." Secretary and treasurer read reports, club dues were collected, discussion was held on programs and hostesses were chosen for 1994. The secretary has ordered program book covers featuring roses, the club project for 1994.

December meeting will be at the Norma Hanson home at 7 p.m. on December 15. Each club member is asked to bring a bingo prize and a $5 gift for the Christmas gift exchange following supper.

WIC / EPS Dec. schedules

Women, infants and children supplemental nutritional educational program (WIC) is being held during the month of December.

Infants and children up to the age of five and women who are pregnant or breastfeeding may be eligible for the program. Prenatal nutrition is a vital part of producing a healthy baby. It is considered important to apply for WIC early in pregnancy; no proof of pregnancy is needed.

All potential clients must write to the WIC service and complete an application.

The schedule for WIC and EPS clinics for December includes December 6, 13, 16 and 17, all at the Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Immunizations will now be given by county nurses. Please contact Inter-County Nursing service in Thief River Falls at 681-5950 for dates and times.

For further information concerning the WIC and EPS programs, call or write: WIC/EPS, Quin County, Park Place Mall, Red Lake Falls, MN 56750 or telephone (218) 253-2125 or 1-800-223-1591 (toll free).

The WIC program must treat everyone the same. You can not be treated unfairly because of your race, color, national origin, age, sex or handicap. If you think you have been treated unfairly, you should write to: Administrator, Food and Nutrition Services, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 3101 Park Center Drive, Alexandria, VA 22302.

Becky Proulx and Michael Philipp are united in marriage at Silver Creek

Becky Ann Proulx and Michael Warren Philipp were united in marriage September 11 at Silver Creek Lutheran church, rural Thief River Falls. Rev. Eugene Floistad officiated at the 5 p.m. ceremony.

Parents of the couple are George and Diana Proulx of Red Lake Falls and Vern and Yvonne Philipp of Goodridge.

Colleen Thompson, sister of the bride, sang special musical selections. Melodee Rupprecht, friend of the couple, presided at the organ.

Lori Hagl of Sioux Falls, SD, friend of the bride, was her maid of honor. Dwight Syverson of Aberdeen, SD, friend of the groom, was his best man.

Ushers were Brian Proulx, brother of the bride from Red Lake Falls, and Brad Philipp, nephew of the groom, Goodridge.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for the couple. Hosts and hostesses were Tim and Beth Boucher, sister and brother-in-law of the bride, and Daryl and Paulette Augustine, sister and brother-in-law of the groom.

The bride's sister, Vickie Proulx, presided at the guest book. Alice Ann Normandin, the bride's godmother, and JoAnn Peters, aunt of the groom, cut and served the wedding cake.

Emily Comb, aunt of the bride, and Sue Philipp, sister-in-law of the groom, served coffee. Sally Philipp, niece of the groom, served punch to the guests. Shea Tofsley, friend of the bride, was flower hostess, and Brent Philipp, nephew of the groom, was in charge of the gifts.

The couple is at home in Thief River Falls where the bride is employed at the Pennington County ASCS Office. She is a 1986 graduate of Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls and a 1990 graduate of Moorhead State University. The groom, a 1978 graduate of Lincoln high school and 1983 graduate of the University of North Dakota, is employed at the Red Lake County ASCS Office.

Sharon Dosser to wed C. Gerst

Sharon Dosser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dosser of Thief River Falls, and Christopher Gerst, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Gerst of Fargo, ND, announce their engagement.

The bride-to-be is a 1988 graduate of Lincoln high school. She graduated from Moorhead State University and works as a paralegal B.S. for Nellis, Hanson and Davies, Ltd. in Fargo, ND.

Her fiance is a 1986 graduate of Fargo South high school, served four years in the United States Marine Corps, and is a veteran of the Persian Gulf War. He currently attends North Dakota State University and is employed by the Veterans Administration hospital and the Sports Bar in Fargo.

The wedding is planned for January 8, 1994, at Messiah Lutheran church in Fargo.

Open house Sun. to celebrate 40th anniversary

Duane and Pauline Vatsaas

There will be an open house in honor of Duane and Pauline Vatsaas on their 40th wedding anniversary Sunday, Dec. 5, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Oak Ridge Lutheran church, rural Thief River Falls. The event is being sponsored by their children and grandchildren. All friends and family is invited to attend.

Jacey Marie Fischer born November 25

Ron and Lori Fischer of Grand Rapids are proud to announce the birth of a daughter, Jacey Marie. She was born November 25 in Grand Rapids. Grandparents are Edward and Yoshiko Duke of Thief River Falls.

BIRTHS

Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls has reported the following birth since last week's edition of The Times:

Steven Smart and Lisa Howard of Plummer are the parents of a baby girl born November 21. She has been named Casey Ann Smart.

•CORRECTION•

Davin Veselka's name was incorrectly spelled in last week's edition of The Times. He is the father of Devin James Veselka, who was born November 15.

Bemidji State University will offer renewable full-tuition scholarships

Bemidji State University will offer full-tuition scholarships, renewable for up to four years, to qualifying students starting in the fall of 1994.

All entering freshmen ranking in the top 10 per cent of their high school class with an ACT composite of 28 or above will be awarded a full-tuition scholarship, which will be renewed providing the student completes at least 45 credits per year while maintaining a 3.50 grade point average. Minority students ranking in the top 10 per cent of their class will be awarded full-tuition scholarships renewable under the same conditions.

Based on current tuition costs, the scholarship is worth an estimated $10,000 over the four years. To receive the award, students must have applied and been accepted for admission by April 1, 1994.

Also new to BSU financial offerings next fall are Transfer Leadership Scholarships. Each school in the Clearwater and Arrowhead community college systems will select an outstanding transfer student to receive $1,000 over a two-year period. The grants will be based on academic success, leadership and volunteerism.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . The Christmas Goblins Have Done It

There are Christmas gremlins or goblins of some kind in the basement of my house. I only found this out last weekend when I pulled out all of my boxes of Christmas decorations.

Last year I put away all of the Christmas decorations myself, not having the children do it like I have some other years. Last year I did it myself so I know just how well everything was packed.

I know I put everything away neatly. I rolled up the strands of lights and tied them up with wire fasteners; I put all of the breakable balls in separate boxes and packed them carefully; I packed all of the small and large Christmas gee gaws carefully so that soft ones were next to hard ones and vice versa; I put extra lights in a little box, the ornament hangers in another little box, tiny balls for my little trees in a third little box; wreaths were in a big bag so they would stay neat and not get all bent out of shape, and small trees in another bag for the same reason; and I carefully rolled the tinsel garlands so they would stay pretty and not get crimped. I packed my large nativity set carefully so that it wouldn't get any more broken than it already is after five children's sets of little fingers and I put my small nativity set in a small box so none of the numerous shepherds and kings and sheep would get lost.

Well, last weekend I started looking in the boxes and they do not look the same as when I packed them.

The strands of lights were not neatly tied. Over the summer they had all turned into snarls of tangled knots that took me hours to unravel. Not only were they in knots, but, of course, none of them would light. I don't care if the boxes did say if one went out the others would stay lit - it just doesn't work that way with my strands of lights. Now I have to sit down and try to figure out which of hundreds of little light bulbs are not working properly. I know this is not how I packed them away. When I packed them away, they were all in smooth strings and every one would light. I'm sure the gremlins or goblins or whatever have been at them.

Half of the Christmas balls are broken. How can that be? No one has touched them since they were packed away so neatly. It has to be something peculiar that has broken them.

My Christmas decorations were all jumbled into a mess, not neatly placed to protect the glass things. Glass jiggled and jangled against glass as I moved the box. I didn't pack them like that. Something has been at them.

The ornament hangers were not the way I packed them last year, either. Somehow they had been woven and twined into one large bunch. Extracting one single hanger out of that bunch was like trying to undo a puzzle. They were not that way when I put them away last year.

Wreaths and trees were not nicely packed in their plastic bags. They were still in the bags, but were all bent out of shape and looked like a cat had slept in them. I spent at least an hour bending everything back into some semblance of wreath- and tree- shapes and then they will still never look like they did last year. Besides, half of their flowers and lights are missing, heaven only knows where they went.

Tinsel - I don't want to look at another tinsel garland. Tied into knots, they were, and good, tight ones at that. I'm sure you are aware what happens to the carpet when tinsel knots are getting tugged and pulled. My carpet is now permanently decorated for Christmas in the tinsel that is no longer on the naked garland strings.

I haven't yet dared open the boxes that my nativity sets are in. I'm so afraid of what I will find that I will wait to do that until next weekend. I can only take so much before my Christmas spirit will fly away and I will never get it back again, so I'm waiting before I open any more surprise boxes.

I don't know who made such a mess of my Christmas things. All of the children swear they didn't do it and I know I didn't do it, so, who did? It had to be Christmas gremlins or goblins or something like that. I suppose I'll have to fumigate the basement before I pack away the Christmas things this year.

Deer Park Garden club meets

The Deer Park Garden club met at the home of Helen Chervestad the evening of November 9. She and co-hostess, Ethel Wiseth, instructed the club members on the art of making a pine cone centerpiece and wall hanging, using cones, berries, pine branches, a dove and paper bows.

The business meeting was chaired by the secretary in the absence of the president and vice president. Members recited the club creed and roll call was answered by "My Thanksgiving Plans." Secretary and treasurer read reports, club dues were collected, discussion was held on programs and hostesses were chosen for 1994. The secretary has ordered program book covers featuring roses, the club project for 1994.

December meeting will be at the Norma Hanson home at 7 p.m. on December 15. Each club member is asked to bring a bingo prize and a $5 gift for the Christmas gift exchange following supper.

CAPC tapes available on parenting

Videotaped materials relative to parenting and family life are available to the public through the Pennington County Child Abuse Prevention Council (CAPC) and the Northwest Regional Library.

The tapes are kept and maintained at the regional library which may be contacted for further information regarding titles and current availability.

It is the intention of the CAPC that these materials, provided through a grant from the Children's Trust Fund, be available throughout Pennington county as part of the council's objectives to prevent child maltreatment and to enhance family functioning.

Topics included in the videos are appropriate for the general public as well as human service agencies and providers, schools, churches and civic organizations.

The CAPC invites and encourages use of the videos by groups, families or individuals to supplement educational efforts as well as for general information purposes.

Orchestras perform from "The Messiah"

Orchestras from School District 564 schools will present holiday music including choruses of Handel's "The Messiah" at the winter concert Monday, December 13, at the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls.

The Elementary Strings, Franklin Strings and Lincoln Strings are under the direction of Bonnie Knapp.

The performance will include a sing along to the Christmas choruses of "The Messiah" with musical scores for the sing along available at Kezar Music store in Thief River Falls. Those attending the concert are invited to bring a score and sing along with the orchestras.

Tour of Homes Saturday

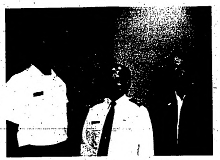
Annual Holiday Tour of Homes sponsored by the Friends of the Orchestra in Thief River Falls will take place Saturday, December 4, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Four homes are included on the tour and persons purchasing the $5 tour ticket are asked to follow the order listed on the ticket in making the tour. Sponsors note that homes are usually less crowded after 3 p.m.

After making the tour, participants are invited to stop at the Heritage Community Center where refreshments will be served and music performed by orchestra student groups from the Thief River Falls schools.

Homes to be visited on the tour this year include: Curt and Terryl Neumann, 1010 Oakland Park Road; Greg and Barb Kalinoski, 333 North Maple Avenue; Dr. Orley and Elaine Gunderson, 816 Alice Drive; and Ron and Lindsay Ray, 1832 Robin Hood Drive.

Tickets for the tour may be purchased from orchestra students or are also available at Hugo's Supermarket, Kezar Music or Jubilee Foods. Funds raised through the sale of tour tickets are used to support the orchestra program in School District 564.



Inspection of the Northwest Minnesota Civil Air Patrol squadron was conducted recently by Col. Carlson (center) and Sgt. Vey (right) of the United States Air Force. They complimented 1st Lt. Dave Odette (left) of the local squadron for its level of readiness. The local CAP squadron has 26 members and meets on the first and third Thursdays of each month at 7 p.m. in the technical college's aviation building at the Thief River Falls regional airport. December 5 is CAP Sunday when members, by custom, will wear their uniforms while attending church services.

Beef Cattle Day Dec. 7

Twenty-sixth annual Beef Cattle Day at the University of Minnesota Northwest Experiment Station at Crookston will take place Tuesday, December 7, beginning with registration and coffee at the ag research center auditorium on the UMC campus.

Among topics of discussion will be feeding and management of incoming calves, value-based marketing and instrument grading, efficient use of alternative feeds and use of futures in predicting beef prices. Adjournment is scheduled for 3 p.m., followed by viewing of the cattle facilities and cattle on trial.

Speakers from the University of Minnesota in St. Paul include Brent Woodward, extension animal scientist in beef cattle production systems; Alfredo DiConstanzo, extension animal scientist in beef cattle nutrition and management; Brian Buhr, livestock marketing specialist; and Jay C. Meiske, extension animal scientist in beef nutrition.

Other presenters will be Hugh Chester-Jones, animal scientist at the Southern Experiment Station at Waseca; Gene H. Rouse, professor of animal science at Iowa State University; Ron Eustice, Minnesota Beef Council; and Harvey Windels, animal scientist at the Northwest Experiment Station.

Lunch at 12:15 p.m. will be available at the conference center for $4. Morning sessions are at 10, 10:15, 10:45 and 11:15 p.m. Afternoon sessions are at 1, 1:30 and 2 p.m. with breakout sessions on futures, alternative feeds and feedbunk management at 2:30 p.m.

Snowmobile safety course next week

Snowmobile safety will be taught during a Snowmobile Safety training course sponsored by the Thief River Falls police department and Sno-Drifters 3 p.m. December 6, 7, 9 and 10 at Franklin Middle School. Anyone ages 12 to 18 must have a safety certificate or valid driver's license to drive on public lands and waters. Adults are welcome to take the course. A small fee is charged for the certificate. Course registration is on Monday, December 6, during the first class. The written and driving tests will be given on December 10. Snowmobiles for the driving portion of the test will be provided.

Crossroads plans workshop on December 9

Crossroads Displaced Homemaker program will sponsor a Holiday Workshop on Thursday, December 9, from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at 403 North LaBree Avenue, in Thief River Falls.

This three hour workshop will consist of a craft project, sharing of inexpensive holiday traditions, holiday music, and will provide tips on how to have a stress-free holiday season. Refreshments will be served.

Child care funding is available for participants who meet the Displaced Homemaker guidelines. Anyone interested in attending this workshop should call 681-8158 or 1-800-450-8158 to pre-register. Pre-registration is mandatory. All Crossroad participants are encouraged to attend.

Cub Scouts' mitten tree at Jubilee Foods

Members of Cub Scout Pack 59 will help spread Christmas warmth with a mitten tree located at Jubilee Foods in Thief River Falls from December 1 through December 23.

Mittens and gloves for adults and children will be collected and donated to the local Seventh-day Adventist community service department for distribution to persons in need.

Sheldon's joins in "Toys for Tots' program this Christmas

Members of the Automotive Recyclers of Minnesota (ARM) will donate up to $2,000 to the "Toys for Tots" program, sponsored for 51 years by the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve.

The public is invited to drop off toys at Sheldon's Used Auto Parts on highway 59 south of Thief River Falls. Toys for toddlers through teens should be new or in very good condition and should not be gift wrapped. They will be accepted December 6-10 so they can be distributed in time for holiday gift-giving through the Little Brother and Little Sister program in Thief River Falls.

For every toy that is donated at participating ARM member locations, the Automotive Recyclers of Minnesota will donate another dollar to the "Toys for Tots" program, up to a maximum of $2,000.

"We're glad to be part of this program," stated owner Sheldon Peterson. "The Marine Corps reserve has made the holidays brighter for thousands of children all over the country. We know we can count on our neighbors to help us do the same thing in Thief River Falls.

Roseau Library Friends to stage one-act play for the public

"The Best Christmas Pageant Ever" by Barbara Robinson will be presented by the Roseau Library Friends Sunday, December 5, at 2 p.m. in the Roseau school gymnasium.

Forty-three men, women and children fill the roles of small town folks preparing for Christmas. The audience will be led by Beth Bradley (Lindsay Brummer) to contemplate the story of the first Christmas through the eyes of the terrible Herdman kids who hear it for the first time.

The Herdman children are played by Mike Mattson, Holly Slattery, Josh Jaenicke, Gabe Slevin, Joey McDonnell and Kari Hager. Directors of the production are Paul Willcox and Tanya Hendrickson.

Instrumental music will welcome play-goers and add a festive touch during refreshment served in the new school cafeteria. Although tickets are available at the door, the public is urged to buy tickets early to assist with preparation of seating and refreshments. Tickets are $1 each with pre-school children admitted free if they are accompanied by and seated with an adult.

Advisory meet for parents of LHS students

Parents of Lincoln high school students in Thief River Falls are invited to attend a parent advisory meeting from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, December 1, in the Lincoln high school cafeteria.

CAPC tapes available on parenting

Videotaped materials relative to parenting and family life are available to the public through the Pennington County Child Abuse Prevention Council (CAPC) and the Northwest Regional Library.

The tapes are kept and maintained at the regional library which may be contacted for further information regarding titles and current availability.

It is the intention of the CAPC that these materials, provided through a grant from the Children's Trust Fund, be available throughout Pennington county as part of the council's objectives to prevent child maltreatment and to enhance family functioning.

Topics included in the videos are appropriate for the general public as well as human service agencies and providers, schools, churches and civic organizations.

The CAPC invites and encourages use of the videos by groups, families or individuals to supplement educational efforts as well as for general information purposes.

Orchestras perform from "The Messiah"

Orchestras from School District 564 schools will present holiday music including choruses of Handel's "The Messiah" at the winter concert Monday, December 13, at the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls.

The Elementary Strings, Franklin Strings and Lincoln Strings are under the direction of Bonnie Knapp.

The performance will include a sing along to the Christmas choruses of "The Messiah" with musical scores for the sing along available at Kezar Music store in Thief River Falls. Those attending the concert are invited to bring a score and sing along with the orchestras.

Tour of Homes Saturday

Annual Holiday Tour of Homes sponsored by the Friends of the Orchestra in Thief River Falls will take place Saturday, December 4, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Four homes are included on the tour and persons purchasing the $5 tour ticket are asked to follow the order listed on the ticket in making the tour. Sponsors note that homes are usually less crowded after 3 p.m.

After making the tour, participants are invited to stop at the Heritage Community Center where refreshments will be served and music performed by orchestra student groups from the Thief River Falls schools.

Homes to be visited on the tour this year include: Curt and Terryl Neumann, 1010 Oakland Park Road; Greg and Barb Kalinoski, 333 North Maple Avenue; Dr. Orley and Elaine Gunderson, 816 Alice Drive; and Ron and Lindsay Ray, 1832 Robin Hood Drive.

Tickets for the tour may be purchased from orchestra students or are also available at Hugo's Supermarket, Kezar Music or Jubilee Foods. Funds raised through the sale of tour tickets are used to support the orchestra program in School District 564.

Inspection of the Northwest Minnesota Civil Air Patrol squadron was conducted recently by Col. Carlson (center) and Sgt. Vey (right) of the United States Air Force. They complimented 1st Lt. Dave Odette (left) of the local squadron for its level of readiness. The local CAP squadron has 26 members and meets on the first and third Thursdays of each month at 7 p.m. in the technical college's aviation building at the Thief River Falls regional airport. December 5 is CAP Sunday when members, by custom, will wear their uniforms while attending church services.

Beef Cattle Day Dec. 7

Twenty-sixth annual Beef Cattle Day at the University of Minnesota Northwest Experiment Station at Crookston will take place Tuesday, December 7, beginning with registration and coffee at the ag research center auditorium on the UMC campus.

Among topics of discussion will be feeding and management of incoming calves, value-based marketing and instrument grading, efficient use of alternative feeds and use of futures in predicting beef prices. Adjournment is scheduled for 3 p.m., followed by viewing of the cattle facilities and cattle on trial.

Speakers from the University of Minnesota in St. Paul include Brent Woodward, extension animal scientist in beef cattle production systems; Alfredo DiConstanzo, extension animal scientist in beef cattle nutrition and management; Brian Buhr, livestock marketing specialist; and Jay C. Meiske, extension animal scientist in beef nutrition.

Other presenters will be Hugh Chester-Jones, animal scientist at the Southern Experiment Station at Waseca; Gene H. Rouse, professor of animal science at Iowa State University; Ron Eustice, Minnesota Beef Council; and Harvey Windels, animal scientist at the Northwest Experiment Station.

Lunch at 12:15 p.m. will be available at the conference center for $4. Morning sessions are at 10, 10:15, 10:45 and 11:15 p.m. Afternoon sessions are at 1, 1:30 and 2 p.m. with breakout sessions on futures, alternative feeds and feedbunk management at 2:30 p.m.

Sheldon's joins in "Toys for Tots" program this Christmas

Members of the Automotive Recyclers of Minnesota (ARM) will donate up to $2,000 to the "Toys for Tots" program, sponsored for 51 years by the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve.

The public is invited to drop off toys at Sheldon's Used Auto Parts on highway 59 south of Thief River Falls. Toys for toddlers through teens should be new or in very good condition and should not be gift wrapped. They will be accepted December 6-10 so they can be distributed in time for holiday gift-giving through the Little Brother and Little Sister program in Thief River Falls.

For every toy that is donated at participating ARM member locations, the Automotive Recyclers of Minnesota will donate another dollar to the "Toys for Tots" program, up to a maximum of $2,000.

"We're glad to be part of this program," stated owner Sheldon Peterson. "The Marine Corps reserve has made the holidays brighter for thousands of children all over the country. We know we can count on our neighbors to help us do the same thing in Thief River Falls."

Roseau Library Friends to stage one-act play for the public

"The Best Christmas Pageant Ever" by Barbara Robinson will be presented by the Roseau Library Friends Sunday, December 5, at 2 p.m. in the Roseau school gymnasium.

Forty-three men, women and children fill the roles of small town folks preparing for Christmas. The audience will be led by Beth Bradley (Lindsay Brummer) to contemplate the story of the first Christmas through the eyes of the terrible Herdman kids who hear it for the first time.

The Herdman children are played by Mike Mattson, Holly Slattery, Josh Jaenicke, Gabe Slevin, Joey McDonnell and Kari Hager. Directors of the production are Paul Willcox and Tanya Hendrickson.

Instrumental music will welcome play-goers and add a festive touch during refreshment served in the new school cafeteria. Although tickets are available at the door, the public is urged to buy tickets early to assist with preparation of seating and refreshments. Tickets are $1 each with pre-school children admitted free if they are accompanied by and seated with an adult.

Advisory meet for parents of LHS students

Parents of Lincoln high school students in Thief River Falls are invited to attend a parent advisory meeting from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, December 1, in the Lincoln high school cafeteria.

Preceding him in death were five brothers, Victor, Helmer, Manuel, Ole and Ludvig; and three sisters, Signe, Ida and Emma.

Dear Readers,
Grief can be physical as well as emotional. "People are afraid they are losing control because these feelings are so strong and foreign to them." Loss of appetite, headaches, and even heart palpitations are normal. The loss of a spouse increases the risk of death from heart disease. Encourage mourning friends to keep an eye on their health.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

Masterworks Chorale plans for presentation of his oratorios helped convince Handel that English choral works could gain a following in their own right, and thus paved the way to his eventual abandonment of Italian opera in favor of oratorios or other English works in similar style.

Cecilia is the patron saint of music, and between 1683 and 1703 her name day (November 22) was celebrated annually with a festival in the City of London.

Dryden devotes most of the poem ("Alexander's Feast, or The Power of Music: An Ode, in Honor of St. Cecilia's Day") to a vivid account of a banquet held by Alexander the Great to celebrate his conquest of Persia (the notable date is 331 or 330 BC). The conqueror appears with his mistress Thais and is entertained by the playing and singing of the musician Timotheus.

Simply through the power of Timotheus' music—with some cooperation from Thais—Alexander is charmed, intoxicated, saddened and made love-sick. At last he is roused to avenge the Greeks slain in earlier Persian wars by setting fire to Persepolis, the Persian capital. Dryden introduces St. Cecilia in a reflective conclusion, suggesting that her coming and invention of the organ ("the Vocal Frame") brought a new dimension to music, adding "Length to solemn Sounds, with Nature's Mother-Wit and Arts unknown before.."

For Handel the poem presented the challenge of depicting in sound a dramatic scene from a classical legend and expressing the emotions described in the text. As in all Handel oratorios, the chorus takes a powerful role. Dramatic episodes, moments of contemplation, points upon which subsequent action hinges—virtually all are given to the chorus.

Handel's dedication to the oratorio form was symbolic of his turning from the nobility to the people. Where his operas were designed for and supported by the aristocracy, the oratorios were written for a wider public.

Persons who have questions about joining the Masterworks Chorale or who would like more information may contact Les Torgerson at Northland Community College. Phone numbers are 681-2181 or 1-800-628-9918.

City council discusses increase in water rates

plan and, then, negotiate an agreement to update the city's comprehensive plan to include park planning.

The memo also requested that the city council review the scope of work as detailed in the work program outline for the comprehensive plan update. It also requested that the council provide input as to the scope of work desired for park planning.

The park planning portion of the plan could include an inventory of existing parks and recreational facilities, categorizing existing parks, developing recommendations for future improvements to existing parks and identification of the need for additional parks, if any.

■ Truth in Taxation hearing set for 5 p.m. December 7.

On September 7, 1993, the projected budget deficit for the city was over $250,000. After many meetings and hours of study, the projected 1994 budget deficit was whittled down to just over $7,000. On December 7 at 5 p.m. residents of Thief River Falls will be given an opportunity to learn more about the budget process and how the city arrived at its local levy. A 5.8 per cent increase over last year's levy has been approved by the council when it certified the levy at $1,376,937. The net tax levy is expected to collect $910,324. Residents will also learn how the money raised will be spent.

In other business, the council: declared a 1981 Chevrolet van as surplus property; accepted a proposal for the city to act as an agent to receive and distribute funds for the annual Christmas eve dinner which is held annually for those individuals who don't have any other place to go; approved a resolution of intent to adjust the taxicab fees to $25 annually for the first licensed vehicle and $15 for each additional vehicle; approved a motion to pay a membership fee for Riverland Association; approved a dance permit request by Ryan Walseth for November 24 and 26, and by the "Undertakers" for December 30 at the National Guard armory; appointed Frank Hammerlinck to serve on the library board as a representative from the city council; and approved hiring of an individual to work at the liquor store.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Stained Glass Crayons

Do you have a lot of broken crayons and your child does not want to use these when he or she colors a picture? A neat way to use them is to make stained glass crayons. You will need all of those old broken crayons. Remove the paper. Place the crayons, using a variety of colors, in a well-greased muffin pan. Put it into the oven at 400 degrees for a few minutes until the crayons are melted. Remove from the oven and cool completely. These are fun to color with and look terrific, too!

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need a stamp pad, fine tip felt markers and paper.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following:

Reiser, Lynn. Tomorrow on Rocky Road. From blueberry pancakes for breakfast to loons calling at bedtime, readers and listeners will agree that a day on Rocky Road is an unforgettable adventure.

Choi, Sook Nyul. Halmoni and the Picnic. Yunmi is afraid that her grandmother will not adjust to the move from Korea to New York City so, much to everyone's delight, she arranges for grandmother to chaperone a class picnic.

VIDEO VARIETY

The White Seal. Join in the adventure of a very special baby seal who grows up to save his tribe from the cruel men who slaughter seals.

PARENTING TIPS

Family Traditions

Traditions are those things that you do over and over again. Sometimes a tradition is a carefully planned event that you do each year. Sometimes it is something that you just happened to do once and now your children say, "We always do it." How it starts is not as important as the fact that it now exists and that children and parents recognize it as an important part of their family's identity.

Traditions enhance a family's togetherness. Here are some hints for strengthening yours:

*Build traditions around your family history. Keep photo albums, adding pictures to them as the family grows and looking them over on special occasions can give children a sense of stability.

*Listen to your children. Because they know when things have "always been done that way," they may be more adept than their parents in identifying routines that can become family rituals.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about the last time you had a holiday or event. See what your children remember. Then build on those things, ideas for for traditions.

MN Liquor control dept. takes action

Minnesota department of public safety, liquor control division, has served notice on Alan Kiesow and Lonnie Watne, who hold the liquor license for Miz Ellie's in Goodridge, that they must cease doing business on December 23 if they do not contest action by the agency to revoke their liquor license.

The notice became public Tuesday morning during a conference between owners of the establishment and the Pennington county board. A number of issues were discussed at the meeting.

Due to deadline constraints at The Times, a detailed story will appear in the next issue of the Northern Watch.

Long ago the dog sledge was used in winter to transport people and goods in the Red River Valley. I came across fascinating details on how people traveled over ice and snow when I visited the new Minnesota History Center's archives in St. Paul.

In his book, History of the Red River Valley, Warren Upham said that the dog sledge was like a toboggan, a long narrow sled of flat boards which curve upward at the front.

When Canadians and Europeans moved into the Red River Valley they adopted the ways that Native Americans of this area had been using for centuries.

Each flat-bottomed sledge was wide enough to seat one person; it was pulled by three dogs. The dogs were held in check by a cord and responded to the motion of a whip or hand. Each dog was fed a pound of pemmican once a day after the day's work. A trained leader dog was worth $20 and was useful for eight to twelve years.

A gaily caparisoned sledge pulled by neatly harnessed dogs covered with bells and hurrying across pathless, snowy plains or over river ice was not an unusual sight in this area.

At night the party camped in shelter of trees or bushes and built their campfires. Then, after supper, each in his blankets with a favorite dog for heat, sought rest. Temperatures could be minus forty degrees.

Frequently twenty-five sledges traveled in a train.

Native Americans, fur traders and early pioneers used this method of winter transportation throughout the nineteenth century. Wrapped warmly in furs, they bounded over frozen ground or over ice on rivers, bringing furs in exchange for products of mill and factory.

The travois was often used in summer. Two stout poles were fastened together over the back of a horse or dogs with the ends dragging on the ground. They could transport 400 pounds or a woman and three children this way.

This method of summer transportation changed when the Red River carts pulled by oxen appeared about 1801. Every season 300 carts employing about 100 men traveled north and south along the Red River Valley to St. Paul, stopping all conversation within blocks because of the squealing and squeaking of wooden wheels on wooden axles.

In turn, the era of Red River carts here ended when the Northern Pacific extended its line from Crookston to Fisher's Landing. The Kittson Line's boats steamed up and down the western Red Lake River.

Upham also wrote about the Red Lake River as it appeared to him in the 1880's. He described the Red Lake River as sinuous in its course, being three times more than by direct line from its source at the Red Lake to its mouth at Red River.

Along the shores of the Red Lake River, he noted, stood a fine body of timber in a band averaging two-thirds of a mile wide. The river banks' oak, elm, basswood, cottonwood and poplar provided shelter, firewood and shade on the prairie. Most of the trees of the Red Lake River were manufactured into lumber at the turn of the century.

The Red Lake River abounded in fish: pike, pickerel, catfish, shipjacks, suckers and sturgeon. A sturgeon caught at Crookston weighed in at 148 pounds, Upham wrote.

Upham also said that Native Americans came to the south shore of Maple Lake to make maple sugar in season. Maples were used mostly for fuel, however.

Warren Upham was a most interesting fellow. One of ten children born to a farm family in New Hampshire, he was a graduate of Dartmouth College, class of 1871. After experience as a geologic assistant in New Hampshire, he held the same position in Minnesota from 1879 to 1885. He traveled 11,000 miles within Minnesota, driving with a horse about 25 miles a day, thus thoroughly examining Minnesota while surveying. Upham put the knowledge gained in his travels to good use, becoming a prolific writer in the field of geology.

In 1896, Upham became superintendent and librarian of the Minnesota Historical Society, a dual post he held until 1914 when he became the society's archaeologist. For seventeen years he worked on compiling the derivations of Minnesota's proper names – state, counties, townships, cities, villages, creeks, rivers, lakes. He undertook what he called "considerable journeys" to the 86 county seats as wells as all types of inquiry. His research for "Minnesota Geographic Names" published in 1920 revealed that the name Thief River was translated from the Ojibwe name, "Kimod-akiwi zibi," the Stolen Land or Secret Earth River.

In his lifetime Upham published 321 articles, speeches and books including "The Geology of Lake Agassiz." He died in 1934.

NW Technical College system receives grant

Minnesota Jobs Skill Partnership has awarded a $129,642 grant to Northwest Technical College of Moorhead and Envirosys, a new start-up company in Moorhead, to develop a comprehensive training program. The West Central Minnesota Initiative Fund (WCMIF) out of Fergus Falls has also awarded $25,000 to address labor force training for Envirosys. The West Central Minnesota Initiative Fund is administered by the Moorhead Economic Development Authority.

"This collaborative effort between Northwest Technical College, Minnesota Job Skills Partnership and the West Central Minnesota Initiative Fund involves a time span of 18 months and will focus on developing and delivering technical training that is applicable to pulp molding operation machinery. All employees will receive overall machinery training as well as training in safety, management, interpersonal skills and continuous improvement skills.

Envirosys is a start-up manufacturing operation that will produce molded paper pulp packaging containers and ship their product to markets across North America. The plant will utilize old newsprint and cardboard as the raw material, create a slurry and mold the product on two specialized process machines. The Envirosys plant initially will produce egg filler flats and cartons that will meet only a portion of the huge market demand. Envirosys will employ 76 positions in a 24 hour a day operation.

The collaborative funding effort for the project comes from the Minnesota Job Skills Partnership and West Central Minnesota Initiative Fund. The Minnesota Job Skills Partnership, with administrative support from the Business and Community Development division of the Department of Trade and Economic Development, provides matching grants to educational institutions which, in turn, develop and provide training for Minnesota businesses to meet the changing needs of the Minnesota labor market.

The West Central Minnesota Initiative Fund is a not-for-profit organization and receives major funding support from the McKnight Foundation. The West Central Minnesota Initiative Fund is "Dedicated to Enriching the Quality of Life in West Central Minnesota". The WCMIF serves nine counties in west central Minnesota including Clay, Becker, Wilkin, Otter Tail, Traverse, Grant, Douglas, Stevens and Pope and grants funds for projects that address labor force issues, support mergers and combining programs and address basic human needs.

Customized Training Services (CTS) of Northwest Technical College represents a regional approach to the delivery of "Education for Employment". It was created to offer customized educational and consulting services to business and industry. The CTS's mission is to help area business prosper by offering organizations customized programs that are cost effective and geographically accessible. The CTS specializes in programs that couple team process with technical skill management. Services focus on effective group dynamics, innovation and team consultation services.

Envirosys and CTS have been working closely throughout the planning process of this program identifying training needs, developing curriculum, and establishing a training schedule. They will continue to work together for the duration of the project. For more information regarding training projects please call Chuck Trapp at (218) 236-6277.

In our family, we started our celebration of Christmas this past Sunday. Sunday was the First Sunday in Advent. Advent is the time before Christmas which includes the four Sundays preceding Christmas. During this time preceding Christmas most of us have various things which we do that makes this waiting for the celebration of the birth of Christ a season to remember.

Most of us decorate our homes in some way for Christmas. Even though Thanksgiving is still fresh in our memories, we can see many Christmas decorations gracing our homes' exteriors. At our house, we have not yet had the time or energy to do any decorating for Christmas, much less time or energy to decorate the exterior of our home for the season. But, on the first Sunday in Advent, we do take out the first Christmas decoration – our Advent candle.

This Advent candle was a wedding gift. It has had a place of importance in our home every Christmas. It has places for five candles. Four of these candles we will light each Sunday in Advent. This past Sunday we lit only one candle. Next Sunday we will light two candles. On Christmas Day (or as in our celebration, Christmas Eve), we will light the fifth candle which represents to us the birth of Christ.

When my children were young, we had other ways in which to pass this time until Christmas. We not only lit a candle each Sunday in Advent, but we also had a special Advent candle which we lit every day. This candle was marked with lines and pictures representing every day of Advent. The point was to burn the candle a bit each day so that on Christmas there would be almost no candle left to burn. Of course, there always had to be arguments over who got to light the candle for each meal! This argument was usually satisfied by the sharing of responsibilities – one child got to light the candle, and the other would get to open the windows on the Advent calendar.

An Advent calendar is another way in which to daily celebrate the coming of the Christ Child. I have seen many Advent calendars. They are special calendars with windows that have special Christmas secrets hidden behind them. Every day a child can open the window for that day and find what pictured secret about Christmas that window has been hiding. Some Advent calendars hide chocolate morsels behind the windows as well as pictures of the season. We didn't usually have that kind. Some Advent calendars are very secular in the secrets they hide behind the windows. Most that I have seen and used are quite religious. These calendars can be used more than one Christmas, for, if one simply closes the windows, and waits a year, the surprises behind the windows will be again surprisingly new for the children opening the windows.

Our children are now young adults. We no longer have daily Advent calendar and candle squabbles. I will soon unpack my Christmas decorations for this year. There, on top of the box which holds these decorations, I will find one of the old Advent calendars we used. It is now reserved for a spot probably only in the heart and memory of this mother. I will find a place to put it in my house as a decoration this Christmas season. This calendar will be more than a decoration as it triggers my memory of those days when the Advent season was a season in which we could teach our children the true meaning of Christmas. For, Christmas is not a time during which we try to spend the most dollars possible on each other, but it is rather the season in which we celebrate the Advent of the Christ Child.

As this Christmas season has begun, don't let it become a secular holiday. Spend time reflecting on the true meaning of Christmas. Spend time with the little ones in your family teaching them the story of the birth of the Christ Child. Spend time with the older children and the young adults in your family celebrating the birth of the Christ Child. Then, when Christmas is over; and you breath that sigh of relief that finally you can put away the trimmings of the season, you will know that in spite of the busyness of the season, you have celebrated the advent of the Christ Child. May our Christmas season be a blessed one.

Pine to Prairie Home Health Care planning open house

"Millions of Americans of all ages need long-term care services, either because of a chronic illness or a permanent disability that renders them helpless to perform basic tasks of daily living without assistant. Currently, it is estimated that between nine and 11 million Americans of all ages require long-term care. This number could double by the year 2030 to more than 19 million."

Potvin said that a study done by Louis Harris and Associates, Inc., showed that most Americans choose home care over nursing home care for long-term care needs.

In the survey titled "The Public Mandate for Health Care Reform in America," Harris stated that "There is a pattern in terms of American attitudes toward health care, one of which is a real commitment to long-term care, especially home care."

Eighty-five per cent of the respondents in the survey said long-term care should be given a high priority within the health care plan over nursing home care. In addition, more than 80 per cent of those surveyed favored a federal program to support home care for the chronically ill or disabled.

"Home care is an excellent and cost-effective alternative to institutional care, providing patients a way to recover in a familiar environment surrounded by their loved ones and treasured possessions," Potvin added. "Modern technology has developed to the point where virtually anything that is available in a hospital can be provided at home. Considering the spiraling costs of institutional care and the growing number of Americans in need of health care, home care is clearly an idea whose time has come."

Proclaimed by President Clinton and an Act of Congress, National Home Care Week provides the opportunity to pay tribute to the thousands of nurses, therapists, home care aides, volunteers and physicians who dedicate their lives to providing the highest quality care at home. It also provides the opportunity for agencies to focus national attention on the issues of home care.

Dixie Koskela arrived home last week and spent her combined quarter break and Thanksgiving vacation at the home of her parents, Arlan and Gerda Koskela.

Sunday dinner guests at the home of Art and Avis Froiland were Rick, Arlene, Shannon and Ginger Froiland, Marie Foster of Roseau and Bill Swick of St. Paul.

Edward Melby, who is spending the winter with his daughter Lorraine and Rick Lorenson, along with the Lorensons visited his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dokken of Grand Forks, ND on Sunday.

Birthday

The AAL held their annual election meeting at the Plummer hall on Sunday. Present officers Loretta Hesse, president; Barb Culkins, vice president; and Peggy Hesse, secretary-treasurer; will all continue in office. Following the meeting, the group of about 40 celebrated the birthday of Sylvester Hesse, long-time member.

Effie and Burnel Byer attended the concert at Lincoln High school on Sunday afternoon sponsored by Lutheran Brotherhood, "The Great Pretenders." This consisted of a male quartet and provided great entertainment of songs and humor. An offering was taken for flood victims and was matched two to one by Lutheran Brotherhood.

New Arrival

Stella and Dwight Howard announce the arrival of a new granddaughter born to their daughter Lisa and Steve Smart on Sunday afternoon. Little Casey Ann was born at Northwest Medical Center and weighed 8 lbs. and 4 oz.

Merlin and Judy Carlson returned on Monday from a vacation trip where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Larry Davis of Sheldon, ND. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Franklund of Lisbon, ND and son Dale and Lisa Carlson and boys of Owatonna.

1993 Crop season draws to a close in Minnesota

The weekend weather allowed corn harvest to nearly catch up to the five year average. With some farmers still attempting to harvest some of the remaining corn and cultivate fields, the 1993 harvest season is nearly complete, according to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service.

Corn for grain harvest reached 92 per cent complete, ahead of the 69 per cent in 1992, and slightly behind the 93 per cent average. Moisture content of the corn now being harvested is 29 per cent compared with 26 per cent in 1992 and the 19 per cent average.

Topsoil moisture was one per cent short, 71 per cent adequate, and 28 per cent surplus. Subsoil moisture was rated 68 per cent adequate and 32 per cent surplus.

There were 3.5 days available for fieldwork during the past week.

This is the last weekly report that will be issued this year. Harvest progress will be updated in a mid-month report issued December through March.

Fewer incidents reported to LEC

Fewer incidents reported to the law enforcement center required investigation and filing of reports during the past week in Pennington county.

Accidents. On November 24 at 11:35 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Pennington avenue and Hugo's driveway. According to the accident report, Nathan Lieberg, 31, Thief River Falls, was stopped facing east in the Hugo's driveway and waiting to enter Pennington Avenue. Lieberg began entering the intersection when Kerri Jo Armstrong, who was driving a vehicle south on Pennington Avenue attempted to stop but collided with the Lieberg vehicle. Damages were estimated at $1,500 to the Lieberg vehicle and $800 to the Armstrong vehicle. Armstrong was cited for driving while intoxicated and open bottle.

On November 26 at 1:19 p.m. police received a report of an accident in the McDonald's parking lot. Amy Jo Garry, route 1, Euclid, was driving north in the parking lot, hit ice and locked her brakes and the vehicle slid into a parked car owned by Richard Zeman, Jr., which was parked facing north. Damages were estimated at $1,000 to the Garry vehicle and $350 to the Zeman vehicle. There were no injuries.

On November 28 at 2:30 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report from the hospital that a man was being treated for injuries to his lower ribs, a scratch to his head and a bump to his left knee. The injuries were the result of a snowmobile accident in Norden township. According to the accident report which was then filed, Terrence Jon Kukowski, Thief River Falls, was driving a 1972 Arctic Lynx when the tracks of the snowmobile got caught in a fence and he was thrown over the top of the snowmobile. Damage to the snowmobile was estimated at $50.

Thefts. On November 28 at 10:44 p.m. Erl's reported a theft to police. A store employee was allegedly observed taking money out of the store safe and putting it in her slacks. The money was later hidden but recovered. The amount of money involved was $160. Charges are pending against Shery Ekman, Thief River Falls, age 20.

On November 26 at 8:34 a.m. Jason Aarestad, Thief River Falls, reported a theft from a vehicle of a CD system and four CDs. The theft loss was estimated at $340.

Charges are pending against Jennifer Lynn Buckta, 20, Plummer, after she allegedly wrote bad checks after she appeared in court on a similar charge. The amount of money involved was estimated at more than $2,700.

Driving while intoxicated. On November 28 at 2:19 a.m. an officer on patrol observed a pickup traveling at a high rate of speed and then go through a stop sign. Upon following the vehicle, the driver finally saw the officer and then allegedly shut off the vehicle lights and backed up at a high speed. The vehicle went off the road where it struck a street sign, broke a fiberglass light pole and got hung up on a pole bar. Steven Gillespie, 24, Thief River Falls, faces charges of fleeing a peace officer and gross driving while intoxicated. Damage to the pickup was estimated at $400.

Vandalism. On November 23 at 12:21 p.m. Brock Newland, Thief River Falls, reported that someone had put scratches in his 1986 F150 pickup. Damage loss was estimated at $1,000.

Domestic. On November 26 at 11 a.m. police received a report of a domestic incident on North Knight. A man alleged that he had been hit in the chest. Charges are pending against Florence Ness, 54, Thief River Falls.

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

Gretchen Belto

Long ago the dog sledge was used in winter to transport people and goods in the Red River Valley. I came across fascinating details on how people traveled over ice and snow when I visited the new Minnesota History Center's archives in St. Paul.

In his book, History of the Red River Valley, Warren Upham said that the dog sledge was like a toboggan, a long narrow sled of flat boards which curve upward at the front.

When Canadians and Europeans moved into the Red River Valley they adopted the ways that Native Americans of this area had been using for centuries.

Each flat-bottomed sledge was wide enough to seat one person; it was pulled by three dogs. The dogs were held in check by a cord and responded to the motion of a whip or hand. Each dog was fed a pound of pemmican once a day after the day's work. A trained leader dog was worth $20 and was useful for eight to twelve years.

A gaily caparisoned sledge pulled by neatly harnessed dogs covered with bells and hurrying across pathless, snowy plains or over river ice was not an unusual sight in this area.

At night the party camped in shelter of trees or bushes and built their campfires. Then, after supper, each in his blankets with a favorite dog for heat, sought rest. Temperatures could be minus forty degrees.

Frequently twenty-five sledges traveled in a train.

Native Americans, fur traders and early pioneers used this method of winter transportation throughout the nineteenth century. Wrapped warmly in furs, they bounded over frozen ground or over ice on rivers, bringing furs in exchange for products of mill and factory.

The travois was often used in summer. Two stout poles were fastened together over the back of a horse or dogs with the ends dragging on the ground. They could transport 400 pounds or a woman and three children this way.

This method of summer transportation changed when the Red River carts pulled by oxen appeared about 1801. Every season 300 carts employing about 100 men traveled north and south along the Red River Valley to St. Paul, stopping all conversation within blocks because of the squealing and squeaking of wooden wheels on wooden axles.

In turn, the era of Red River carts here ended when the Northern Pacific extended its line from Crookston to Fisher's Landing. The Kittson Line's boats steamed up and down the western Red Lake River.

Upham also wrote about the Red Lake River as it appeared to him in the 1880's. He described the Red Lake River as sinuous in its course, being three times more than by direct line from its source at the Red Lake to its mouth at Red River.

Along the shores of the Red Lake River, he noted, stood a fine body of timber in a band averaging two-thirds of a mile wide. The river banks' oak, elm, basswood, cottonwood and poplar provided shelter, firewood and shade on the prairie. Most of the trees of the Red Lake River were manufactured into lumber at the turn of the century.

The Red Lake River abounded in fish: pike, pickerel, catfish, shipjacks, suckers and sturgeon. A sturgeon caught at Crookston weighed in at 148 pounds, Upham wrote.

Upham also said that Native Americans came to the south shore of Maple Lake to make maple sugar in season. Maples were used mostly for fuel, however.

Warren Upham was a most interesting fellow. One of ten children born to a farm family in New Hampshire, he was a graduate of Dartmouth College, class of 1871. After experience as a geologic assistant in New Hampshire, he held the same position in Minnesota from 1879 to 1885. He traveled 11,000 miles within Minnesota, driving with a horse about 25 miles a day, thus thoroughly examining Minnesota while surveying. Upham put the knowledge gained in his travels to good use, becoming a prolific writer in the field of geology.

In 1896, Upham became superintendent and librarian of the Minnesota Historical Society, a dual post he held until 1914 when he became the society's archaeologist. For seventeen years he worked on compiling the derivations of Minnesota's proper names – state, counties, townships, cities, villages, creeks, rivers, lakes. He undertook what he called "considerable journeys" to the 86 county seats as wells as all types of inquiry. His research for "Minnesota Geographic Names" published in 1920 revealed that the name Thief River was translated from the Ojibwe name, "Kimod-akiwi zibi," the Stolen Land or Secret Earth River.

In his lifetime Upham published 321 articles, speeches and books including "The Geology of Lake Agassiz." He died in 1934.

NW Technical College system receives grant

Minnesota Jobs Skill Partnership has awarded a $129,642 grant to Northwest Technical College of Moorhead and Envirosys, a new start-up company in Moorhead, to develop a comprehensive training program. The West Central Minnesota Initiative Fund (WCMIF) out of Fergus Falls has also awarded $25,000 to address labor force training for Envirosys. The West Central Minnesota Initiative Fund is administered by the Moorhead Economic Development Authority.

This collaborative effort between Northwest Technical College, Minnesota Job Skills Partnership and the West Central Minnesota Initiative Fund involves a time span of 18 months and will focus on developing and delivering technical training that is applicable to pulp molding operation machinery. All employees will receive overall machinery training as well as training in safety, management, interpersonal skills and continuous improvement skills.

Envirosys is a start-up manufacturing operation that will produce molded paper pulp packaging containers and ship their product to markets across North America. The plant will utilize old newsprint and cardboard as the raw material, create a slurry and mold the product on two specialized process machines. The Envirosys plant initially will produce egg filler flats and cartons that will meet only a portion of the huge market demand. Envirosys will employ 76 positions in a 24 hour a day operation.

The collaborative funding effort for the project comes from the Minnesota Job Skills Partnership and West Central Minnesota Initiative Fund. The Minnesota Job Skills Partnership, with administrative support from the Business and Community Development division of the Department of Trade and Economic Development, provides matching grants to educational institutions which, in turn, develop and provide training for Minnesota businesses to meet the changing needs of the Minnesota labor market.

The West Central Minnesota Initiative Fund is a not-for-profit organization and receives major funding support from the McKnight Foundation. The West Central Minnesota Initiative Fund is "Dedicated to Enriching the Quality of Life in West Central Minnesota". The WCMIF serves nine counties in west central Minnesota including Clay, Becker, Wilkin, Otter Tail, Traverse, Grant, Douglas, Stevens and Pope and grants funds for projects that address labor force issues, support mergers and combining programs and address basic human needs.

Customized Training Services (CTS) of Northwest Technical College represents a regional approach to the delivery of "Education for Employment". It was created to offer customized educational and consulting services to business and industry. The CTS's mission is to help area business prosper by offering organizations customized programs that are cost effective and geographically accessible. The CTS specializes in programs that couple team process with technical skill management. Services focus on effective group dynamics, innovation and team consultation services.

Envirosys and CTS have been working closely throughout the planning process of this program identifying training needs, developing curriculum, and establishing a training schedule. They will continue to work together for the duration of the project. For more information regarding training projects please call Chuck Trapp at (218) 236-6277.

In our family, we started our celebration of Christmas this past Sunday. Sunday was the First Sunday in Advent. Advent is the time before Christmas which includes the four Sundays preceding Christmas. During this time preceding Christmas most of us have various things which we do that makes this waiting for the celebration of the birth of Christ a season to remember.

Most of us decorate our homes in some way for Christmas. Even though Thanksgiving is still fresh in our memories, we can see many Christmas decorations gracing our homes' exteriors. At our house, we have not yet had the time or energy to do any decorating for Christmas, much less time or energy to decorate the exterior of our home for the season. But, on the first Sunday in Advent, we do take out the first Christmas decoration – our Advent candle.

This Advent candle was a wedding gift. It has had a place of importance in our home every Christmas. It has places for five candles. Four of these candles we will light each Sunday in Advent. This past Sunday we lit only one candle. Next Sunday we will light two candles. On Christmas Day (or as in our celebration, Christmas Eve), we will light the fifth candle which represents to us the birth of Christ.

When my children were young, we had other ways in which to pass this time until Christmas. We not only lit a candle each Sunday in Advent, but we also had a special Advent candle which we lit every day. This candle was marked with lines and pictures representing every day of Advent. The point was to burn the candle a bit each day so that on Christmas there would be almost no candle left to burn. Of course, there always had to be arguments over who got to light the candle for each meal! This argument was usually satisfied by the sharing of responsibilities – one child got to light the candle, and the other would get to open the windows on the Advent calendar.

An Advent calendar is another way in which to daily celebrate the coming of the Christ Child. I have seen many Advent calendars. They are special calendars with windows that have special Christmas secrets hidden behind them. Every day a child can open the window for that day and find what pictured secret about Christmas that window has been hiding. Some Advent calendars hide chocolate morsels behind the windows as well as pictures of the season. We didn't usually have that kind. Some Advent calendars are very secular in the secrets they hide behind the windows. Most that I have seen and used are quite religious. These calendars can be used more than one Christmas, for, if one simply closes the windows, and waits a year, the surprises behind the windows will be again surprisingly new for the children opening the windows.

Our children are now young adults. We no longer have daily Advent calendar and candle squabbles. I will soon unpack my Christmas decorations for this year. There, on top of the box which holds these decorations, I will find one of the old Advent calendars we used. It is now reserved for a spot probably only in the heart and memory of this mother. I will find a place to put it in my house as a decoration this Christmas season. This calendar will be more than a decoration as it triggers my memory of those days when the Advent season was a season in which we could teach our children the true meaning of Christmas. For, Christmas is not a time during which we try to spend the most dollars possible on each other, but it is rather the season in which we celebrate the Advent of the Christ Child.

As this Christmas season has begun, don't let it become a secular holiday. Spend time reflecting on the true meaning of Christmas. Spend time with the little ones in your family teaching them the story of the birth of the Christ Child. Spend time with the older children and the young adults in your family celebrating the birth of the Christ Child. Then, when Christmas is over; and you breath that sigh of relief that finally you can put away the trimmings of the season, you will know that in spite of the busyness of the season, you have celebrated the advent of the Christ Child. May our Christmas season be a blessed one.

"Millions of Americans of all ages need long-term care services, either because of a chronic illness or a permanent disability that renders them helpless to perform basic tasks of daily living without assistant. Currently, it is estimated that between nine and 11 million Americans of all ages require long-term care. This number could double by the year 2030 to more than 19 million."

Potvin said that a study done by Louis Harris and Associates, Inc., showed that most Americans choose home care over nursing home care for long-term care needs.

In the survey titled "The Public Mandate for Health Care Reform in America," Harris stated that "There is a pattern in terms of American attitudes toward health care, one of which is a real commitment to long-term care, especially home care."

Eighty-five per cent of the respondents in the survey said long-term care should be given a high priority within the health care plan over nursing home care. In addition, more than 80 per cent of those surveyed favored a federal program to support home care for the chronically ill or disabled.

"Home care is an excellent and cost-effective alternative to institutional care, providing patients a way to recover in a familiar environment surrounded by their loved ones and treasured possessions," Potvin added. "Modern technology has developed to the point where virtually anything that is available in a hospital can be provided at home. Considering the spiraling costs of institutional care and the growing number of Americans in need of health care, home care is clearly an idea whose time has come."

Proclaimed by President Clinton and an Act of Congress, National Home Care Week provides the opportunity to pay tribute to the thousands of nurses, therapists, home care aides, volunteers and physicians who dedicate their lives to providing the highest quality care at home. It also provides the opportunity for agencies to focus national attention on the issues of home care.

Fewer incidents reported to LEC

Fewer incidents reported to the law enforcement center required investigation and filing of reports during the past week in Pennington county.

Accidents. On November 24 at 11:35 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Pennington avenue and Hugo's driveway. According to the accident report, Nathan Lieberg, 31, Thief River Falls, was stopped facing east in the Hugo's driveway and waiting to enter Pennington Avenue. Lieberg began entering the intersection when Kerri Jo Armstrong, who was driving a vehicle south on Pennington Avenue attempted to stop but collided with the Lieberg vehicle. Damages were estimated at $1,500 to the Lieberg vehicle and $800 to the Armstrong vehicle. Armstrong was cited for driving while intoxicated and open bottle.

On November 26 at 1:19 p.m. police received a report of an accident in the McDonald's parking lot. Amy Jo Garry, route 1, Euclid, was driving north in the parking lot, hit ice and locked her brakes and the vehicle slid into a parked car owned by Richard Zeman, Jr., which was parked facing north. Damages were estimated at $1,000 to the Garry vehicle and $350 to the Zeman vehicle. There were no injuries.

On November 28 at 2:30 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report from the hospital that a man was being treated for injuries to his lower ribs, a scratch to his head and a bump to his left knee. The injuries were the result of a snowmobile accident in Norden township. According to the accident report which was then filed, Terrence Jon Kukowski, Thief River Falls, was driving a 1972 Arctic Lynx when the tracks of the snowmobile got caught in a fence and he was thrown over the top of the snowmobile. Damage to the snowmobile was estimated at $50.

Thefts. On November 28 at 10:44 p.m. Erl's reported a theft to police. A store employee was allegedly observed taking money out of the store safe and putting it in her slacks. The money was later hidden but recovered. The amount of money involved was $160. Charges are pending against Shery Ekman, Thief River Falls, age 20.

On November 26 at 8:34 a.m. Jason Aarestad, Thief River Falls, reported a theft from a vehicle of a CD system and four CDs. The theft loss was estimated at $340.

Charges are pending against Jennifer Lynn Buckta, 20, Plummer, after she allegedly wrote bad checks after she appeared in court on a similar charge. The amount of money involved was estimated at more than $2,700.

Driving while intoxicated. On November 28 at 2:19 a.m. an officer on patrol observed a pickup traveling at a high rate of speed and then go through a stop sign. Upon following the vehicle, the driver finally saw the officer and then allegedly shut off the vehicle lights and backed up at a high speed. The vehicle went off the road where it struck a street sign, broke a fiberglass light pole and got hung up on a pole bar. Steven Gillespie, 24, Thief River Falls, faces charges of fleeing a peace officer and gross driving while intoxicated. Damage to the pickup was estimated at $400.

Vandalism. On November 23 at 12:21 p.m. Brock Newland, Thief River Falls, reported that someone had put scratches in his 1986 F150 pickup. Damage loss was estimated at $1,000.

Domestic. On November 26 at 11 a.m. police received a report of a domestic incident on North Knight. A man alleged that he had been hit in the chest. Charges are pending against Florence Ness, 54, Thief River Falls.

1993 Crop season draws to a close in Minnesota

The weekend weather allowed corn harvest to nearly catch up to the five year average. With some farmers still attempting to harvest some of the remaining corn and cultivate fields, the 1993 harvest season is nearly complete, according to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service.

Corn for grain harvest reached 92 per cent complete, ahead of the 69 per cent in 1992, and slightly behind the 93 per cent average. Moisture content of the corn now being harvested is 29 per cent compared with 26 per cent in 1992 and the 19 per cent average.

Topsoil moisture was one per cent short, 71 per cent adequate, and 28 per cent surplus. Subsoil moisture was rated 68 per cent adequate and 32 per cent surplus.

There were 3.5 days available for fieldwork during the past week.

This is the last weekly report that will be issued this year. Harvest progress will be updated in a mid-month report issued December through March.

FIRE SAFETY FOR WOOD BURNING APPLIANCES

Select only woodburning appliances which have been "listed" by a testing laboratory, or UL approved.

A new appliance is preferable. If you select a used one, check it carefully for cracks, punctures, faulty hinges, and other signs of structural deterioration.

INSTALLATION:

– Have all manufacturer's instructions been precisely followed?

– Does the stovepipe have no more than two 90-degree turns?

– Does the woodstove stand on a non-combustible floor?

– Is the woodstove located a minimum of 36" from all combustible walls and materials, including the wood stack?

– Does the woodstove have its own flue; one not shared with other appliances burning a different fuel?

MAINTENANCE AND HOUSEKEEPING:

– Prior to each heating season, the chimney should be cleaned of nests, broken mortar, creosote deposits, etc.

– Have a professional clean connections and flues, as creosote deposits may be safely removed only through a mechanical scraping or brushing process.

– Improper cleaning may crack or damage the flue liners, creating more areas for creosote to accumulate.

STATE PATROL

Area law enforcement agencies have again joined in the semi-annual red ribbon campaign to encourage the public not to drink and drive. Ribbons are being distributed for the public to attach to the radio antennas on their vehicles as a reminder to "See Red—Think Sober." Donna Olson, who has conducted the campaign before Thanksgiving Day and Memorial Day each year for a number of years, is shown with (left to right) Scott Maslowski, Craig Mattson and al Melbye of the Thief River Falls police department; Gerald Moe, Pennington County Sheriff; Charles Schwartz, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Conservation Officer supervisor; and Captain Tony Kozojed of the Minnesota State Patrol office in Thief River Falls. The public may secure ribbons at a number of business places and the law enforcement center. Mrs. Olson says that although the emphasis is made twice a year, safe driving is a responsibility for all drivers throughout the year.

Many complain about snowmobile traffic in TRF

Numerous complaints about snowmobiles were registered with the law enforcement center in Thief River Falls last weekend.

Complaints included reports of snowmobilers driving on private property, berms, sidewalks, in parks and in the downtown business district. Police Chief Ken Froschheiser said he has informed his officers to write citations for any violations they observe.

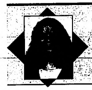
He thinks many are violating laws because there isn't enough snow for snowmobiles to be operating safely. Nevertheless, a lack of snow does not mean snowmobilers have the right to operate snowmobiles wherever they want to. The city's snowmobile ordinance, grants snowmobilers the privilege of operating snowmobiles within the city limits as long as they are going to and from the country only. It is a privilege that can be taken away.

Chief Froschheiser said the river is not safe yet either. Because of the early snowfall and lack of cold weather, the ice on the river is not solid. There are still open spots on the river. Snow on top of the thin layer of ice is also acting as insulation and preventing the formation of solid ice.

Chief Froschheiser also asks that parents make sure to instruct their children on safe snowmobile operation and be good role models.

CLARIFICATION:

A story about an upcoming meeting involving the "accelerating" rate of incidents requiring a law enforcement presence at Miz Ellies in Goodridge stated that the liquor license is held by Lonnie Watne. The license is held by Watne and Al Kiesow.



RANDOM THOUGHTS

Sara Tyler

Lincoln High School

For years I swore I would never watch soap operas. I thought they were dumb and a waste of time. I told my friends who watched them they were wasting hours a day when they could be doing more productive things.

This summer I got hooked. I only watch "The Young and the Restless," but I occasionally get a glimpse of "Days of Our Lives."

I still think soaps are stupid. They are incredibly predictable and slow moving. If someone is falling in love, the viewer knows everything can't turn out perfectly. Like on Y & R, a young couple is planning on getting married in a week. Neither of them knows that they are actually half brother and sister. The boy's mother, who came to town to tell him this, is in a coma and hasn't wakened for at least a month. To make matters more complicated, before these two fell "in love," he was involved with her mother. For a while he was seeing both mother and daughter, but decided to dump the mother. Because I was in school, I don't know if the mother ever found out he is dating her daughter.

Complicated, isn't it?

One of my pet peeves about soaps is how slow they move. There are so many characters involved that some days viewers don't see what happens to their favorite characters. This summer Victor was in Kansas while everyone back home thought he was dead. I wanted to see if he would ever go home and if he would fall in love with the woman who owned the farm. But because of the extensive list of characters in the show, I only got to see what happened to Victor every other day.

Another way that soaps move slowly is with all their scene changes. A viewer will know that either a commercial is coming, or the show is switching to a different scene, because the person who is talking will stop. Then he or she will proceed to stand, stare, and breathe deeply. Maybe this is supposed to be dramatic, but I find it incredibly annoying. When the show comes back to that character, he or she is still staring and breathing deeply. They start the conversation by repeating the last few lines they just spoke. Soap viewers aren't dumb. They can figure out what is going on without those repeated lines. If that alone was stopped, soaps would move much faster.

Even though soaps annoy me, I can't help but tune in to find out what happens. For some reason I care whether or not Victor and Hope, the woman who owns the farm, get married and if Cole and Victoria ever find out they are half brother and sister. I'll let you in on a secret. I suspect that Victor and Hope are brother and sister too. But maybe that would be overdoing it. That is, if a soap can overdo anything.

Chiodo is named MVP in volleyball

Toni Chiodo was named Thief River Falls' most valuable player Monday as the Prowlers put the finishing touches on the 1993 high school volleyball season with their annual awards banquet.

Other special awards included Most Improved - Sarah Huschle; Hardest Worker - Carrie Lawrence; Most Spirit - Maren Thorson; Top Offensive Player(s) - Chiodo, Kelly Skeim; Top Defensive Player - Jamie Martell; Rookie of the Year - Jenny Drury; Tip Queen - Kendra Dimich; More Aces Than A Deck of Cards – Martell; Most Assists - Dimich; Team Comedian - Thorson; Most Kills - Chiodo; Most Last-Touch Points - Chiodo, Skeim; Outstanding Scholar(s) - Huschle, Dimich; Coaches Award - Huschle.

Lawrence, Huschle and Skeim were named captains of the 1994 Prowlers, succeeding Chiodo and Martell.

Athletic letters went to Chiodo and Martell – the only seniors on the 1993 squad; Lawrence, Skeim, Huschle, and Drury – juniors; sophomores Heather Holthusen, Sarah Koland, Lisa Odegaard, Carrie Rud, Thorson, and Dimich; plus student managers Holly Stusynski and Rachael Stusynski.

Participation certificates went to juniors Jaynae Stanina, Keri Schommer and Erika Jensen; sophomore Lori Risdal; and freshmen Amber Troy, Jessica Brekke, Kelly Clark, Angie Erickson, Nikki Greene, Missy Hams, Emilie Fayette, Stephanie Wold, Amy Wessel, Lisa Simon, Kylie Peterson, Nicole Pontow, Stacy Narlock, Katie Lendobeja, Erica Haglund, Erika Altepeter, Alissa Austad, Jenni Eriksen, Danielle Goulet, Kim Hook, Michelle Mathson, Erica Owen, Jessica Pream, and Katie Kraemer.

A highlight tape of the 1993 season capped the banquet activity.

The Thief River Falls varsity went 12-14 this fall – a season that ended with a 3-1 North Sub-Section 8AA tournament semifinal loss to Moorhead.

"It was a fun season," said Thief River Falls head coach Helen Anderson. "I really enjoyed it. It was a great bunch of kids to work with – which made it so enjoyable."

Anderson admitted disappointment in a sub-.500 finish, but didn't want to dwell on negatives in looking back at the 1993 season. "I had expected a little more in the win column," she said, "but we lost a lot of close matches. We lacked consistency."

Graduation losses of Chiodo and Martell will be felt, acknowledged Anderson, but while just two seniors leave, there are 22 members of this year's eighth grade program ready to join next year's seniors, juniors and sophomores at the high school level. "We have good numbers in the program, and some very good volleyball players coming up," said Anderson.

The 1993 Thief River Falls junior varsity, under the direction of Jodi Bendickson, finished 8-17; the C squad, coached by Deanne Thompson, went 4-12; and the freshmen, led by coach Amy Roche, had an 8-4 regular season record.

Hockey opens with Bemidji, GFC

■ Prowlers start year at home with games Thursday/Saturday

They have already scrimmaged eight different opponents in two weeks of preseason work, but the Prowlers begin their 1993-94 high school hockey season in earnest this week with home games Thursday against Bemidji and Saturday against Grand Forks Central at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Junior varsity games start at 5:30 p.m.; varsity games begin at 7:30.

The newest crop of Prowlers don't have a lot of varsity experience under their collective belts, but scrimmage match-ups with Coleraine, Elk River, Grand Rapids, Cloquet, Willmar, White Bear Lake, South St. Paul, and Warroad have helped prepare them for the upcoming campaign.

"We're young, as far as varsity experience goes," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo, "but we've got a group of kids who work hard on a regular basis. We've seen some good things in our scrimmages. We're excited about the potential of this group if they keep working hard and improving. We're going to be the underdog in the majority of our games, but I don't think teams will be able to take us too lightly."

Season-opening line-up will find senior Marc Seaverson centering senior Jeff Twomey and junior Tim Barry; Nick Chiodo with Kaine Martell and Keith Anderson on an all-sophomore line; while senior Scott Grand skates between senior Corey Olson and sophomore Aaron Ehrenstrom.

A fourth line, which will also play at the junior varsity level, will include sophomores Steve Rambeck, Jason Breiland and Chad Hanson.

Defensive pairs be will senior Brent Kleinvachter and sophomore Paul Gonsorowski; senior Joby Looker and junior Brian Howe; senior Alex Stoskopf and junior Tony Halsa. Howe missed all of the preseason scrimmages while recovering from a hip injury suffered during the football season.

Seniors Eric Dowers and Jeff Lundgren will be the goalies, with Dowers getting the opening night start. Sophomore Chanc Keefe also figures in the goaltending picture, said Chiodo, who may try all three during the early portion of the schedule.

Kleinvachter, Olson, Seaverson, Twomey, and Martell played regularly last year when the senior-laden Prowlers went 12-11-1. Twomey (11 goals, 6 assists) and Martell (10-7), who tied for the sixth spot on the Prowlers' scoring charts last year, are the top returning point-producers. Dowers rotated with senior Trevor Haugen at the start of the 1992-93 season before Haugen took over down the stretch.

After this week's back-to-back home games, the Prowlers will be on the road Dec. 7 at Warroad, Dec. 10 against St. Paul Johnson and Dec. 11 vs. Blake.

Warroad is the heavy favorite in this year's new Section 8A hockey alignment, with East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls and Roseau as the likely top challengers.

The Prowlers posted a 1-0 decision over the Warriors in Saturday's 22-minute Section 8A Jamboree match-up.

"That was a great confidence-builder," acknowledged Chiodo. "Warroad is the odds-on favorite this year, but it shows what we can do if we work hard."

Giauque, Olin turn in strong effort at state

Two Thief River Falls entries in the 1993 Minnesota state high school girls swimming and diving championships turned in strong performances, according to Prowlers head coach Ryan Lokken, although Theresa Giauque and Jennifer Olin both finished well behind the leaders.

Giauque, a junior, was a state meet qualifier in both the 200 and 500-yard freestyle. She set two school records with a 15th place 2:00.97 in the 200 and a 20th place 5:28.06 in the 500.

Olin, a sophomore, was 18th in a field of 40 participants the one-meter diving competition – the highest-finishing diver from Section 8.

Top 16 in each event are point-scoring place finishes.

"We're extremely happy with the performances of both Theresa and Jennifer," said Lokken. "We were ecstatic over Jennifer's diving. She was great. And Theresa did a nice job. Physically, she was in great shape for the meet; she was very strong."

Northland Community College men's/women's basketball...

Pioneers host tournament

Northland Community College men's and women's basketball teams will be joint hosts for the Pioneers' Pepsi-Cola Invitational Friday and Saturday.

Bismarck (ND) State, North Dakota State University-Bottineau and the Concordia College junior varsity will join Northland to form a four-team field in both the men's and women's portion of the tournament. The format will feature a women's game followed by a men's game during each tournament session.

The two Northland teams open their 1993-94 seasons tonight (Wednesday) with a doubleheader in Wahpeton against perennially - strong North Dakota State College of Science.

Mark Dannhoff (men) and Rick Nikunen (women) are both beginning their second year as Northland head coaches, and both are looking for improvement in the won-loss column. The Northland men, the Minnesota Community College Conference state champions the year before, fell to 4-18 last winter. The Northland women went 8-13.

Dannhoff said the Pioneers will start the year with a small, but quick line-up that will have 6-0 Mitch Bernstein (Grygla), 6-0 Chad Kujava (Warren) and 5-10 Demond Watson (Chicago, IL) at guards; with 6-6 Ivan Hirst (Newfolden) and 6-2 Antonio Parker (Chicago, IL) stationed underneath.

Ryan Rislov (Badger) and Gary Carey (Brooklyn, NY) will likely by the first players off a very deep Northland bench.

"We've got lots of depth," said Dannhoff. "The guys coming off the bench are just as good as the starters. My hardest job this year might be keeping people happy with enough playing time."

The five players he selected for starting duty provide the Pioneers with a quick, athletic team. They can shoot and run the court, pointed out Dannhoff, and although sizewise they won't scare people, they are good jumpers.

"We'll be aggressive, both offensively, and defensively," said Dannhoff. "I think we can score with anybody. We're not big, but we can jump, and we're working hard every day on blocking out and rebounding. We're not sure our defense is where we would like it to be at this point, but if we can get our hands on the ball, we'll definitely score some points. I think it'll be a fun year."

Nikunen will be starting 5-4 Ronda Olson (Alvarado) and 5-6 Denise Johnson (Middle River) at the guards, 5-7 Renae Blazejewski (Karlstad) and 5-8 Holly Gram (Middle River) at the forwards, with 5-11 Fay Cassavant (Red Lake Falls) at center.

Olson, Gram and Blazejewski all played for the Pioneers last year. Johnson sat out the 1992-93 season, and Cassavant hasn't played for three years.

"The experience factor with Ronda, Holly and Renae should be a big plus for us," noted Nikunen. "Fay gives us some size in the middle."

Top reserves will be 5-11 Sandi Gustafson (Newfolden) and 5-7 Tia Hietala (Badger). Gustafson was a projected starter, but has been slowed by a hip problem – one of several players plagued by early-season injuries.

"I've been pretty pleased with our progress," said Nikunen. "If we can get everybody healthy – and I think we've turned the corner there – I feel that with our our balance, our experience, our size, and our talent, we should be competitive against anybody in our (MCCC Northwest/Northeast Division) conference."

Lakers, Indians win Prep Bowl football games

Area entries Detroit Lakes and Mahnomen both turned in title-winning performances Friday in the state high school football playoff Prep Bowl finals at the Metrodome in Minneapolis.

Detroit Lakes stretched its winning streak to 27 games by successfully defending its Class A crown with a 21-14 championship game win over Northfield.

Mahnomen, meanwhile, won a state-record fourth straight Class C trophy with a 43-23 victory over Minneota.

Prep Bowl Finals

Nine-Man - Chokio-Alberta 35, LeRoy-Ostrander 0; Class C - Mahnomen 43, Minneota 23; Class B - St. Cloud Cathedral 28, Zumbrota-Mazeppa 6; Class A - Detroit Lakes 21, Northfield 14; Class AA - Apple Valley 29, Rochester John Marshall 7.

Prowlers have two returning starters...

Sanden, Treat will lead Lincoln boys

Two returning starters are expected to lead the 1993-94 Thief River Falls boys high school basketball team – 6-1 senior guard Preston Treat and 6-10 sophomore center Kyle Sanden.

Sanden broke into the line-up as a freshman when he led the team in scoring (13 points per game) and rebound (7.7). He fine-tuned his game with an extensive summer basketball program that included state and national tournament experience.

"Kyle and Preston both put in a lot of work this summer," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke, who hopes the Prowlers can start turning around a program that has won just six games over the past two years.

Sanden will be the center of attention. He has the potential to emerge as one of the top players in the area, but will not turn the Prowlers into winners by himself, noted Brekke.

"Kyle is an important part of our program," said Brekke, "but we'll need some other kids to step forward and get the job done if we want to be successful."

Seniors David Johnson and Brett Peterson, along with juniors Nathan Anderson and Eric Bjorgaard, are the other lettermen on hand. Seniors Kyle Jordet, Wayne Iverson, Justin Kempert, and Mark Tangquist, plus junior Dan Bjerkness, will also be looking for playing time.

The Prowlers lost eight seniors to graduation.

"We don't have a lot of depth like we've had in the past," noted Brekke.

And outside of Sanden, the Prowlers don't have a lot of height, either. However, with Sanden on the inside and Bjorgaard, Treat and Anderson all capable three-point shooters, the Prowlers' offense should be improved.

Youth Basketball

Thief River Falls Backcourt Club has announced plans to sponsor jamborees for the boys and girls involved in the fourth, fifth and sixth grade basketball programs.

Jamboree for the sixth grade boys and girls will be held Saturday, Dec. 4. Fourth and fifth grade boys will have their jamboree Saturday, Dec. 11, while the fourth and fifth grade girls jamboree will be held Saturday, Dec. 18.

The jamborees, scheduled to be held at Franklin Middle School, are designed as a get-together for the players and parents involved in the Thief River Falls basketball program prior to the start of regular season play. Refreshments will be served, compliment of the Backcourt Club.

Saturday, Dec. 4, will also feature an officiating clinic for students in Grade 8 or above, along with adults, who are interested in officiating youth basketball games this winter.

Lynn Dyer is the clinic director. Those interested in taking part in the clinic should sign up in the office of the School District 564 Activities Director at Lincoln High School by Thursday.

The 2-to-3-hour officiating clinic will begin at 8 a.m. in the Lincoln gym.

December Canada goose hunt set for Fergus Falls area

Canada goose hunters who enjoy late-season opportunities will have an additional option available this December, according to Tim Bremicker of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources – the Fergus Falls/Alexandria Goose Zone will be open for Canada goose hunting Dec. 11-20

"This season will provide for additional harvest of locally breeding giant Canada geese after most migrant geese have departed the area," said Bremicker, chief of the DNR Section of Wildlife.

"The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service requires monitoring of hunter numbers and harvest for special seasons such as the Fergus Falls/Alexandria hunt, therefore, a $3 permit will be required of all hunters," Bremicker said.

Special Canada goose hunt permits obtained for the September 1993 Fergus Falls/Alexandria season also also valid for the December hunt. Hunters without a permit may obtain one by mailing an application (available at most license vendors and DNR Wildlife Section offices) with the $3 fee to the address listed on the application. Applications must be postmarked no later than Dec. 1 to ensure hunters receive permits prior to the season.

Limits are two Canada geese daily and four in possession. Shooting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise until sunset. All other goose hunting regulations apply.

Sports Boosters changes

School District 564 Activities Director Lee Alger and Northland Community College Athletic Director Rick Nelson–will be the guest speakers Thursday at the weekly 12-noon Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club meeting at the Elks.

The club recently announced they will lower the prices for the meals – soup and a sandwich bar – to $4 in hopes to attract a larger following.

Club officials also said that John Michael Anderson and Steve Stokke have agreed to be co-presidents of the group for the remainder of the 1993-94 season and for the 1994-95 school year. Anderson, who had been serving as the president of the group, said the joint venture will enable them to split the duties and allow them time to solicit new members.

"We need to get more members and area people interested in high school and community college athletics to take part in our weekly meetings," said Anderson. "Everyone has a noon hour, and we issue the challenge for you to join us at the Elks Club and listen to what is going on with our youth today and our programs in Thief River Falls."

Notes...

■ Tim Bergland is once again with the Tampa Bay Lightning. The Lincoln High School graduate has been back and forth between the National Hockey League Lightning and the International Hockey League Atlanta Knights the past two years as Tampa Bay makes continual roster changes.

■ Adam Lundeen of Red Lake County Central was named to the 1993 Class C academic all-state football team. Selections were made by the Minnesota State High School Football Coaches Association and announced during the Prep Bowl playoff finals.

"I look for us to be real competitive in every game we play," said Brekke. "Scoring shouldn't be a problem. "Rebounding is a concern, but if we can get the job done there, we should do well. We're going to pick up the pace a lot more than we have in the past. We want to get the rebound and go."

The Prowlers will open the year with a Thursday, Dec. 9, trip to Crookston. They will also be on the road Dec. 14 against Kittson Central before taking on Warren-Alvarado in their Dec. 17 home opener.

Straw and chaff are alternatives as cattle forage

(Editor's Note: The following article by Dr. George D. Marx, dairy scientist at the Northwest Experiment Station of the University of Minnesota—Crookston, was published in the November edition of "The Northwest Experiment Station News." It is being reprinted for its general interest to area livestock producers.)

Not all dairy animals need top quality forage all of the time. Nonproductive animals, such as dry cows and yearling heifers, can be fed lower quality forages if their rations are properly supplemented.

In a year when top quality forages are difficult to make, such as poor haying weather or when a shortage exists, the one needs to consider alternative forages. Corn silage is probably the most common alternative forage for hay or haylage, but if you don't have the usual forages available, what about straw or chaff for feeding?

Feeding studies were conducted at the Northwest Experiment Station with small grain chaff. This chaff was salvaged with a chaff-saver that was mounted on the rear of the combine. The chaff-saver equipment includes a blower that blows the chaff material into a collecting hopper or chopper box. Chaff was saved from both wheat and oats, and contained small and light kernels along with the loose hulls, small particles of straw and weed seeds.

This is a low-cost feed. Collection is inexpensive as the process takes place as the grain in harvested and no extra trip over the field is required. Attaching the chaff saver on the grain combine is an extra chore, especially the first time, and may not be a viable practice if you custom combine your grain.

The chaff was fed to both dairy beef and yearling Holstein heifers. An analysis of the chaff for nutrients indicated a better feed than expected. The chaff was 89% dry matter with 11% crude protein, 3.2% fat, 35% fiber, 11.3% ash and 39% readily available starches and sugars.

In one of the more interesting experiments at the Northwest Experiment Station, the chaff was mixed with potato processing wastes and ensiled together using a 50:50 mix by dry matter. The waste potatoes were 22% dry matter, 6.9% crude protein, 8.0% fat, 4.4% fiber, 1.5% ash, 57% starch and 1.3% reducing sugars on a dry matter basis.

The wastes consisted of cull potatoes, peelings, off-flavored French fries and potato chips and other residues from the processing of potato flakes and instant potato mixes. The chaff/potato mix was approximately the same value as corn silage in nutrient composition on the dry matter basis and performance was similar and satisfactory for both the replacement heifers and in the growing ration of dairy males for beef.

When straw is utilized for dairy young stock or dry cows, it is usually mixed with a higher quality forage at a 50:50 basis and then balanced with grain and supplement to meet the needs of the particular class of livestock. Most small grain straw is about 4% crude protein and sometimes will be as low as 3.6% in wheat and rye straw. The acid detergent fiber (ADF) of most small grain straw ranges from 50 to 55% on a dry matter basis and total digestible nutrients (TDN) will normally range from 41 to 47% in most straw analysis samples. Dairy farmers should analyze their own straw samples for a more specific nutrient content.

A good way to increase value of straw or other low quality forages is to ammoniate the forage with anhydrous ammonia. Ammoniation of straw will increase its digestibility about 10% by breaking down the fiber components. The process increases consumption up to 25% and crude protein increases by three to eight percentage points depending on the amount incorporated.

An additional advantage when used on higher moisture forages is its ability to preserve the material by killing molds and fungus that cause heating and deterioration of the forage. Fact sheets are available that describe the straw ammoniation process, including the procedure, safety precautions, suggestions, cost and other benefits.

Visitors to the Quin County Nursing Service booth at the Education Fair Thursday at Marshall County Central school checked their reaction time with this timer. Colleen Nelson, RN and project coordinator for the Minnesota Farming Health Project, operated the timer. The demonstration was to indicate how quickly accidents can happen around power equipment in a farm situation.

State introduces new instant lottery game

Beginning November 30, lottery players will able to play Minnesota's new instant lottery game "Viking Venture". Viking Venture features a top prize of $10,000, with overall odds of 1:4.02 to win a cash prize.

Viking Venture is a simple match-three game, where players scratch off the coated play area to reveal six dollar amounts. If three identical dollar amounts match, the player wins that prize. If three $10,000 amounts are revealed, the player wins the top prize instantly. Other prize amounts include $1,000, $100, $30, $20, $5, $2 and $1.

Approximately 16 million tickets have been ordered with a prize payout of 60 per cent. Viking Venture tickets feature the original Nordic artwork of Minnesota artist Keith Grove of RKB Designs, Minneapolis.

Amahl and Night Visitors receive good review

by Heidi Hoks

The Christmas season truly began Friday evening at the Lincoln high school auditorium with the Concert Series presentation of "Amahl and the Night Visitors." Whether you were one or 100, you couldn't help but be moved by the story of a poor crippled boy who, offers the Christ Child his most precious possession — his crutch — and then is miraculously cured of his lameness.

The boy soprano voice of young Felipe dos Santos (Amahl) rang pure and clear and proved a lovely complement to the gloriously rich and dramatic mezzo soprano tones of Margaret Ann Oates (portraying his mother). The poignancy of the story was sensitively evoked by the cast, while the humor in the show was handled delicately in order to provide both the balance and contrast necessary to ensure a solid production of this piece.

My two sons watched enraptured throughout the play and then talked endlessly that night and the next day about it. As a mother, I was excited to be able to share my sons' joy in the production. My heart warmed, too, watching the accomplished violinist Shinobu Saito as she proudly watched her son (Felipe as Amahl) onstage.

After the intermission, the entire cast returned to regale us with Christmas carols. There was no doubt in the audience's minds after baritone Barry Lawrence reverently and masterfully soloed on "Adeste Fideles" and "the Jesus Gift" why he had received the Giuseppe Taddei award. Well-staged and beautifully rendered, every song was a delight! The orchestral arrangements were wonderful and the solos done by pianist Raymond Fellman and violinist Shinobu Saito were exquisite. Flautist Michelle Doll's duel with the soloist on "Deck the Halls" added to the fun.

Our family's Christmas season usually begins on the first Sunday of Advent with our own family traditions. This year, it began earlier and was shared by many other families of the area with "Amahl and the Night Visitors." Many thanks to the Concert Series for providing us all the perfect beginning to our season of peace on earth.

Advise farmers to treat wheat seed in spring

Farmers may be well advised to treat their wheat seed next spring, according to Harley Otto, president and chief executive officer of the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association (MCIA).

"While germination of many samples of scab-affected wheat seed tested at MCIA's seed laboratory in St. Paul has been below standard," Otto said, "experiments there indicate a seven to 20 per cent or greater increase in germination through chemical treatment."

The average germination of 218 samples of wheat seed from the 1993 crop tested at MCIA into mid-November was 82 per cent. Thirty-eight samples from these lots were randomly selected and re-tested for germination after seed treatment was applied.

The average pre-treatment germination of these 38 samples was 80 per cent. Their average germination rate after treatment was 91 per cent.

"Minimum germination rate for certified seed of wheat and most other small grains is 85 per cent," Otto said. "Seed grown for certification that falls below this standard may be tagged and sold as 'substandard.'

"Because of the potential shortage of high-germination seed next spring, farmers may need to consider buying, treating and planting substandard certified seed. The MCIA seed laboratory is providing certified seed growers the additional service of hand-treating and retesting seedlots when requested."

Germination scores of the treated and re-tested samples are furnished to the applicants for certification. Buyers of substandard seed should request this information from their seed supplier if it is not given.

Seed plants usually will not treat and store seed because unsold treated seed has no market value and because of the danger of contaminating market grain, so most treating is done at the drillbox, Otto said. Some seed conditioning plants provide a treating service, treating bulk seed as it is delivered into the buyer's truck.

Otto advises that farmers check with their source of certified seed early, then make plans to treat wheat and other seed of small grains next spring. "The odds for a good stand and good crop will definitely be improved with treated seed," Otto said.

Soil conditions of fields in which seed is planted next spring may, of course, affect seed germination. Cold, wet soils are usually a challenge to getting good stands.

"While certified seed is by far the best choice for planting, some growers persist in planting grain from their bins," Otto added. "Those who do so should make sure it has been properly conditioned by a reputable seed plant and should have it tested for germination by a reliable seed laboratory."

Plummer music dep't. planning three programs

Music department at the Plummer schools is planning three musical events to usher-in-the Christmas season. Elementary musicals and the junior high concert are scheduled for Thursday, December 9, at 7 p.m. Madrigal dinners are slated for Sunday and Monday, December 12 and 13, at 6:30 p.m.

At the December 9 program, first through third grades will present "A Teddy Bear Christmas" and the fourth through sixth grades will perform "A Storybook Christmas." Refreshments will be served following the presentations.

The Olde Englishe Christmasse Feaste madrigal dinners will feature a turkey dinner and musical entertainment by the high school music department. Tickets are $10 per person and must be paid for at the time reservations are made. Seating is limited to 88 people each night.

Coast Guard to phase out RVF boat decals

This fiscal year will be the last time that owners of recreational vessels will be required to purchase Recreational Vessel Fee (RVF) decals for certain boats, U.S. Coast Guard officials in Washington stated.

The RVF program is being phased out over two fiscal years that began on October 1, 1992, and will end on September 30, 1994.

Since October 1, 1993, vessels that are less than 37 feet do not require decals and the RVF requirements no longer apply on Lake Roosevelt in Washington state.

Presently, only two kinds of vessels are required to have decals. Vessels that are at least 37 feet long but less than 40 feet in length must display "C" decals that cost $50, and vessels that are 40 feet and over required "D" decals that cost $100.

Decals may be ordered by calling toll-free 1-800-848-2100. The status of some vessels (public, commercial, foreign, passenger, etc.) previously exempt from RVF requirements remains the same.

For additional information on the modifications to the RVF law, call the Coast Guard hotline 1-800-368-5647.

Farmers face hidden respiratory risks

For the most part, farm air is free of city-style auto exhaust and smog, but farm dwellers have their own pollution problems to deal with, according to University of Minnesota researchers in agricultural health. Some of the observations were published in the "Farm Safety & Health Digest," a quarterly review published by the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"Respiratory hazards are common on the farm," observes Dr. Ian Greaves, a physician and director of the Minnesota Center for Research in Agricultural Safety and Health. "Toxic gases, dusts, pollen, mold; you name it, you can probably breathe it on the average Minnesota farm."

Farm-style pollutants can simply be irritants, like the ragweed pollen that aggravates hay fever sufferers every spring. But they can also be much more threatening. "Research has shown clear links between farmers' occupation exposure to dusts and gases and lung damage," Dr. Greaves said.

Evidence of respiratory impairments among Minnesota farmers was uncovered recently by investigators for the Minnesota Health Department's Farming Health Project. In a survey conducted over the past two winters, occupational health nurses with the project measured lung function of over 680 farmers and their spouses. More than one in five of the men they tested had abnormal lung function test results.

"People who showed abnormal or impaired lung functioning may have felt okay," cautions project director Catherine Lexau. "But their results could very well mean that they were developing lung disease, such as farmer's lung, chronic bronchitis or asthma." Farmers with abnormal results were usually advised to see a doctor within a few months, Lexau added.

Given the realities of farming, with quantities of grain, dust and dirt, what can be done to curb dust levels inside barns? Quite a bit, according to agricultural engineer Kevin Janni. Simply adding a small amount of oil, such as soybean oil, to animal feed suppresses dust very effectively, Janni reports.

Such measures are the research province of Janni and colleague Larry Jacobsen, both members of the Department of Agricultural Engineering. Both recently returned from visits to Europe to study barn and ventilation system designs.

"Farmers are beginning to realize that they need to protect themselves and their workers from respiratory hazards," Janni said. "This is one way to do it."

Farm Gasses That Kill In Minutes

Exposure to some farm pollution can, over time, impair lung function. But a one-time exposure to some gasses can kill in minutes, if not seconds. In two separate incidents in 1992, four Minnesota farmers were asphyxiated by lethal gas in manure pits. The pits, which must be emptied periodically, use pumps that can become broken or clogged. If that happens, warns Minnesota Extension Safety Specialist John Shutske, anyone who enters the pit without proper protection is in mortal danger.

"Bacterial decomposition of livestock waste generates hydrogen sulfide gas, which has similar effect on the body as hydrogen cyanide. That's what was once used in many gas chambers!" Shutske says.

If a manure pit pump must be serviced, there are three options. First, make sure that equipment can be serviced from a safe area or raised from the pit. Second, make sure the person servicing the tank is trained to use a self-contained breathing apparatus (SCBA) with an air tank and face mask. Or consult an industrial hygiene professional to develop an entry procedure that uses monitoring, ventilation and other important safety measures.

High Tech Teaching

Motivated in part by the four manure pit deaths, Shutske and agricultural engineering student Chris Lausted are working on an innovative way to teach about safe manure pit entry. By winter, they hope to have completed a multi-media educational computer program that offers viewers the chance to interact with it at crucial decision points.

"This is really an experiment," Lausted said. "As far as we know, no one has ever used computer-based animation, simulation and role playing to teach farm safety. We're hoping ours will be a prototype *of other farm safety education*al efforts, as well as being a way to get the word out to producers and extension educators on manure pit safety."

Researchers like Shutske and his colleagues in the Minnesota Extension Service were alarmed this fall by yet another respiratory hazard on the farm. A mold called fusarium head scab was appearing in unusual quantity on small grains. The mold produced a toxin with the unappealing name of "vomitoxin."

"Vomitoxin can be toxic if eaten

Sno-Drifters snowmobile club sponsors race/auction

Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters Snowmobile club recently announced the Commercial Sewing Ironman 250 will feature a celebrity race sponsored by Mesaba Airlines along with a celebrity auction with proceeds going to the Make-A-Wish Foundation, an organization of professional athletes coordinated by former pro boxer Scott LeDoux that fulfills requests made by terminally ill children.

"We think the Mesaba Airlines Celebrity Race and Auction will help raise both local awareness and money for the Make-A-Wish Foundation," said Sno-Drifters spokesman Brian Espeseth. "We're also donating $1 of every ticket sold to the Foundation."

The Commercial Sewing Ironman 250, held on January 8 and 9, 1994, in Thief River Falls, is an International Series of Champions (ISOC) sanctioned two-day cross-country and oval racing spectacular. The event combines more than 200 miles of cross-country racing with two days of ice oval competition. Time and points are accumulated in each of the four events to determine an over-all Ironman champion in the Pro 500 class.

The popular Pabst Dash for Cash will return in an expanded format that pits the top 24 Pro 500 qualifiers on the ovals on both race days into semi-finals which work toward two nine-man finals. And ISOC's new Pro 600 class, which features rules similar to ISR's Formula III class will be sponsored by Dayco, Inc. The Pro 600 class racers will compete only on the ice oval portion of The Ironman, with several top F-III teams expected to compete.

The event will also feature ISOC's International Race of Champions, in which top series racers compete on identically prepared Arctic Cat Jag Zs, and, on Sunday only, Kitty Cat racing for kids sanctioned by the KC-Pro Circuit.

The first 75 racers to sign up for the Commercial Sewing Ironman 250 will receive an extra-early entrant package containing $100 worth of prizes and discounts. Just 125 entries will be accepted.

Major sponsors of the Commercial Sewing Ironman 250 to date are: Sam Massarelli of Commercial Sewing, manufacturer of snowmobile, motorcycle, ATV and watercraft covers; Judd McKinnon of McKinnon Inc., the Pabst Blue Ribbon beer distributor for northwest Minnesota; and Paul Rogers of Dayco, Inc., manufacturer of drive belts for snowmobiles and accessory belts for automobiles.

Crookston DAV plans Christmas party Dec. 5

All members and their spouses of the Crookston Chapter No. 14 Disabled American Veterans and Auxiliary are cordially invited to the annual Christmas party which will be held on Sunday, December 5, at the Crookston American Legion Hall. Hors d'ocuvres and refreshments will be served from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. followed by a steak dinner. Poinsettia plants will be given as door prizes.

Trinkets and treasures were available at the 17th annual Holiday Fair Saturday. Booths in more than five locations in Thief River Falls were filled with wonderful things for sale, including jewelry similar to that pictured above.

The event combines more than 200 miles of cross-country racing with two days of ice oval competition. Time and points are accumulated in each of the four events to determine an over-all Ironman champion in the Pro 500 class.

The popular Pabst Dash for Cash will return in an expanded format that pits the top 24 Pro 500 qualifiers on the ovals on both race days into semi-finals which work toward two nine-man finals. And ISOC's new Pro 600 class, which features rules similar to ISR's Formula III class will be sponsored by Dayco, Inc. The Pro 600 class racers will compete only on the ice oval portion of The Ironman, with several top F-III teams expected to compete.

The event will also feature ISOC's International Race of Champions, in which top series racers compete on identically prepared Arctic Cat Jag Zs, and, on Sunday only, Kitty Cat racing for kids sanctioned by the KC-Pro Circuit.

The first 75 racers to sign up for the Commercial Sewing Ironman 250 will receive an extra-early entrant package containing $100 worth of prizes and discounts. Just 125 entries will be accepted.

Major sponsors of the Commercial Sewing Ironman 250 to date are: Sam Massarelli of Commercial Sewing, manufacturer of snowmobile, motorcycle, ATV and watercraft covers; Judd McKinnon of McKinnon Inc., the Pabst Blue Ribbon beer distributor for northwest Minnesota; and Paul Rogers of Dayco, Inc., manufacturer of drive belts for snowmobiles and accessory belts for automobiles.

Crookston DAV plans Christmas party Dec. 5

All members and their spouses of the Crookston Chapter No. 14 Disabled American Veterans and Auxiliary are cordially invited to the annual Christmas party which will be held on Sunday, December 5, at the Crookston American Legion Hall. Hors d'oeuvres and refreshments will be served from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. followed by a steak dinner. Poinsettia plants will be given as door prizes.

Trinkets and treasures were available at the 17th annual Holiday Fair Saturday. Booths in more than five locations in Thief River Falls were filled with wonderful things for sale, including jewelry similar to that pictured above.

Respiratory hazards pose hidden risks

by swine and other livestock, and we were hearing reports of flu-like symptoms among exposed farm workers as well," Shutske said. After fielding several questions from Vince Crary of Polk county and other extension educators in northwestern Minnesota, Shutske requested a literature review on vomitoxin from the Minnesota Center for Research in Agricultural Safety and Health. Using the university's computer network, he then beamed a summary report on the respiratory health effects of vomitoxin out to extension educators across the state, so that they were able to answer farmers' questions as they arose.

"That's the kind of research-related request for information we're only too happy to provide," says MN-CRASH coordinator Patricia Ohman. "Our mission is to make research usable in the field, and this was a perfect way to do it."

Minnesotans with farm safety and health related questions are encouraged to call the MN-CRASH office at (612) 624-8914 for help or referral.

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

All about God's nature

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

There are three natures mentioned in God's word: God's nature, Satan's nature and human nature.

Satan's nature controls human nature, so there is no good thing in human nature (Luke 18:19; Rom. 7:18; John 7:7). Human nature is being held captive by Satan to do Satan's will (2 Tim. 2:26). Satan's will is put to death in our bodies when we do only God's Will daily in our lives.

Jesus Christ came to tell us about the Father's nature. He said it is very easy for us to acquire the Father's nature (Matt. 11:30). All we need to do is forsake our human nature by imitating Him (1 Cor. 11:1; Eph. 5:1).

The Lord is righteous in all His Ways and kind in all His deeds (Psalm 145:17). When we practice righteous deeds for God, we are obedient to Jesus Christ and we allow the Spirit of God to dwell in us (1 John 3:10; Acts 5:32). We are keeping His Ways because we are doing His Will. The Spirit of God then reveals God's nature in us (Rom. 8:29; Gal. 1:16; 4:19). This is called the doctrine that conforms one to godliness (1 Tim. 6:3).

Human nature will not die without a fight. That's why you must fight the good fight of faith, and have faith that God will implant His nature in you (Psalm 4:5; Phil. 2:12). You will then be a new creature in Christ Jesus (Col. 1:28).

When you have this new godly nature, then you will be righteous in all you do. You'll be like Jesus because you will be keeping His deeds (Rev. 2:26). When all you do is righteous, then all you'll reap will be blessings. You will be living the abundant life, full of joy and peace, that Jesus Christ came to show you (John 10:10; Acts 3:19, 26). You will understand that you were created to do good works and that the message of eternal life is righteousness (Eph. 2:10; John 8:51).

Satan hates it when you practice righteousness for God's glory because this is how he is put to death in your flesh (Matt. 5:16). Don't let him stop you! Be zealous for good deeds and overcome your human nature (1 Peter 3:13; Rom. 12:21; Psalm 37:27). That's how you resist Satan and have God's nature formed in you (James 4:7; Eph. 6:11, 13). The God of peace and love, who is calling you to this holy Way of life, will soon crush Satan under your feet, and after you have suffered a little, God will perfect His nature in you (Rom. 16:20; 1 Peter 5:10; Gal. 4:19).

HATS OFF TO 4-H

Highlanding

Highlanding 4-H club held its monthly meeting November 4 at the Goodridge Senior Citizen Center. The meeting was called to order by president Chancey Halvorson. Flag pledges were said and roll call was taken by giving a reason "Why you want to be in 4-H."

Ben Hanson read the treasurer's report. Dawn Hanson reported that the 4-H carnival was fun and successful and thanked those who worked and baked cakes. Dawn also congratulated those who received wards and pins at the awards banquet.

A club outing was discussed and when a good movie comes out we will go to it. A big 4-H welcome was given to new members Gabrial Lee and Eliza Skibicki.

Election of officers was held with the following results: Mike Lovly, president; Ben Hanson, vice president; Chancey Halvorson, secretary; Adam Kassa, treasurer; and Andrew Justin Hanson, reporter.

Hot dog award was given to Ben Hanson for his achievements over the past year. Meeting was adjourned and lunch was provided by Dawn Hanson and Lorraine Stenvik and served by Dawn and Ben Hanson.

Paula Mutnansky was welcomed as our new leader along with Dawn Hanson, Beattie Mickelson, Jean Halvorson and Lorraine Stenvik.

Beattie Mickelson and Dawn Hanson made and gave out ribbons to members for their participation in events and activities in the past year.

Next meeting will be held December 9 at the Goodridge Senior Citizen Center.

Andrew Justin Hanson, reporter

Happy Acres

Happy Acres 4-H club held its monthly meeting November 8 at Valhall. Pledges were said and vice president Jana Johnson called the regular meeting to order. Roll call was a turkey gobbling contest and the winner was Desirae Alberg.

Secretary's report was given by Megan Browning and the treasurer's report was given by Cami Sorenson. Cami reminded the club members to pay their dollar dues. A welcome was given to new members.

Members were reminded to check the blue box for mail, to send thank-you messages for awards received at the 4-H awards banquet and to sign a thank-you to Rainbow Nursery for its donation. The club will be in charge of the children's center during the Holiday Craft Fair November 20.

On Saturday, December 4, Buena Vista in Bemidji is having a special 4-H ski day with special prices.

Report was given that a speaker on Project 2000 for School District 564 had talked to the 4-H Leaders Council and that volunteers are needed to help with strategies. Colin Browning made a motion to adjourn the meeting and Cami Sorenson seconded it.

Colin Browning gave a demonstration on making pudding pops. Initiation was held for new members and lunch was served by the Alberg and Clark families.

Next meeting will be held December 13.

Desirae Alberg, reporter

New Solum

New Solum 4-H club met November 9 at the Jorde home. The meeting was called to order by Kelly Natvik and secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved.

Thank-you cards were read from Beth Olson and Kelly natvik. Katie Jorde, Randine Hall and Kelly Natvik reported on 4-H awards night. Kelly reported on the project meetings in Newfolden and Judy Weleski reported on the Lambert Auction sale.

Ag Activities Day at the University of Minnesota—Crookston was discussed, as well as record judging, rabbit project and the ski trip. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for the Christmas party. Lisa Reierson made a motion to adjourn with a second by Brian Hall.

Nikki Bulger and Kelly Natvik gave a demonstration on records. Katie Jorde gave a project talk on her pet parakeets. Brian Hall was in charge of the program and lunch was served by the Jorde family. There were six members and four parents present.

Katie Jorde, reporter

Kratka

Kratka 4-H club met on November 8 at the Kratka town hall. Election of officers was held with the new officers being Myndy Olson, president; Shawn Johnson, vice president; Brea Hammer, secretary; Stephanie Johnson, treasurer; and Ashley Hammer, reporter.

Ernest and Lois Swanson were at the meeting and taught members how to make bird feeders and gave out packages of bird seed to put in them when they are hung up. There were 13 members, 10 parents and two guests present. It was great!

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Emerson, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Handy and Emma Nyland were dinner guests at Effie Handy's on Thursday. Hazel Nelson was an afternoon visitor.

Visitors at Ken and Alice Forsberg's this past week were: Alice's cousin Harry Sohlin and his wife Maria from Stode, Sweden. Monday they spent the day visiting Alice's sister Maria Killberg at Bemidji and did some early Christmas shopping. Elaine Bergman of McIntosh was their tour guide on Tuesday. We met her daughter, Kris Versdahl, who works at the Wheat Council in Red Lake Falls. After a nice lunch with her family, they drove to Crookston and Jerry Forsberg took over the guide duty. He showed them the Crystal Sugar Plant and they toured the new horse barn at the University. As we walked in, we saw the architectural drawing of the barn done by Duane Thorbeck of Gonvick. Harry raises sheep and pigs and has a tree nursery so enjoys visiting with everyone. Then, Jerry and Kathy Forsberg treated them to supper and they stopped and had coffee with Karen Friedley at McIntosh. Thursday morning Harry, Ken and Chester Jordet visited with Edgar Olson.

Jim Lohse and Wilma Palbrandt were Tuesday afternoon luncheon guests at Henry Knutson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Turenne and Emma Nyland were Sunday visitors at Effie Handy's. They called on Mathilda Handy at Fosston in the afternoon.

Mary Doran and Bill Barthlemy from Bemidji and Lois Sebenaler from McIntosh were Sunday dinner guests at Jean Olson's.

OUR ADVERTISERS SAVE YOU MONEY!

A week ago Monday, Leonard Larson attended the Leonard Torkelson funeral at Karlstad.

Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Tarnell of Overland Park, KS were visitors and coffee guests at the LeRoy Sustad home on Thursday afternoon after which they did a lot of reminiscing as they drove around the Viking area and also called on Raymond Drotts. Lloyd was born and raised in Viking. He is now retired as fulltime pastor, but serves as a visitation pastor. They were here to attend the funeral of his sister, Margery Tornell Wakerhauser of Sun City, AZ. She passed away November 11 in Arizona.

Last Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Sustad drove to Fargo where they were overnight guests at the Dan Hogberg home. Friday morning, they boarded United Express for Denver, CO where they were met by brother Orville and Marion Sustad of Arvoda, CO. Lots of snow in that area. Saturday was spent sightseeing and attending the film production of the "Tropical Rain Forests" and "The Fires of Kuwait" after which they dined at the Mexican restaurant, the Casa Bonita with lovely live music. A special request song, "South of the Border" was played. One special treat while visiting at Orville and Marion's were videos of their trip to the Scandinavian countries and most recently their tour to the Holy Land. Following Sunday morning worship services at the Arvoda Covenant church, they were all dinner guests at the home of Mark and April Sustad and family of Arvoda. On Monday afternoon, Orville, Marion, LeRoy and Ruth went to Boulder, CO where they enjoyed noon lunch at the Rev. Taylor's restaurant and also visited the many antique shops, the "Leaning Tree" museum and the Herb Plant. That evening, Kevin and Lynn and Jessica Sustad were visitors at the Orville Sustad home. LeRoy and Ruth returned home on Wednesday morning having had a very pleasant trip and enjoyable week in Colorado.

Sunday Dwight and Becky Johnson and Pearl and Irwin Johnson visited at the Lyle Johnson home.

Randy Skjerven and boys of Grand Forks, ND spent the weekend at his parent's home, the Gordon Skjervens.

Melvin and Irene Grandstrand spent last weekend visiting Irene's sister Grace and mother, Dara Lindstrom in St. Paul and at the Rodney Grandstrand home in Maple Plain. They returned home on Tuesday.

Saturday afternoon Alice Tangquist visited at the Gordon Skjerven home.

Thursday morning Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Tarnell of Overland Park, KS and Myrtle Sackett of Thief River Falls were breakfast guests of LeRoy and Ruth Sustad at the Best Western Inn Sundance dining room.

Brooks

Emie Cardinal, accompanied by his sister Mrs. Alice Delage and brother Elmer Cardinal of Red Lake Falls, attended the funeral of their sister-in-law Mrs. Florence (Phillipi) Cardinal in Minot, ND on Monday.

Mrs. Dalores Burthwick returned to her home on Monday after a long weekend with her mother, Mrs. Lillian Hince.

On Tuesday, Mrs. Dorothy Myhre, Myrtle Hamrum and Enda Hyde of Plummer were guests of Mrs. Veronica Boucher.

Walter and Willie Katschke were Wednesday evening dinner guests of their daughter, Jason and Sherrie Engen, in Thief River Falls.

Monday guest of Mrs. Lillian Hince were Renie Grove of Plummer and Mrs. Mable Sabourin.

Louie and Mae Wichterman of Kimball were weekend guests of Clarence and Dianna Gagner.

Bill and Angie Stone of Chaplain were weekend guests of her brother, Rolland and Nancy Gagner of Mentor.

Friday guest of Harvey and Mamie Riendeau were his sister Mrs. Dianna Davis, Leon and Evelyn Lussier all of Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Irene Hince of Oklee visited with Mrs. Lillian Hince on Tuesday.

Wednesday forenoon guest of Mrs. Pearl Laniel were Mrs. Mary Jane Paradis, Vi Gagner, Joann Delage, Martha Gagner, Myrtle Hamrum and Mamie Riendeau.

Frances and Ann Perreault of Red Lake Falls were Saturday evening guests of his mother, Mrs. Nettie Perreault.

Thursday guests of Mrs. Lillian Hince were Willard Hince of Thief River Falls, Sherlin and Evangeline Grove and Ricky and Russell Hince.

Mrs. Mary Lou Cyr of Grafton, ND was a weekend guest of Milo and Pat Larson.

Harvey and Mamie Riendeau, Myrtle Hamrum and Pearl Laniel attended the Brooks-Plummer Senior Citizen dinner and meeting on Wednesday noon.

Rod and Charlene Myhre and Sabrina of Red Lake Falls were Sunday afternoon guests of his mother, Dorothy Myhre.

On Friday, Mrs. Mable Sabourin, Renie Grove of Plummer, Clara Derosiere of Crookston, Shawn Hince and Willard Hince of Thief River Falls visited with Mrs. Lillian Hince.

Mrs. Dorothy Myhre returned on Tuesday from a weeks holiday to Aurora when she accompanied her daughter, Darrell and Audrey Carpenter, to Wisconsin to attend a wedding.

Herold and Alice Bolstad and Luke of Fosston visited her mother, Mrs. Mayme Berberick and brothers.

Kevin Grahut and Renie Grove of Plummer, Jeff Burthwick and Evangeline Grove were Sunday guests of Mrs. Lillian Hince.

In an environment of Christmas cheer, Linda Timm (center) taught crafters the technique of glass etching at the craft Lock-In sponsored by Price World. Crafters shown (left to right) are Jody Rondorf, Elizabeth Melin, Irene Ellingson and Snooky Bondy. Crafters spent the six hours they were locked in the store making four different crafts taught by area artists.

Saturday's Holiday Fair and several other craft sales were the time for visiting with old friends as well as checking out the merchandise. Several Thief River Falls stores had special open houses and Christmas sales, along with the hand-made crafts and home-baked goodies displayed at more than five locations around town.

5. EXPERIENCE

Setting the Standard for Refractive Surgery Excellence, Quality Eye Care, and Patient Safety. No other eye clinics in Northwestern Minnesota have more extensive clinical experience than Northwest Eye Centers. So it comes as no surprise that we're the preferred choice among families for: comprehensive eye care, quality optical services, and refractive eye surgery.

A World-Renowned Refractive Eye Surgeon in the North Country. Dr. Richard L. Lindstrom is widely regarded as a leader in corneal, cataract, refractive, and laser eye surgery. And now, we are able to offer Dr. Lindstrom's world class corneal and refractive surgery services to our patients.

Over 3,000 Refractive Surgeries Performed. Since 1980, Dr. Lindstrom has performed more refractive procedures to correct nearsightedness, farsightedness, and astigmatism in patients than anyone else in Minnesota. The 20 minute outpatient procedure can correct vision to 20/40 or better in 90% of the cases. It's virtually painless, and most patients return to work in a couple of days.

Angel Tree Had Benefits Beyond Expectations

Each Christmas season the Thief River Falls community responds to the appeal of several "Angel Trees" or similar programs where gifts can be provided to people who are generally in less fortunate circumstances than the giver. Most donors to such programs usually participate with the thought that the cause is good and the gift will be appreciated but with little further thought to what will be accomplished.

The Times recently received an unsigned "Letter to the Editor" with some comments about the long-lasting effects of the Angel Tree program. Our policy is not to publish unsigned letters in our public opinion column, but we thought the content of this one deserved some public attention and we can understand the reason for anonymity. The letter follows:

"This letter is directed to all individuals who give at this time of the year through the area Angel Tree programs—both those who purchase the gifts and businesses which take on the added tasks of coordinating the project.

"About 16 years ago my sister became divorced. The first few years for her and her young son were financially hard, especially at Christmas. The Angel Tree program helped to make those holidays brighter.

"My nephew is now 18, graduated from high school this spring, and is working full time. When the annual topic of our family Christmas gift exchange came up, this nephew, who I'm sure has a wish list of things for his car, suggested that rather than exchange gifts among ourselves we take names from the Angel Tree because it had meant a lot to him those Christmasses when he was young.

"To those of you who give through the Angel Tree programs, remember your gifts last for years beyond the holiday. Happy Holidays to you."

Individuals and organizations which have supported the Angel Tree programs over the years should consider that it may have been their gifts that instilled the spirit of appreciation in the young man in the above letter. His idea could be followed by others—not necessarily replacing family gift-giving but perhaps being a part of it if finances permit. Who knows how many other recipients may have been similarly touched by a caring gift from someone willing to share at Christmas.

Holiday Gifts Can Educate And Entertain

"It's scary," the father of a not quite four-year-old exclaimed during a recent visit to a department store toy and game department as the youngster pointed out game after game, identified them by name and explained how they worked. Since the child couldn't read the descriptions, it was obvious the television commercials during children's shows had made their intended impression.

It's not that the games were necessarily bad or that the commercials were improper. The "scary" part were the ideas that had been implanted in that inquiring and impressionable young mind by people with a message to sell. It emphasizes what Jaya Tharimala, an intern in the communications department of the Minnesota Education Association, stated in a recent article:

"As the holiday season draws closer," Tharimala wrote, "gift givers who are puzzled over what to give that favorite child, niece, nephew or grandchild will be inundated with advice from department store salespeople, Saturday morning commercials and mail order catalogs. Sorting through this deluge of suggestions to find the perfect gift can be exhausting. For those still struggling, teachers can serve as valuable resources for ideas."

Tharimala goes on to list some suggestions from teachers of students at various age levels. A fourth grade teacher recommends giving books. "Children especially like realistic fiction stories because they feel they could be the characters in the book. It's critical to connect a child with the right book so that each reading opens up feelings for the child and the parent who shares the experience with them."

A senior high school English teacher says it is important to broaden students' education experience. "Each child should receive a gift for the mind and a gift that will allow him or her to be creative," she said. "You can't go wrong with books, but you need to take learning a step further. Giving markers, art materials or a chemistry set would allow children to experiment and apply what they learn in class."

Another suggested giving video movies based on classical literature such as "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" or "Treasure Island." She said it inspires children to read the actual books. "In a world dominated by video," she said, "we should find original ways to make television work for education.

A fifth grade teacher points out that children like challenging gifts that are also fun. "From an educational standpoint," he said, "puzzles test students' observation and problem-solving skills and are something children can work on with their parents. This gets parents more involved in their child's development."

Computer games are suggested "because they challenge students' ability to solve problems in a short span of time." A math teacher suggests that "math jumblers and spelling games expose students more to the language of academic learning. Even regular games like Pictionary, Guesstures or Scattergories force students to react more quickly so that correct responses become instinct-driven."

Older students might appreciate book store gift certificates so they can select books in their individual interest area. College students who already have a lot of material to read might appreciate gifts that help them spruce up the atmosphere of their rooms or apartments and feel more secure.

Meeting the needs of students is considered most important, along with giving things that will last a long time.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

With all the talk about the Brady bill I'm wondering if people are aware that Minnesota has had a "waiting period" handgun law for quite a few years.

The Minnesota handgun law requires the purchaser be 21 years old. They must go to the local sheriff to apply for a "permit to purchase" letter. The Sheriff has up to seven days to issue, or reject, the permit. The letter of permit to purchase must be shown to the licensed gun dealer at the time of the purchase. The permit to purchase letter is good for ONE year; at which time they need to have it renewed by the Sheriff again.

Federal law prohibits anyone under 18 from purchasing any gun. It's also against Federal law for a LICENSED dealer to sell handguns across state or international lines; EXCEPT to another LICENSED dealer. Long guns can be sold in a face to face sale to qualified buyers from a bordering state. Everyone who buys a gun from a LICENSED dealer must fill out a standard Federal form. Every gun sold by a dealer is, by Federal law, registered. The police can, at any time, ask a dealer to produce the form for any gun they're investigating.

Minnesota also requires young hunters to take gun safety training before they can purchase a hunting license. The training is given by local sports clubs. The card they are issued at the completion of the course must be carried with the license, and the number on the card must appear on the license.

Private sales DO NOT require the buyer or the seller to fill out the Federal registration form, nor do they require the seller to see a permit to purchase letter.

Sincerely,
Patsy Johnson

To the Editor:

The Gore - Perot debate on NAFTA is past. Some say Gore won, some say Perot won. If say, if you give points for sleezy slander then Gore won. If you give points for common sense then Perot won.

Free trade advocates have always said, as did Gore in the debate, that the Smoot-Hawley tariff law was what caused the great depression. The depression hit us in 1929. The Smoot-Hawley law was passed in 1930. So where is the connection?

I do not approve of NAFTA, but that isn't what this letter is about. This is about how thing's are dropped on our shoulders.

When George Bush wanted to go to war with Iraq, first he made a trip around the world twisting arms and buying allies. Then he came home and shook his fist at us on TV and when that didn't get us in the mood for war he went to the United Nations and got a go-ahead from them and then gleefully told us he doesn't need permission from congress anymore. That's the way the New World Order works you know.

When Clinton got elected, he pushed through the budget package, which is nothing but a joke on the American people, by twisting arms and making deals for yes votes with your tax dollars. To get NAFTA passed he achieved the biggest buy-out and pork barreling project for yes votes in American history.

He wants our guns.

Hillary is pounding the podium with her fist demanding health care be passed, while in the background Sen. Daniel Moynihan (D-N.Y.) is chorteling, "You don't get health care without more tax on guns and ammunition."

It seems to me it should be against the law for a President to twist arms and buy votes like that. After all, the senators and representatives are sent to Washington to vote the way the majority of their constituents want them to and that certainly is not being done these days. Big banks and big business are getting what they want at the expense of middle class taxpayers.

There is no way the middle class can be represented when a President can do what Clinton did to get the budget package NAFTA passed.

For this I think the President should be impeached and the lawmakers that were bought with your tax dollars by him should be recalled. After all, he still has three years in the White House and an awful lot of damage can be done in three years.

What will they want next?

Sincerely,
Helen Poppler

Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Schiefert of Bloomington, Harley and Alice Schiefert and children of Fargo, ND, Vic Schiefert of Apple Valley and Zak Little of Rosemount spent from Friday to Sunday at the Art Schiefert home. On Saturday evening they, together with Marie and Bob Swanson of Thief River Falls, Sandy and Glen Osbjornson of rural Oklee, Jim and Sherry Schiefert all celebrated the 53rd anniversary of their parents' wedding by hosting a family dinner at Third Base in Brooks. Art and Frances are to be congratulated on this milestone.

Anniversary

Following the anniversary dinner for the Art Schieferts, the family returned to the Legion hall in Plummer for a surprise party celebrating Sandy and Glen's 30th wedding anniversary. A large group attended from the surrounding communities. The event was hosted by their children: Danny and LaNette Osbjornson of Dilworth, Nancy Osbjornson and friend Darrell of Thief River Falls, Darby Osbjornson and friend Gene Trontvet of Oklee.

Birthday for Karl

To celebrate the 12th birthday of Karl Vigstol at his home, classmates Benji Kvasager, Wade Westlake, Darren Vanek, Mike Hanson, Heath Rosten, Ben Fallon, Andy Gustafson and Danny Linder came home with him from school on Friday afternoon. They all enjoyed playing and eating together and some of them stayed overnight, carrying the party over most of Saturday, which was his birthday. Saturday evening found his grandparents Effie and Burnel Byer enjoying a birthday supper with Karl and his parents Eldon and Karen Vigstol.

The following enjoyed a potluck supper at the home of Della Rewertz on November 13: Dennis and Sheryl Wilkens, Bob and Lil Perreault, Mike, Kari and son of Brooklyn Center, Jeff, Amy, Allen, Jessica and Amanda Wilkens of Moorhead, Jon and Paula Praska, Greg and Sheila Hall of Thief River Falls, Terry, Heidi and Justin Rewertz, Idella Rewertz and Grandchildren Kelsey, Brett and Jill Rewertz.

Peggy Miller of Red Lake Falls visited with Effie Byer last Monday.

90 at Wild Game Dinner

"Nearly ninety members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and their friends turned out for the annual wild game dinner sponsored by the organization last Wednesday evening at the Pine Cave of the Palm Garden cafe. The dinner was followed by a social hour and dancing."

Big Attendance For Dedication of Home For Aged

"A large gathering thronged for the Red River Valley Bible school and home for the aged open house hour Tuesday afternoon. The group was much impressed by the clean and inviting rooms provided for the old people. Due to the difficulty of securing materials and help some features of the home had not been completed. Free refreshments were served by the home. The home is now full, with not a few on the waiting list."

Scouts Collected Two Tons Waste Paper

"The local Boy Scouts organizition, under the direction of Scoutmaster Irving E. Quist, last Friday collected two tons of old newspapers and magazines, making a total of approximately twelve tons of paper picked up during the fall months. Friday's collection will be forwarded to Little Falls for processing next week. There will be no further pick-ups until after the Christmas holidays."

Social Planning

"The following suggestion as to socials may be worth something to somebody: why not have a hugging bee; such are becoming so popular in other parts of the country for swelling the church exchequer. We copy the following list of prices from the Missouri paper and respectfully submit same for the serious consideration of the social committee: Girls under 16, 15¢ for a hug of two minutes or 10¢ for a short squeeze; from 17 to 20, 50¢; from 20 to 25, 75¢; schoolma'ams 40¢; another man's wife $1; widows according to looks 10¢ to $3; old maids three cents a piece or two for a nickel, no limit to time. Preachers are not charged; editors have first choice and pay in advertising; high school professors must pay in advance, are not allowed to participate until everybody else is got through and even then are limited to squeezing only old maids and schoolma'ams."

Angel Tree Had Benefits Beyond Expectations

Each Christmas season the Thief River Falls community responds to the appeal of several "Angel Trees" or similar programs where gifts can be provided to people who are generally in less fortunate circumstances than the giver. Most donors to such programs usually participate with the thought that the cause is good and the gift will be appreciated but with little further thought to what will be accomplished.

The Times recently received an unsigned "Letter to the Editor" with some comments about the long-lasting effects of the Angel Tree program. Our policy is not to publish unsigned letters in our public opinion column, but we thought the content of this one deserved some public attention and we can understand the reason for anonymity. The letter follows:

"This letter is directed to all individuals who give at this time of the year through the area Angel Tree programs—both those who purchase the gifts and businesses which take on the added tasks of coordinating the project.

"About 16 years ago my sister became divorced. The first few years for her and her young son were financially hard, especially at Christmas. The Angel Tree program helped to make those holidays brighter.

"My nephew is now 18, graduated from high school this spring, and is working full time. When the annual topic of our family Christmas gift exchange came up, this nephew, who I'm sure has a wish list of things for his car, suggested that rather than exchange gifts among ourselves we take names from the Angel Tree because it had meant a lot to him those Christmasses when he was young.

"To those of you who give through the Angel Tree programs, remember your gifts last for years beyond the holiday. Happy Holidays to you."

Individuals and organizations which have supported the Angel Tree programs over the years should consider that it may have been their gifts that instilled the spirit of appreciation in the young man in the above letter. His idea could be followed by others—not necessarily replacing family gift-giving but perhaps being a part of it if finances permit. Who knows how many other recipients may have been similarly touched by a caring gift from someone willing to share at Christmas.

Holiday Gifts Can Educate And Entertain

"It's scary," the father of a not quite four-year-old exclaimed during a recent visit to a department store toy and game department as the youngster pointed out game after game, identified them by name and explained how they worked. Since the child couldn't read the descriptions, it was obvious the television commercials during children's shows had made their intended impression.

It's not that the games were necessarily bad or that the commercials were improper. The "scary" part were the ideas that had been implanted in that inquiring and impressionable young mind by people with a message to sell. It emphasizes what Jaya Tharimala, an intern in the communications department of the Minnesota Education Association, stated in a recent article:

"As the holiday season draws closer," Tharimala wrote, "gift givers who are puzzled over what to give that favorite child, niece, nephew or grandchild will be inundated with advice from department store salespeople, Saturday morning commercials and mail order catalogs. Sorting through this deluge of suggestions to find the perfect gift can be exhausting. For those still struggling, teachers can serve as valuable resources for ideas."

Tharimala goes on to list some suggestions from teachers of students at various age levels. A fourth grade teacher recommends giving books. "Children especially like realistic fiction stories because they feel they could be the characters in the book. It's critical to connect a child with the right book so that each reading opens up feelings for the child and the parent who shares the experience with them."

A senior high school English teacher says it is important to broaden students' education experience. "Each child should receive a gift for the mind and a gift that will allow him or her to be creative," she said. "You can't go wrong with books, but you need to take learning a step further. Giving markers, art materials or a chemistry set would allow children to experiment and apply what they learn in class."

Another suggested giving video movies based on classical literature such as "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" or "Treasure Island." She said it inspires children to read the actual books. "In a world dominated by video," she said, "we should find original ways to make television work for education.

A fifth grade teacher points out that children like challenging gifts that are also fun. "From an educational standpoint," he said, "puzzles test students' observation and problem-solving skills and are something children can work on with their parents. This gets parents more involved in their child's development."

Computer games are suggested "because they challenge students' ability to solve problems in a short span of time." A math teacher suggests that "math jumblers and spelling games expose students more to the language of academic learning. Even regular games like Pictionary, Guesstures or Scattergories force students to react more quickly so that correct responses become instinct-driven."

Older students might appreciate book store gift certificates so they can select books in their individual interest area. College students who already have a lot of material to read might appreciate gifts that help them spruce up the atmosphere of their rooms or apartments and feel more secure.

Meeting the needs of students is considered most important, along with giving things that will last a long time.

Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Schiefert of Bloomington, Harley and Alice Schiefert and children of Fargo, ND, Vic Schiefert of Apple Valley and Zak Little of Rosemount spent from Friday to Sunday at the Art Schiefert home. On Saturday evening they, together with Marie and Bob Swanson of Thief River Falls, Sandy and Glen Osbjornson of rural Oklee, Jim and Sherry Schiefert all celebrated the 53rd anniversary of their parents' wedding by hosting a family dinner at Third Base in Brooks. Art and Frances are to be congratulated on this milestone.

Anniversary

Following the anniversary dinner for the Art Schieferts, the family returned to the Legion hall in Plummer for a surprise party celebrating Sandy and Glen's 30th wedding anniversary. A large group attended from the surrounding communities. The event was hosted by their children: Danny and LaNette Osbjornson of Dilworth, Nancy Osbjornson and friend Darrell of Thief River Falls, Darby Osbjornson and friend Gene Trontvet of Oklee.

Birthday for Karl

To celebrate the 12th birthday of Karl Vigstol at his home, classmates Benji Kvasager, Wade Westlake, Darren Vanek, Mike Hanson, Heath Rosten, Ben Fallon, Andy Gustafson and Danny Linder came home with him from school on Friday afternoon. They all enjoyed playing and eating together and some of them stayed overnight, carrying the party over most of Saturday, which was his birthday. Saturday evening found his grandparents Effie and Burnel Byer enjoying a birthday supper with Karl and his parents Eldon and Karen Vigstol.

The following enjoyed a potluck supper at the home of Della Rewertz on November 13: Dennis and Sheryl Wilkens, Bob and Lil Perreault, Mike, Kari and son of Brooklyn Center, Jeff, Amy, Allen, Jessica and Amanda Wilkens of Moorhead, Jon and Paula Praska, Greg and Sheila Hall of Thief River Falls, Terry, Heidi and Justin Rewertz, Idella Rewertz and Grandchildren Kelsey, Brett and Jill Rewertz.

Peggy Miller of Red Lake Falls visited with Effie Byer last Monday.

Daryl Wilkens of Langdon spent from Friday to Sunday at the home of his mother, Ruth Wilkens.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

With all the talk about the Brady bill I'm wondering if people are aware that Minnesota has had a "waiting period" handgun law for quite a few years.

The Minnesota handgun law requires the purchaser be 21 years old. They must go to the local sheriff to apply for a "permit to purchase" letter. The Sheriff has up to seven days to issue, or reject, the permit. The letter of permit to purchase must be shown to the licensed gun dealer at the time of the purchase. The permit to purchase letter is good for ONE year; at which time they need to have it renewed by the Sheriff again.

Federal law prohibits anyone under 18 from purchasing any gun. It's also against Federal law for a LICENSED dealer to sell handguns across state or international lines; EXCEPT to another LICENSED dealer. Long guns can be sold in a face to face sale to qualified buyers from a bordering state. Everyone who buys a gun from a LICENSED dealer must fill out a standard Federal form. Every gun sold by a dealer is, by Federal law, registered. The police can, at any time, ask a dealer to produce the form for any gun they're investigating.

Minnesota also requires young hunters to take gun safety training before they can purchase a hunting license. The training is given by local sports clubs. The card they are issued at the completion of the course must be carried with the license, and the number on the card must appear on the license.

Private sales DO NOT require the buyer or the seller to fill out the Federal registration form, nor do they require the seller to see a permit to purchase letter.

Sincerely,
Patsy Johnson

To the Editor:

The Gore - Perot debate on NAFTA is past. Some say Gore won, some say Perot won. If say, if you give points for sleezy slander then Gore won. If you give points for common sense then Perot won.

Free trade advocates have always said, as did Gore in the debate, that the Smoot-Hawley tariff law was what caused the great depression. The depression hit us in 1929. The Smoot-Hawley law was passed in 1930. So where is the connection?

I do not approve of NAFTA, but that isn't what this letter is about. This is about how thing's are dropped on our shoulders.

When George Bush wanted to go to war with Iraq, first he made a trip around the world twisting arms and buying allies. Then he came home and shook his fist at us on TV and when that didn't get us in the mood for war he went to the United Nations and got a go-ahead from them and then gleefully told us he doesn't need permission from congress anymore. That's the way the New World Order works you know.

When Clinton got elected, he pushed through the budget package, which is nothing but a joke on the American people, by twisting arms and making deals for yes votes with your tax dollars. To get NAFTA passed he achieved the biggest buy-out and pork barreling project for yes votes in American history.

He wants our guns.

Hillary is pounding the podium with her fist demanding health care be passed, while in the background Sen. Daniel Moynihan (D-N.Y.) is chorteling, "You don't get health care without more tax on guns and ammunition."

It seems to me it should be against the law for a President to twist arms and buy votes like that. After all, the senators and representatives are sent to Washington to vote the way the majority of their constituents want them to and that certainly is not being done these days. Big banks and big business are getting what they want at the expense of middle class taxpayers.

There is no way the middle class can be represented when a President can do what Clinton did to get the budget package NAFTA passed.

For this I think the President should be impeached and the lawmakers that were bought with your tax dollars by him should be recalled. After all, he still has three years in the White House and an awful lot of damage can be done in three years.

What will they want next?

Sincerely,
Helen Poppler

90 at Wild Game Dinner

"Nearly ninety members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and their friends turned out for the annual wild game dinner sponsored by the organization last Wednesday evening at the Pine Cave of the Palm Garden cafe. The dinner was followed by a social hour and dancing."

Big Attendance For Dedication of Home For Aged

"A large gathering thronged for the Red River Valley Bible school and home for the aged open house hour Tuesday afternoon. The group was much impressed by the clean and inviting rooms provided for the old people. Due to the difficulty of securing materials and help some features of the home had not been completed. Free refreshments were served by the home. The home is now full, with not a few on the waiting list."

Scouts Collected Two Tons Waste Paper

"The local Boy Scouts organiztion, under the direction of Scoutmaster Irving E. Quist, last Friday collected two tons of old newspapers and magazines, making a total of approximately twelve tons of paper picked up during the fall months. Friday's collection will be forwarded to Little Falls for processing next week. There will be no further pickups until after the Christmas holidays."

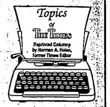
Temperature Slumps to 2 Above Zero

"Lowest temperature of the current winter was recorded Saturday morning when the mercury dropped to 2 above zero. After several days of mild weather, in which a high of 40 was registered Tuesday afternoon, temperatures again slumped this morning to the 3 above zero mark."

Legion Carnival Set For December 10-11

"Bingo games with poultry and blankets as prizes and with dancing as an added diversion, will furnish entertainment for local citizens at the carnival in the auditorium Friday and Saturday evenings, December 10 and 11, sponsored by the Elmer J. Ecklund post of the American Legion."



—With inflation coming along fast, "Buy, Buy, Blackbird" seems to be the national theme song.

—Bringing home the acute paper shortage, a number of Minnesota newspapers are refusing to accept new subscriptions.

—It used to be said, "See Paris and Die." Today's version and "See Berlin and Die."

—We hear, comments Billy Noonan of Baudette, that Thief River Falls is to have women police. At that, he adds, many a man wouldn't mind being pinched by a lady cop.

—You may figure on traveling for fun during the holidays, but, in view of congested conditions on trains and buses, it won't be any pleasure trip.

—Minneapolis' own Halsey Hall surmises that when a man learns he has become the father of triplets, he can hardly believe his own census.

—If you haven't got $140.37 in your pocket, you've been cheated. That's the per capita circulation of money, according to the treasury department.

—With all due respect to the many critics of the OPA, we feel that that agency should be given at least some credit for averting a situation that permitted sugar to seel for more than twenty cents a pound during the first World War.

—Happy indeed will be the day when Uncle Sam's army is able to hang out the sign, "No Help Wanted."

—Remember way back in the pre-Hershey days when the pink-wrapped Alakuma was a favorite nougat candy bar.

—With a tire famine facing the nation, a lot of motorists may yet regret that they didn't obey gas-rationing rules more strictly.

—In the army, it seems, even a general can't slap a private in the face and get away with it.

—A diplomat, we hear, is a man who never forgets a lady's birthday, but never remembers her age.

—When we hear of crooners breaking records, we always hope it is recordings of their own voices they are smashing.

—Random thought: Wonder if folks in Mountain Iron, Minn., and Iron Mountain, Mich., ever get their mail mixed up.

Social Planning

"The following suggestion as to socials may be worth something to somebody: why not have a hugging bee, such as are becoming so popular in other parts of the country for swelling the church exchequer. We copy the following list of prices from the Missouri paper and respectfully submit same for the serious consideration of the social committee. "Girls under 16: 15¢ for a hug of two minutes or 10¢ for a short squeeze; from 17 to 20, 50¢; from 20 to 25, 75¢; schoolma'ams 40¢; another man's wife $1; widows according to looks 10¢ to $3; old maids three cents a piece or two for a nickel, no limit to time. Preachers are not charged; editors have first choice and pay in advertising; high school professors must pay in advance, are not allowed to participate until everybody else is got through and even then are limited to squeezing only old maids and schoolma'ams."

Officers of Immanuel WELCA met on Friday afternoon at the church to make plans for the coming year and to rearrange the circles.

An early Thanksgiving party was held on Saturday evening at the Roger and Janel Walter home. Guests were Herb Walter, Ray and Reinette Walter, Brian and Jenny Walter of UMC, Dan and Renee Lindgren, Brittney, and Ashley of Strasburg, ND, Mitch and Vicki Olson of Halstad, June Smith of Hugo, Marilyn Budraitis of Levumo, AL, Barb Pinc of Hastings, Iona Markley of Rockford, Duane and Kevin Walter of Minot, ND, David and Danny Walter of Harris.

Tom and Tina Hesse and Christopher spent a week visiting his parents Loretta and Don Hesse and other relatives. Tom has spent six years in the marines and they drove here from North Carolina. He is now a civilian and they left for Tampa, FL to begin a new career.

Anniversary

Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson celebrated 35 years together with a dance at Hanson's Bar on November 20. Music was provided by "The Happy Norwegians". Granddaughter Tricia Willett and Jenny Gallant sang a song written especially for the couple. Sheila Gerardy and Rebecca Willett, daughters, introduced the family and lunch was served followed by dancing. Family members present were: Tom and Rebecca Willett, Tricia and Todd, Russell Sorenson of Roseau, Tony and Sheila Gerardy. Son Karl and Rita Sorenson of Wannaska were unable to attend but sent good wishes. Parents Eugene and Willia Presetegaard of Thief River Falls, Lloyd's sister Corlan and Bob Kleinschmidt of Oklee, cousins Rose and Harvey Delage of Thief River Falls, Doris Hanson of Oklee, and husband Elmer, Bernice Klenk of Middle River, Loren and Ardis Race of Goodridge, Richard and Arlene Froiland, nephews and nieces Randy and Nancy Magnell, Dennis and Jason Magnell of Oklee, Annette and Todd Frederickson and Marlon Sorenson. Many others attended from Pinewood, Fosston, McIntosh, Trail, Gonvick, Bagley, Newfolden, Goodridge, Oklee, Red Lake Falls, and Plummer. Many greetings came by mail, also and Lloyd and Wavell say a heartfelt thank you. A special table displayed wedding pictures. The flowers and cake were decorated with red roses. There were about 125 guests.

Ernie and Dorothy Pederson visited on Sunday afternoon with Jennie Norman of Red Lake Falls.

Bridal Shower

Tracy Simpson, daughter of Chuck and Jolayne Simpson, was guest of honor at a bridal shower on Sunday afternoon at the Catholic church. Games were played and the bride-to-be opened her gifts, assisted by her mother Jolayne and sister Mindy. Hostesses for the event were Cheryl and Patty Greenwald and Mindy Simpson. Tracy will become the bride of Ryan Jon Peterson on Saturday, Nov. 27.

NOTICE

"If the property you now own and live in was not being used by you - or by a "qualifying relative" - or by the previous owner - as a home on January 2, 1993, you can reduce the amount of property tax you will pay on your home in 1994 by applying to have the property classified as a homestead.

However, you or the "qualifying relative" must have moved into the home you now own, and live in it on or before December 1, 1993, to apply to have the property classified as a homestead. A homestead application must be received by the assessor's office by December 15, 1993.

A "qualifying relative" is defined as a parent, stepparent, child, stepchild, spouse, grandparent, grandchild, brother, sister, uncle, or aunt. The relationship may be by blood or by marriage.

As a result of having your home you own classified as a homestead, your property's taxable value will be calculated at a lower percentage of its estimated market value than if it is not classified as a homestead.

To find out how to apply to have the home you own and you live in or a "qualifying relative" lives in classified as a homestead, contact your county assessor in Warren or Thief River Falls .

Hansons receive Torch and Shield Award from UMC

Silas and Marjorie Hanson of Thief River Falls received the 1993 Torch and Shield Award recently from the University of Minnesota—Crookston. The awards are given annually to men and women who have provided leadership and aided in the development of the university's Crookston campus.

The Hansons own Si-Mar Farms of rural Thief River Falls. They purchased the original 160-acre farm in 1945 from Silas' uncle and expanded the operation to 1,000 acres, most of which is used in crop production.

Their yard is well-known around the area and they have received the farm beautification award from the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District. Many groups have made use of the Hansons' hospitality to tour the garden areas and/or have picnics or other gatherings in the yard. Last year the 50th anniversary celebration of the Silverton 4-H club was held there.

"Although the Hansons spend many hours working on their yard, their enthusiasm goes beyond their own property," notes Chancellor Donald Sargeant of UMC, one of the award presenters at the Torch and Shield banquet.

"They were 4-H club leaders for 15 years, active in their church and numerous community organizations. They have also served as the 'Texas connection' for the annual alumni socials of Thief River Falls area residents at McAllen, TX."

Sargeant said the Hansons were honored not only for their work in the community, but also for their commitment to the White House Alumni Center restoration project. Marge coordinated the needlework for the chairs used in the dining area and Si assembled the chairs. They are also members of the University of Minnesota Presidents Club.

Others receiving Torch and Shield Awards were C. Eugene Allen, Minneapolis, vice president, Institute of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics; David Berg, Minneapolis, assistant to the president, director of management planning and information services of the university; George French, Crookston, assistant professor in the UMC music/theater program; Marlin Johnson, Crookston, retired Minnesota extension service staff member; Thomas Lenertz, Crookston, Riverview Healthcare Association; MaryAnn Simmons, Crookston, KROX radio news reporter; and Wayne and Gary Wagner, Crookston, area farmers and members of the UMC Alumni Association.

Being a parent today is a difficult job, but so is being a kid. Children today are faced with tough decisions at increasingly younger and more vulnerable ages. The pressure on our kids to use drugs progressively increases throughout junior high and high school.

Clearly, we do need to help our children develop the skills and knowledge to make decisions and to learn how to tactfully resist pressure from their peers to use drugs.

Read the words to the D.A.R.E. Song and you will understand why our children need your help!

THE WORLD'S A DIFFERENT PLACE
WHERE LIFE'S BECOME A RACE
AND UNLIKE THE WORLD OF PAST
OUR KIDS GROW UP TOO FAST
'CAUSE WHAT THEY SEE IN STORE
IS THREATS OF BOMBS AND WAR
AND THAT DEADLY GAME THEY'RE TAUGHT
THAT HAPPINESS IS BOUGHT
SO THE CHILDREN OF TODAY
HAVE NO TIME FOR CHILD'S PLAY
AND THEY FEEL THEY'RE ALL ALONE
EVEN STRANGERS IN THEIR HOME
SO TO HIDE THEIR PAIN AND TEARS
THEY DESTROY THEIR YOUTHFUL YEARS
GIVING UP ON LOVE AND HUGS
AND ESCAPING INTO DRUGS
AND IF WE SAY THAT WE WON'T HELP
BECAUSE THE PROBLEM ISN'T MINE
THEN IT'S MORE THAN JUST A SHAME
OUR LACK OF CARING IS A CRIME...SO

Abuse problems faced by group called SPEAR

David Hill
Associate Editor

Abuse is a serious problem. Last Tuesday, two alumni of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls returned to the high school as part of a five-member group of students from Concordia College in Moorhead to talk about this serious problem.

Nicole Dimich and Pete Balmer, who are alumni of Lincoln high school are members of a task force called SPEAR, which stands for Sexual, Physical, Emotional Abuse in Relationships. Nicole's involvement runs even deeper as she is considered to be the person who conceived the idea for the program.

SPEAR is an outreach program task force sponsored by the Local Concerns Commission of Campus Ministry at Concordia College. The goal of the task force is to be a resource for information and awareness in abusive relationships. Its presentations are given to everyone from sixth-graders to adults, with particular concentration on junior high students, high school students, and church youth groups of that age. The Rape and Abuse Crisis Center in Fargo, ND, provided material used in the presentation of the programs.

Basically, narrated incidents are acted out by the five students. The presenters then allow students to ask questions and or respond to questions put to them by the presenters.

A written explanation of the program provided by the presenters states, "Our presentation includes role plays concerning issues of verbal abuse, physical abuse, pressure to have sex, and rape. These issues try to present the situation from both points of view, the abuser and the victim. We deal with jealousy, possessiveness, manipulation, and healthy and unhealthy love. We provide information on resources to go to if an abusive situation has occurred in their own lives, as well as the lives of loved once. We also

SPEAR (Sexual, Physical, Emotional Abuse in Relationships) task force from Concordia College in Moorhead presented a program at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls Tuesday. Nicole Dimich and Pete Balmer, who are members of the group which distributes information and creates public awareness about abuse, are graduates of Lincoln high school. Nicole Dimich is credited with conceiving the idea for the program. Lincoln orchestra in concert Monday

Winter concert by the orchestras of School District 564 will be presented Monday, December 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls. Public attendance is invited and there is no admission charge.

Bonnie Knapp will conduct the Elementary Strings, Franklin Strings and Lincoln Strings in their separate parts of the concert. A special feature will be the first "sing along" to the Christmas choruses of Handel's "The Messiah," a feature which Knapp expects to be a part of each future annual winter concert.

Complete musical scores for "The Messiah" are on sale at Kezar Music and will be available at the door for those who wish to purchase them. They will be used for the sing along this year and in future years.

Elementary Strings will open the concert, beginning with a Knox elementary school quartet including Tana Bachland, Carisa Hendrickson, Molly Hanson and Kim Schneider. All elementary students will present "Jolly Old St. Nicholas" and "Frost."

Franklin Middle School Strings will perform "Carol Suite" and "Drummer Boy" for their concert numbers.

As a warm-up for the Lincoln High School Strings presentation, carols will be sung. Portions of "The Messiah" to be performed by the orchestra will include "Overture," "And the Glory of The Lord," "For Unto Us a Child Is Born," "Pastoral Symphony," "Glory to God" and "Hallelujah."

Members of the three orchestras include the following:

Lincoln Strings

Violins—Sara Batalden, Alecia Bernier, Joshua Clark, Sarah Harger, Jason Jensen, Kent Larson (concert master), Jordan Lindquist, Kelly Natvik, Lisa Reierson, Stefan Ronchetti, Jaime Smith, Stefanie Swanson, Maja Turenne and Christopher Tveitbakk (section leader);

Wiltse receives state recognition

Organizer of the adapted physical education program in Thief River Falls schools cited for service

Working with pre-school students at Knox elementary school, Sally Wiltse conducts an exercise to teach coordination techniques and observe abilities. The youngsters placed a ball between their backs or foreheads and held it there without using their hands while one student walked forward and the other backward. Wiltse is the state winner of the George Hanson Developmental/Adapted Physical Education award from the Minnesota Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance. This group of youngsters included a number of pre-school children of parents working as school volunteers.

by Marvin Lundin
– Times Editor

When Sally Wiltse was first hired on a full-time basis by School District 564 in 1984, the term developmental/ adapted physical education sounded just as foreign as the district's offerings in German and Spanish.

Nine years later the program has evolved into a vital part of the school district's physical education responsibilities but, by its nature, is not widely known nor understood by the general public. Recognition of effort and accomplishment, therefore, is most likely to come from within the system.

In selecting Sally as state recipient of its George Hanson Developmental/Adapted Physical Education Award, the Minnesota Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance recognized "the outstanding services and contributions given by an elementary, secondary, higher education or other professional worker in developmental/adapted physical education."

Wiltse was a co-winner with Kim Thomas of Bemidji and they received their recognition in early November at an awards program at the Thunderbird Hotel in Bloomington.

When Wiltse was hired to develop and conduct the adapted program in the local school system for the 1984-85 school year, it wasn't that she was unprepared for the job. She received her Bachelor of Science degree from Mankato State University in 1982 with a major in physical education and minor in adapted physical education, and she had worked a year creating the program for the disabled at the North Dakota State School at Grafton.

What she wasn't prepared for was the feeling of isolation in her field at the outset. "When I went to the first conference I was the only one from northwestern Minnesota there," she recalls. "I needed help

School levy to rise 16%

Beginning repayment of the 20-year bond schedule for new school construction and renovation in 1994 will result in a net tax levy increase of 15.95 per cent in School District 564, according to information presented at the district's "truth in taxation" hearing last week in the school district service center. Fewer than 10 members of the public were in attendance.

Total of all levies for the school district will be $3,711,031—up by $510,455 from $3,200,576 payable in 1993.

Attention focused on the debt and capital funds which had respective increases of 138.54 per cent and 17.74 per cent over taxes payable in 1993. All other funds in the district—general fund, transportation fund, community education fund and debt fund tech—had decreases from the previous year.

In 1993 the district had debt payable of $515,414 which was reduced by $59,888 in debt aid and

Being a parent today is a difficult job, but so is being a kid. Children today are faced with tough decisions at increasingly younger and more vulnerable ages. The pressure on our kids to use drugs progressively increases throughout junior high and high school.

Clearly, we do need to help our children develop the skills and knowledge to make decisions and to learn how to tactfully resist pressure from their peers to use drugs.

Read the words to the D.A.R.E. Song and you will understand why our children need your help!

THE WORLD'S A DIFFERENT PLACE
WHERE LIFE'S BECOME A RACE
AND UNLIKE THE WORLD OF PAST
OUR KIDS GROW UP TOO FAST
'CAUSE WHAT THEY SEE IN STORE
IS THREATS OF BOMBS AND WAR
AND THAT DEADLY GAME THEY'RE TAUGHT
THAT HAPPINESS IS BOUGHT
SO THE CHILDREN OF TODAY
HAVE NO TIME FOR CHILD'S PLAY
AND THEY FEEL THEY'RE ALL ALONE
EVEN STRANGERS IN THEIR HOME
SO TO HIDE THEIR PAIN AND TEARS
THEY DESTROY THEIR YOUTHFUL YEARS
GIVING UP ON LOVE AND HUGS
AND ESCAPING INTO DRUGS
AND IF WE SAY THAT WE WON'T HELP
BECAUSE THE PROBLEM ISN'T MINE
THEN IT'S MORE THAN JUST A SHAME

Violinists Stef Swanson(left) and Stef Ronchetti rehearse with the Lincoln High School Strings for the School District 564 orchestra concert to be presented Monday, December 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. There will be no admission charge.

Lincoln orchestra in concert Monday

Winter concert by the orchestras of School District 564 will be presented Monday, December 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls. Public attendance is invited and there is no admission charge.

Bonnie Knapp will conduct the Elementary Strings, Franklin Strings and Lincoln Strings in their separate parts of the concert. A special feature will be the first "sing along" to the Christmas choruses of Handel's "The Messiah," a feature which Knapp expects to be a part of each future annual winter concert.

Complete musical scores for "The Messiah" are on sale at Kezar Music and will be available at the door for those who wish to purchase them. They will be used for the sing along this year and in future years.

Elementary Strings will open the concert, beginning with a Knox elementary school quartet including Tana Bachland, Carisa Hendrickson, Molly Hanson and Kim Schneider. All elementary students will present "Jolly Old St. Nicholas" and "Frost."

Franklin Middle School Strings will perform "Carol Suite" and "Drummer Boy" for their concert numbers.

As a warm-up for the Lincoln High School Strings presentation, carols will be sung. Portions of "The Messiah" to be performed by the orchestra will include "Overture," "And the Glory of The Lord," "For Unto Us a Child Is Born," "Pastoral Symphony," "Glory to God" and "Hallelujah."

Members of the three orchestras include the following:

Lincoln Strings

Violins—Sara Bataldén, Alecia Bernier, Joshua Clark, Sarah Harger, Jason Jensen, Kent Larson (concert master), Jordan Lindquist, Kelly Natvik, Lisa Reierson, Stefan Ronchetti, Jaime Smith, Stefanie Swanson, Maja Turenne and Christopher Tveitbakk (section leader);

Viola—Megan Browning, Danielle Grandbois (section leader) and Danae Dekkers (All-State orchestra and jazz band member);

Cello—Tara Larson, Rebecca Mattson (section leader), Kelsie Steiger and Sara Tyler;

Bass—Alex Morken and Tom Swantek (section leader and All-State orchestra and jazz band member).

Franklin Strings

Abuse problems faced by group called SPEAR

David Hill
Associate Editor

Abuse is a serious problem. Last Tuesday, two alumni of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls returned to the high school as part of a five-member group of students from Concordia College in Moorhead to talk about this serious problem.

Nicole Dimich and Pete Balmer, who are alumni of Lincoln high school are members of a task force called SPEAR, which stands for Sexual, Physical, Emotional Abuse in Relationships. Nicole's involvement runs even deeper as she is considered to be the person who conceived the idea for the program.

SPEAR is an outreach program task force sponsored by the Local Concerns Commission of Campus Ministry at Concordia College. The goal of the task force is to be a resource for information and awareness in abusive relationships. Its presentations are given to everyone from sixth-graders to adults, with particular concentration on junior high students, high school students, and church youth groups of that age. The Rape and Abuse Crisis Center in Fargo, ND, provided material used in the presentation of the programs.

Basically, narrated incidents are acted out by the five students. The presenters then allow students to ask questions and or respond to questions put to them by the presenters.

A written explanation of the program provided by the presenters states, "Our presentation includes role plays concerning issues of verbal abuse, physical abuse, pressure to have sex, and rape. These issues try to present the situation from both points of view, the abuser and the victim. We deal with jealousy, possessiveness, manipulation, and healthy and unhealthy love. We provide information on resources to go to if an abusive situation has occurred in their own lives, as well as the lives of loved once. We also

Organizer of the adapted physical education program in Thief River Falls schools cited for service

Working with pre-school students at Knox elementary school, Sally Wiltse conducts an exercise to teach coordination techniques and observe abilities. The youngsters placed a ball between their backs or foreheads and held it there without using their hands while one student walked forward and the other backward. Wiltse is the state winner of the George Hanson Developmental/Adapted Physical Education award from the Minnesota Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance. This group of youngsters included a number of pre-school children of parents working as school volunteers.

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

When Sally Wiltse was first hired on a full-time basis by School District 564 in 1984, the term developmental/ adapted physical education sounded just as foreign as the district's offerings in German and Spanish.

Nine years later the program has evolved into a vital part of the school district's physical education responsibilities but, by its nature, is not widely known nor understood by the general public. Recognition of effort and accomplishment, therefore, is most likely to come from within the system.

In selecting Sally as state recipient of its George Hanson Developmental/Adapted Physical Education Award, the Minnesota Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance recognized "the outstanding services and contributions given by an elementary, secondary, higher education or other professional worker in developmental/adapted physical education."

Wiltse was a co-winner with Kim Thomas of Bemidji and they received their recognition in early November at an awards program at the Thunderbird Hotel in Bloomington.

When Wiltse was hired to develop and conduct the adapted program in the local school system for the 1984-85 school year, it wasn't that she was unprepared for the job. She received her Bachelor of Science degree from Mankato State University in 1982 with a major in physical education and minor in adapted physical education, and she had worked a year creating the program for the disabled at the North Dakota State School at Grafton.

What she wasn't prepared for was the feeling of isolation in her field at the outset. "When I went to the first conference I was the only one from northwestern Minnesota there," she recalls. "I needed help

School levy to rise 16%

Beginning repayment of the 20-year bond schedule for new school construction and renovation in 1994 will result in a net tax levy increase of 15.95 per cent in School District 564, according to information presented at the district's "truth in taxation" hearing last week in the school district service center. Fewer than 10 members of the public were in attendance.

Total of all levies for the school district will be $3,711,031—up by $510,455 from $3,200,576 payable in 1993.

Attention focused on the debt and capital funds which had respective increases of 138.54 per cent and 17.74 per cent over taxes payable in 1993. All other funds in the district—general fund, transportation fund, community education fund and debt fund tech—had decreases from the previous year.

In 1993 the district had debt payable of $515,414 which was reduced by $59,888 in debt aid and

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

"A Night of Music" at Hope church

Hope Lutheran church in Fosston will have "A Night of Music" on Sunday, December 19 at 7 p.m. Pianist Quinn Talbot Olson will perform a program of original work and traditional Christmas music.

Olson, a Minnesota native, spends much of his time in Los Angeles, where he recently completed a collection of piano solos entitled, "Native Soul." Release of the album is scheduled for 1994. In a recent interview, Olson said, "Inspiration for much of the work came from time I spent working with native Americans at White Earth."

Olson also wrote the score for "Man, Oh Man," an eight man show currently in pre-production in Los Angeles, as well as a children's play and an original musical based upon the life of a notorious Hollywood actress.

Hope Lutheran church is located at 508 North Foss Avenue in Fosston. Admission to the performance is free. Please arrive early as seating is limited.

Compassionate Friends to meet

The Compassionate Friends support group for parents having lost children will hold their annual candle lighting ceremony and December meeting on Tuesday, December 14, at 7 p.m. at the Embassy Community Center in Fosston.

The group will have a pot luck supper at 7 p.m., followed by a short business meeting and the annual candle lighting ceremony honoring the memory of loved ones. Those participating in the ceremony should bring a picture for the Table of Memories; candles will be furnished. There will also be election of officers and planning session for the coming year.

For more information, contact Ione Sackett at 687-3739, Margie Strand at 435-1609 or Bonnie Jensen at 796-5133.

Falls Squares will dance Thursday

The Falls Squares will host a square dance Friday, December 10, at the city auditorium in Thief River Falls. Jerome Potucek will call the tips and lunch will be served following the dance. All square dancers and spectators are welcome.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Harumph!

Why can't my Christmas shopping be like it is on television?

On television I see all of these happy people tripping gaily through the snow, clad in bright winter jackets and coats and cute little matching hats and furry mittens, warm woolen scarves thrown casually over their shoulders. It is always snowing gently, fluffy white flakes falling on their cute little matching hats and furry mittens and on their upturned noses and rosy cheeks.

They are always carrying armloads of beautifully wrapped packages tied with perfect bows and fat ribbons.

They are all smiling brightly, sometimes even laughing, as if it were a wonderful experience. Christmas carols play softly in the background.

Why can't I be more like them?

On television I see people shopping in stores. They have carts filled to overflowing with wonderful Christmas gifts and seem to find more and more every time they turn a corner.

They stop and greet their friends and neighbors and speak of happy things. They actually invite their friends to the house for coffee and Christmas treats. They talk about doing things, like ice skating and caroling and hay rides and visiting nursing homes. They talk about what they have done to get ready for the holiday, how their Christmas cards are all signed and mailed, their cookies are baked, their tree is trimmed, their house is decorated, their gifts are wrapped (except for the ones they are finding in bunches all over the store and those will be wrapped as soon as they get them home). Christmas carols play softly in the background.

Why can't I be more like them?

On television I see sales clerks and check-out people who are smiling and happy all of the time. They say things like "Merry Christmas," "Happy Holidays," and even "May I help you?" They look like their feet never hurt and their backs never ache and their face muscles never get tired of grinning. Christmas carols play softly in the background.

Why can't all sales clerks be more like them?

The problem is that none of us look or are like those people on television, especially me.

When I am Christmas shopping I am not clad in my best winter coat and matching hat and mittens, let alone a beautiful scarf. I usually have on something utterly grubby because I grabbed the first thing I could find. I'm lucky if I can find a pair of gloves or mittens to wear, whether or not they match my jacket.

It never snows beautiful flakes when I am Christmas shopping. It is either so cold that my car doesn't want to start and everything I buy freezes the minute I get it outside and I do too, or else it is a raging blizzard and I can't see across the street for the blowing, drifting snow and violent wind. Fluffy snowflakes do not fall on my upturned nose, although I usually do have bright red, rosy cheeks, as well as a bright red upturned nose, chin and frozen white forehead.

My packages are never beautifully wrapped and lovely. My gifts are crammed to overflowing in little plastic bags, if I am lucky, since I seem to have to beg the check-out person for every bag I ever get. The bags are always too small for whatever is put into them, so that the bags are ripping and by the time I walk across the parking lot to the car, my purchases are sprinkled behind me like Hansel and Gretel's bread crumbs.

I can never find the Christmas gifts I want to buy. I always end up settling for something else, usually something that costs twice as much as what I originally wanted to spend. I definitely do not encounter wonderful gifts around every corner during my shopping expeditions.

As far as stopping to greet friends and neighbors, forget it. I am usually racing through the store at such a pace that I can't even see friends and neighbors, let alone come to a screeching halt to greet and talk with them. I haven't anything to talk to them about anyway, since I am doing nothing except trying to get everything done in time for Christmas and I have nothing done and no time for anything else, like sleigh rides and caroling and such.

I wouldn't dream of asking anyone over to my house, since my tree is not trimmed, my cookies are not baked, I have no coffee anywhere in the house because I haven't had time to get groceries, and my house is a mess.

Why can't I be more like those people on television?

Most of the sales clerks and check-out people I have encountered are nothing like the ones on television, either. Oh, to be honest, some of them are really filled with the holiday spirit, but most of them are not. Perhaps the crabby ones have feet that hurt and backs that ache and their face muscles have atrophied. Or perhaps they are just like me - a Christmas grump. Harumph!

Judging will take place on Monday evening, December 20, with cash prizes of $30 for first place, $20 for second place and $15 for third place offered by the sponsoring organization.

Art on exhibit

One or two works of art by each of many area artists will be on exhibit during December at the Roseau public library. Art by Frances Karlsson of Roseau was on exhibit during November, featuring one oil painting and mostly watercolors.

State, local taxes believed proportional

The overall distribution of Minnesota state and local taxes by taxpayer income levels is nearly proportional, according to a report released by the Minnesota department of revenue.

"When taxes are distributed proportionally, taxpayers at different income levels pay similar percentages of their income in taxes," said Robert Cline, department research director. "This is a unique situation when compared with most states where many tax systems are actually regressive."

According to the "Minnesota Tax Incidence Study," Minnesota's personal income tax is significantly progressive. Taxes are progressive if the percentage of income paid in taxes increases as income rises; they are regressive if the percentage decreases as income rises.

The report shows that the top 10 per cent of the state's taxpayers pay 36 per cent of all taxes and nearly 50 per cent of the personal income tax; these taxpayers account for 37 per cent of the total income of all 1990 state taxpayers.

The biennial study includes taxes on businesses, which account for more than one-third of Minnesota's state and local tax revenue, as well as taxes imposed directly on individuals. It describes the economic assumptions used to allocate taxes on businesses and households to Minnesota consumers, workers, landowners, investors and non-residents, who ultimately bear the burden of the taxes.

New in this year's report are examples of estimates that illustrate state and local taxes paid by typical families with different income levels and household characteristics.

The "Minnesota Tax Incidence Study" provides an important benchmark that can be used to evaluate Minnesota's state and local tax structure and to measure progress toward tax policy objectives. It provides both legislators and citizens with a better understanding of who pays Minnesota's state and local taxes.

For further information about the report, call (612) 296-3425.

"A Night of Music" at Hope church

Hope Lutheran church in Fosston will have "A Night of Music" on Sunday, December 19 at 7 p.m. Pianist Quinn Talbot Olson will perform a program of original work and traditional Christmas music.

Olson, a Minnesota native, spends much of his time in Los Angeles, where he recently completed a collection of piano solos entitled, "Native Soul." Release of the album is scheduled for 1994. In a recent interview, Olson said, "Inspiration for much of the work came from time I spent working with native Americans at White Earth."

Olson also wrote the score for "Man, Oh Man," an eight man show currently in pre-production in Los Angeles, as well as a children's play and an original musical based upon the life of a notorious Hollywood actress.

Hope Lutheran church is located at 508 North Foss Avenue in Fosston. Admission to the performance is free. Please arrive early as seating is limited.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Harumph!

Why can't my Christmas shopping be like it is on television?

On television I see all of these happy people tripping gaily through the snow, clad in bright winter jackets and coats and cute little matching hats and furry mittens, warm woolen scarves thrown casually over their shoulders. It is always snowing gently, fluffy white flakes falling on their cute little matching hats and furry mittens and on their upturned noses and rosy cheeks.

They are always carrying armloads of beautifully wrapped packages tied with perfect bows and fat ribbons.

They are all smiling brightly, sometimes even laughing, as if it were a wonderful experience. Christmas carols play softly in the background.

Why can't I be more like them?

On television I see people shopping in stores. They have carts filled to overflowing with wonderful Christmas gifts and seem to find more and more every time they turn a corner.

They stop and greet their friends and neighbors and speak of happy things. They actually invite their friends to the house for coffee and Christmas treats. They talk about doing things, like ice skating and caroling and hay rides and visiting nursing homes. They talk about what they have done to get ready for the holiday, how their Christmas cards are all signed and mailed, their cookies are baked, their tree is trimmed, their house is decorated, their gifts are wrapped (except for the ones they are finding in bunches all over the store and those will be wrapped as soon as they get them home). Christmas carols play softly in the background.

Why can't I be more like them?

On television I see sales clerks and check-out people who are smiling and happy all of the time. They say things like "Merry Christmas," "Happy Holidays," and even "May I help you?" They look like their feet never hurt and their backs never ache and their face muscles never get tired of grinning. Christmas carols play softly in the background.

Why can't all sales clerks be more like them?

The problem is that none of us look or are like those people on television, especially me.

When I am Christmas shopping I am not clad in my best winter coat and matching hat and mittens, let alone a beautiful scarf. I usually have on something utterly grubby because I grabbed the first thing I could find. I'm lucky if I can find a pair of gloves or mittens to wear, whether or not they match my jacket.

It never snows beautiful flakes when I am Christmas shopping. It is either so cold that my car doesn't want to start and everything I buy freezes the minute I get it outside and I do too, or else it is a raging blizzard and I can't see across the street for the blowing, drifting snow and violent wind. Fluffy snowflakes do not fall on my upturned nose, although I usually do have bright red, rosy cheeks, as well as a bright red upturned nose, chin and frozen white forehead.

My packages are never beautifully wrapped and lovely. My gifts are crammed to overflowing in little plastic bags, if I am lucky, since I seem to have to beg the check-out person for every bag I ever get. The bags are always too small for whatever is put into them, so that the bags are ripping and by the time I walk across the parking lot to the car, my purchases are sprinkled behind me like Hansel and Gretel's bread crumbs.

I can never find the Christmas gifts I want to buy. I always end up settling for something else, usually something that costs twice as much as what I originally wanted to spend. I definitely do not encounter wonderful gifts around every corner during my shopping expeditions.

As far as stopping to greet friends and neighbors, forget it. I am usually racing through the store at such a pace that I can't even see friends and neighbors, let alone come to a screeching halt to greet and talk with them. I haven't anything to talk to them about anyway, since I am doing nothing except trying to get everything done in time for Christmas and I have nothing done and no time for anything else, like sleigh rides and caroling and such.

I wouldn't dream of asking anyone over to my house, since my tree is not trimmed, my cookies are not baked, I have no coffee anywhere in the house because I haven't had time to get groceries, and my house is a mess.

Why can't I be more like those people on television?

Most of the sales clerks and check-out people I have encountered are nothing like the ones on television, either. Oh, to be honest, some of them are really filled with the holiday spirit, but most of them are not. Perhaps the crabby ones have feet that hurt and backs that ache and their face muscles have atrophied. Or perhaps they are just like me - a Christmas grump. Harumph!

Families-at-risk network monthly discussion group will meet on Friday, December 10, at 8 a.m. in Meeting room A at the Best Western in Thief River Falls. The group uses a round-table format of discussion to learn about area programs and agencies who impact families in need.

This month's discussion will focus on community programs and projects to help families at risk manage the emotional and economic stress associated with the holiday season.

All professionals who work with families-at-risk are invited to attend. For more information contact Sue Dupree, Northwest Area Learning Center at 681-8676.

NWCA board meets Dec. 16

Board of directors of Northwest Community Action, Inc. will meet in regular session Thursday, December 16, at 7 p.m. at Brandt's Restaurant in Roseau. The meeting is open to the public.

Plummer sets Christmas lighting contest

Plummer Community Club will again sponsor the annual Christmas lighting contest for that community with sign-up for judging to take place at the Plummer State Bank.

Judging will take place on Monday evening, December 20, with cash prizes of $30 for first place, $20 for second place and $15 for third place offered by the sponsoring organization.

Art on exhibit

One or two works of art by each of many area artists will be on exhibit during December at the Roseau public library. Art by Frances Karlsson of Roseau was on exhibit during November, featuring one oil painting and mostly watercolors.

State, local taxes believed proportional

The overall distribution of Minnesota state and local taxes by taxpayer income levels is nearly proportional, according to a report released by the Minnesota department of revenue.

"When taxes are distributed proportionally, taxpayers at different income levels pay similar percentages of their income in taxes," said Robert Cline, department research director. "This is a unique situation when compared with most states where many tax systems are actually regressive."

According to the "Minnesota Tax Incidence Study," Minnesota's personal income tax is significantly progressive. Taxes are progressive if the percentage of income paid in taxes increases as income rises; they are regressive if the percentage decreases as income rises.

The report shows that the top 10 per cent of the state's taxpayers pay 36 per cent of all taxes and nearly 50 per cent of the personal income tax; these taxpayers account for 37 per cent of the total income of all 1990 state taxpayers.

The biennial study includes taxes on businesses, which account for more than one-third of Minnesota's state and local tax revenue, as well as taxes imposed directly on individuals. It describes the economic assumptions used to allocate taxes on businesses and households to Minnesota consumers, workers, landowners, investors and non-residents, who ultimately bear the burden of the taxes.

New in this year's report are examples of estimates that illustrate state and local taxes paid by typical families with different income levels and household characteristics.

The "Minnesota Tax Incidence Study" provides an important benchmark that can be used to evaluate Minnesota's state and local tax structure and to measure progress toward tax-policy objectives. It provides both legislators and citizens with a better understanding of who pays Minnesota's state and local taxes.

Obert Lindland, 95

Thief River Falls — Funeral services were held Friday at 2 p.m. at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls for Obert Lindland, 95, who died November 29 at the CNC Unit of Northwest Medical Center.

Rev. Dennis Raymond officiated at the service, with music by Ida Nordvall.

Casketbearers were Greg and Steve Lindland, Bob Larson, Stanley Alberg, Joe Fisher and Jeff Hertz. Interment was at Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls with the Belmont Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Obert Arnold Lindland was born December 3, 1897, in Badger, the son of Tollef and Marie Hammer Lindland. As a child, he moved with his family to Canada.

He was united in marriage to Olga Davidson on September 6, 1924, in Roseau. He farmed in Cando, ND, for a short time and then moved to Duluth where he worked on the ore docks.

He moved to Thief River Falls in 1930, where he worked at Barzen's Elevator for a short time and then worked as an engineer at Lincoln high school for 17 years. He later worked as an engineer at the Oakland Park area sanitarium and then was a delivery man for the Pure Oil company station in Thief River Falls until 1956.

He and his wife then bought and operated the Double O cafe until he retired in 1966. He was a member of Zion Lutheran church, the Odd Fellows Lodge, United Commercial Travelers, the Sons of Norway and the Eagles.

Obert Lindland is survived by his wife, Olga; two daughters, Bernice (Mrs. Adrian) Magnuson, South Lake Tahoe, CA, and Helen (Mrs. Raymond) Larson, Moorhead; one son, Arnold (wife: Bonnie), Coon Rapids; 12 grandchildren; and 20 great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by three brothers and three sisters, Melvin, Howard and Kensoll and Cora, Myrtle and Hazel.

Olaf Olson, 87

Thief River Falls — Funeral services were held Saturday, November 27, at Green Funeral Home for Olaf Olson, who died November 22 at Valley Home in Thief River Falls.

Rev. Eugene Floistad officiated at the service, with Ida Nordvall serving as organist and Van Swanson as soloist.

Casketbearers were Jarvis Torgerson, Clayton Hanson, Albert Cleven, Ray Fuller, Van Swanson and Gordon Olson. Interment was at Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Carl Olaf Olson was born September 24, 1906, in Grygla, the son of Carl John and Anna Marie Evans Olson. He attended rural school and grew to adulthood near Grygla and farmed there until 1928, when he moved to farm in Excel township, Marshall county. He served in the United States Army during World War II. After his discharge he came back to the area and continued to farm in Excel township.

He moved to Thief River Falls several years ago and entered Valley Home October 27, 1988. He was a member of the VFW and the American Legion of Thief River Falls and a former member of the Thief River Falls Eagles club.

Olaf Olson is survived by three sisters, Hilda Cleven, Owasso, OK, Sally Olstad of Grygla and Genevieve Jarshaw of Newfolden; one brother, Norman Olson, Thief River Falls; and several nieces, nephews, grandnieces and grandnephews.

He was preceded in death by four sisters, Gladys Olsen, Ella Knutson, Corrine Frietag and Evelyn Joppru, and three brothers, Waldemar, Walfred and Arvid.

Andrew Osborn, 25

St. Hilaire — Andrew Osborn, 25, died Saturday near Bancroft, ID, as the result of a snowmobile accident.

Funeral services for Andrew Osborn will be Thursday at 2 p.m. at Black River Lutheran church, rural St. Hilaire, with Rev. Neil Gladen officiating. Ruth Mosbeck will provide organ music and Diane Johnson and Steve Sorvig will sing.

Visitation will be at the Green Funeral Home in Thief River Falls on Wednesday from 1 to 9 p.m. and at the church for one hour prior to the service. There will be a prayer service at the funeral home at 8 p.m. Wednesday evening.

Active casketbearers will be Wade Hallstrom, Rick Spiering, Von Hutchinson, Scott Beito, Ryan Iverson and Jack Jensen. Honorary bearers will be all of the deceased's cousins. Interment will be in Black River cemetery with the Green Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Andrew LaRoy Osborn was born June 6, 1968, in Minneapolis, the son of Walter and Janet Paulson Osborn. He was baptized in the Christian faith at Oak Knoll in Minnetonka, and confirmed at Black River Lutheran chruch May 1, 1983. He and his family moved to Thief River Falls in August of 1968.

He attended school in St. Hilaire from kindergarten through sixth grade, then attended Franklin middle school and Lincoln high school, graduating in 1986. After his graduation, he worked on farms for Curtis and Lyle Swanson and in the winter he planted trees in the southern states for a lumber company. One year ago he moved to Bancroft, ID, where he was working for the Union Pacific railroad. He was a member of Black River Lutheran church.

Andrew Osborn is survived by his parents, Walter and Janet, St. Hilaire; a sister, Julie Osborn, Thief River Falls; and several aunts, uncles, cousins and special friends.

He was preceded in death by his grandparents and one cousin, DeeAnn Jansen.

Adam Kleinwachter, 3 months

Grafton, ND — Adam Kleinwachter died unexpectedly on Saturday at his home near Grafton, ND, at the age of three months and 20 days.

Funeral services for Adam Kleinwachter were held Tuesday, December 7, at 2 p.m. at Grafton Lutheran church with Rev. Harold Ovre officiating. Interment was at the church cemetery with the Kamrowski-Henriksen Funeral Home of Grafton in charge of arrangements.

Adam Michael Kleinwachter was born August 14, 1993, at Grafton, ND, the son of Thomas and Kimberly Rothmeier Kleinwachter.

He is survived by his parents; two brothers, Tabor, age eight, at home, and Anthony, age seven, Pine River; and one sister, Amy, age five, Pine River.

He is also survived by his grandfather, Arthur Kleinwachter, Strandquist; grandmother, Rose (Mrs. Jerry) Sellner, Madison; grandfather, Ray (wife: Gigi) Rothmeier, Sleepy Eye; and great-grandmother, Lorraine Elsing, and great-grandparents, Joseph and Bertha Rothmeier, all of Springfield.

Dear Readers,
What should you tell young children about death? This is a very difficult subject and of course differs for each child. Experts now suggest that allowing hospital visits helps prepare the child for the coming, often confusing loss. Terminal patients seem to especially respond to little loving hands and smiles.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home

ACTIVITIES

Fingerprint Cards

It would be great to send personalized cards to friends and relatives. You can do this with your own child's fingerprints.

You will need a stamp pad, finetip felt markers and paper. Press the finger on the ink pad and then on the paper. By using fingers and thumbs and by rolling the finger you can make a variety of prints. Use the felt markers to add small markings and you can create flowers, birds, animals, pussy willows, butterflies, kittens or insects. You will be limited only by your own imagination!

PARENTING TIPS

Coping With the Holidays

This is a very busy and often hectic time of year. We have so many extra things that we are trying to do. Sometimes we get so caught up with all these things that we forget about young children and what they need. For instance, schedules may get upset; naps are late or even skipped. Meals may also be off schedule and what about all those extra holiday goodies that ruin appetites. We need to stop and look at the holiday season from our children's point of view. The following suggestions can help you to enjoy the holidays with young children:

❄ Try to arrange your schedule around your child's normal routine. Be sure he/she gets enough sleep and a well-balanced diet.

❄ Simplify your holiday. Focus on sharing it with your children instead of staging it for them. Before you involve your children in holiday activities, ask yourself, is this activity one that my child is ready to enjoy? For instance, a face-to-face meeting with Santa may be frightening for a two-year-old. It may be better for the young child to meet Santa through a story book or simply wave from a distance.

❄ Let your child help as much as possible. Remember that your child is more interested in the process than the product. In other words, he/she will really enjoy helping to frost cookies, but won't be too concerned with what it looks like when he/she is done.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about the holiday decorations in your home and around the community. Talk about colors, shapes, lights, symbols, etc.

New homeowners must file homestead applications by Dec. 15

New homeowners must file for homestead classification by December 15, 1993, according to the Minnesota department of revenue.

Neglecting to file a 1993 homestead application could result in 1994 property tax bills that may more than double homeowners' property taxes. For example, the owner of a $60,000 home that does not have the homestead classification could pay an average of more than $1,125 additional property taxes than if the property is classified as a homestead.

To qualify for the homestead property tax classification, homeowners must meet the following criteria:

- own and occupy the property on December 1, 1993;
- occupy the property as their primary home;
- be a Minnesota resident; or
- own property occupied by a qualified relative.

Qualified relatives include the owner's child, stepchild, daughter-or son-in-law, parent stepparent, father- or mother-in-law, grandchild, grandparent, brother, sister, brother- or sister-in-law, aunt, uncle, husband or wife. The qualifying relative also must be a Minnesota resident and live on the property as of December 1, 1993.

At the time a homeowner sells his or her property, or moves, state law requires the owner to notify the county assessor within 30 days. Failure to notify the county assessor requires the homeowner to pay the property tax due based on its correct property classification plus a penalty equal to the amount of tax.

Homeowners who have previously applied for homestead classification do not have to apply again. In fact, the law was changed so that homeowners need not reapply as long as they live in the same home; however, a county assessor may require the homeowner to provide an additional application to verify that the property continues to meet homestead classification requirements.

New this year, the relative agricultural homestead classification is expanded to provide homesteads on up to 320 acres of agricultural property. The qualifying relative must

- be a son or daughter of the owner;
- be a Minnesota resident; and
- occupy the property as their primary home.

The agricultural property owner must

- be a Minnesota resident; and
- be the parent of at least one of the occupants.

The owner may not claim or receive homestead on any other Minnesota agricultural property.

For further information, or to apply for the homestead credit, contact your county assessor's office.

DAV boosts compensation

U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs has announced that disabled veterans will receive a 2.6 per cent increase in their compensation payments, effective December 1, 1993.

The cost of living allowance was included in legislation signed by President Clinton on Veterans day, November 11. Veterans will begin receiving the higher payments in their January 1994 checks.

Almost 2.2 million veterans are affected by the increase. Their monthly payments will now range from $87 for a single veteran with a 10 per cent disability rating to $1,774 for a single veteran with a 100 per cent disability rating.

Also affected are more than 340,000 survivors of veterans or service members who died from service-connected causes.

Veterans whose service-connected disabilities are rated 30 per cent or higher may receive additional allowances for dependents, based on the number of dependents and extent of disability.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Sara Tyler
Lincoln High School

Driving home from school today, I saw the beauty of winter. The trees were covered in frost and the white sky matched the snow. It surprised be to see such a beautiful view in the middle of the afternoon.

I am usually complaining about winter. I don't like the cold, the ice, the bad driving conditions, and I get sick of snow after a month. My ideal place to live would have winter, but only for a month or two — just long enough so there would be snow for Christmas.

I know many people enjoy winter for skiing, snowmobiling, skating and sledding; but I am not one of those people. I'm not big on outdoor sports in th winter. I get cold too fast. I tried skiing once and had a bad experience and never plan on going again. I enjoy sledding, but after five trips up the hill I'm ready for some hot chocolate. I used to skate when I was younger, but after I outgrew the last pair of skates in the family it didn't seem worth buying a new pair. I knew I'd never use them more than two or three times a year.

I also hate driving in the winter. I don't like worrying if my car will slide through a stop sign or not, or if someone else will slide through and hit me. I prefer dry roads that don't have hidden dangers. But, I do drive well. I know what I'm doing, and I'm not the kind of driver that everyone has to worry about meeting. Hopefully everyone feels a bit safer now.

There are things I like about winter, and one of them is the beauty of frost-covered trees. I love to see the dainty tips of branches etched in white dust. I also enjoy seeing freshly fallen snow before anyone has walked through it. The tranquility of the scene is breathtaking. When I was little, I would rush out to be the first one to ruin the moment. Now I treasure the beauty.

I love that Christmas comes in winter. The white snow makes the season so much holier. Maybe the only reason I can't imagine Christmas without snow is because I've grown up that way, but I think after any experiences a white Christmas they will always feel it's missing something without snow. Maybe I'm wrong, but I could never give up my white Christmas.

At the moment I'm glad winter is here. But my joy may soon disappear. I'm getting a cold, and after a day or two of that I'll hate anything to do with winter. But, right now I love the beauty of the snow.

Obert Lindland, 95

Thief River Falls — Funeral services were held Friday at 2 p.m. at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls for Obert Lindland, 95, who died November 29 at the CNC Unit of Northwest Medical Center.

Rev. Dennis Raymond officiated at the service, with music by Ida Nordvall.

Casketbearers were Greg and Steve Lindland, Bob Larson, Stanley Alberg, Joe Fisher and Jeff Hertz. Interment was at Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls with the Belmont Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Obert Arnold Lindland was born December 3, 1897, in Badger, the son of Tollef and Marie Hammer Lindland. As a child, he moved with his family to Canada.

He was united in marriage to Olga Davidson on September 6, 1924, in Roseau. He farmed in Cando, ND, for a short time and then moved to Duluth where he worked on the ore docks.

He moved to Thief River Falls in 1930, where he worked at Barzen's Elevator for a short time and then worked as an engineer at Lincoln high school for 17 years. He later worked as an engineer at the Oakland Park area sanitarium and then was a delivery man for the Pure Oil company station in Thief River Falls until 1956.

He and his wife then bought and operated the Double O cafe until he retired in 1966. He was a member of Zion Lutheran church, the Odd Fellows Lodge, United Commercial Travelers, the Sons of Norway and the Eagles.

Obert Lindland is survived by his wife, Olga; two daughters, Bernice (Mrs. Adrian) Magnuson, South Lake Tahoe, CA, and Helen (Mrs. Raymond) Larson, Moorhead; one son, Arnold (wife: Bonnie), Coon Rapids; 12 grandchildren; and 20 great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by three brothers and three sisters, Melvin, Howard and Kensoll and Cora, Myrtle and Hazel.

Olaf Olson, 87

Thief River Falls — Funeral services were held Saturday, November 27, at Green Funeral Home for Olaf Olson, who died November 22 at Valley Home in Thief River Falls.

Rev. Eugene Floistad officiated at the service, with Ida Nordvall serving as organist and Van Swanson as soloist.

Casketbearers were Jarvis Torgerson, Clayton Hanson, Albert Cleven, Ray Fuller, Van Swanson and Gordon Olson. Interment was at Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Carl Olaf Olson was born September 24, 1906, in Grygla, the son of Carl John and Anna Marie Evans Olson. He attended rural school and grew to adulthood near Grygla and farmed there until 1928, when he moved to farm in Excel township, Marshall county. He served in the United States Army during World War II. After his discharge he came back to the area and continued to farm in Excel township.

He moved to Thief River Falls several years ago and entered Valley Home October 27, 1988. He was a member of the VFW and the American Legion of Thief River Falls and a former member of the Thief River Falls Eagles club.

Olaf Olson is survived by three sisters, Hilda Cleven, Owasso, OK, Sally Olstad of Grygla and Genevieve Jarshaw of Newfolden; one brother, Norman Olson, Thief River Falls; and several nieces, nephews, grandnieces and grandnephews.

He was preceded in death by four sisters, Gladys Olsen, Ella Knutson, Corrine Frietag and Evelyn Joppru, and three brothers, Waldemar, Walfred and Arvid.

Andrew Osborn, 25

St. Hilaire — Andrew Osborn, 25, died Saturday near Bancroft, ID, as the result of a snowmobile accident.

Funeral services for Andrew Osborn will be Thursday at 2 p.m. at Black River Lutheran church, rural St. Hilaire, with Rev. Neil Gladen officiating. Ruth Mosbeck will provide organ music and Diane Johnson and Steve Sorvig will sing.

Visitation will be at the Green Funeral Home in Thief River Falls on Wednesday from 1 to 9 p.m. and at the church for one hour prior to the service. There will be a prayer service at the funeral home at 8 p.m. Wednesday evening.

Active casketbearers will be Wade Hallstrom, Rick Spiering, Von Hutchinson, Scott Beito, Ryan Iverson and Jack Jensen. Honorary bearers will be all of the deceased's cousins. Interment will be in Black River cemetery with the Green Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Andrew LaRoy Osborn was born June 6, 1968, in Minneapolis, the son of Walter and Janet Paulson Osborn. He was baptized in the Christian faith at Oak Knoll in Minnetonka, and confirmed at Black River Lutheran chruch May 1, 1983. He and his family moved to Thief River Falls in August of 1968.

He attended school in St. Hilaire from kindergarten through sixth grade, then attended Franklin middle school and Lincoln high school, graduating in 1986. After his graduation, he worked on farms for Curtis and Lyle Swanson and in the winter he planted trees in the southern states for a lumber company. One year ago he moved to Bancroft, ID, where he was working for the Union Pacific railroad. He was a member of Black River Lutheran church.

Andrew Osborn is survived by his parents, Walter and Janet, St. Hilaire; a sister, Julie Osborn, Thief River Falls; and several aunts, uncles, cousins and special friends.

He was preceded in death by his grandparents and one cousin, DeeAnn Jansen.

Adam Kleinwachter, 3 months

Grafton, ND — Adam Kleinwachter died unexpectedly on Saturday at his home near Grafton, ND, at the age of three months and 20 days.

Funeral services for Adam Kleinwachter were held Tuesday, December 7, at 2 p.m. at Grafton Lutheran church with Rev. Harold Ovre officiating. Interment was at the church cemetery with the Kamrowski-Henriksen Funeral Home of Grafton in charge of arrangements.

Adam Michael Kleinwachter was born August 14, 1993, at Grafton, ND, the son of Thomas and Kimberly Rothmeier Kleinwachter.

He is also survived by his grandfather, Arthur Kleinwachter, Strandquist; grandmother, Rose (Mrs. Jerry) Sellner, Madison; grandfather, Ray (wife: Gigi) Rothmeier, Sleepy Eye; and great-grandmother, Lorraine Elsing, and great-grandparents, Joseph and Bertha Rothmeier, all of Springfield.

Dear Readers,
What should you tell young children about death? This is a very difficult subject and of course differs for each child. Experts now suggest that allowing hospital visits helps prepare the child for the coming, often confusing loss. Terminal patients seem to especially respond to little loving hands and smiles.

Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

Bennie Ness, 82

Middle River — Bennie Ness, 82, of Middle River died November 30 at the Karlstad Memorial Nursing Center where he had resided for the past two weeks.

ACTIVITIES

Fingerprint Cards

It would be great to send personalized cards to friends and relatives. You can do this with your own child's fingerprints.

You will need a stamp pad, fine-tip felt markers and paper. Press the finger on the ink pad and then on the paper. By using fingers and thumbs and by rolling the finger you can make a variety of prints. Use the felt markers to add small markings and you can create flowers, birds, animals, pussy willows, butterflies, kittens or insects. You will be limited only by your own imagination!

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need your time.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following about our canine friends:

Pomerantz, Charlotte. The Outside Dog. An unexpected event takes place when Maisol tries to convince her grandfather that a stray dog has more to offer than just fleas and ticks.

Gwynne, Fred. Easy To See Why. This winning story about a dog show with enough dog-like people and people-like dogs has a delightful surprise ending.

VIDEO VARIETY

All Dogs Go To Heaven. This adventure of a German Shepherd named Charlie and a little orphan girl is packed with thrills, laughs, tears and true love as they confront a cigar-chomping Pit Bull named Carface.

PARENTING TIPS

Coping With the Holidays

This is a very busy and often hectic time of year. We have so many extra things that we are trying to do. Sometimes we get so caught up with all these things that we forget about young children and what they need. For instance, schedules may get upset; naps are late or even skipped. Meals may also be off schedule and what about all those extra holiday goodies that ruin appetites. We need to stop and look at the holiday season from our children's point of view. The following suggestions can help you to enjoy the holidays with young children:

* Try to arrange your schedule around your child's normal routine. Be sure he/she gets enough sleep and a well-balanced diet.

* Simplify your holiday. Focus on sharing it with your children instead of staging it for them. Before you involve your children in holiday activities, ask yourself, is this activity one that my child is ready to enjoy? For instance, a face-to-face meeting with Santa may be frightening for a two-year-old. It may be better for the young child to meet Santa through a story book or simply wave from a distance.

* Let your child help as much as possible. Remember that your child is more interested in the process than the product. In other words, he/she will really enjoy helping to frost cookies, but won't be too concerned with what it looks like when he/she is done.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about the holiday decorations in your home and around the community. Talk about colors, shapes, lights, symbols, etc.

Joni Berg and Doreen Sigerud have opened a new shop called Dazzles in the Falls Mall. The shop specializes in spin art clothing, a relatively new fashion development. Customers can design their own shirts and sweaters by applying a special paint. It is then spun on a centrifuge, dusted with glitter and baked in a dryer. The shop also specializes in transfers, which will soon include athletic designs. During this Christmas season it is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, until 9 p.m. on Thursdays, and from noon until 5 p.m. on Sundays. New homeowners must file homestead applications by Dec. 15

New homeowners must file for homestead classification by December 15, 1993, according to the Minnesota department of revenue.

Neglecting to file a 1993 homestead application could result in 1994 property tax bills that may more than double homeowners' property taxes. For example, the owner of a $60,000 home that does not have the homestead classification could pay an average of more than $1,125 additional property taxes than if the property is classified as a homestead.

To qualify for the homestead property tax classification, homeowners must meet the following criteria:

- own and occupy the property, on December 1, 1993;
- occupy the property as their primary home;
- be a Minnesota resident; or
- own property occupied by a qualified relative.

Qualified relatives include the owner's child, stepchild, daughter-or son-in-law, parent stepparent, father- or mother-in-law, grandchild, grandparent, brother, sister, brother- or sister-in-law, aunt, uncle, husband or wife. The qualifying relative also must be a Minnesota resident and live on the property as of December 1, 1993.

At the time a homeowner sells his or her property, or moves, state law requires the owner to notify the county assessor within 30 days. Failure to notify the county assessor requires the homeowner to pay the property tax due based on its correct property classification plus a penalty equal to the amount of tax.

Homeowners who have previously applied for homestead classification do not have to apply again. In fact, the law was changed so that homeowners need not reapply as long as they live in the same home; however, a county assessor may require the homeowner to provide an additional application to verify that the property continues to meet homestead classification requirements.

New this year, the relative agricultural homestead classification is expanded to provide homesteads on up to 320 acres of agricultural property. The qualifying relative must

- be a son or daughter of the owner;
- be a Minnesota resident; and
- occupy the property as their primary home.

The agricultural property owner must

- be a Minnesota resident; and
- be the parent of at least one of the occupants.

The owner may not claim or receive homestead on any other Minnesota agricultural property.

For further information, or to apply for the homestead credit, contact your county assessor's office.

DAV boosts compensation

U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs has announced that disabled veterans will receive a 2.6 per cent increase in their compensation payments, effective December 1, 1993.

The cost of living allowance was included in legislation signed by President Clinton on Veterans day, November 11. Veterans will begin receiving the higher payments in their January 1994 checks.

Almost 2.2 million veterans are affected by the increase. Their monthly payments will now range from $87 for a single veteran with a 10 per cent disability rating to $1,774 for a single veteran with a 100 per cent disability rating.

Also affected are more than 340,000 survivors of veterans or service members who died from service-connected causes.

Veterans whose service-connected disabilities are rated 30 per cent or higher may receive additional allowances for dependents, based on the number of dependents and extent of disability.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Sara Tyler
Lincoln High School

Driving home from school today, I saw the beauty of winter. The trees were covered in frost and the white sky matched the snow. It surprised be to see such a beautiful view in the middle of the afternoon.

I am usually complaining about winter. I don't like the cold, the ice, the bad driving conditions, and I get sick of snow after a month. My ideal place to live would have winter, but only for a month or two – just long enough so there would be snow for Christmas.

I know many people enjoy winter for skiing, snowmobiling, skating and sledding; but I am not one of those people. I'm not big on outdoor sports in th winter. I get cold too fast. I tried skiing once and had a bad experience and never plan on going again. I enjoy sledding, but after five trips up the hill I'm ready for some hot chocolate. I used to skate when I was younger, but after I outgrew the last pair of skates in the family it didn't seem worth buying a new pair. I knew I'd never use them more than two or three times a year.

I also hate driving in the winter. I don't like worrying if my car will slide through a stop sign or not, or if someone else will slide through and hit me. I prefer dry roads that don't have hidden dangers. But, I do drive well. I know what I'm doing, and I'm not the kind of driver that everyone has to worry about meeting. Hopefully everyone feels a bit safer now.

There are things I like about winter, and one of them is the beauty of frost-covered trees. I love to see the dainty tips of branches etched in white dust. I also enjoy seeing freshly fallen snow before anyone has walked through it. The tranquility of the scene is breathtaking. When I was little, I would rush out to be the first one to ruin the moment. Now I treasure the beauty.

I love that Christmas comes in winter. The white snow makes the season so much holier. Maybe the only reason I can't imagine Christmas without snow is because I've grown up that way, but I think after any experiences a white Christmas they will always feel it's missing something without snow. Maybe I'm wrong, but I could never give up my white Christmas.

At the moment I'm glad winter is here. But my joy may soon disappear. I'm getting a cold, and after a day or two of that I'll hate anything to do with winter. But, right now I love the beauty of the snow.

Four caught smoking in county jail

Four inmates at the law enforcement center jail in Thief River Falls face charges of possession of marijuana in a corrections facility.

According to a law enforcement center spokesperson, on November 24, a dispatcher for the sheriff's department discovered the inmates smoking marijuana in the jail. Charges are pending against: Vernon Lee Walseth, 19, Thief River Falls; Leroy Reuben Stromgren, 29, Euclid; James John Drouillard, 21, Thief River Falls; and Terril James Wallace, 22, Goodridge.

Wiltse receives developmental/adapted physical education award for service and support; I needed to talk with people, and there was no one else I knew in the area who was teaching what I was supposed to teach."

A couple of years later she met Kim at a conference and they have worked together in many instances to arrange and conduct workshops and training sessions in this part of the state. There are a couple of dozen people in this corner of Minnesota teaching adapted PE now, virtually all of them as an adjunct to their traditional physical education programs.

Sally served as chairperson of the state leadership committee on developmental/adapted physical education in 1989 and the previous year, as vice-chair of the committee, was in charge of arranging the 1988 state leadership conference.

As the title implies, teachers of developmental/adapted physical education work with students who are physically and/or mentally challenged. This may be on a one-to-one basis or as part of a group or class setting, or both.

"I still teach physical education," Sally said, "but I use different methods to achieve the same goals of the regular program. These include an awareness of how the body works; improved fitness; learning to catch, throw, kick and hit a ball; gaining movement skills that are foundations for taking part in team sports; and gaining functional skills for the sporting environment.

"We also work with such things as knowledge of rules, development of life skills and acceptance of people for who they are."

In her area of responsibility which covers students from pre-school through grade 12, Sally has a case load of about 24 students and her work takes her to all four public elementary schools, Franklin middle school and Lincoln high school. On Tuesdays and Thursdays she is in all six buildings. The Franklin middle school swimming pool is used extensively in her program.

While she has individual responsibility for those two dozen students identified to have need for her services, she often works with them in group settings that involve one, two or a large number of other students. She also works with the families of her students to gain knowledge about them and to help the family members understand and reinforce her training.

Sally has a strong background and interest in sports and physical education. She participated in volleyball and basketball at Winona high school where she graduated in 1977. She also played volleyball in college as a freshman.

She did her student teaching at Mankato and later taught at Mankato East high school for a year and coached for three years in the areas of gymnastics, softball, tennis, volleyball, basketball and track. She coached freshman volleyball for two years, including one year when the varsity team competed in the state tournament.

She married Jeff Wiltse in 1983 and they moved to Thief River Falls that fall where she was a substitute teacher and did some coaching. They have a three-year-old daughter, Claire. Sally is now in her third year as head coach for the varsity girls basketball program at Lincoln high school. She is a Minnesota State High School League volleyball official, a member and past vice chair of the Thief River Falls Coaches Association and has served as an Area I Special Olympics co-director. In 1990 she earned her Master of Education degree in administration from the University of North Dakota.

"It is always interesting to see how the kids improve and develop," she said. "Since I'm the only one who does this job in this district, I see the same kids from pre-school right on through the system.

"I don't know if it's the best situation for the students to have the same person working with them for all 12 years of their elementary and secondary education. In traditional programs the students have a different teacher in the same subject area almost every year."

That question will probably go unanswered as the program continues to be mandated by the State Department of Education and moves forward under Sally's direction and instruction.

In agricultural vernacular, Sally has gone from plowing new ground in establishing the program to cultivating it in later years. The state award was a couple of extra bushels yield at harvest time.

Have you ever felt like saying "Bah! Humbug!" to Christmas? I never thought that I would be the one to say that to Christmas, but this year I am beginning to feel that surely there is a grinch who has stolen my Christmas.

Most Christmases have seen me scurrying from store to store finding just the right gift for all those relatives who deserve something special. Most Christmases I would have had my Christmas cards mostly written by this time. Most Christmases I would have had a party or two in the planning by now. But, not this Christmas. This Christmas I feel as if it would not be too soon if Christmas were said and done.

Since I feel like such a grinch this Christmas, I decided that there must be some reason why I feel so grinchy. So, I've done a bit of soul-searching and a bit of observation and have come up with a few reasons why I feel like a grinch has stolen my Christmas. Maybe the grinch isn't even me.

First of all, my Christmas last year was wonderful. It was the first time my parents and brother and sister and my family had ever been together for Christmas. We had a truly special celebration. This year, for various reasons, that Christmas is not to be repeated. I think that is one major source of my grinchiness. I will miss not being together with my larger family.

Secondly, I have decided that my little boys who used to anticipate the season of Christmas with such vigor have grown into young men who still like Christmas, especially the presents, but they no longer have the enthusiasm of a little child. I miss those days of great anticipation for Christmas.

Thirdly, this year finds me worrying over the cost of items more than in years past. I fret and save and fret some more. But, the fretting somehow causes the Christmas spirit of giving to flee.

But, in spite of fretting, and in spite of missing times gone by, I think that they only contribute to my feeling of grinchiness this Christmas season. There is something larger than any of these that has caused me to feel like my Christmas has been stolen: Christmas has lost its holiness. The loss of holiness at Christmastime is the loss of the meaning of Christmas.

You may not agree with me that Christmas should be a holy time of year. Maybe you do not feel that Christmas has lost any of its holiness. But, in my observations, Christmas is no longer holy. It has been stolen by the grinch of commercialism. It has been stolen by the grinch of political correctness. It has been stolen by the rushing of the season. The holiness has been stolen because we have allowed it be forgotten.

For years, we have probably all wished that we could wait with our Christmas buying until at least after Thanksgiving. This year, my parents had their gifts in the mail the day after Thanksgiving. Even mailing so early, it took their boxes 11 days to reach us. The rush is on. Christmas is coming and we had better mail early – which means we have to shop early and write cards early. We don't have the luxury of waiting until the season is here – we have to beat the season. We have forgotten the holiness of giving in the rush to give.

Have you bought your Christmas cards yet? I haven't. But, I have looked for just the right cards to send. Have you noticed how many cards are simply alluding to the events of Christmas? We have become so politically correct in all that we say that even our Christmas cards must reflect the modern desire to be everything to everyone – we can no longer send cards that tell of the nativity without being fearful that we will offend someone. We have forgotten the holiness in our concern that we might offend.

Christmas is not just a feeling, it is the celebration of the birth of the Christ Child. A grinch is trying to steal that holy gift from us. It will succeed as long as we allow it success. Don't be ashamed to put the holiness back into your celebration of Christmas. I know that when I encounter the holiness of Christmas, I will no longer feel as if a grinch has stolen my Christmas. May your Christmas, and mine, be a time of holiness.

Heinze receives state OT award

Art Heinze, director of Northwest Medical Center's Occupational Therapy unit, has been awarded the Occupational Therapist of the Year award by the Minnesota Occupational Therapy Association.

The award plaque was presented "for his continuing and inspiring advocacy for occupational therapy" at the annual awards and recognition ceremony of the association during its annual conference in November.

Heinze started the occupational therapy program at what was then Northwestern Hospital in 1964. The program at the award ceremony stated the following:

"Art has long been acknowledged as an outstanding therapist and excellent role model for other therapists....In addition to his clinical work, Art is a frequent presenter at professional conferences. His videotape, "The Use of Upper Extremity Prosthesis," is marketed nationally and used in both clinical and academic programs to introduce viewers to the functional workings of upper extremity prostheses.

"Art leads the Northwest District of the Minnesota Occupational Therapy Association and has held this position since 1988. (As district president he also serves on the state board of MOTA.) His commitment, humor, common sense and team orientation are keenly appreciated by his fellow MOTA board members.

"Art's selfless sharing of his personal and professional experiences has contributed to and inspired our professional community. In addition to its many thanks for his contributions, MOTA extends its wishes for his continued success."

Funds offered for reduction of solid waste

Preventing solid waste at its source is the goal of the Minnesota Office of Waste Management (OWM) in offering $400,000 in solid waste source reduction grants.

Solid waste source reduction means an activity that prevents the generation of solid waste or the inclusion of toxic materials in waste.

"Minnesota law established source reduction as the first priority for managing our solid waste, making our state a leader in this regard," noted John R. Chell, OWM director.

"Solid waste source reduction is preferred over other waste management alternatives because in conserves resources, decreases the need for new waste processing facilities, minimizes negative effects on the environment and reduces generators' costs for waste management."

Since the Minnesota Legislature created the program in 1989, more than $800,000 in OWM grants and over $1 million in local matching money has been spent on 22 solid waste source reduction projects. Previously funded projects range from returnable/reusable pizza boxes and half-gallon milk and orange juice bottles to waste-preventing purchasing procedures and operations policies.

This year's grants are available to public and private organizations. Eligible grant projects should have broad application throughout Minnesota, have the potential to significantly reduce the generation or toxicity of solid waste, or have the ability to reduce the waste generated by a business, organization, public entity or region. Maximum individual project award is $40,000.

Solid waste source reduction projects comprise two categories: (1) Technical/economic feasibility studies or (2) actual implementation by public entities or by private organizations. Public institution grant costs are limited to 75 per cent of eligible costs.

Priority will go to proposals that meet one or more of the following goals:

- Reducing consumer or distribution packaging;
- Reducing or reusing surplus construction materials or demolition debris;
- Reducing the toxicity of a product;
- Reducing a statewide or regional waste stream;
- Assisting local businesses with solid waste prevention.

Project activities may include changing procurement or consumption habits, reusing a product in its original form or increasing the life span of a product. The intent is to transfer the knowledge and experience gained from grant projects to other communities and organizations in Minnesota.

Projects that study or implement composting or recycling are not eligible for these waste prevention grants, but they may be eligible under other grant programs.

Grant applicants should contact Bill Dunn at the OWM at 1-800-657-3843 for assistance, details on eligible costs and a copy of the rules governing this solid waste source reduction grant program. All proposals must be received at the OWM, 1350 Energy Lane, St. Paul, MN 55108 no later than 4:30 p.m. January 25, 1994. Late or faxed proposals will not be accepted.

Estimated tax payments due January 18

The Internal Revenue Service reminds people who make estimated tax payments that the fourth installment for 1993 is due Tuesday, January 18, 1994.

The payment should be sent to the IRS along with the fourth quarter voucher from Form 1040ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals. To make sure that the payment is properly credited to your account, the IRS asks that you write your social security number and the words, "1993 Form 1040ES" on the check.

Usually, people who are self-employed or have income not covered by withholding, such as interest, dividends, or rental income, are required to make estimated tax payments. If you had two jobs at the same time this year or were laid off and received unemployment benefits, you also may need to make these payments. A good rule of thumb, the IRS says, is to make an estimated tax payment by the January deadline if you expect to owe $500 or more in federal tax at the end of this year.

A worksheet on Form 1040ES can help you figure the correct amount due. A free booklet, Publication 505, has more information on estimated tax. To order, call the IRS toll-free at 1-800-TAX-FORM (829-3676).

Thirdly, this year finds me worrying over the cost of items more than in years past. I fret and save and fret some more. But, the fretting somehow causes the Christmas spirit of giving to flee.

But, in spite of fretting, and in spite of missing times gone by, I think that they only contribute to my feeling of grinchiness this Christmas season. There is something larger than any of these that has caused me to feel like my Christmas has been stolen: Christmas has lost its holiness. The loss of holiness at Christmastime is the loss of the meaning of Christmas.

You may not agree with me that Christmas should be a holy time of year. Maybe you do not feel that Christmas has lost any of its holiness. But, in my observations, Christmas is no longer holy. It has been stolen by the grinch of commercialism. It has been stolen by the grinch of political correctness. It has been stolen by the rushing of the season. The holiness has been stolen because we have allowed it be forgotten.

For years, we have probably all wished that we could wait with our Christmas buying until at least after Thanksgiving. This year, my parents had their gifts in the mail the day after Thanksgiving. Even mailing so early, it took their boxes 11 days to reach us. The rush is on. Christmas is coming and we had better mail early – which means we have to shop early and write cards early. We don't have the luxury of waiting until the season is here – we have to beat the season. We have forgotten the holiness of giving in the rush to give.

Have you bought your Christmas cards yet? I haven't. But, I have looked for just the right cards to send. Have you noticed how many cards are simply alluding to the events of Christmas? We have become so politically correct in all that we say that even our Christmas cards must reflect the modern desire to be everything to everyone – we can no longer send cards that tell of the nativity without being fearful that we will offend someone. We have forgotten the holiness in our concern that we might offend.

Christmas is not just a feeling, it is the celebration of the birth of the Christ Child. A grinch is trying to steal that holy gift from us. It will succeed as long as we allow it success. Don't be ashamed to put the holiness back into your celebration of Christmas. I know that when I encounter the holiness of Christmas, I will no longer feel as if a grinch has stolen my Christmas. May your Christmas, and mine, be a time of holiness.

Heinze receives state OT award

Art Heinze, director of Northwest Medical Center's Occupational Therapy unit, has been awarded the Occupational Therapist of the Year award by the Minnesota Occupational Therapy Association.

The award plaque was presented "for his continuing and inspiring advocacy for occupational therapy" at the annual awards and recognition ceremony of the association during its annual conference in November.

Heinze started the occupational therapy program at what was then Northwestern Hospital in 1964. The program at the award ceremony stated the following:

"Art has long been acknowledged as an outstanding therapist and excellent role model for other therapists....In addition to his clinical work, Art is a frequent presenter at professional conferences. His videotape, "The Use of Upper Extremity Prosthesis," is marketed nationally and used in both clinical and academic programs to introduce viewers to the functional workings of upper extremity prostheses.

"Art leads the Northwest District of the Minnesota Occupational Therapy Association and has held this position since 1988. (As district president he also serves on the state board of MOTA.) His commitment, humor, common sense and team orientation are keenly appreciated by his fellow MOTA board members.

"Art's selfless sharing of his personal and professional experiences has contributed to and inspired our professional community. In addition to its many thanks for his contributions, MOTA extends its wishes for his continued success."

Funds offered for reduction of solid waste

Preventing solid waste at its source is the goal of the Minnesota Office of Waste Management (OWM) in offering $400,000 in solid waste source reduction grants.

Solid waste source reduction means an activity that prevents the generation of solid waste or the inclusion of toxic materials in waste.

"Minnesota law established source reduction as the first priority for managing our solid waste, making our state a leader in this regard," noted John R. Chell, OWM director.

"Solid waste source reduction is preferred over other waste management alternatives because in conserves resources, decreases the need for new waste processing facilities, minimizes negative effects on the environment and reduces generators' costs for waste management."

Since the Minnesota Legislature created the program in 1989, more than $800,000 in OWM grants and over $1 million in local matching money has been spent on 22 solid waste source reduction projects. Previously funded projects range from returnable/reusable pizza boxes and half-gallon milk and orange juice bottles to waste-preventing purchasing procedures and operations policies.

This year's grants are available to public and private organizations. Eligible grant projects should have broad application throughout Minnesota, have the potential to significantly reduce the generation or toxicity of solid waste, or have the ability to reduce the waste generated by a business, organization, public entity or region. Maximum individual project award is $40,000.

Solid waste source reduction projects comprise two categories: (1) Technical/economic feasibility studies or (2) actual implementation by public entities or by private organizations. Public institution grant costs are limited to 75 per cent of eligible costs.

Priority will go to proposals that meet one or more of the following goals:

- Reducing consumer or distribution packaging;
- Reducing or reusing surplus construction materials or demolition debris;
- Reducing the toxicity of a product;
- Reducing a statewide or regional waste stream;
- Assisting local businesses with solid waste prevention.

Project activities may include changing procurement or consumption habits, reusing a product in its original form or increasing the life span of a product. The intent is to transfer the knowledge and experience gained from grant projects to other communities and organizations in Minnesota.

Projects that study or implement composting or recycling are not eligible for these waste prevention grants, but they may be eligible under other grant programs.

Grant applicants should contact Bill Dunn at the OWM at 1-800-657-3843 for assistance, details on eligible costs and a copy of the rules governing this solid waste source reduction grant program. All proposals must be received at the OWM, 1350 Energy Lane, St. Paul, MN 55108 no later than 4:30 p.m. January 25, 1994. Late or faxed proposals will not be accepted.

Estimated tax payments due January 18

The Internal Revenue Service reminds people who make estimated tax payments that the fourth installment for 1993 is due Tuesday, January 18, 1994.

The payment should be sent to the IRS along with the fourth quarter voucher from Form 1040ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals. To make sure that the payment is properly credited to your account, the IRS asks that you write your social security number and the words, "1993 Form 1040ES" on the check.

Usually, people who are self-employed or have income not covered by withholding, such as interest, dividends, or rental income, are required to make estimated tax payments. If you had two jobs at the same time this year or were laid off and received unemployment benefits, you also may need to make these payments. A good rule of thumb, the IRS says, is to make an estimated tax payment by the January deadline if you expect to owe $500 or more in federal tax at the end of this year.

A worksheet on Form 1040ES can help you figure the correct amount due. A free booklet, Publication 505, has more information on estimated tax. To order, call the IRS toll-free at 1-800-TAX-FORM (829-3676).

School levy for 1994 will increase 15.95%

$11,469 in adjustments to a total payable of $444,056.

In 1994 the district will have $2,030,200 payable in basic debt plus $80,539 in energy loan debt (previously shown in the capital fund) and $11,070 in adjustments for a total of $2,121,809—an increase of $1,606,394. Debt aid will total $1,051,088—an increase of $991,199. Total debt fund for the district to pay out of local funds will be $1,059,252 or an increase of $615,196.

Major changes in the capital fund will be an increase of $225,721 in health and safety to $233,690; a drop in the interactive TV fund of $17,828 to $4,671; and the transfer of the energy loan to the debt fund, zeroing out a cost which was $129,224 in 1993.

Total general fund is down $153,794 (7.24%) to $1,970,395. Basic levy is up $152,084 to $1,509,321 while the major reduction is in referendum costs, cut by $187,623.

Transportation fund is down $6,714 (3.68%) to $175,790 while the community education fund is down $2,130 (2.52%) to $82,428. Debt fund tech is down $902 (2.68%) to $32,838.

A modest amount of debt relief will be experienced in 1995 when one previous bond issue with $150,000 in repayment is retired. Next bond issue retirement is not scheduled until 2004.

Tunheim would use surplus for programs

While cautioning that the projection of a $414 million improvement in the state budget picture by the end of fiscal 1995 "is just a projection and not actual money in the bank," Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy says he is relieved by the good budgetary news and hopes the extra funds can be used for property tax relief.

Rep. Tunheim said experts at the state Finance Department believe the rosier financial picture is due to greater than expected revenues from personal income and corporate income taxes and greater revenues from the sale of motor vehicles.

"The state's budget reserve already is $350 million, one of the country's highest," he said. "State law requires the first $150 million of any excess revenues to go into the budget reserve to restore it to $500 million, but that still leaves $264 million to put into programs.

"People who pay taxes—especially those of us who live in rural areas and face 10 per cent or higher property tax increases—do not expect the state to store up cash," he added. "I'd rather see the funds used for programs that are useful to citizens like property tax relief or increasing the state's share of the costs for elementary and secondary education."

TRF committee studies summer construction plans

Although summer seems a long way off, city councilmen and staff are already working on plans for summer construction projects. Last Thursday, the Buildings, Engineering, Streets and Sanitation (BESS) committee discussed early plans for the 1994 street and utility project.

Thief River Falls' major construction project next summer might be reconstruction of streets in the downtown business district. The project would be similar in scope to the Highway 32 project in 1992.

The council and staff have been talking about the project for a number of years, but for one reason or another they have kept postponing the project. This year, the city applied for a grant that would help pay for renovation and improvements to the downtown business district. And if the grant is approved they will probably proceed with the street and utility improvements project.

The area involved would include LaBree and Horace avenues from First to Second street, and Second street from Main to Horace avenue. The proposed improvements would include complete replacement of existing municipal water mains, sanitary sewers, storm sewers, and utility service lines prior to reconstructing roadway surfacing, curb and gutter and sidewalks.

In the discussion Thursday afternoon, it was noted that special assessments would not be high because there is quite a bit of public benefit. It was also suggested that prior to a public hearing on the project, informal meetings with downtown merchants and property owners should be held.

In addition to the downtown project, other areas of the community are being considered for construction next summer.

The sidewalk replacement project, which began in 1990, will extend to the area north of First Street and East of Conley Avenue. This will be the fifth phase of the citywide project.

Installation of curb and gutter and bituminous surface might take place on Evergreen Street from Pennington Avenue to Cherry Hill drive. This segment is required to accommodate school bus traffic to the Challenger Elementary school, which is scheduled to open in December of 1994.

Property owners along Lowell Drive, a little known street between Digi-Key and Arctco, have requested that the city improve the roadway segment which would include installation of a large diameter culvert.

Replacement of a water main on Highway 59 from Atlantic Avenue to Davis Avenue is being considered because of a leak in an existing six-inch line beneath Highway 59.

Improvements to the library parking lot and tourist park roadways are also being considered.

Discussions held last Thursday were very preliminary. Feasibility studies and public hearings have yet to be scheduled and completed. Property owners in affected areas will receive notices.

Over 40 students will participate in the Evangelical Free Church production of "Ticket to Christmas". The musical will be performed 7 p.m. December 11 and 12 at the Lincoln high school auditorium. There is no admission. Cast members include those pictured above: (from left, row one) Kelsey Christensen, Amanda Bitzegaio, Jennifer Halverson, Beth Trontvet, David Christensen, Nikoli Larson, Kim Almquist, Gibby Trontvet; (row two) Jill Gregor, Amy Abercrombie, Janae Harlow, Sarah Hultgren, Justin Gallagher, Jay Tuthill, Erick Trontvet, Danny Christensen, Tanner Harlow, Adam Larson; (row three) Sarah Lofgren, Trent Christensen, Seth Harlow, Marnie Schafer, Trevor Christensen, Karen Christensen, Janna Unbehaun, Stephanie Tveiten, Elizabeth Trontvet; (row four) Ruth Christensen, Kyle Rokke, Esther Gallagher, Karen Redinger, Jane Unbehaun, Carl Unbehaun, Nona Hultgren, Rachel Tveiten, Joan Abercrombie, Lisa Ewert, Nathan Larson; (row five) Dan Trontvet, Matt Bitzegaio, Walter Redinger, Tom Schafer, Katie Christensen, Jennica Gallagher, Kelly Almquist, Josh Gallagher, Ammie Tuthill and Lana Hauert. Bryce Marquis in high school "Who's Who"

Bryce Marquis, son of Monte and Avis Marquis and a junior at Goodridge high school, has been selected for inclusion in the 27th annual edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students 1992-93." The book will be released this month.

Bryce has played basketball six years and was MVP of the junior varsity team last year. He has played football five years, plays saxophone in the band, was Snofest king as a freshman and played youth baseball in Thief River Falls the last two summers.

Consistently on the honor roll, he has held class officer positions and had perfect attendance in eighth and ninth grades.

Bryce has been active in the Goodridge Lutheran parish and its Luther League and has made a number of presentations about his diabetes to civic, church and school groups. He attended Camp Sioux for diabetic children six years and has attended several sports camps. He has one brother, Benji, who is a freshman at Goodridge high school.

Pembina Trail RC&D gives grant to TRF

For use in the urban forestry project of the City of Thief River Falls, the Pembina Trail Resource, Conservation and Development (RC&D) association recently made a grant of $450 to the park and recreation department of the City of Thief River Falls.

John Johnson, city forester, accepted the check from Leonard Skaar of rural Thief River Falls, the current chairman of the Pembina Trail RC&D. The money came from a U.S. Forest Service grant through the association.

The Pembina Trail RC&D Association is a private, non-profit organization involved in rural development activities in the seven-county area of northwestern Minnesota. Sponsors include the county boards of commissioners and the Soil and Water Conservation Districts. The Pembina Trail RC&D office is located in the Wheat Growers building in Red Lake Falls.

Seth Harlow, Josh Gallgher, Justin Gallagher and Gibby Trontvet, portray shepherds in "Ticket to Christmas". The musical is being performed by the Evangelical Free church 7 p.m. December 11 and 12 at the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls. The four shepherds above are reacting to the announcement of the arrival of Christ.

Church to present "Ticket to Christmas"

Evangelical Free Church will present the musical "Ticket to Christmas" 7 p.m. December 11 and 12 at the Lincoln high school auditorium. Children in grades two through eight will participate in the play. There is no admission, but a free-will offering will be accepted.

The musical begins in that all-American Christmas setting — the shopping mall. Michale, played by Matthew Bitzegaio, and Christy, played by Katie Christensen, are center stage as their church presents the annual living nativity. The children's choir singing in the mall turns out to be the Halo Express, a group of guardian angels, setting the stage for G.T., Walter Redinger, to tell the Christmas story with fresh insight and fun.

The mall is also sponsoring a raffle for free shopping at Terrific Toys. Billy Baxter, played by Kyle Rokke, thinks the raffle is his "ticket" to Christmas. But G.T. has other ideas. Using his shepherd's staff with extra "zip", G.T. sends Michael, Christy and Billy back through time to hear the prophet Isaiah. In the excitement, Billy loses his raffle ticket. In the ensuing hunt for the ticket, the kids meet other Biblical characters who are also searching — people whose only direction came from a star, an angel and their hearts.

Come and capture some of the wonder felt by Mary, Joseph, Simeon, the shepherds and the wisemen as they meet the Savior of the world, Jesus.

The musical is being produced by Doug and Debbie Kinsriter, and is co-directed by Ruth Christensen and Lisa Ewert. A cast of 40 children from grades two through eight and 14 adults will be cast in the musical.

Abuse problems faced by group called SPEAR

have resources available on incest, child abuse both sexual and physical."

The following is an interview of Nicole Dimich conducted by Mark Sommers:

I can't believe that happened to her. They seemed like such a great couple. I mean . . .yeah, I've heard he was kind of hot-headed, and I've seen him yell at her and shove her against his car in the parking lot, but I thought they worked things out. I never thought he'd actually hit her. And then to find out he had been forcing her to have sex with him. All these months and that was their "great" relationship.

They say he thought it was okay, that she must have wanted it because she didn't fight back. I guess the first time it happened, she kept crying, "No! Don't!", but he just thought she was nervous and kept going. A friend of his told me he says, "Everyone's like that the first time," but he thought it was time for them to have sex — as if it was his decision to make — like everyone's ready to have sex because they've been dating the same person for a few months.

I'm glad she was brave enough to tell me. Now she's able to talk about it. She realizes it was never her fault. She didn't do anything wrong. I'm also glad she pressed charges. Now he's getting what he deserves, a maximum sentence. I just wish it hadn't happened at all, that she could have somehow known not to get involved with him . . . .

Concordia has a new organization on campus, which will hopefully help stop incidents like the one explained above before they happen. SPEAR (Sexual, Physical, and Emotional Abuse in Relationships) Task Force is dedicated to being a resource and information group for the Fargo/Moorhead community. Its presentations are given to everyone from sixth-graders to adults, with particular concentration on junior high and high school students and church youth groups of that age. SPEAR Task Force is affiliated with Local Concerns and Campus Ministries.

Nicole Dimich, a junior at Concordia, conceived the idea of this program last September, when she learned that many incoming freshmen had no exposure to handling or recognizing abusive relationships. She contacted Pastor Phil about her concern, and he encouraged her to pursue the project.

Realizing Concordia's campus already has organizations to help victims of abusive relationships (PHEs and CAREs), Dimich decided to concentrate starting an awareness group, which could be a resource for our community. She proposed the idea to the local Rape and Abuse Crisis Center and asked for help in getting the program started.

Dimich says, "We were lucky, because they (the Rape and Abuse Crisis Center) already had a program similar to the one I wanted to start and were looking for individuals to continue their program. The members of their program were getting too old to play the high school-aged characters in the role-plays, and helping an organization with college-aged students seemed an effective way to make sure the program would be continued." Dimich is eager to have an awareness program focusing on young adults, because "many people still don't know exactly what rape is."

This statement rings alarmingly clear with the results of a 1988 survey of 1700 sixth-to ninth-graders from Providence, Rhode Island. Nearly one-quarter of the boys and one-sixth of the girls said it was acceptable for a man to force a woman to have sex with him if he has spent money on her. In the same survey, 87 per cent of the boys and 79 per cent of the girls said it was okay for a man to force a woman to have sex with him if the couple was married.

The uneducated beliefs of these adolescent students may reflect the results of other surveys. . .

- In 1985, a researcher from Kent State University released the results of a nation-wide study which found one in four college women had been the victim of rape or an attempted rape.
- A 1989 study by David Sugarman and Gerald Hotaling, shows at least 28 per cent of individuals in dating relationships experience violence one or more times.
- Researchers with the American Society of Criminology have proven a woman is more likely to be assaulted, injured, raped, or killed by a man she's romantically involved with than by any other type of assailant. This makes romantic relationships the most dangerous place for a woman to be in.
- Researcher Mary Koss has found that between 90 and 95 per cent of college students who have been victims of sexual assault do not report the occurrence, and over one-third never tell anyone.

Dimich hopes SPEAR Task Force can help turn such statistics around by starting awareness at an early age, by being a resource for information, and by finding help for victims. Dimich wants victims who have suffered from any type of abusive relationship to know that "it's okay to get help."

About four teams, with four Concordia students per team, have completed the required training sessions to participate in the SPEAR Task Force. Training includes sessions with coordinators from the Rape Crisis Abuse Center in Fargo, ND, video presentations, and group discussions. Students also learned lines for the role-plays performed at presentations.

A typical SPEAR presentation consists of nine role-plays, an explanation and discussion of each role-play, lists of warning signs and suggestions on how to avoid abusive relationships, and time for questions and feedback from the audience. The role plays cover issues concerning verbal abuse, physical abuse, pressure to have sex, and rape. These issues try to present the situation from both the abuser's and victim's point-of-view, with both roles played by men and women. At the conclusion of the presentation, which lasts about 50 minutes, phone numbers of individuals who can provide additional information or assistance are handed out.

SPEAR was first tested at Concordia College's 1992 church Youth Days. Two teams worked together to give two presentations. The presentations reached over 100 visiting high school students and chaperones. The response from the audience was positive and the teams are enthusiastic about continuing their program.

At the conclusion of the presentations in Thief River Falls Tuesday, a handout on violence and dating relationships was made available. the handout included a phone number for the Rape and Abuse Crisis Center in Fargo, 1-800-472-2911, and the Violence Intervention Project in Thief River Falls, 1-800-660-6667 or (218) 681-5557.

Jacalyn Filipy of Jacalyn Gallery and Gifts received a More Progress award from the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors recently. Filipy recently expanded her form floral design room into a Scandinavian area and a Minnesota room. The new area includes Scandinavian mugs, trolls, flags, plates, napkins, joke books among traditional Norwegian and Swedish cookies, jams and muffins. The Minnesota section is full of Minnesota-made foods, such as wild rice, syrups, sausage, cocoas and gourmet soups. Minnesota books fill the shelves with such titles as "How to Talk Minnesotan", "Bring Warm Clothes", "Minnesota, Off the Beaten Path", "Minnesota Trivia" and a variety of Minnesota cookbooks. There are also other Minnesota-made products. Pictured from left are Dan Baumgartner, chamber ambassador, Jacalyn Filipy and Bruce Mattson, chamber ambassador.

Lowell Enerson

Elect Enerson to International Coalition board

Lowell Enerson of Oklee, project administrator for the Red Lake River Watershed District in Thief River Falls, has elected as a new board member of The International Coalition for Land and Water Stewardship in the Red River Basin at the 11th annual summit conference recently in Winnipeg, Man., Canada.

Also elected as new members were George Sinner of Fargo, ND, former Governor of North Dakota for eight years, and Lillian Thomas of Winnipeg, councillor for the City of Winnipeg.

Reelected to the board were John Oxton, Hope, ND; Mayor Michael Polovitz, Grand Forks, ND; Don Melnyk, Winnipeg, MB; and Randall Pappel, Halbstadt, MB. All board members are elected for three-year terms.

The International Coalition is a non-profit organization incorporated in Minnesota, North Dakota and Manitoba to promote wise stewardship of land and water resources in the Red River Basin.

Congress extends non-disaster unemployment benefits

Minnesotans whose unemployment benefits end between October 3, 1993, and February 5, 1994, may now be eligible for seven more weeks of emergency benefits, according to R. Jane Brown, Commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Jobs and Training.

"This is not the disaster unemployment program," Brown said. "This program is for non-disaster related unemployment claims."

Congress reauthorized the Federal Emergency Unemployment Compensation (EUC) program retroactive to October 3, 1993. But there is a change in the program. The old EUC program provided claimants with a choice of filing for emergency benefits or filing a new claim for regular unemployment benefits. The new program stipulates that new claimants can no longer file or continue to collect emergency benefits when they are eligible to file a new regular state claim.

"This change does not affect emergency claims established before October 3, 1993," explained Brown. "People who filed before that may still choose to continue either federal emergency benefits or file a new Minnesota claim as soon as they are able to do so."

All affected claimants will be notified of the status of their claim by the department. It is expected that the first payments for retroactive weeks will be made as early as next week.

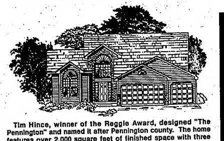
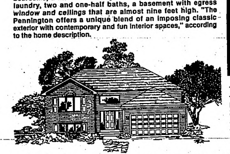
Tim Hince is winner of "Reggie"



Tim Hince, winner of the Reggie Award, designed "The Pennington" and named it after Pennington county. The home features over 2,000 square feet of finished space with three bedrooms, a main floor study or fourth bedroom, main floor laundry, two and one-half baths, a basement with egress window and ceilings that are almost nine feet high. "The Pennington offers a unique blend of an imposing classic exterior with contemporary and fun interior spaces," according to the home description.



Jarvis II is the name of the Reggie Award-winning home built by Tim Hince, owner of Seasonal Builders, Inc. The Reggie Award is an award for Twin Cities area home builders that is judged by home builders. It is one of the most prestigious builders' awards in the Twin Cities. About the home, judges commented, "Terrific use of space and refreshing design for this price range. Many new, fresh and functional design ideas for similar priced homes. Excellent entry and bath — more features than expected for price." Hince competed with 10 other homes in the same category and price range to obtain the award. Jarvis II is located at 19956 Garrett Court in Apple Valley.

Tim Hince, son of Shirley and Willard Hince of Thief River Falls, is the recipient of the Builders Association of the Twin Cities' Reggie Award, which is presented to builders who produce homes that qualify as "superior" in every detail of design, quality and value to the consumer. He and his wife, Kristi, who is the daughter of Stan and Mary Gibson of Thief River Falls, have two daughters and live in Eagan.

by Sherry LaCoursiere
Times Reporter

Tim Hince has come a long way from the days when a co-worker told him he would "never make it" as a builder. Hince's story began when he left Lincoln high school in his sophomore year and started working for his father's construction company.

The story culminated in success when Hince, at the age of 34, was awarded one of the most prestigious home builders' awards in the Twin Cities, the Reggie Award. The Reggie is an award for home builders by home builders. The October, 1993, issue of Builders' Digest says, "Builders who win the 1993 Reggie Award will have earned high praise from the toughest of critics — their peers."

Hince is the son of Willard and Shirley Hince of Thief River Falls and the grandson of Lillian Hince of Brooks and Vi Poole of Alexandria. He presently resides in Eagan with his wife, Kristi, who is the daughter of Stan and Mary Gibson, also of Thief River Falls. He and his wife have two children, Kaylee, three, and Brianna, 11 months.

After working for his father, Hince moved on to work for Oliver "Skip" Swanson Construction in Thief River Falls. He decided to move to the Twin Cities area in the early 1980's. There he borrowed money and started his own construction company called Seasonal Builders, Inc.

Hard work and superior workmanship brought Hince to where he is today. He began by building homes himself, but no longer does the actual building. Now he does the contracting on homes, while his brother, Duane, does much of the building. Hince presently contracts to build 60 to 70 homes each year and was responsible for building the first handicapped-accessible home in the Twin Cities. Hince named one of his homes the "Pennington," after, what else, his home county of Pennington.

The Reggie award was presented to Hince and Seasonal Builders, Inc. at a banquet and ceremonies on October 23. The award was given in the South Region, Single-Family Detached category, $99,001 to $129,000 price range. The home was named "Jarvis II," and located at 19956 Garrett Court in Apple Valley.

The judge's score sheet rated the home as exceptional in value and quality and in overall design compared to other homes in the same price range, and rated it above average in overall workmanship. Judge's comments were: "Terrific use of space and refreshing design for this price range. Many new, fresh and functional design ideas for similar priced homes. Excellent entry and bath — more features than expected for price."

Homes are judged in categories of four regions and 40 price ranges. Judges tour each model home on display within a particular price range and region to evaluate the builder on a strict set of award criteria including the following:

- Location and site planning — has the builder blended the home and lot into a pleasing, logical whole.
- Exterior — does the home display proper proportion in itself and compared to its surroundings, are exterior materials appropriate and of high quality, and what special features have been added to increase the home's value to its owner.
- Interior — does the home make a pleasing first impression, does it meet the needs of the customer for whom it was built, are rooms well-planned and executed, is creativity exhibited.
- Landscaping — does the landscaping showcase the home.
- Overall — how does the home measure up in terms of quality, value, workmanship and in comparison with others in the same price range.

The Reggie Award, presented by the Builders Association of the Twin Cities for the past 26 years, has been awarded to builders who produce homes that qualify as "superior" in every detail of design, quality and value to the customer. It would appear that Tim Hince, as the recipient of such a reputed award, will be having many more pages added to his success story as time goes on. Perhaps whoever told him he'd never make it should eat those words.

WHEN THE PARTY'S OVER...

WE'D RATHER NOT SEE YOU BY ACCIDENT!

Nothing personal, you understand! However, experience has taught us that this festive season can quickly lose its joy, simply because someone had one too many for the road.

DID YOU KNOW...

1) When you drive in Minnesota, by law you have given "implied consent" to allow a test for alcohol concentration?

2) If convicted by a DWI, you may be fined up to $500.00, be imprisoned up to 90 days, OR BOTH? Your license will be revoked for not less than 30 days,

3) Twelve ounces of beer, 5 ounces of wine, or 1-1/2 ounces of hard liquor—all contain EQUAL amounts of alcohol?

4) Carbonated beverages make the body absorb alcohol at a faster rate? When serving an alcoholic punch, make it without carbonated soda or ginger ale.

5) Coffee, cold showers, or fresh air, will NOT reduce the blood alcohol level, or improve motor skills and reaction time.

6) Only TIME will sober up someone who has had too much to drink.

NORTHERN STATE AGENCY wishes you a SAFE and enjoyable holiday. Remember, if you drink, don't drive.

Weight Loss Puzzles Researcher!

WASHINGTON -- A researcher at National Dietary Research was puzzled at how successful a natural food tablet had become in helping overweight people lose weight. Dr. William Morris was puzzled because the original chewable tablet formula was developed to help feed the world's undernourished people.

Some may say the weight loss is due to the natural plant colloids that Finnish scientists say interferes with the intestinal absorption of calories and Swedish scientists found to cause weight loss in spite of patients being instructed not to alter normal eating patterns. Others may say its the patented ingredient developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture that burns the fat. But not all scientists agree with these theories so they must be considered speculation pending further study.

According to Dr. Morris, the improved formula's weight loss potential is no longer a mystery. The formula called Food Source II (FS-II) contains a powerful appetite blocker that decreases calorie absorption.

FS-II comes with a revolutionary diet plan that allows you to lose weight without giving up your favorite foods. With the FS-II Plan there are no forbidden foods and the special appetite control ingredient is one of the most effective available without a prescription.

Berkeley-Brown Labs has obtained exclusive distribution rights to FS-II. FS-II is available through pharmacies and other health care professionals.

1990 G.A. WRIGHT PRINTED IN U.S.A.

Tim Hince is winner of "Reggie"

Tim Hince, winner of the Reggie Award, designed "The Pennington" and named it after Pennington county. The home features over 2,000 square feet of finished space with three bedrooms, a main floor study or fourth bedroom, main floor laundry, two and one-half baths, a basement with egress window and ceilings that are almost nine feet high. "The Pennington offers a unique blend of an imposing classic exterior with contemporary and fun interior spaces," according to the home description.

Jarvis II is the name of the Reggie Award-winning home built by Tim Hince, owner of Seasonal Builders, Inc. The Reggie Award is an award for Twin Cities area home builders that is judged by home builders. It is one of the most prestigious builders' awards in the Twin Cities. About the home, judges commented, "Terrific use of space and refreshing design for this price range. Many new, fresh and functional design ideas for similar priced homes. Excellent entry and bath — more features than expected for price." Hince competed with 10 other homes in the same category and price range to obtain the award. Jarvis II is located at 19956 Garrett Court in Apple Valley.

Tim Hince, son of Shirley and Willard Hince of Thief River Falls, is the recipient of the Builders Association of the Twin Cities' Reggie Award, which is presented to builders who produce homes that qualify as "superior" in every detail of design, quality and value to the consumer. He and his wife, Kristi, who is the daughter of Stan and Mary Gibson of Thief River Falls, have two daughters and live in Eagan.

by Sherry LaCoursiere
Times Reporter

Tim Hince has come a long way from the days when a co-worker told him he would "never make it" as a builder. Hince's story began when he left Lincoln high school in his sophomore year and started working for his father's construction company.

The story culminated in success when Hince, at the age of 34, was awarded one of the most prestigious home builders' awards in the Twin Cities, the Reggie Award. The Reggie is an award for home builders by home builders. The October, 1993, issue of Builders' Digest says, "Builders who win the 1993 Reggie Award will have earned high praise from the toughest of critics — their peers."

Hince is the son of Willard and Shirley Hince of Thief River Falls and the grandson of Lillian Hince of Brooks and Vi Poole of Alexandria. He presently resides in Eagan with his wife, Kristi, who is the daughter of Stan and Mary Gibson, also of Thief River Falls. He and his wife have two children, Kaylee, three, and Brianna, 11 months.

After working for his father, Hince moved on to work for Oliver "Skip" Swanson Construction in Thief River Falls. He decided to move to the Twin Cities area in the early 1980's. There he borrowed money and started his own construction company called Seasonal Builders, Inc.

Hard work and superior workmanship brought Hince to where he is today. He began by building homes himself, but no longer does the actual building. Now he does the contracting on homes, while his brother, Duane, does much of the building. Hince presently contracts to build 60 to 70 homes each year and was responsible for building the first handicapped-accessible home in the Twin Cities. Hince named one of his homes the "Pennington," after, what else, his home county of Pennington.

The Reggie award was presented to Hince and Seasonal Builders, Inc. at a banquet and ceremonies on October 23. The award was given in the South Region, Single-Family Detached category, $99,001 to $129,000 price range. The home was named "Jarvis II," and located at 19956 Garrett Court in Apple Valley.

The judge's score sheet rated the home as exceptional in value and quality and in overall design compared to other homes in the same price range, and rated it above average in overall workmanship. Judge's comments were: "Terrific use of space and refreshing design for this price range. Many new, fresh and functional design ideas for similar priced homes. Excellent entry and bath — more features than expected for price."

Homes are judged in categories of four regions and 40 price ranges. Judges tour each model home on display within a particular price range and region to evaluate the builder on a strict set of award criteria including the following:

- Location and site planning — has the builder blended the home and lot into a pleasing, logical whole.
- Exterior — does the home display proper proportion in itself and compared to its surroundings, are exterior materials appropriate and of high quality, and what special features have been added to increase the home's value to its owner.
- Interior — does the home make a pleasing first impression, does it meet the needs of the customer for whom it was built, are rooms well-planned and executed, is creativity exhibited.
- Landscaping — does the landscaping showcase the home.
- Overall — how does the home measure up in terms of quality, value, workmanship and in comparison with others in the same price range.

The Reggie Award, presented by the Builders Association of the Twin Cities for the past 26 years, has been awarded to builders who produce homes that qualify as "superior" in every detail of design, quality and value to the customer. It would appear that Tim Hince, as the recipient of such a reputed award, will be having many more pages added to his success story as time goes on. Perhaps whoever told him he'd never make it should eat those words.

WHEN THE PARTY'S OVER...

WE'D RATHER NOT SEE YOU BY ACCIDENT!

Nothing personal, you understand! However, experience has taught us that this festive season can quickly lose its joy, simply because someone had one too many for the road.

DID YOU KNOW...

1) When you drive in Minnesota, by law you have given "implied consent" to allow a test for alcohol concentration?

2) If convicted by a DWI, you may be fined up to $500.00, be imprisoned up to 90 days, OR BOTH? Your license will be revoked for not less than 30 days.

3) Twelve ounces of beer, 5 ounces of wine, or 1-1/2 ounces of hard liquor—all contain EQUAL amounts of alcohol?

4) Carbonated beverages make the body absorb alcohol at a faster rate? When serving an alcoholic punch, make it without carbonated soda or ginger ale.

5) Coffee, cold showers, or fresh air, will NOT reduce the blood alcohol level; or improve motor skills and reaction time.

6) Only TIME will sober up someone who has had too much to drink.

NORTHERN STATE AGENCY wishes you a SAFE and enjoyable holiday. Remember, if you drink, don't drive.

Weight Loss Puzzles Researcher!

WASHINGTON -- A researcher at National Dietary Research was puzzled at how successful a natural food tablet had become in helping overweight people lose weight. Dr. William Morris was puzzled because the original chewable tablet formula was developed to help feed the world's undernourished people.

Some may say the weight loss is due to the natural plant colloids that Finnish scientists say interferes with the intestinal absorption of calories and Swedish scientists found to cause weight loss in spite of patients being instructed not to alter normal eating patterns. Others may say its the patented ingredient developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture that burns the fat. But not all scientists agree with these theories so they must be considered speculation pending further study.

According to Dr. Morris, the improved formula's weight loss potential is no longer a mystery. The formula called Food Source II (FS-II) contains a powerful appetite blocker that decreases calorie absorption.

FS-II comes with a revolutionary diet plan that allows you to lose weight without giving up your favorite foods. With the FS-II Plan there are no forbidden foods and the special appetite control ingredient is one of the most effective available without a prescription.

Berkeley-Brown Labs has obtained exclusive distribution rights to FS-II. FS-II is available through pharmacies and other health care professionals.

Northland Pepsi Invitational basketball tournament...

NCC men take third place

Bismarck (ND) State Junior College handled the Concordia College junior varsity 105-79 Friday, then downed North Dakota State University-Bottineau 85-69 Saturday for championship honors in the men's portion of the Northland Community College Pepsi Invitational basketball tournament.

The host Pioneers lost to NDSU-Bottineau 89-75 in the first round semifinals, but bounced back to defeat Concordia 76-68 in the third place game.

North Dakota State University-Bottineau out-scored Northland Community College 33-19 over the final 10 minutes to win an 89-75 Friday night semifinal match-up.

Northland had a 35-34 halftime lead, and it was tied at 56-56 when the Pioneers' Ryan Rislov hit a three-point basket with 10 minutes left.

But 3 1/2 minutes later the Pioneers found themselves trailing 73-62. Defensive breakdowns, especially on the base line, and offense-killing turnovers put Northland in a hole down the stretch.

"I think we started to press too hard at the end," said Northland coach Mark Dannhoff. "They wanted to do well in their first game at home, and they started forcing things."

Free throws and turnovers produced the game-deciding numbers. The Lumberjacks were 25-for-32 at the line, and wound up with just five turnovers. The Pioneers made 9 of 13 free throws and turned it over 18 times.

"Turnovers and free throws were the difference," agreed Dannhoff. "The big thing was the free throws. I don't care what kind of game it was, nobody should be coming into our building and shooting 32 free throws."

Both teams shot 51 percent from the field – Northland 29-for-57 and NDSU-Bottineau 31-for-61. The Pioneers had a 31-26 rebound edge.

Concordia JV 68

Northland cracked the win column for the first time after a pair of season-opening losses by beating the Concordia College junior varsity 76-68 in Saturday's third place game.

"We played better," noted Northland coach Mark Dannhoff. "We didn't shoot as well as we would like, but we played better defense and we did a nice job on the boards."

Northland went 24-for-53 from the field (45 percent) and had a productive 21-for-26 game at the free throw line. Concordia was 32-for-77 from the field (42 percent) and a quiet 3-for-6 at the line. The Pioneers had a 38-34 rebound edge. The game had just 13 turnovers – 9 for the Pioneers.

"It was a good win for us," said Dannhoff. "We needed a win to help our confidence, especially the freshmen. They have to know they can win at this level."

Central skates to 9-1 win

A line featuring Jay Panzer, Eric Ness and Nick Fohr netted seven goals Saturday to lead Grand Forks Central past Thief River Falls 9-1 in high school hockey at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Panzer finished with three goals and two assists. Ness had three goals and an assist, while Fohr came up with a goal and two assists as Central went to 2-0 and Thief River Falls fell to 0-2.

The Prowlers were out-score 55-17.

"They're a better hockey team than we are," offered Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "They're certainly as good, if not better, than any of the teams we've played or scrimmaged so far this year."

It took Central all of 64 seconds to score as Ness corralled a loose puck at the door step and put it into an open net during a game-opening scramble in the Thief River Falls zone.

Even while skating two men short, Central made it 2-0 at 4:46 when Panzer swiped the puck off a Thief River Falls stick at center ice and went in alone. A deke put Thief River Falls goalie Eric Dowers on the ice and Panzer put a point-blank backhand into an open net.

Once again forcing Thief River Falls to cough up the puck at center ice, Central went up 3-0 on a 2-on-0 rush at 11:02 – on a shot by Panzer.

Tim Barry put Thief River Falls on the board with a long blast off the left wing at 11:46 to end a 3-1 first period.

But Central continued the assault on the Thief River Falls net by scoring twice in the first 76 seconds of the second period. Darin Schumacher was left alone at the corner of the net and scored just 41 seconds into the period, and Ness put one through Dowers' pads 35 seconds later.

Fohr scored on a power play at 4:18 and Ness went in alone during a 4-on-4 skate at 13:01 for a 7-1 spread.

The third period was running time, but it didn't keep Central from tacking on two more goals as Jeff Panzer caught the short side at 6:26 and Jay Panzer had an easy tap-in at 12:42.

"They have a lot of skilled people, and we made a lot of mistakes that compounded the problem," noted Chiodo. "There are ways to beat teams like that, but you have to play tight, disciplined, almost mistake-free hockey to do it. And obviously we didn't do that. We're disappointed, but hopefully we can learn from it and move on."

Taylor, Rams beat TRF girls 66-50

Megan Taylor scored 34 points Friday to lead Roseau past visiting Thief River Falls 66-50 in girls high school basketball.

It was the second loss in as many starts for the Prowlers, who had major shooting and turnover problems. They shot just 27 percent from the field (21/77) and turned it over 33 times. Roseau wasn't exactly at mid-season form, either, with 36 percent shooting (25/69) and 24 turnovers.

"It was a rugged game; a lot of fouls," reported Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse. "We had a lot of good scoring opportunities, but the ball just would not go down. And the turnovers were the result of a lot of un-forced errors – we either didn't pass the ball very well, or we didn't catch the pass."

Toni Chiodo and Carrie Lawrence scored 14 points apiece to lead the Thief River Falls scoring.

The Prowlers were 6-for-9 at the free throw line, were the Rams were a busy 14-for-24. Thief River Falls had a 42-30 rebound edge, getting 23 on the offense boards as they grabbed their own missed shots.

"We're not that bad," offered Wiltse. "We just not together yet."

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Thief River Falls	10	8	11	21	50
Roseau	16	19	14	17	66

TRF - Toni Chiodo 14, Lisa Ulrich 10, Stef Swanson 2, Carrie Lawrence 14, Lisa Rendulich 8, Sarah Huschle 2.

Roseau - Bridget Sabourin 2, Jen Warne 2, Karri Rygh 4, Megan Taylor 34, Kylee Johnson 7, Lenni Billberg 16.

Swimmers start with Prowler relays

Saturday's 1 p.m. Prowler Relays will kick off the 1993-94 Thief River Falls boys high school swimming schedule.

Coach Ryan Lokken will start the year with 26 swimmers in grades 6-through-12, but only eight of them are sophomores, juniors or seniors.

"We've got some good talent, but they're a couple of years away," acknowledged Lokken. "We've got some good, young swimmers."

Rest of the squad includes junior Scott Fogarty and Tom Stumpf; sophomore Sam Adams; freshmen Jaramhia Efta, Josh Engvik, Matt Gustafson, Mickey McEnelly, William Packard, Aaron Sjaaheim; eighth graders Nate Keller, Joe Lafrenier, Nick Tveitbakk; seventh graders Colin Browning and Eddie Swantek; sixth graders Bryan Bolstad, Wade Cota, and Zack Olson.

The youthful Prowlers won't be contending for team honors this winter, admitted Lokken. Individual goals will be of primary concern. "We're going to try to get as many qualified for region (Section 8) as possible," he said.

TRF boys have Thursday opener

Thief River Falls boys will open their 1993-94 high school basketball season Thursday with an 8 p.m. game at Crookston.

The Prowlers will be at Kittson Central Tuesday before playing Warren-Alvarado in their Dec. 17 home opener.

Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke said the Prowlers' first-night starting line-up will include 6-1 senior Preston Treat at the point guard and 6-10 sophomore Kyle Sanden at center, with 6-2 senior David Johnson, 6-1 junior Nathan Anderson and 6-0 junior Eric Bjorgaard filling in the other guard/forward spots.

"We're excited," said Brekke. "Hopefully it'll be a fun year."

Scoring isn't an early-season concern, said Brekke, but rebounding could present problems. "Outside of Kyle, we're not very big," he noted. "If we're going to be successful, we can't be giving teams three-four shots every time down the court."

Thursday meetings

Three Thief River Falls activity groups will have Thursday, Dec. 9 meetings, including:

■ Weekly 12-noon Thief River Falls Sports Boosters luncheon meeting will be held at the Elks Club. Guest speakers will be Lincoln High School hockey coach Glenn Chiodo and Lincoln wrestling coach John Anderson.

■ Those interested in the Thief River Falls wrestling program are urged attend the Prowler Take Down Club meeting at 6 p.m. in the Lincoln High School cafeteria.

■ For the basketball fans, the Thief River Falls Backcourt Club will get together at 6:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Thief River Falls Public Library.

TRF, Central JV play to a 1-1 tie

This time the strategy worked. Thief River Falls pulled its goalie and scored with just seven seconds left in regulation time Saturday to gain a 1-1 junior varsity high school hockey tie against Grand Forks Central.

Trevor Lee got the equalizer. An eight-minute sudden-death overtime failed to break the tie.

Thief River Falls goalie Chanc Keefe made 35 saves. Two Central goalies combined on 22 stops.

Defensive effort by Kurt Kramer of North Dakota State University-Bottineau did little to stop Rob Burley of Northland Community College from getting off this jump shot during Friday's semifinal game in the men's portion of the Northland Pepsi Invitational basketball tournament. The Lumberjacks beat the Pioneers 89-75.

MCC girls able to hold off Warroad

Marshall County Central used accurate shooting to overcome turnover problems Monday as the Nordics beat Warroad 55-43 in girls high school basketball at Newfolden.

Shooting 68 percent should make life pretty easy for most basketball teams, but when 26 turnovers limit you to 31 field goal attempts, there can be some anxious moments – just ask Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde.

The Nordics had a 29-16 halftime cushion reduced to a 35-34 third quarter edge before regrouping over the final eight minutes to win by eight.

"We managed to weather the storm in the third quarter," said Mjelde. "We shot the ball extremely well (21/31), but we have to get more shots than that. We can't be turning the ball over that many times. I was really disappointed in the way we handled the basketball."

The Nordics were 13-for-18 at the free throw line and had a 30-14 rebound advantage.

Warroad shot 30 percent from the field (15/50) and made 11 of 13 free throws.

Pioneers lose pair of games

■ Northland winless in NCC Pepsi Invitational

Championship honors in the women's portion of the 1993 Northland Community College Pepsi Invitational basketball tournament went to North Dakota State University-Bottineau, a 60-51 title game winner over Bismarck State Junior College Saturday.

Concordia College junior varsity beat host Northland 65-47 in the third place game.

In Friday semifinals, Bismarck out-scored Concordia 90-88 and NDSU-Bottineau beat Northland 64-56.

NDSU-Bottineau 64
Northland 56

North Dakota State University-Bottineau held off a Northland Community College comeback bid Friday for a 64-56 first round tournament semifinal win.

The Pioneers faced a 10-point, 18-8 deficit at the 10-minute mark of the first half. Trailing 31-23 at halftime, Northland pulled within 41-39 on a Lisa Verbout jumper with 11:15 remaining. But the Lumberjacks met each challenge presented by the Pioneers.

"We dug ourselves a hole early," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We played much better in the second half; we executed better."

Northland was 23-for-60 from the field (38 percent) and 8-for-14 at the free throw line. NDSU-Bottineau went 27-for-69 from the floor (39 percent) and 9-for-10 at the line.

First half turnovers buried Northland Saturday in a 65-47 third place game loss to the Concordia College junior varsity.

The Pioneers turned it over 21 times in falling behind 34-15 at the half. They wound up 36 turnovers for the day.

"Concordia came out with a pressure defense – we knew they would," explained Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We just didn't handle it. It took us the entire first half to get things under control."

The Pioneers out-scored the Cobbers 32-31 after intermission. "We played much better in the second half," mentioned Nikunen. "We came out and played for pride."

RLCC Invitational games scheduled for Plummer gym

An early-season Red Lake County Central Invitational girls high school basketball tournament will be played Friday and Saturday in Plummer.

First round semifinals Friday will match Valley North against Kittson County North at 7 p.m. and the host Mustangs vs. Goodridge/Grygla at 8:30.

Saturday finals include the third place game at 7 p.m. and championship game at 8:30.

Red Lake County Central held Clearbrook/Gonvick to 10 first half points Monday as the Mustangs beat the host Bears 49-34 to go 2-1 for the year.

"We didn't shoot very well, but we played real well defensively in the first half," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto, whose team had a 19-10 halftime cushion.

Angel Mickelson, a 5-10 senior, had a 19-point, 10-rebound game, while Meckenzie Malwitz, a 5-9 sophomore, had a 12-point, 11-rebound outing for the winners.

Red Lake County Central was 19-for-60 from the field (32 percent) and 9-for-19 at the free throw line, while owning a 38-25 rebound advantage. Clearbrook/Gonvick was just 12-for-43 from the field (28 percent) and 10-for-18 at the line.

Northland will have second tournament

Northland Community College women's basketball team will play host to its second straight four-team tournament Friday and Saturday – the Northern Lights Invitational – when the Pioneers will be joined by fellow Minnesota Community College Conference members Hibbing, Itasca and Mesabi.

Last weekend the Northland Pepsi Invitational found the Pioneers matched against nonconference foes North Dakota State University-Bottineau, Concordia College junior varsity and Bismarck State Junior College.

First round Northern Lights Invitational semifinals Friday will feature Mesabi vs. Itasca at 6 p.m., while Northland takes on Hibbing at 8.

Saturday's finals include a 12-noon third place game and a 2 p.m. championship game.

B/G-MR girls fall to Taylor, Rams 51-45

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shut down Megan Taylor in the first half, but the Roseau standout scored 18 of her game-high 20 points in the second half Monday to lead the Rams past the Gators 51-45 in a girls high school basketball game played at Greenbush.

"We contained Megan in the first half," explained Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "But we wore down. She (Taylor) was a lot stronger than we were at the end."

Taylor scored 14 of her points in the third quarter when the Rams turned a 23-21 halftime deficit into a 39-35 lead.

With the two teams shooting just nine free throws, the game was completed in a quick 65 minutes. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River made 1 of 2 free throws; Roseau was 3-for-7.

The Gators, losing for the first time in three starts, shot 37 percent from the field (22/60). They had some trouble with rebounds and turnovers, according to Neibauer. "We just weren't real sharp," he said. "We had way too many turnovers, and we gave them too many second shots."

Northland Pepsi Invitational basketball tournament...

NCC men take third place

Bismarck (ND) State Junior College handled the Concordia College junior varsity 105-79 Friday, then downed North Dakota State University-Bottineau 85-69 Saturday for championship honors in the men's portion of the Northland Community College Pepsi Invitational basketball tournament.

The host Pioneers lost to NDSU-Bottineau 89-75 in the first round semifinals, but bounced back to defeat Concordia 76-68 in the third place game.

NDSU-Bottineau 89
Northland 75

North Dakota State University-Bottineau out-scored Northland Community College 33-19 over the final 10 minutes to win an 89-75 Friday night semifinal match-up.

Northland had a 35-34 halftime lead, and it was tied at 56-56 when the Pioneers' Ryan Rislov hit a three-point basket with 10 minutes left.

But 3 1/2 minutes later the Pioneers found themselves trailing 73-62. Defensive breakdowns, especially on the base line, and offense-killing turnovers put Northland in a hole down the stretch.

"I think we started to press too hard at the end," said Northland coach Mark Dannhoff. "They wanted to do well in their first game at home, and they started forcing things."

Tournament Results

■ Semifinals - Bismarck State Junior College 105, Concordia College junior varsity 79; North Dakota State University-Bottineau 89, Northland Community College 75.

■ Finals - (championship) Bismarck State Junior College 85, North Dakota State University-Bottineau 69; (third place) Northland Community College 76, Concordia College junior varsity 68.

All-Tournament

Bismarck - Jon Dokok, Masai Ujiri, Godwin Owinje; NDSU-Bottineau - Shane Azure; Northland - Mitch Bernstein.

Free throws and turnovers produced the game-deciding numbers. The Lumberjacks were 25-for-32 at the line, and wound up with just five turnovers. The Pioneers made 9 of 13 free throws and turned it over 18 times.

"Turnovers and free throws were the difference," agreed Dannhoff. "The big thing was the free throws. I don't care what kind of game it was, nobody should be coming into our building and shooting 32 free throws."

Both teams shot 51 percent from the field – Northland 29-for-57 and NDSU-Bottineau 31-for-61. The Pioneers had a 31-26 rebound edge.

Northland 76
Concordia JV 68

Northland cracked the win column for the first time after a pair of season-opening losses by beating the Concordia College junior varsity 76-68 in Saturday's third place game.

"We played better," noted Northland coach Mark Dannhoff. "We didn't shoot as well as we would like, but we played better defense and we did a nice job on the boards."

Northland went 24-for-53 from the field (45 percent) and had a productive 21-for-26 game at the free throw line. Concordia was 32-for-77 from the field (42 percent) and a quiet 3-for-6 at the line. The Pioneers had a 38-34 rebound edge. The game had just 13 turnovers – 9 for the Pioneers.

"It was a good win for us," said Dannhoff. "We needed a win to help our confidence, especially the freshmen. They have to know they can win at this level."

Central skates to 9-1 win

A line featuring Jay Panzer, Eric Ness and Nick Fohr netted seven goals Saturday to lead Grand Forks Central past Thief River Falls 9-1 in high school hockey at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Panzer finished with three goals and two assists, Ness had three goals and an assist, while Fohr came up with a goal and two assists as Central went to 2-0 and Thief River Falls fell to 0-2.

The Prowlers were out-score 55-17.

"They're a better hockey team than we are," offered Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "They're certainly as good, if not better, than any of the teams we've played or scrimmaged so far this year."

It took Central all of 64 seconds to score as Ness corralled a loose puck at the door step and put it into an open net during a game-opening scramble in the Thief River Falls zone.

Even while skating two men short, Central made it 2-0 at 4:46 when Panzer swiped the puck off a Thief River Falls stick at center ice and went in alone. A deke put Thief River Falls goalie Eric Dowers on the ice and Panzer put a point-blank backhand into an open net.

Once again forcing Thief River Falls to cough up the puck at center ice, Central went up 3-0 on a 2-on-0 rush at 11:02 – on a shot by Panzer.

Tim Barry put Thief River Falls on the board with a long blast off the left wing at 11:46 to end a 3-1 first period.

But Central continued the assault on the Thief River Falls net by scoring twice in the first 76 seconds of the second period. Darin Schumacher was left alone at the corner of the net and scored just 41 seconds into the period, and Ness put one through Dowers' pads 35 seconds later.

Fohr scored on a power play at 4:18 and Ness went in alone during a 4-on-4 skate at 13:01 for a 7-1 spread.

The third period was running time, but it didn't keep Central from tacking on two more goals as Jeff Panzer caught the short side at 6:26 and Jay Panzer had an easy tap-in at 12:42.

"They have a lot of skilled people, and we made a lot of mistakes that compounded the problem," noted Chiodo. "There are ways to beat teams like that, but you have to play tight, disciplined, almost mistake-free hockey to do it. And obviously we didn't do that. We're disappointed, but hopefully we can learn from it and move on."

Scoring

First period - GFC, Eric Ness (Nick Fohr), 1:04; GFC, Jay Panzer (un.), 4:46; GFC, Jay Panzer (un.), 11:02; TRF, Tim Barry (un.), 11:46.

■ Those interested in the Thief River Falls wrestling program are urged attend the Prowler Take Down Club meeting at 6 p.m. in the Lincoln High School cafeteria.

■ For the basketball fans, the Thief River Falls Backcourt Club will get together at 6:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Thief River Falls Public Library.

Defensive effort by Kurt Kramer of North Dakota State University-Bottineau did little to stop Rob Burley of Northland Community College from getting off this jump shot during Friday's semifinal game in the men's portion of the Northland Pepsi Invitational basketball tournament. The Lumberjacks beat the Pioneers 89-75.

MCC girls able to hold off Warroad

Marshall County Central used accurate shooting to overcome turnover problems Monday as the Nordics beat Warroad 55-43 in girls high school basketball at Newfolden.

Shooting 68 percent should make life pretty easy for most basketball teams, but when 26 turnovers limit you to 31 field goal attempts, there can be some anxious moments – just ask Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde.

The Nordics had a 29-16 halftime cushion reduced to a 35-34 third quarter edge before regrouping over the final eight minutes to win by eight.

"We managed to weather the storm in the third quarter," said Mjelde. "We shot the ball extremely well (21/31), but we have to get more shots than that. We can't be turning the ball over that many times. I was really disappointed in the way we handled the basketball."

The Nordics were 13-for-18 at the free throw line and had a 30-14 rebound advantage.

Warroad shot 30 percent from the field (15/50) and made 11 of 13 free throws.

Scoring

Taylor, Rams beat TRF girls 66-50

Megan Taylor scored 34 points Friday to lead Roseau past visiting Thief River Falls 66-50 in girls high school basketball.

It was the second loss in as many starts for the Prowlers, who had major shooting and turnover problems. They shot just 27 percent from the field (21/77) and turned it over 33 times. Roseau wasn't exactly at mid-season form, either, with 36 percent shooting (25/69) and 24 turnovers.

"It was a rugged game; a lot of fouls," reported Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse. "We had a lot of good scoring opportunities, but the ball just would not go down. And the turnovers were the result of a lot of un-forced errors – we either didn't pass the ball very well, or we didn't catch the pass."

Toni Chiodo and Carrie Lawrence scored 14 points apiece to lead the Thief River Falls scoring.

The Prowlers were 6-for-9 at the free throw line, were the Rams were a busy 14-for-24. Thief River Falls had a 42-30 rebound edge, getting 23 on the offense boards as they grabbed their own missed shots.

"We're not that bad," offered Wiltse. "We just not together yet."

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Thief River Falls	10	8	11	21	50
Roseau	16	19	14	17	66

TRF - Toni Chiodo 14, Lisa Ulrich 10, Stef Swanson 2, Carrie Lawrence 14, Lisa Rendulich 8, Sarah Huschle 2.

Roseau - Bridget Sabourin 2, Jen Warne 2, Karri Rygh 4, Megan Taylor 34, Kylee Johnson 7, Lenni Billberg 16.

Swimmers start with Prowler relays

Saturday's 1 p.m. Prowler Relays will kick off the 1993-94 Thief River Falls boys high school swimming schedule.

Coach Ryan Lokken will start the year with 26 swimmers in grades 6-through-12, but only eight of them are sophomores, juniors or seniors.

"We've got some good talent, but they're a couple of years away," acknowledged Lokken. "We've got some good, young swimmers."

Rest of the squad includes junior Scott Fogarty and Tom Stumpf; sophomore Sam Adams; freshmen Jaramhia Efta, Josh Engvik, Matt Gustafson, Mickey McEnelly, William Packard, Aaron Sjaaheim; eighth graders Nate Keller, Joe Lafrenier, Nick Tveitbakk; seventh graders Colin Browning and Eddie Swantek; sixth graders Bryan Bolstad, Wade Cota, and Zack Olson.

The youthful Prowlers won't be contending for team honors this winter, admitted Lokken. Individual goals will be of primary concern. "We're going to try to get as many qualified for region (Section 8) as possible," he said.

TRF boys have Thursday opener

Thief River Falls boys will open their 1993-94 high school basketball season Thursday with an 8 p.m. game at Crookston.

The Prowlers will be at Kittson Central Tuesday before playing Warren-Alvarado in their Dec. 17 home opener.

Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke said the Prowlers' first-night starting line-up will include 6-1 senior Preston Treat at the point guard and 6-10 sophomore Kyle Sanden at center, with 6-2 senior David Johnson, 6-1 junior Nathan Anderson and 6-0 junior Eric Bjorgaard filling in the other guard/forward spots.

"We're excited," said Brekke. "Hopefully it'll be a fun year."

Scoring isn't an early-season concern, said Brekke, but rebounding could present problems. "Outside of Kyle, we're not very big," he noted. "If we're going to be successful, we can't be giving teams three-four shots every time down the court."

TRF, Central JV play to a 1-1 tie

This time the strategy worked. Thief River Falls pulled its goalie and scored with just seven seconds left in regulation time Saturday to gain a 1-1 junior varsity high school hockey tie against Grand Forks Central.

Trevor Lee got the equalizer. An eight-minute sudden-death overtime failed to break the tie.

Thief River Falls goalie Chance Keefe made 35 saves. Two Central goalies combined on 22 stops.

Pioneers lose pair of games

■ Northland winless in NCC Pepsi Invitational

Championship honors in the women's portion of the 1993 Northland Community College Pepsi Invitational basketball tournament went to North Dakota State University-Bottineau, a 60-51 title game winner over Bismarck State Junior College Saturday.

Concordia College junior varsity beat host Northland 65-47 in the third place game.

In Friday semifinals, Bismarck out-scored Concordia 90-88 and NDSU-Bottineau beat Northland 64-56.

NDSU-Bottineau 64
Northland 56

North Dakota State University-Bottineau held off a Northland Community College comeback bid Friday for a 64-56 first round tournament semifinal win.

The Pioneers faced a 10-point, 18-8 deficit at the 10-minute mark of the first half. Trailing 31-23 at halftime, Northland pulled within 41-39 on a Lisa Verbout jumper with 11:15 remaining. But the Lumberjacks met each challenge presented by the Pioneers.

"We dug ourselves a hole early," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We played much better in the second half; we executed better."

Tournament Results

■ Semifinals - Bismarck State Junior College 90, Concordia College junior varsity 88; North Dakota State University-Bottineau 64, Northland Community College 56.

First half turnovers buried Northland Saturday in a 65-47 third place game loss to the Concordia College junior varsity.

The Pioneers turned it over 21 times in falling behind 34-15 at the half. They wound up 36 turnovers for the day.

"Concordia came out with a pressure defense – we knew they would," explained Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We just didn't handle it. It took us the entire first half to get things under control."

The Pioneers out-scored the Cobbers 32-31 after intermission. "We played much better in the second half," mentioned Nikunen. "We came out and played for pride."

RLCC Invitational games scheduled for Plummer gym

An early-season Red Lake County Central Invitational girls high school basketball tournament will be played Friday and Saturday in Plummer.

First round semifinals Friday will match Valley North against Kittson County North at 7 p.m. and the host Mustangs vs. Goodridge/Grygla at 8:30.

Saturday finals include the third place game at 7 p.m. and championship game at 8:30.

Red Lake County Central held Clearbrook/Gonvick to 10 first half points Monday as the Mustangs beat the host Bears 49-34 to go 2-1 for the year.

"We didn't shoot very well, but we played real well defensively in the first half," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto, whose team had a 19-10 halftime cushion.

Angel Mickelson, a 5-10 senior, had a 19-point, 10-rebound game, while Meckenzie Malwitz, a 5-9 sophomore, had a 12-point, 11-rebound outing for the winners.

Red Lake County Central was 19-for-60 from the field (32 percent) and 9-for-19 at the free throw line, while owning a 38-25 rebound advantage. Clearbrook/Gonvick was just 12-for-43 from the field (28 percent) and 10-for-18 at the line.

Northland will have second tournament

Northland Community College women's basketball team will play host to its second straight four-team tournament Friday and Saturday – the Northern Lights Invitational – when the Pioneers will be joined by fellow Minnesota Community College Conference members Hibbing, Itasca and Mesabi.

Last weekend the Northland Pepsi Invitational found the Pioneers matched against nonconference foes North Dakota State University-Bottineau, Concordia College junior varsity and Bismarck State Junior College.

First round Northern Lights Invitational semifinals Friday will feature Mesabi vs. Itasca at 6 p.m., while Northland takes on Hibbing at 8.

Saturday's finals include a 12-noon third place game and a 2 p.m. championship game.

B/G-MR girls fall to Taylor, Rams 51-45

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shut down Megan Taylor in the first half, but the Roseau standout scored 18 of her game-high 20 points in the second half Monday to lead the Rams past the Gators 51-45 in a girls high school basketball game played at Greenbush.

"We contained Megan in the first half," explained Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "But we wore down. She (Taylor) was a lot stronger than we were at the end."

Taylor scored 14 of her points in the third quarter when the Rams turned a 23-21 halftime deficit into a 39-35 lead.

With the two teams shooting just nine free throws, the game was completed in a quick 65 minutes. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River made 1 of 2 free throws; Roseau was 3-for-7.

The Gators, losing for the first time in three starts, shot 37 percent from the field (22/60). They had some trouble with rebounds and turnovers, according to Neibauer. "We just weren't real sharp," he said. "We had way too many turnovers, and we gave them too many second shots."

RLCC boys beat Nordics in opener

A strong inside game opened up the outside for Paul Melby Friday as Red Lake County Central outscored Marshall County Central 70-65 in season-opening boys high school basketball at Plummer.

Melby, a 6-0 senior forward who scored 20 of his game-high 25 points in the second half, hit four three-point baskets after Nordics were forced to a zone in an effort to combat the Mustangs' inside game that featured an 18-point effort by 6-2 sophomore Aaron Chaput and an 11-point contribution by 6-3 senior Ryan Salberg.

"We had trouble defending them inside," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "They're big and strong inside. We couldn't match up with them. We went to a zone, but then Melby hit the three-point shots on us."

Red Lake County Central, after starting the fourth quarter with 50-48 lead, opened up a 10-point cushion before Marshall County Central made a late-game run.

"We were a little bigger than they were, and they had a little trouble handling us inside," said Red Lake County Central coach Todd Fore. "We didn't shoot particularly well in the first half, but overall, it wasn't a bad first game."

Four Nordics reached double figures, led by Scott Zak with 21 points.

Marshall County Central shot 45 percent from the field (26/58) and went 3-for-7 at the three throw line. Red Lake County Central shot 39 percent from the field (25/64) and cashed in on 14 of 20 free throw opportunities. The Mustangs had a 40-30 rebound advantage. The Nordics had more turnovers, 21-19.

"A lot of those turnovers were un-forced errors," noted Ueland. "We made a lot of poor decisions with the ball."

Zack and Jake Rantanen are returning starters off the Nordics' 1992-93 Section 8A Sub-Section 4 championship team. Aaron Skadsem, Brandon Borg and Trevor Magner join them as returning letter winners.

"We should have a competitive team," offered Ueland. "We don't have the depth we've become accustomed too the last few years, but we should be all right."

Fore figures the Mustangs should also be able to hold their own this winter. Melby, Salberg, and Chaput were all starters on last year's 18-5 squad. Those three, along with 6-3 Aaron Rosten, provide the Mustangs with a solid front line, and in sophomore Bryce Huotari and junior Scott Lorenson, they have a pair of athletic outside players.

"We should be pretty competitive," said Fore. "It's one of the taller teams we've had for a while. We're pretty strong up front, and we should be able to score from the outside, too."

Northland will have a football coaching clinic

The 11th annual Northwestern Minnesota Football Coaching Clinic will be held at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls Saturday, Jan. 29, it was announced this week by Northland Athletic Director Rick Nelson and Northland head football coach Gene Klinke.

"We are very excited that we are able to continue providing opportunities for coaches to grow and learn from each other," said Nelson. "It's exciting to see how the clinic has grown over the past 11 years."

List of speakers for this year's clinic has not been finalized, but will include Jeff Mumm of Thief River Falls, who will be speaking on promoting and organizing the little things that will help develop a program.

"We bring in speakers from the metropolitan area and four-year schools, along with some from our area," said Klinke. "This gives coaches who have the energy and motivation to grow, an opportunity to do so."

Wolverines beat Bears

Three double figure scorers led the Goodridge/Grygla girls to a 55-35 high school basketball win over Lake of the Woods Monday in Grygla.

The Wolverines' balanced attack included Brandi Stratton with 14 points, Deanna Kotrba 11 and Melissa Bernstein 10.

It was the first win in three starts for the Wolverines, who had a quick 6-0 lead in the game's opening moments.

"We did pretty well," said Goodridge/Grygla coach Mike Gast. "We got our lay-ups to drop for a change. We had some nice fast breaks and we did a nice job taking the ball to the hoop."

Shooting hasn't been one of the Wolverines' strong points, but they managed to go 25-for-68 from the field (37 percent) and made 6 of 11 free throws while holding their own on the boards and reducing the turnover figures, noted Gast. The Bears were just 2-for-12 at the line.

TURNING BACK THE TIMES

By Donna Myhrer

1893 — One Hundred Years Ago

—An oyster supper will be served by the ladies at the Catholic fair Tuesday evening.

—The thermometer registered 36 below Sunday morning.

—James Wiley started for the logging camp of Meehan Brothers Tuesday with a crew of men and 11 head of oxen.

1903 — Ninety Years Ago

—H. Fant has a large crew of men at work these days constructing his telephone line into the country north of here.

—The horse driven by H. E. Gusa on his milk wagon did not like the slow pace which Mr. Gusa drives and indulged in a little runaway yesterday. Milk was "distributed" all over the East side.

—The city council will encourage the building of cement walks by giving a bonus of five cents for each square feet built by private parties.

1913 — Eighty Years Ago

—Agnes Jorstad, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Jorstad, was found unharmed after being lost for 24 hours in a swamp near Germantown.

—The fourth annual convention of the Northern Minnesota Development association will be held in June in Thief River Falls.

—The Thief River Falls band will begin holding a series of Sunday afternoon concerts on December 21.

1923 — Seventy Years Ago

—Several local golfers took advantage of the mild weather December 8 to play a round on the Thief River Falls golf course.

—Chairman Louis W. Hill and President Ralf Budd of the Great Northern railway will share in the dedication of the new Great Northern depot.

—Bernhard Knudsen was elected president of the Sons of Norway lodge, succeeding E. K. Aasen.

1933 — Sixty Years Ago

—Mercury slumped to 25 degrees below zero December 11.

—Palmer Tommerdahl was elected master of the Masonic lodge.

—Evelyn E. Nelson of School District 12, Hazel, won the Pennington county rural school spelling contest.

1943 — Fifty Years Ago

—The first load of cattail fluff from this area was shipped to the Burgess Battery company.

—Land O'Lakes is proposing starting a milk drying plant in the area.

—The local indoor skating rink will be ready for this season's use on Friday.

1953 — Forty Years Ago

—Wangenstein's Jewelry store celebrated the 50th anniversary of its founding in 1903 by A. A. Wangenstein, father of Bart Wangenstein, present owner.

—After five days of service, the jury in Pennington county district was dismissed by Judge Paul A. Lundgren.

—Construction of the new addition to Northwestern hospital is six weeks ahead of schedule.

1963 — Thirty Years Ago

—Thief River Falls telephone numbers will appear in an all-numerical form when the new directory is issued late this month, according to J. M. Wilson, Northwestern Bell telephone company manager, with the present letters, MU, being replaced by the numbers, 6 and 8, in the number's prefix.

—Acceptance of a petition by Northwestern trailer court to be annexed to the city of Thief River Falls was made at the city council meeting.

—Rev. Wesley Johnson was installed as the new pastor of the Evangelical Free church in Thief River Falls.

—Pennington county placed first in the state in soil sampling for 1963 and received a plaque from the Farmer magazine in St. Paul.

Mud Lake Refuge Is Now Open to Cattail Pickers

"The entire Mud Lake migratory game refuge is open to any citizen for gathering cattails for market purposes and pickers will receive the entire receipts from sales, Carl B. Vogen, refuge manager, reported this week. The government does not get anything from the cattail harvest, with the pickers receiving the entire proceeds or market of 4 cents a pound. Permits for picking must be secured at the headquarters office on the refuge."

Christmas Mailing Rush Gets Started

"The early rush of mailing Christmas parcels got under way at the local postoffice early this week, fully a week earlier than in past years, Postmaster Andrew Anderson stated today. He expressed the hope that the peak of mailings would be reached by the first part of the coming week, in which case it should be possible to deliver the parcels to their destinations before Christmas."

School District ends year with $340,262 general fund balance

School District 564 ended its year June 30, 1993, with an unreserved general fund balance of $340,262, according to the audit report presented at the last regular meeting of the board of education by Roy Lunde of Brady Martz & Associates.

The unreserved fund balance was slightly higher than projected in the budget and is available to the district for use in a number of areas. The district also has a number of other funds, most of which have positive balances, but where those balances are restricted in their use.

At the end of the fiscal year June 30, according to the report, there were unreserved balances of $91,641 in the food service fund, $244,403 in the transportation fund, $24,070 in the community service fund, $409,697 in the building construction fund, $317,669 in the debt service fund and $461,240 in the trust and agency fund.

In addition, the general fund had $60,692 reserved for unemployment and $100,000 reserved for severance. The food service fund had $1,000 reserved for severance and the transportation fund had $228,653 reserved for bus purchase.

The capital expenditure fund had $25,391 reserved for equipment but negative balances of $155,653 for facilities and $40,027 for health and safety.

The school board also heard reports on the Challenger and Lincoln building projects by Jim Haspas and Steve Porkkonen, respectively; the Indian education advisory committee by board member Dennis Kiesow; PER committee by board members Darla Twomey and Larry Belmont; and investments and a Minnesota Rural Education Association conference by Supt. Bob Duncan, who also reported that enrollment in November has stayed about the same as in October.

Official recognition was given to Sally Wiltse for receiving a state award in developmental/adapted physical education and to Jennifer Olin and Theresa Giauque for advancing to state competition in diving and swimming, respectively.

Marie Hvidsten's contract as outreach coordinator for the Center for School Change was extended to March 31, 1994 and Robert Wayne was hired as long-term substitute in the mild-to-moderately mentally handicapped program at Franklin middle school.

John Wallberg's resignation as coach of the Lincoln high school math league team was accepted. Extra-curricular assignments were approved for Sharon Fugleberg, high school usher supervisor; Robert Wayne, eighth grade girls head basketball coach; Alice Hofstad, high school photo club advisor; Tom Schafer, eighth grade boys head basketball coach; Jeff Mumm, high school assistant boys basketball coach; Glenn Chiodo, high school head hockey coach; and Bridget Paulson, high school math league coach.

The bid for food service equipment for the Lincoln high school building project was approved with the contract for $99,089 awarded to Dakota Food Equipment, Inc. of Fargo, ND.

Next regular meeting of the board will be Monday, December 13, at 5 p.m. in the school district service center.

Top 10 DHIA herds noted for Pennington

Mark Hanson's herd of 54 cows, 85 per cent of which were in milk, had the top average in the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement Association in October with 71.2 pounds of milk and 2.05 pounds of butterfat. The Hanson herd is milked three times a day.

Other herds in the top 10 include the following with number of cows, percentage in milk, pounds of milk and pounds of butterfat listed respectively:

Mylo Carlson, 72, 89%, 66.9 and 2.29; Walter Bros. Farm, 147, 74%, 55.4 and 1.99; Lyle Swanson, 46, 85%, 54.2 and 1.97; Bob Schindler, 42, 86%, 49.2 and 1.72; Hamrick Farms, Inc., 86, 90%, 47.2 and 1.70; Ben Kleinwachter, 41, 83%, 44.7 and 1.66; Leonard and Marge Geske, 47, 81%, 44.3 and 1.67; L & R Dairy, 129, 78%, 43.7 and 1.52; and Andy & Karen Peterson, 37, 70%, 43.6 and 1.45.

To give dairymen a record of the earning power of the herd each month, the production of cows in milk is averaged over the total number of cows in the milking herd. If many dry cows are included, averages will lower even if the cows in milk are good producers.

According to supervisors Randy and Margaret Rasmussen, there were 24 DHIA herds and two Owner-Sampler herds on test with the association in October.

RLCC boys beat Nordics in opener

A strong inside game opened up the outside for Paul Melby Friday as Red Lake County Central outscored Marshall County Central 70-65 in season-opening boys high school basketball at Plummer.

Melby, a 6-0 senior forward who scored 20 of his game-high 25 points in the second half, hit four three-point baskets after Nordics were forced to a zone in an effort to combat the Mustangs' inside game that featured an 18-point effort by 6-2 sophomore Aaron Chaput and an 11-point contribution by 6-3 senior Ryan Salberg.

"We had trouble defending them inside," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "They're big and strong inside. We couldn't match up with them. We went to a zone, but then Melby hit the three-point shots on us."

Red Lake County Central, after starting the fourth quarter with 50-48 lead, opened up a 10-point cushion before Marshall County Central made a late-game run.

"We were a little bigger than they were, and they had a little trouble handling us inside," said Red Lake County Central coach Todd Fore. "We didn't shoot particularly well in the first half, but overall, it wasn't a bad first game."

Four Nordics reached double figures, led by Scott Zak with 21 points.

Marshall County Central shot 45 percent from the field (26/58) and went 3-for-7 at the three throw line; Red Lake County Central shot 39 percent from the field (25/64) and cashed in on 14 of 20 free throw opportunities. The Mustangs had a 40-30 rebound advantage. The Nordics had more turnovers, 21-19.

"A lot of those turnovers were un-forced errors," noted Ueland. "We made a lot of poor decisions with the ball."

Zack and Jake Rantanen are returning starters off the Nordics' 1992-93 Section 8A Sub-Section 4 championship team. Aaron Skadsem, Brandon Borg and Trevor Magner join them as returning letter winners.

"We should have a competitive team," offered Ueland. "We don't have the depth we've become accustomed too the last few years, but we should be all right."

Fore figures the Mustangs should also be able to hold their own this winter. Melby, Salberg, and Chaput were all starters on last year's 18-5 squad. Those three, along with 6-3 Aaron Rosten, provide the Mustangs with a solid front line, and in sophomore Bryce Huotari and junior Scott Lorenson, they have a pair of athletic outside players.

"We should be pretty competitive," said Fore. "It's one of the taller teams we've had for a while. We're pretty strong up front, and we should be able to score from the outside, too."

Northland will have a football coaching clinic

The 11th annual Northwestern Minnesota Football Coaching Clinic will be held at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls Saturday, Jan. 29, it was annunced this week by Northland Athletic Director Rick Nelson and Northland head football coach Gene Klinke.

"We are very excited that we are able to continue providing opportunities for coaches to grow and learn from each other," said Nelson. "It's exciting to see how the clinic has grown over the past 11 years."

List of speakers for this year's clinic has not been finalized, but will include Jeff Mumm of Thief River Falls, who will be speaking on promoting and organizing the little things that will help develop a program.

"We bring in speakers from the metropolitan area and four-year schools, along with some from our area," said Klinke. "This gives coaches who have the energy and motivation to grow, an opportunity to do so."

Wolverines beat Bears

Three double figure scorers led the Goodridge/Grygla girls to a 55-35 high school basketball win over Lake of the Woods Monday in Grygla.

The Wolverines' balanced attack included Brandi Stratton with 14 points, Deanna Kotrba 11 and Melissa Bernstein 10.

It was the first win in three starts for the Wolverines, who had a quick 6-0 lead in the game's opening moments.

"We did pretty well," said Goodridge/Grygla coach Mike Gast. "We got our lay-ups to drop for a change. We had some nice fast breaks and we did a nice job taking the ball to the hoop."

Shooting hasn't been one of the Wolverines' strong points, but they managed to go 25-for-68 from the field (37 percent) and made 6 of 11 free throws while holding their own on the boards and reducing the turnover figures, noted Gast. The Bears were just 2-for-12 at the line.

School District ends year with $340,262 general fund balance

School District 564 ended its year June 30, 1993, with an unreserved general fund balance of $340,262, according to the audit report presented at the last regular meeting of the board of education by Roy Lunde of Brady Martz & Associates.

The unreserved fund balance was slightly higher than projected in the budget and is available to the district for use in a number of areas. The district also has a number of other funds, most of which have positive balances, but where those balances are restricted in their use.

At the end of the fiscal year June 30, according to the report, there were unreserved balances of $91,641 in the food service fund, $244,403 in the transportation fund, $24,070 in the community service fund, $409,697 in the building construction fund, $317,669 in the debt service fund and $461,240 in the trust and agency fund.

In addition, the general fund had $60,692 reserved for unemployment and $100,000 reserved for severance. The food service fund had $1,000 reserved for severance and the transportation fund had $228,653 reserved for bus purchase.

The capital expenditure fund had $25,391 reserved for equipment but negative balances of $155,653 for facilities and $40,027 for health and safety.

The school board also heard reports on the Challenger and Lincoln building projects by Jim Haspas and Steve Porkkonen, respectively; the Indian education advisory committee by board member Dennis Kiesow; PER committee by board members Darla Twomey and Larry Belmont; and investments and a Minnesota Rural Education Association conference by Supt. Bob Duncan, who also reported that enrollment in November has stayed about the same as in October.

Official recognition was given to Sally Wiltse for receiving a state award in developmental/adapted physical education and to Jennifer Olin and Theresa Giauque for advancing to state competition in diving and swimming, respectively.

Marie Hvidsten's contract as outreach coordinator for the Center for School Change was extended to March 31, 1994 and Robert Wayne was hired as long-term substitute in the mild-to-moderately mentally handicapped program at Franklin middle school.

John Wallberg's resignation as coach of the Lincoln high school math league team was accepted. Extra-curricular assignments were approved for Sharon Fugleberg, high school usher supervisor; Robert Wayne, eighth grade girls head basketball coach; Alice Hofstad, high school photo club advisor; Tom Schafer, eighth grade boys head basketball coach; Jeff Mumm, high school assistant boys basketball coach; Glenn Chiodo, high school head hockey coach; and Bridget Paulson, high school math league coach.

The bid for food service equipment for the Lincoln high school building project was approved with the contract for $99,089 awarded to Dakota Food Equipment, Inc. of Fargo, ND.

Next regular meeting of the board will be Monday, December 13, at 5 p.m. in the school district service center.

Top 10 DHIA herds noted for Pennington

Mark Hanson's herd of 54 cows, 85 per cent of which were in milk, had the top average in the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement Association in October with 71.2 pounds of milk and 2.05 pounds of butterfat. The Hanson herd is milked three times a day.

Other herds in the top 10 include the following with number of cows, percentage in milk, pounds of milk and pounds of butterfat listed respectively:

Mylo Carlson, 72, 89%, 66.9 and 2.29; Walter Bros. Farm, 147, 74%, 55.4 and 1.99; Lyle Swanson, 46, 85%, 54.2 and 1.97; Bob Schindler, 42, 86%, 49.2 and 1.72; Hamrick Farms, Inc., 86, 90%, 47.2 and 1.70; Ben Kleinwachter, 41, 83%, 44.7 and 1.66; Leonard and Marge Geske, 47, 81%, 44.3 and 1.67; L & R Dairy, 129, 78%, 43.7 and 1.52; and Andy & Karen Peterson, 37, 70%, 43.6 and 1.45.

To give dairymen a record of the earning power of the herd each month, the production of cows in milk is averaged over the total number of cows in the milking herd. If many dry cows are included, averages will lower even if the cows in milk are good producers.

According to supervisors Randy and Margaret Rasmussen, there were 24 DHIA herds and two Owner-Sampler herds on test with the association in October.

Four injured in accident

Four people were injured when the vehicle they were in rolled two miles west of Trail on Highway 92.

Minnesota state patrol received a report of an accident at 6:50 p.m. December 5. According to the accident report, Amy Middleton, 17, McIntosh, was driving a 1990 Chevrolet Beretta east on Highway 92 when the vehicle went off the left of the road and rolled in the ditch. Middleton and her passengers, Chad Parsley, 20, Oklee, Matthew Smith, 19, Brooks, and Jennifer Buchholz, 17, McIntosh, were all taken to Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls. Occupants in the vehicle were not wearing seat belts. Road conditions included ice.

Former resident dies in accident

Andrew Osborn, 25, a former resident of St. Hilaire, died near Bancroft Saturday, December 4, as a result of a snowmobile accident.

According to the Idaho State Police in Pocatello, Idaho, Osborn was driving a snowmobile along U.S. Highway 34 when his snowmobile hit the corner of a bridge embankment one mile north of Grace, Idaho. Osborn was ejected from the snowmobile as it vaulted over the canal bank and struck river bank. He was wearing a helmet at the time. He was taken to Caribou Memorial hospital in Soda Springs, where he later died.

Osborn is the son of Walter and Janet Osborn and was a 1986 graduate of Lincoln high school. He was residing in Bancroft, Idaho. A complete obituary appears in this edition of The Times.

One man was injured in a rollover one mile east of Warren December 4.

Marshall county sheriff's department received a report of a one-vehicle rollover at 4:10 p.m. December 4. According to the accident report, Richard Kevin Graham, 37, Newtonia, Missouri, rolled his 1977 Ford Ranchero while driving east on Highway 1. He sustained an injury to his neck and head and was transported by Warren ambulance to United Hospital in Grand Forks, ND. The accident is still under investigation.

Watne pleads not guilty to charges

Lonnie LeRoy Watne, Goodridge, pled not guilty Monday to charges he sold alcohol to persons under 21 and sold alcohol without a liquor license to sell off-sale liquor. Watne is one of the liquor license holders for Miz Ellies in Goodridge.

Watne appeared in a Ninth District courtroom Monday before Judge Dennis Murphy on the charges which stem from alleged incidents that took place last spring. Watne was represented in court by Attorney Neil McEwen.

An omnibus hearing was scheduled for 10:30 a.m. December 20, 1993. Assistant County Attorney Al Rogalla is prosecuting the case.

Assault charges pending

Charges of assault are pending against Todd Richard Fredrickson, 33, Plummer, following an incident December 3 in Red Lake county.

Red Lake county sheriff's department reported that in investigating a report of a disturbance they learned that Fredrickson had left the residence where the report had originated. He was later apprehended without incident by Clearwater County sheriff's deputies. Fredrickson was transported to the Regional Corrections Center in Crookston.

The victim did not require hospitalization. The incident was of a domestic nature.

A Visit From St. Nicholas

Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there,

[Luke 2: 1-20, King James Bible]

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. (And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.) And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; because he was of the house and lineage of David: to be taxed with Mary, his espoused wife, being great with child. And so it was that while they were there the days were accomplished for her to be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn. And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them and the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men. And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass which the Lord has made know unto us. And they came with haste and found Mary and Joseph and the babe lying in the manger. And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child. And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherd. But Mary kept all these things and pondered them in her heart. And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugar-plums danced in their heads;
And mamma in her 'kerchief and I in my cap,
Had just settled down for a long winter's nap,

Christmas Goodies and Treats

Christmas Cherry Candle Cake

1 pkg. cherry angel cake mix
1 No. 2 can (2 1/2 cups) crushed pineapple
1 pkg. lime flavored gelatin
1 cup heavy cream
Few drops red food coloring
Gumdrop bows
1-10" red candle

Prepare batter and bake in 10" tube pan. Cool. Meanwhile prepare pineapple filling; drain pineapple, add enough water to syrup to make 1 3/4 cups. Heat mixture to boiling- add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Chill until partially set- beat until light and fluffy. Fold in drained pineapple. Whip 1 cup heavy cream, fold into gelatin mixture, tint pale green. Chill, stirring occasionally until mixture mounds when spooned.

To assemble cake: Cut crosswise in 3 equal layers, spread bottom layer with half gelatin mixture, add second layer and spread in remaining gelatin, top with third layer. Chill until firm, 2-3 hours. Just before setting, whip 1 1/2 cups heavy cream and tint pale pink with red food coloring, spread on top and sides of cake. Trim cake with gumdrop bows. Secure candle in center. Holly leaves around candle on top of cake. Makes 12-16 servings.

Evergreen Punch

2 pkg. lemon-lime Kool-aid
1-48 oz. can pineapple juice
2 c. sugar
2 qt. water
1 qt. ginger ale

Combine all ingredients except ginger ale. Add ginger ale and ice just before serving.

Snowmobilers' Hot Chocolate

1-8 qt. pkg. dry milk
1 lb. box Nestles Quik (3 cups)
6 oz. Pream
1/2 c. powdered sugar

Stir dry mixture well and store in an ice cream pail covered. To serve, put 1/3 cup of the dry mix in a mug, 1/4 c. in a plastic cup. Fill with boiling water.

Orange Balls

1 lb. vanilla wafers, crushed
1/4 lb. butter softened
1 cup frozen or juice concentrate
1 lb. powdered sugar
Flaked coconut

Mix well, form into balls, roll in flaked coconut. Place on cookie sheet. Set.

Angel Crisps

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 cup powdered sugar
1 cup vegetable oil
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. cream of tartar
4 1/3 cups flour

Form into balls, roll in granulated sugar and flatten. Bake at 350 degrees until cookies are crisp.

Caramel Cookies

1 cup soft butter
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 tsp. vanilla, if desired
1 tsp. soda (in flour)
3 cups flour
1 cup chopped nuts
About 1/2 tsp. salt

Mix in order given, then shape into a roll, and chill in refrigerator over night. Slice thin and bake in moderate oven. (Dough may be frozen, too).

About 355 degrees for 12 minutes seems about right. Watch carefully.

Hot Cheese Dip

1 can cream of shrimp soup (do not dilute)
1 roll Kraft garlic cheese
1 T. lemon juice
4 oz. grated cheddar cheese

Melt everything in top of double boiler. Add 1 small can chopped mushrooms, 1 small can shrimp. Heat and serve with crackers.

Broccoli Supreme

1 slightly beaten egg
1 10-oz. pkg. frozen chopped broccoli, partially thawed
1 8 1/2-oz. can cream-style corn
1 cup herb-seasoned stuffing mix
1 T. grated onion
1/4 tsp. salt
Dash of pepper
3 T. butter or margarine

In mixing bowl, combine egg, broccoli, corn, onion, pepper. In small sauce pan, melt butter; add stuffing mix, tossing to coat. Stir 3/4 cup of the buttered stuffing mix into vegetable mixture. Turn into ungreased 1-qt. casserole. Sprinkle with remaining stuffing mix. Bake, uncovered, in 350 degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes.

Egg Nog

2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
6 T. powdered sugar
3 c. milk

Mix in blender and serve.

Wassail Bowl Punch

1 qt. hot tea
1 qt. cranberry juice
1 qt. apple juice
3 pieces cinnamon stick
12 whole cloves
1 cup sugar
2 cups orange juice
3/4 cup lemon juice
1 orange, sliced
1 lemon, sliced

Combine all ingredients except orange and lemon slices. Bring to a boil. Pour into bowl and float lemon and orange slices. Makes about four quarts.

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash.
The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow
Gave the luster of mid-day to objects below,
When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature sleigh, and eight tiny reindeer.

Santa's Elves
by Jeremy Hulteen

It was a bit ago, maybe it was longer than a bit; perhaps it was a while ago. A while ago may be too long. Well, to make this acceptable for those people who really care and truly desire to know at about what time the story took place, we shall state an appropriately appointed approximation upon the appointment of time. In other words, we shall estimate. Imagine that you are in the year somewhere between the birth of man and last Saturday, no, make it last Friday. On second thought, last Saturday is fine; I don't really think it matters much. Now that that is settled, enough with this crazy nonsense. We shall begin the story, maybe it is a fairy tale, or perhaps it is simply a delusion of my mind. Ladies and gentlemen, with no more stories, on with the delusion.

Previous to this date, now, why did I not think of that before I wrote a whole paragraph about the time of this story. During the rush of Christmas season, people had been withdrawing the hard-earned money they had been saving to buy their loved ones nice neatly wrapped trinkets and toys. The past year had been an economical struggle for many people in many different places. Sweden was hit the hardest by an economical crash. All Swedish tax collectors had joined together and formed their own labor union. They had then gone on a rampage of raising taxes, one after another, just for something to do with their time. You must understand that they did not have Nintendos at this time. While the tax collectors were becoming extremely rich, the poor people became even more poor than they had been before. It's always the same in these kinds of stories; one person gets rich and everyone else becomes poor. One group of people who were struck by this "not nice thing" which the tax collectors had done, was the elves. Now, don't believe for even one second that elves are not real. After all, no one has absolutely proven that they don't, yet, anyway.

Anyway, there was one family of elves who really disliked what had happened, and they were the Jones's. The Jones family consisted of twelve brothers. Nobody really knows what happened to the women of the family, but it really doesn't matter because they are not pertinent to the story. Well, these elves were trying to figure out how to get back at the TCLU, Tax Collectors Labor Union. When they all saw these rich, money-grabbing auditors, buying all kinds of separately wrapped gaudy trinkets for Christmas, they had one huge idea pop into their heads. Actually, twelve small ideas popped into twelve small heads, but they combined them into one big idea. All the ideas pieced together to form the single great idea of kidnapping Santa Claus. Actually one of the elves, Joe, had an idea that had absolutely nothing to do with this single great idea. In fact, his idea had something to do with nailing fruits and vegetables to the wall. Everyone just blew his idea off and chalked the whole affair up to the fact that Joe had been dropped too many times as a small child.

Christmas was coming soon, and the TCLU was having a huge Christmas party. The elves thought that without Santa Claus, what good would Christmas be? They figured that without Christmas, all the tax collectors would not be able to have their party and they would have spent a whole bunch of money on guady presents which they would never be able to give to each other.

Now, as you probably have realized, these elves are not too bright. You see, the party still would go on and all the presents would still be handed out, even without a Santa Claus. In fact, they would probably rather keep all of their own presents they had bought; they were very greedy.

Since the elves did not realize that nobody from the TCLU actually cared about Santa Claus at all, they worked together and formed plans to kidnap the jolly, old fellow. No, they were not going to kidnap the president of the TCLU; it was Santa Claus.

The elves ran downtown to the nearest store which had a man who was paid to dress up as Santa Claus and ask small children what they would like for Christmas. They all waited in line for their turn. Now, you realize that elves are short, slender men with pointy ears, and, no, not all are as dumb as these twelve. They looked much like children.

Joe was the first to reach Santa, and he hopped onto his lap and told him what he wanted for Christmas. As Joe was rambling on about people made of corncobs and tree bark, all of the other elves hog-tied Santa and dragged him away kicking with his hands and feet tied behind his back.

After they had returned home with Santa, they sent nasty ransom notes to the local newspapers, radio stations and the TCLU. Now, the papers plastered and the radios blared the news that twelve stupid elves had kidnapped a twenty-eight-year-old man who was trying to make extra pocket money by getting a second job as Santa.

Once the news started spreading, the United Santa Claus Organization heard about it. They were not happy. Within twelve hours of the crime, there were 263 Santa Clauses crammed into a small department store in a small Swedish town. They realized that this was too big a job for them to deal with, so they called the real jolly old fellow in to help; that is, the president of the TCLU. You must understand that in small towns in Sweden, many people had more than one job, and the president of the TCLU was also the Chief of Police. That basically is how all the tax collectors were able to raise the taxes so high and get away with it.

Now all the commotion had reached world-wide news affairs. Way up in the North Pole, the one and only true Santa Claus was worried and a little ticked off, so he hopped in his sleigh and headed to Sweden. Just as he arrived in the Swedish department store, the Chief of Police realized a very important fact. He discovered that the elves involved in the kidnapping were not bright at all. After all, they had to be stupid to have put their return address on the ransom note.

All the fake Santas from the United Santa Claus Organization rushed over to the elves' house and were ready to batter down the door when the Chief of Police decided that they should at least give the elves a chance to give up peacefully. Everyone surrounded the house. That was an interesting sight, 263 Santa Clauses surrounding a small Swedish cottage.

Seeing the mob surrounding them, the elves realized they had made a mistake and were in big trouble, so they gave up peacefully. The Chief of Police handcuffed the elves and escorted them to the Courthouse for an immediate trial.

After all the witnesses had given their stories - there were a lot of Santa Clauses to question - the verdict was decided.

"Guilty," said the judge, who also happened to be the Chief of Police and the president of the TCLU.

It had become common knowledge that Santa Claus, the real one, was having troubles finding employees who would work for the low wages he paid. Santa wasn't rich, and after all, he did give out a whole lot of toys to children at Christmas. Thus, the judge sentenced the elves to a work-release program. They were to work for Santa Claus at the North Pole for food and shelter. For doing this, the judge agreed not to turn them over to the angry Santa mob.

It turned out that the elves loved the North Pole and enjoyed their work immensely, so after their sentence was served, they all decided to stay with Santa and make Christmas a joyous time for everyone.

Oh, and by the way, if you receive a present that just seems absolutely stupid, Joe probably made it. Don't blame him too much; he was dropped too many times as a small child.

A Cat's Christmas Comment
by Maren Dyrud

My Siamese cat, Lacey, was sitting under the warmth of my reading lamp as I tried to think of ideas for a Christmas story. I had the sudden desire for hot chocolate, so I walked downstairs to the kitchen. When I returned with the steaming cup in my hand, I saw Lacey sitting beside a stack of papers with a look of accomplishment on her face. This is what I found written on those papers:

"Christmas time! You know how I dislike anything new or disruptive! Last year, you dragged a huge evergreen tree into our living room and propped it up in the corner. It smelled like the great outdoors (which you never let me out to explore). I felt instinctive ties to this thing from nature, so I immediately made it my home for the next twenty-eight days. Because of all the pine needles on the carpet, you had to keep using that hideous contraption -- the vacuum cleaner -- which I was certain was going to suck me up, whiskers and all. Nevertheless, I enjoyed my new home, and the tree skirt was nice for taking naps.

"Imagine my shock when you began to hang things on the tree! There were silver mirror-like balls hanging from all of the branches. I went up to one on a lower branch to investigate. As I peered closer, I could see another cat, just like me, staring back! But this one was distorted and scary-looking, so I did the most logical thing I could: I batted the ornament off the tree, and it smashed on the floor. I was safe! Then, to my surprise, you came running into the living room, saying,

"'Bad kitty! Bad Lacey!'

"Well! I was only acting in self-defense! You didn't have to yell. Reflections are very threatening to us felines.

"One by one, shiny boxes started to appear under the tree. They were invading my new home! It was my duty to defend my territory, so I had to warn them. I left teeth marks in the wrapping papaer and shredded the bows with my claws. I was so proud of protecting the tree! I tried to meow and tell you that it was safe, and that I had taken care of the invaders, but then I heard again,

"'Bad kitty! What have you done?'

"I didn't understand! This holiday was so confusing! Later on in December, I got used to all that new stuff. Then one night, the whole family gathered in the living room, and someone read out of a big black book about Caesar Augustus and shepherds and a baby who was a King. After that, there were prayers and songs. Everything was peaceful, and the room was filled with love. I guess that was what all that Christmas stuff was aiming for, right?

"By the way, can I get one of those little stockings to hang up this Christmas?"

I patted Lacey on the head and thanked her for helping me with my Christmas story. Then I took a sip of my hot chocolate and wondered how my cat had learned to print.

Sleigh Ride
by Jenny Schuler

The snow fell heavily to the ground. Large pillow drifts stretched across the black two-lane highway. The bitterly cold wind howled fiercely and caused snow to swirl like small tornadoes.

Within a small, old, abandoned barn with broken windows cuddled a small family. A mother, her face worn with stress and pain and now rosy with frostbite, struggled to keep the frosty North wind's touch from her two sleeping children. The three-year-old girl, snuggled against her mother, her thumb in her tiny mouth. The five-year-old boy looked into his mother's eyes, his eyes blinking sleepily. The mother forced herself to be calm, and she sang Christmas carol after carol while gently rocking her terrified children. Setting her children within the warm folds of old hay and covering them with her jacket, she shuffled to a window. Looking out, she noticed that their car was totally buried within the mountains of snow. Their chances of being found tonight were now slim. Shivering uncontrollably, she rubbed her arms through her red Christmas sweater to keep warm. Her fingers were reddish-purple and almost unable to move from the extreme cold. Her eyes filled with tears as she looked

"If the property you now own and live in was not being used by you - or by a "qualifying relative" - or by the previous owner - as a home on January 2, 1993, you can reduce the amount of property tax you will pay on your home in 1994 by applying to have the property classified as a homestead.

However, you or the "qualifying relative" must have moved into the home you now own, and live in it on or before December 1, 1993, to apply to have the property classified as a homestead. A homestead application must be received by the assessor's office by December 15, 1993.

A "qualifying relative" is defined as a parent, stepparent, child, stepchild, spouse, grandparent, grandchild, brother, sister, uncle, or aunt. The relationship may be by blood or by marriage.

As a result of having your home you own classified as a homestead, your property's taxable value will be calculated at a lower percentage of its estimated market value than if it is not classified as a homestead.

To find out how to apply to have the home you own and you live in or a "qualifying relative" lives in classified as a homestead, contact your county assessor in Warren or Thief River Falls .

back at her sleeping children. She wondered if they would survive. She prayed for them to survive. Suddenly her head jerked back to the frosty, cracked window. Bells? Is that sleigh bells?

"The cold must be going to my hearing," the woman murmured to herself. But before her very eyes a large sleigh pulled by two white horses appeared and stopped right in front of the barn. The horses seemed to glow in the foggy night. The sleigh was empty, no driver or rider. The mother tried to think, but found her mind unreachable from the cold. The woman gently picked up her children and stumbled out into the dense blizzard. Stepping up onto the wooden sleigh, warm blankets were placed around the mother and her children. Warmth made the woman's eyes grow heavy, and she struggled to stay awake. A soft, yet commanding voice echoed in her frostbitten ears. "Sleep," the voice said, and the woman drifted into a deep peaceful sleep. The cold wind and falling snow were forgotten as the sleigh jingled on into the white darkness.

The woman's eyes opened, and she stretched, looking at her surroundings. The small farm house was illuminated by a glowing Christmas tree and candles around the room.

"Oh, you're awake!" a man in overalls with a jolly face entered the room with a kind smile. "Your kids ate some chicken soup and my wife and I tucked them in upstairs."

The woman smiled gratefully.

"Do you mind if I ask how in God's name you got here? We're the only farm around here for miles. Your son said something about your car going off the road by the old barn. That is five miles from here. How did you make it in this blizzard?"

The woman walked to the window, puzzled, trying desperately to remember. Pressing her face against the cold glass, she noticed a bright star momentarily piercing the clouds. Her breath began to fog up the window so she turned to the old man.

"I don't know," the woman said. "I don't know."

"Now, Dasher! now, Dancer! now, Prancer and Vixen!
On, Comet! on, Cupid! on Donder and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch! to the top of the wall!
Now dash away! dash away! dash away all!"

Don't rush thru the holiday season

Kindergarten Christmas

by Donna Myhrer

Children always seem to know what they would like Santa Claus to bring on Christmas Eve for themselves, but sometimes it's a little harder to think of something for Mom and Dad. In a recent interview with students in the morning kindergarten class of Susan Olson at Northrop elementary school in Thief River Falls, the following ideas were expressed:

Allen Anderson, son of Lowell Anderson, would like a Super Nintendo and Super Mario game for himself and says his dad needs tools for working on his snowmobile.

Travis Bach, son of David and Julie Bach, wants Santa to bring him a truck with "wheels like claws" and red earrings for his mom. His dad, he says, should get a necklace, "but I don't know if he would wear it or not."

Amy Ball, daughter of Monica Ball, tells us that Santa should bring her mom a new chair to set by the table and sit on for eating supper. "Now she sits in the living room, because her other chair got broken." Amy would like a Water Baby doll.

Adam Barth, son of Randall and Patti Barth, would like a red and white truck and adds that Santa Claus should bring his mom seven roses and his dad some new pants. "Some of his pants have holes in them."

Casey Bladow, son of Mike and Peggy Eckert, wants a slingshot "to hit some deer if I could go hunting with Mike." He hopes that Santa will bring his mom some pink clothes to wear outside. "Mike needs a new gun. He might miss the deer now, but get it if he had another gun."

Jane Buzzell, daughter of Jeff and Janese Buzzell, would like Santa to bring her a doll on roller blades and a blue painted table for her mom. She says her dad should get a saw "with silver on it and a blue handle to cut wood to make houses."

Alexander Carlson, son of Pete and Debra Carlson, wants Santa Claus to bring him a toy train and a blue dress for his mom. Dad should get a shirt, checkered black and red. "We couldn't play checkers on his shirt through because he farms and would get it too dirty."

Tyler Carpenter, son of Corey and Rose Carpenter, would like a rally bike, "like a motorcycle." He hopes Santa will bring roses for his mom and a new battery for his dad's pickup.

Casey Engelstad, daughter of Timothy and LeAnn Engelstad, says she wants Santa to bring her a "talking dog with a tape that says, 'Arf.'" Mom should get a new pink dress to wear to a dance. Dad should get a new gun to shoot deer (but not reindeer) with. Is he good at hunting? "No way! So he needs a new gun."

Joy Grant, daughter of Elliot and Martha Grant, would like a Barbie with trolls for herself and jewelry for her mom, "the usual kind of rings." Santa should bring her dad computer disks because "he plays games on his computer every night."

Ross Haugen, son of Monte and Susan Haugen, tells us that he wants a Home Alone Two game and his mom would like a spatula for mixing Christmas cookies. His dad needs tools, like wrenches and screwdrivers "to make stuff stay together."

Tyler Holen, son of Mark and Sheila Holen, wants a pocket knife "to cut up meat if I hunt deer." He hopes Santa will bring his dad a new coat "to wear it to watch me ride my Kitty Cat." He should bring mom "soap, because she likes cleaning the dishes."

Kelsey Jensen, daughter of Jerry and Nancy Jensen, would like a Beauty and the Beast game or a Snow White game for Christmas. "Dad needs a scraper to wash the windows and Mom should get a picture of a rainbow."

Erin Jesme, daughter of Myron and Rosemarie Jesme, would like a Talking Family doll house for herself.

Chad Johnson, son of Lyle and Deanne Johnson, wants a Master Blaster, "where you put in soft balls and pull the trigger." He wants Santa Claus to bring his mom perfume "to wear to a meeting where people talk." His dad should get a bowling trophy. "He bowls a lot." What's the best score he ever had? "80," according to Chad.

Justine Kirkeide, daughter of Harlan and Amy Kirkeide, wants a new bed "so I don't have to sleep with my brother. He snores." She hopes Santa will bring her mom a diamond ring "to wear to work and a dance. Dad needs a new phone to call my Uncle Richard. The old one is hard to dial."

Ryan Leskiw, son of Ron Leskiw, would like an airplane he can fly with a remote control, and says that Santa should bring his dad towels for washing dishes and his mom a blue teddy bear decoration to hang on the Christmas tree.

Daniel Lund, son of Jeff and Stacy Lund, hopes that Santa will remember to bring him a Mighty Max with spiders and skeletons in it. Dad needs new clothes. Mom needs thread and buttons "because Dad gets his clothes ripped at work."

Danielle Meunier, daughter of Roger and Vicki Meunier, wants a Decorate Barbie with magic glue for herself. Mom should get blue and red shorts for Christmas. What should Santa bring her dad? "Batteries for my toy truck. And some walleyes. He gets enough in the summer, but not in the winter."

Margaret Miller, daughter of Steve and Cheryl Miller, would like a big doll for herself. Santa should bring her mom "red and white necklaces, a foot long." Her dad needs guns and knives to kill deer with.

Jesse Moeller, son of Michael and Mary Moeller, wants a Gears and Motion set, like Legos with a motor. Dad should get tools to put insulation in the garage. Mom needs a "really good pan to cook meals in."

Ashley Mundell, daughter of Thane and Kristi Mundell, would like a Roller Stamp Barbie. Dad needs clothes "because his are all old." Mom needs cooking things to make macaroni and cheese.

Angela Noreen, daughter of James and Lila Noreen, wants a white fuzzy teddy bear for herself and three red flowers for her mom. Her dad, she says, should get a new bed "because he's so tired all the time from work and you can see the water in his old bed that he has now."

Chelsey Osborne, daughter of Royal and Debbie Osborne, would like a Barbie with a Sparkle bathing suit. Her mom would like a necklace, however "Dad doesn't want anything, but he likes to watch TV."

Sean Ranum, son of Joe and Karen Ranum, hopes Santa will bring him a Nintendo game called Contra and golf clubs and a golf bag for his mom, in addition to a blue bowling ball for his dad.

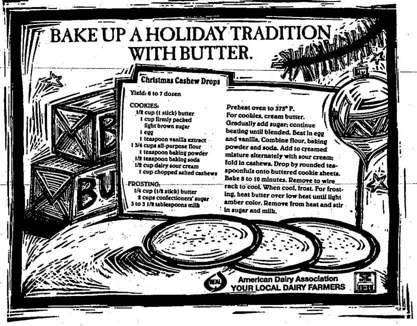
Reilly Stoltman, son of Steven and Vicki Stoltman, wants a robot car for himself and rings and a necklace for his mom. His dad should get "tools to fix my Kitty Cat."

Jordan Swanson, son of Lyle and Joni Swanson, would like a Fast Track with remote control cars. He says that his dad needs a new hammer "to hit nails and hold boards up." He thinks Santa should bring his mom a spatula, "because she makes really good pancakes."

Ryan Weisse, son of Norbert and Lori Weisse, wants a toy police car. He says Santa should bring his mom a new bed because "she always likes to go to sleep." His dad needs a "Home Improvement" movie because "he fixed our Sega when the remote control was broken."

Sally Wiseth, daughter of Terry and Darlene Wiseth, would like a Baby Alive and hopes Santa will bring her dad a new blue swimsuit "for our vacation next summer" and her mom "a T-shirt with a picture of Garth Brooks on it."

Matthew Wold, son of Thomas and Kaylynn Wold, wants Santa Claus to bring him more Pirate Legos. He says his mom should have a new pink and yellow dress to wear to her office and his dad needs a new toy tractor for his collection.



BAKE UP A HOLIDAY TRADITION WITH BUTTER.

Christmas Cashew Drops

Yield: 6 to 7 dozen

COOKIES:
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1 cup chopped salted cashews

FROSTING:
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
2 cups confectioners' sugar
3 to 3 1/2 tablespoons milk

Preheat oven to 375° F.
For cookies, cream butter. Gradually add sugar; continue beating until blended. Beat in egg and vanilla. Combine flour, baking powder and soda. Add to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream; fold in cashews. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto buttered cookie sheets. Bake 8 to 10 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. When cool, frost. For frosting, heat butter over low heat until light amber color. Remove from heat and stir in sugar and milk.

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash.
The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow
Gave the luster of mid-day to objects below.
When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature sleigh, and eight tiny reindeer,

Santa's Elves

by Jeremy Hulteen

It was a bit ago, maybe it was longer than a bit; perhaps it was a while ago. A while ago may be too long. Well, to make this acceptable for those people who really care and truly desire to know at about what time the story took place, we shall state an appropriately appointed approximation upon the appointment of time. In other words, we shall estimate. Imagine that you are in the year somewhere between the birth of man and last Saturday, no, make it last Friday. On second thought, last Saturday is fine; I don't really think it matters much.. Now that that is settled, enough with this crazy nonsense. We shall begin the story, maybe it is a fairy tale, or perhaps it is simply a delusion of my mind. Ladies and gentlemen, with no more stories, on with the delusion.

Previous to this date, now, why did I not think of that before I wrote a whole paragraph about the time of this story. During the rush of Christmas season, people had been withdrawing the hard-earned money they had been saving to buy their loved ones nice neatly wrapped trinkets and toys. The past year had been an economical struggle for many people in many different places. Sweden was hit the hardest by an economical crash. All Swedish tax collectors had joined together and formed their own labor union. They had then gone on a rampage of raising taxes, one after another, just for something to do with their time. You must understand that they did not have Nintendos at this time. While the tax collectors were becoming extremely rich, the poor people became even more poor than they had been before. It's always the same in these kinds of stories; one person gets rich and everyone else becomes poor. One group of people who were struck by this "not nice thing" which the tax collectors had done, was the elves. Now, don't believe for even one second that elves are not real. After all, no one has absolutely proven that they don't, yet, anyway.

Anyway, there was one family of elves who really disliked what had happened, and they were the Jones's. The Jones family consisted of twelve brothers. Nobody really knows what happened to the women of the family, but it really doesn't matter because they are not pertinent to the story. Well, these elves were trying to figure out how to get back at the TCLU, Tax Collectors Labor Union. When they all saw these rich, money-grabbing auditors, buying all kinds of separately wrapped gaudy trinkets for Christmas, they had one huge idea pop into their heads. Actually, twelve small ideas popped into twelve small heads, but they combined them into one big idea. All the ideas pieced together to form the single great idea of kidnapping Santa Claus. Actually one of the elves, Joe, had an idea that had absolutely nothing to do with this single great idea. In fact, his idea had something to do with nailing fruits and vegetables to the wall. Everyone just blew his idea off and chalked the whole affair up to the fact that Joe had been dropped too many times as a small child.

Christmas was coming soon, and the TCLU was having a huge Christmas party. The elves thought that without Santa Claus, what good would Christmas be? They figured that without Christmas, all the tax collectors would not be able to have their party and they would have spent a whole bunch of money on guady presents which they would never be able to give to each other.

Now, as you probably have realized, these elves are not too bright. You see, the party still would go on and all the presents would still be handed out, even without a Santa Claus. In fact, they would probably rather keep all of their own presents they had bought; they were very greedy.

Since the elves did not realize that nobody from the TCLU actually cared about Santa Claus at all, they worked together and formed plans to kidnap the jolly, old fellow. No, they were not going to kidnap the president of the TCLU; it was Santa Claus.

The elves ran downtown to the nearest store which had a man who was paid to dress up as Santa Claus and ask small children what they would like for Christmas. They all waited in line for their turn. Now, you realize that elves are short, slender men with pointy ears, and, no, not all are as dumb as these twelve. They looked much like children.

Joe was the first to reach Santa, and he hopped onto his lap and told him what he wanted for Christmas. As Joe was rambling on about people made of corncobs and tree bark, all of the other elves hog-tied Santa and dragged him away kicking with his hands and feet tied behind his back.

After they had returned home with Santa, they sent nasty ransom notes to the local newspapers, radio stations and the TCLU. Now, the papers plastered and the radios blared the news that twelve stupid elves had kidnapped a twenty-eight-year-old man who was trying to make extra pocket money by getting a second job as Santa.

Once the news started spreading, the United Santa Claus Organization heard about it. They were not happy. Within twelve hours of the crime, there were 263 Santa Clauses crammed into a small department store in a small Swedish town. They realized that this was too big a job for them to deal with, so they called the real jolly old fellow in to help; that is, the president of the TCLU. You must understand that in small towns in Sweden, many people had more than one job, and the president of the TCLU was also the Chief of Police. That basically is how all the tax collectors were able to raise the taxes so high and get away with it.

Now all the commotion had reached world-wide news affairs. Way up in the North Pole, the one and only true Santa Claus was worried and a little ticked off, so he hopped in his sleigh and headed to Sweden. Just as he arrived in the Swedish department store, the Chief of Police realized a very important fact. He discovered that the elves involved in the kidnapping were not bright at all. After all, they had to be stupid to have put their return address on the ransom note.

All the fake Santas from the United Santa Claus Organization rushed over to the elves' house and were ready to batter down the door when the Chief of Police decided that they should at least give the elves a chance to give up peacefully. Everyone surrounded the house. That was an interesting sight, 263 Santa Clauses surrounding a small Swedish cottage.

Seeing the mob surrounding them, the elves realized they had made a mistake and were in big trouble, so they gave up peacefully. The Chief of Police handcuffed the elves and escorted them to the Courthouse for an immediate trial.

After all the witnesses had given their stories - there were a lot of Santa Clauses to question - the verdict was decided.

"Guilty," said the judge, who also happened to be the Chief of Police and the president of the TCLU.

It had become common knowledge that Santa Claus, the real one, was having troubles finding employees who would work for the low wages he paid. Santa wasn't rich, and after all, he did give out a whole lot of toys to children at Christmas. Thus, the judge sentenced the elves to a work-release program. They were to work for Santa Claus at the North Pole for food and shelter. For doing this, the judge agreed not to turn them over to the angry Santa mob.

It turned out that the elves loved the North Pole and enjoyed their work immensely, so after their sentence was served, they all decided to stay with Santa and make Christmas a joyous time for everyone.

Oh, and by the way, if you receive a present that just seems absolutely stupid, Joe probably made it. Don't blame him too much; he was dropped too many times as a small child.

Christmas

by Sara Tyler

Christmas:
virgin fields of snow mirror the beauty of faithfully lit lights upon a tree.

Christmas: mountains of gifts
reflect our giving souls.
Treasures held within the wrapping-- unfold.

Christmas:
the canopy
of glistening angels worships and rejoices over
Jesus.

Christmas:
mounds of presents
sleep beneath wilting boughs looking forward to exposing delights.

A Cat's Christmas Comment

by Maren Dyrud

My Siamese cat, Lacey, was sitting under the warmth of my reading lamp as I tried to think of ideas for a Christmas story. I had the sudden desire for hot chocolate, so I walked downstairs to the kitchen. When I returned with the steaming cup in my hand, I saw Lacey sitting beside a stack of papers with a look of accomplishment on her face. This is what I found written on those papers:

"Christmas time! You know how I dislike anything new or disruptive! Last year, you dragged a huge evergreen tree into our living room and propped it up in the corner. It smelled like the great outdoors (which you never let me out to explore). I felt instinctive ties to this thing from nature, so I immediately made it my home for the next twenty-eight days. Because of all the pine needles on the carpet, you had to keep using that hideous contraption -- the vacuum cleaner -- which I was certain was going to suck me up, whiskers and all. Nevertheless, I enjoyed my new home, and the tree skirt was nice for taking naps.

"Imagine my shock when you began to hang things on the tree! There were silver mirror-like balls hanging from all of the branches. I went up to one on a lower branch to investigate. As I peered closer, I could see another cat, just like me, staring back! But this one was distorted and scary-looking, so I did the most logical thing I could: I batted the ornament off the tree, and it smashed on the floor. I was safe! Then, to my surprise, you came running into the living room, saying,

"'Bad kitty! Bad Lacey!'

"Well! I was only acting in self-defense! You didn't have to yell. Reflections are very threatening to us felines.

"One by one, shiny boxes started to appear under the tree. They were invading my new home! It was my duty to defend my territory, so I had to warn them. I left teeth marks in the wrapping papaer and shredded the bows with my claws. I was so proud of protecting the tree! I tried to meow and tell you that it was safe, and that I had taken care of the invaders, but then I heard again,

"'Bad kitty! What have you done?'

"I didn't understand! This holiday was so confusing! Later on in December, I got used to all that new stuff. Then one night, the whole family gathered in the living room, and someone read out of a big black book about Caesar Augustus and shepherds and a baby who was a King. After that, there were prayers and songs. Everything was peaceful, and the room was filled with love. I guess that was what all that Christmas stuff was aiming for, right?

"By the way, can I get one of those little stockings to hang up this Christmas?"

I patted Lacey on the head and thanked her for helping me with my Christmas story. Then I took a sip of my hot chocolate and wondered how my cat had learned to print.

Near the Manger

Sleigh Ride

by Jenny Schuler

The snow fell heavily to the ground. Large pillow drifts stretched across the black two-lane highway. The bitterly cold wind howled fiercely and caused snow to swirl like small tornadoes.

Within a small, old, abandoned barn with broken windows cuddled a small family. A mother, her face worn with stress and pain and now rosy with frostbite, struggled to keep the frosty North wind's touch from her two sleeping children. The three-year-old girl, snuggled against her mother, her thumb in her tiny mouth. The five-year-old boy looked into his mother's eyes, his eyes blinking sleepily. The mother forced herself to be calm, and she sang Christmas carol after carol while gently rocking her terrified children. Setting her children within the warm folds of old hay and covering them with her jacket, she shuffled to a window. Looking out, she noticed that their car was totally buried within the mountains of snow. Their chances of being found tonight were now slim. Shivering uncontrollably, she rubbed her arms through her red Christmas sweater to keep warm. Her fingers were reddish-purple and almost unable to move from the extreme cold. Her eyes filled with tears as she looked

"If the property you now own and live in was not being used by you - or by a "qualifying relative" - or by the previous owner - as a home on January 2, 1993, you can reduce the amount of property tax you will pay on your home in 1994 by applying to have the property classified as a homestead.

However, you or the "qualifying relative" must have moved into the home you now own, and live in it on or before December 1, 1993, to apply to have the property classified as a homestead. A homestead application must be received by the assessor's office by December 15, 1993.

A "qualifying relative" is defined as a parent, steppafent, child, stepchild, spouse, grandparent, grandchild, brother, sister, uncle, or aunt. The relationship may be by blood or by marriage.

As a result of having your home you own classified as a homestead, your property's taxable value will be calculated at a lower percentage of its estimated market value than if it is not classified as a homestead.

To find out how to apply to have the home you own and you live in or a "qualifying relative" lives in classified as a homestead, contact your county assessor in Warren or Thief River Falls .

Sleigh Ride

by Jenny Schuler

back at her sleeping children. She wondered if they would survive. She prayed for them to survive. Suddenly her head jerked back to the frosty, cracked window. Bells? Is that sleigh bells?

"The cold must be going to my hearing," the woman murmured to herself. But before her very eyes a large sleigh pulled by two white horses appeared and stopped right in front of the barn. The horses seemed to glow in the foggy night. The sleigh was empty, no driver or rider. The mother tried to think, but found her mind unreachable from the cold. The woman gently picked up her children and stumbled out into the dense blizzard. Stepping up onto the wooden sleigh, warm blankets were placed around the mother and her children. Warmth made the woman's eyes grow heavy, and she struggled to stay awake. A soft, yet commanding voice echoed in her frostbitten ears. "Sleep," the voice said, and the woman drifted into a deep peaceful sleep. The cold wind and falling snow were forgotten as the sleigh jingled on into the white darkness.

The woman's eyes opened, and she stretched, looking at her surroundings. The small farm house was illuminated by a glowing Christmas tree and candles around the room.

"Oh, you're awake!" a man in overalls with a jolly face entered the room with a kind smile. "Your kids ate some chicken soup and my wife and I tucked them in upstairs."

The woman smiled gratefully.

"Do you mind if I ask how in God's name you got here? We're the only farm around here for miles. Your son said something about your car going off the road by the old barn. That is five miles from here. How did you make it in this blizzard?"

The woman walked to the window, puzzled, trying desperately to remember. Pressing her face against the cold glass, she noticed a bright star momentarily piercing the clouds. Her breath began to fog up the window so she turned to the old man.

"I don't know," the woman said. "I don't know."

"Now, Dasher! now, Dancer! now, Prancer and Vixen!
On, Comet! on, Cupid! on Donder and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch! to the top of the wall!
Now dash away! dash away! dash away all!"

Don't rush thru the holiday season

From Wednesday, December 8, until Christmas Day there are only 17 days left to do all the things we haven't done yet. So with a little help from a calculator and some estimates of how long things take to do, the following is a list of what needs to be done and how much time is left to do it in.

Kindergarten Christmas

by Donna Myhrer

Children always seem to know what they would like Santa Claus to bring on Christmas Eve for themselves, but sometimes it's a little harder to think of something for Mom and Dad. In a recent interview with students in the morning kindergarten class of Susan Olson at Northrop elementary school in Thief River Falls, the following ideas were expressed:

Allen Anderson, son of Lowell Anderson, would like a Super Nintendo and Super Mario game for himself and says his dad needs tools for working on his snowmobile.

Travis Bach, son of David and Julie Bach, wants Santa to bring him a truck with "wheels like claws" and red earrings for his mom. His dad, he says, should get a necklace, "but I don't know if he would wear it or not."

Amy Ball, daughter of Monica Ball, tells us that Santa should bring her mom a new chair to set by the table and sit on for eating supper. "Now she sits in the living room, because her other chair got broken." Amy would like a Water Baby doll.

Adam Barth, son of Randall and Patti Barth, would like a red and white truck and adds that Santa Claus should bring his mom seven roses and his dad some new pants. "Some of his pants have holes in them."

Casey Bladow, son of Mike and Peggy Eckert, wants a slingshot "to hit some deer if I could go hunting with Mike." He hopes that Santa will bring his mom some pink clothes to wear outside. "Mike needs a new gun. He might miss the deer now, but get it if he had another gun."

Jane Buzzell, daughter of Jeff and Janese Buzzell, would like Santa to bring her a doll on roller blades and a blue painted table for her mom. She says her dad should get a saw "with silver on it and a blue handle to cut wood to make houses."

Alexander Carlson, son of Pete and Debra Carlson, wants Santa Claus to bring him a toy train and a blue dress for his mom. Dad should get a shirt, checkered black and red. "We couldn't play checkers on his shirt through because he farms and would get it too dirty."

Tyler Carpenter, son of Corey and Rose Carpenter, would like a rally bike, "like a motorcycle." He hopes Santa will bring roses for his mom and a new battery for his dad's pick-up.

Casey Engelstad, daughter of Timothy and LeAnn Engelstad, says she wants Santa to bring her a "talking dog with a tape that says, 'Arf.'" Mom should get a new pink dress to wear to a dance. Dad should get a new gun to shoot deer (but not reindeer) with. Is he good at hunting? "No way! So he needs a new gun."

Joy Grant, daughter of Elliot and Martha Grant, would like a Barbie with trolls for herself and jewelry for her mom, "the usual kind of rings." Santa should bring her dad computer disks because "he plays games on his computer every night."

Ross Haugen, son of Monte and Susan Haugen, tells us that he wants a Home Alone Two game and his mom would like a spatula for mixing Christmas cookies. His dad needs tools, like wrenches and screwdrivers "to make stuff stay together."

Tyler Holen, son of Mark and Sheila Holen, wants a pocket knife "to cut up meat if I hunt deer." He hopes Santa will bring his dad a new coat "to wear it to watch me ride my Kitty Cat." He should bring mom "soap, because she likes cleaning the dishes."

Kelsey Jensen, daughter of Jerry and Nancy Jensen, would like a Beauty and the Beast game or a Snow White game for Christmas. "Dad needs a scraper to wash the windows and Mom should get a picture of a rainbow."

Erin Jesme, daughter of Myron and Rosemarie Jesme,would like a Talking Family doll house for herself.

Chad Johnson, son of Lyle and Deanne Johnson, wants a Master Blaster, "where you put in soft balls and pull the trigger." He wants Santa Claus to bring his mom perfume "to wear to a meeting where people talk." His dad should get a bowling trophy. "He bowls a lot." What's the best score he ever had? "80," according to Chad.

Justine Kirkeide, daughter of Harlan and Amy Kirkeide, wants a new bed "so I don't have to sleep with my brother. He snores." She hopes Santa will bring her mom a diamond ring "to wear to work and a dance. Dad needs a new phone to call my Uncle Richard. The old one is hard to dial."

Ryan Leskiw, son of Ron Leskiw, would like an airplane he can fly with a remote control, and says that Santa should bring his dad towels for washing dishes and his mom a blue teddy bear decoration to hang on the Christmas tree.

Daniel Lund, son of Jeff and Stacy Lund, hopes that Santa will remember to bring him a Mighty Max with spiders and skeletons in it. Dad needs new clothes. Mom needs thread and buttons "because Dad gets his clothes ripped at work."

Danielle Meunier, daughter of Roger and Vicki Meunier, wants a Decorato Barbie with magic glue for herself. Mom should get blue and red shorts for Christmas. What should Santa bring her dad? "Batteries for my toy truck. And some walleyes. He gets enough in the summer, but not in the winter."

Margaret Miller, daughter of Steve and Cheryl Miller, would like a big doll for herself. Santa should bring her mom "red and white necklaces, a foot long." Her dad needs guns and knives to kill deer with.

Jesse Moeller, son of Michael and Mary Moeller, wants a Gears and Motion set, like Legos with a motor. Dad should get tools to put insulation in the garage. Mom needs a "really good pan to cook meals in."

Ashley Mundell, daughter of Thane and Kristi Mundell, would like a Roller Stamp Barbie. Dad needs clothes "because his are all old." Mom needs cooking things to make macaroni and cheese.

Angela Noreen, daughter of James and Lila Noreen, wants a white fuzzy teddy bear for herself and three red flowers for her mom. Her dad, she says, should get a new bed "because he's so tired all the time from work and you can see the water in his old bed that he has now."

Chelsey Osborne, daughter of Royal and Debbie Osborne, would like a Barbie with a Sparkle bathing suit. Her mom would like a necklace, however "Dad doesn't want anything, but he likes to watch TV."

Sean Ranum, son of Joe and Karen Ranum, hopes Santa will bring him a Nintendo game called Contra and golf clubs and a golf bag for his mom, in addition to a blue bowling ball for his dad.

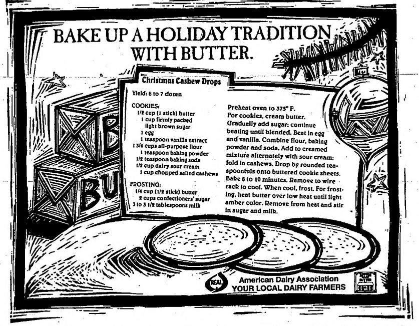
Reilly Stoltman, son of Steven and Vicki Stoltman, wants a robot car for himself and rings and a necklace for his mom. His dad should get "tools to fix my Kitty Cat."

Jordan Swanson, son of Lyle and Joni Swanson, would like a Fast Track with remote control cars. He says that his dad needs a new hammer "to hit nails and hold boards up." He thinks Santa should bring his mom a spatula, "because she makes really good pancakes."

Ryan Weisse, son of Norbert and Lori Weisse, wants a toy police car. He says Santa should bring his mom a new bed because "she always likes to go to sleep." His dad needs a "Home Improvement" movie because "he fixed our Sega when the remote control was broken."

Sally Wiseth, daughter of Terry and Darlene Wiseth, would like a Baby Alive and hopes Santa will bring her dad a new blue swimsuit "for our vacation next summer" and her mom "a T-shirt with a picture of Garth Brooks on it."

Matthew Wold, son of Thomas and Kaylynn Wold, wants Santa Claus to bring him more Pirate Legos. He says his mom should have a new pink and yellow dress to wear to her office and his dad needs a new toy tractor for his collection.



BAKE UP A HOLIDAY TRADITION WITH BUTTER.

Christmas Cashew Drops

Yield: 6 to 7 dozen

COOKIES:
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1 cup chopped salted cashews

FROSTING:
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
2 cups confectioners' sugar
3 to 3 1/2 tablespoons milk

Preheat oven to 375° F. For cookies, cream butter. Gradually add sugar; continue beating until blended. Beat in egg and vanilla. Combine flour, baking powder and soda. Add to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream; fold in cashews. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto buttered cookie sheets. Bake 8 to 10 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. When cool, frost. For frosting, heat butter over low heat until light amber color. Remove from heat and stir in sugar and milk.

Be safe with a fireside holiday

The year-end holiday season is a prime time for residential fires. Decorative lights, candles, parties where people drink and smoke, and especially the onset of the heating season all increase the likelihood of fire.

Watch Children

Keep matches and lighters out of children's reach - up high and preferably in a locked cabinet. Teach young children to stay away from candles, fireplaces and space heaters. Older children should be taught how to light candles or fireplace fires safely, and they should do so only under direct supervision.

Choose Toys Wisely

When buying presents for children, avoid those that could be highly flamable. Make sure all electric toys bear a fire-safety label from an independent testing laboratory. Keep electric toys away from Christmas trees and paper decorations.

Give Space Heaters Space

Keep space heaters at least three feet away from furniture, bedding, clothing, walls, and other things that can burn. Always use the proper fuel for liquid-fuel space heaters. Vent them and refill them only in ventilated areas when they are cool. Make sure the type of heater you are using is legal in your area and has a label from a safety laboratory.

Party Safety

Use only flame retardant or noncombustible materials for costumes and decorations. Provide smokers with large, deep, non-tip ashtrays and, keep an eye on anyone who is drinking and smoking. Empty ashtrays often and wet their contents before dumping them. Check cushions and furniture for smoldering butts.

Holiday Lights

Be sure all decorative lights, indoor and outdoor, bear the label of an independent testing laboratory. Replace any light sets that have cracked or frayed cords or loose connections. Do not overload outlets or run extension cords under carpets, across doorways, on or under heaters or pinched behind furniture. Unplug all decorative lights before leaving home or going to bed. Never use electric lights on a metal Christmas tree.

Fireplaces

Have your chimney inspected by a professional at least once a year and cleaned if necessary. Always use a fire screen and burn only materials appropriate for the fireplace. Never burn trash or paper in a fireplace; burning paper can float up the chimney and onto the roof or into your yard. Remove ashes in a metal container and never store them in your home.

Candles

Always put candles in non-tip candle holders before you light them, and do not burn candles near combustible decorations or displays. Keep candles well away from curtains and other combustible articles, and never put candles in windows or near exits. Never leave candles burning unattended or within reach of small children. Extinguish candles - wetting the wicks - before you leave a room or go to bed.

Christmas Trees

Choose a fresh Christmas tree. If you're not cutting a tree yourself, buy one that is not showing signs of shedding its needles. Cut your Christmas tree trunk at an angle, and put it securely in a large, deep, non-tip stand. Set up your tree away from exits, fireplaces, and heat sources. Be sure your tree has water constantly. If you use an artificial tree, be sure that it is labeled as flame-retardant.

> He was dressed all in fur, from his head to his foot,
> And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;
> A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
> And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.

Kim Peterson and Lori Carpenter (left to right) are shown here standing beside the Angel Tree at Lori's Hallmark in Thief River Falls. The tree holds names of children and an idea of what each child would like for Christmas. Everyone who wishes to help give a merry Christmas to a needy family may choose a tag from the tree and return a gift to the store where it will be wrapped and addressed.

Angel Tree gives merry Christmas

Every year, for the past eight years, many children in this community have had a merrier Christmas because of Angel Trees or Wish Trees. The Angel Tree at Lori's Hallmark in Thief River Falls helps match gifts with 80 children each year, bringing both toys and clothing to the recipients.

Names of the children are gathered through the county Social Services office and the child's gender, age, clothing sizes and wishes for presents are listed on small cards which are then attached to the Tree at the store.

Lori Carpenter explains, "Clothing is more popular with older children and mothers of small infants. We wrap the gifts and tag them. Families come in by the 21st to pick them up."

Although Lori says the children don't open their gifts until they get them home, "you can see the excitement on their faces when they come in with their families to pick the gifts up." Sometimes they can even anticipate what the gift is. "How do you hide a wrapped hockey stick?" she adds.

Lori also points out that the cards for girls and young children tend to be picked up first. She guesses that this is because older boys are harder to choose gifts for, but stresses that it is just as important to remember the older children during the holiday season as the younger ones.

She would also like to remind those who pick up the cards that gifts should be brought in by December 18 to give the staff time to wrap them.

Christmas Wish Trees Bring Joy to Area Children

by Kelly Rogalla
Violence Intervention Project

In addition to the usual holiday rush, Pamida and Kmart staff are very busy coordinating tags and wrapping gifts for the Christmas Wish Trees. The tags that decorate the trees each has a needy child's gift wish. Names of the children are submitted anonymously from the Violence Intervention Project, Pennington County Human Services, Crossroads Displaced Homemakers Program, the Thief River Falls Police department and the Pennington County Sheriff's department.

We should all take pride in our community's response to this project. Last year over 500 gifts were distributed. Many families have expressed their thanks, including families who would have had no Christmas presents without these donations.

Personnel from the Pennington County Sheriff's department and the Thief River Falls police department have been very helpful in distributing the gifts. They have dressed up in Santa suits and brought many gifts directly to children's homes. The Law Enforcement officers have enjoyed the excitement, laughter, smiles and even a few tears from the children when they meet Santa at their own home.

The sponsoring organizations encourage any individual, church group, homemakers' club or fraternal organization to remove tags from the trees early. There are approximately 40 children on a waiting list to get a tag onto the tree. Contact the Violence Intervention Project at 681-5557 if you would like to make a cash donation towards gifts as volunteers are available to do the shopping for you if you prefer.

On behalf of all who receive gifts from your generosity, may you be blessed with a peaceful and joyous holiday season.

ters, as well as handing out coloring books and candy canes. No postage should be placed on letters to Santa, since if there is a stamp on the letter, it may end up at the dead letter office in St. Paul, because the local postal employees can't take care of it here. Some of these letters, by the way, are also shared with KTRF and read on the air.

McCloskey states that, beginning December 3, the window hours at the post office here will expand until 6 p.m. each weekday evening through December 23 and until 3 p.m. on Saturdays. He also reminds everyone that the post office has two full service contract stations at Hugo's and Jubilee Foods which are handicapped-accessible.

It would help to ease the load of the postal employees and get mail delivered more efficiently if people would try to mail their cards and packages early and use full addresses on their cards and letters. McCloskey also asks that people not put candy or small items like pens in card envelopes. These should be mailed in special padded envelopes to decrease the damage by the machines that cancel the stamps. He adds that it is important to wrap packages carefully, using sturdy boxes and packing material such as popcorn to cushion the items in the boxes.

A flat purse means a stout Christmas tree.

The small boy cannot be judged by his conduct on Christmas Eve.

It's a foolish girl who gives her beaux the mitten before Christmas. [Waves good-bye]

Better a paid pork chop than a fat turkey on the tick.

Blessed are the babies on Christmas Day; they can be put off with cheap candy.

The head of the family expends many dollars on presents and receives two handkerchiefs and a pair of mits. Then is the time to be merry.

A sealskin sacque [coat] makes a devout church-goer.

Ring soft and low ye brazen bells
Each mournful note the end foretells
Of dying year -
Reverberating sweet, sublime
Your solemn voices left their chime
And as the last tones die away
The year is but a memory.

Ring loud and clear, ye silvery bells
Each joyful note the birth foretells
Of glad New Year!
Herald a true and lasting peace
Proclaim that strife and wrong shall cease.
Ring in a deeper truer sense
Of God's benign omnipotence.

From the Lincoln High School Progress

What They [the students] Plan To Do During Christmas Vacation

Cleon: I intend to devote at least three hours every day to American History.

Oliver: At last I will have a chance to eat animal cookies undisturbed.

Melvin: My entire time will be taken up with educational investigations.

Harriet: I'm already engaged as a dressmaker in Highlanding.

Margaret: My time will be spent orating the "Outcasts of Poker Flats."

Mildred: At Gully my services are considered invaluable as a social worker.

Hazel: As a public speaker I will spend my spare time orating to a mirror.

Orrin: My barbershop will benefit by my undivided attention for two weeks.

Mike: Freda has promised to give me a dancing lesson every day.

Clifford: My eyes will not be dry for a minute; I will weep incessantly for my dear departed teachers.

Joe: I shall do my utmost to keep my hair curled.

Math: I am annoyed to think of having two weeks of idleness. My plans are as yet vague, but I hope to find something to amuse me.

Full Houses Greet Two Yule Concerts At Lincoln High

"Audiences of more than 600 persons Wednesday and Thursday evenings filled the Lincoln high school auditorium to near capacity both nights, when junior and senior high school musical groups presented the annual Christmas concert.

Participating groups included the concert choir, junior high school choir and Lincoln Singers, directed by Bryant Ulseth; and the concert orchestra and junior high school orchestra, directed by James Solsten.

"The Christmas story was effectively presented in a series of tableaus with Everett Marshall of the Lincoln high school faculty serving as narrator.

"The appreciative audiences accorded high praise to the well-presented program."

Decorated miniature Christmas trees of many varied types were returned to Northern State Bank in its pre-Christmas contest. Cash prizes were offered to persons doing the best job of decorating in three age groups: grades 1 to 5; grades 6 to 8; and grades 9 to 12. The bank furnished plastic foam cones and the students provided the imagination and materials. The 150 decorated trees will be given to local rest homes and the hospital for enjoyment by residents and patients during the holiday season."

Visit an Old Friend

"Following suggestion on observing the holidays comes through the office of Richard Spyhalski, administrator of Northwestern hospital services in Thief River Falls:

Loneliness and holidays are frequently synonymous for many older people. The holiday period is an especially busy time for most people. In trying to keep pace with the hectic holiday schedule and adhere to a demanding social calendar, many well-intentioned Americans will simply overlook the special needs of elderly relatives and friends during this time of the year.

Yet during this season many older people are most vulnerable to loneliness and depression. Remember a relative or friend not seen for a while. Or stop by a nursing home, senior citizen housing complex or retirement community and ask to spend a little time with someone who especially needs to be reminded that someone cares.

"Visit an old friend this holiday season."

The Times' Editorial Opinion

The Times

Holidays Are Difficult For Families Of Alcoholics

(The following information was provided by a member of the local Al-Anon chapter which meets each Tuesday and Sunday at 8 p.m. in Room 113 at Northwest Medical Center and welcomes anyone concerned about someone else's drinking. Information may also be received by calling 681-7171.)

Holidays are typically happy times as families and friends gather to eat, drink and be merry. But to many, the holidays offer little to celebrate. Instead, they are reminders of times turned upside down by the excessive drinking of a loved one.

Writes on adult child of an alcoholic: "The joys of the holiday season quickly fade as I remember my mother having one too many, and suddenly becoming nasty and abusive as we opened presents. It not only ruined the holidays past, but it puts a negative spell on the holidays I now try to share with my own children."

"Each New Year's Eve is a horror as I relive the phone call I received five years ago from the police station informing me that my drunken teenager had just killed a pedestrian" writes one father.

One woman from Russia simply states, "I don't like celebrations because they are events to drink. I can't take it easy in friendly company because I worry that my husband will drink too much."

While most of us recognize that alcoholism is a disease, too few realize that it is a family disease that may emotionally, spiritually or physically affect every person living with the alcoholic. Families and friends of alcoholics may face financial problems, embarrassment, isolation or mental or physical abuse.

Al-Anon Family Groups is a worldwide fellowship of more than 600,000 relatives and friends of alcoholics who share their experiences, strengths and hopes in order to solve their common problems. This free, confidential, nonprofessional mutual support system offers meetings in 112 countries. There are 32,000 groups worldwide, including more than 4,100 Alateen groups for teenage members.

Al-Anon brings hope to families and friends of alcoholics. Its program, based on the Twelve-Step program developed by Alcoholics Anonymous, helps members recognize that while they are powerless over the disease of alcoholism, they can make positive changes in their own lives. Through Al-Anon and Alateen, families learn that it is possible to find contentment, even happiness, whether the alcoholic is drinking or not.

If you are concerned about someone else's drinking and need help getting through this holiday season, contact Al-Anon or Alateen through the meetings or phone number listed at the beginning of this editorial. For free literature, call toll-free 1-800-356-9996 or write to Al-Anon Family Group headquarters, Inc., P.O. Box 862, Midtown Station, New York, NY 10018-0862.

Bemidji Resident Likes T.R.F. For Groceries

Once again we have received a letter where the writer has given a signature and has reason not to be individually identified, but the message is positive in nature and worthy of public consideration. It is The Times policy not to print unsigned letters to the editor in our public opinion column for a number of reasons, but we are taking the liberty to use the letter's contents as editorial material. The letter follows:

"As a former resident of Thief River Falls, who now resides in Bemidji, I feel I must respond to the recent Letter to the Editor in the Times regarding the need to grocery shop in Bemidji for 'double coupon savings.'

"Because I have shopped in both communities for groceries (choosing Thief River Falls over Bemidji whenever possible), I know from experience that Bemidji offers no bargains—whether it be groceries, gasoline or what have you.

"Bemidji grocery stores can afford to offer double coupons on their products because the prices are too high to begin with. There may be more variety in Bemidji, but Thief River Falls offers honest 'down home' prices.

"So, Thief River Falls shoppers who shop Bemidji.....shop locally. That's where the bargains are. We in Bemidji should be so fortunate."

Some Things Will Never Change

So you think complaining about people who have achieved fame or wealth or power or status is something new? How about this gem from the McKinley high school paper in St. Louis, MO, back in 1914:

> I hate the guys that criticize
> And minimize the other guys
> Whose enterprise has made them rise
> Above the guys that criticize.

That should make an editorial writer a little bit humble, shouldn't it?

Letters To The Editor and Corrections

Letters To The Editor: The Times encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in The Times exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The Times believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will no longer withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by The Times for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, The Times encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention at 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth
And the smoke it encircled his head like a wreath;
He had a broad face and a little round belly,
That shook, when he laughed, like a bowlful of jelly.
He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him in spite of myself;
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head,
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread;

Priorities for staying in shape for Christmas

One of the hardest things about the Christmas holiday season is knowing that with all the food and goodies, your clothes won't fit the same way they did after it's all over. Alicia Haviland, who has been teaching aerobics classes in Thief River Falls for several years, shares the following hints to help keep your shape as you enjoy the season:

1. If you're invited to a party, eat before you go. Avoid the urge to gorge yourself on every item set before you. Have a small meal of low-fat high-fiber foods before leaving home.
2. Tape your idea of a "target" body all over your home, car and especially on the refrigerator.
3. Do at least 50 sit-ups every morning and night -- but especially before you leave for a party.
4. Wear tight clothing, never elastic waistbands. Always wear something that zips up and has a button or snap at the waist. Tuck in your shirt or blouse. This will make you watch what you eat because you will be so uncomfortable as you hold in those abdominals or attempt to sit down.
5. Listen to motivational tapes. Display "successful" eating and diet maintenance stories and photos. If they can do it, so can you.
6. Keep a food diary.
7. Just have a taste, not two whole helpings.
8. Drink water, drink water, drink water.
9. If you feel hungry, brush your teeth, floss your teeth, chew hot Big Red gum, which numbs the taste buds.
10. Keep a wall chart of weight and exercise. Watching the progression helps keep you on task.
11. Keep safe nibble foods ready.
12. Avoid salty foods.
13. Always leave some food on your plate. Never clean your plate.
14. Find a way to exercise and do it. Don't hesitate. Do it! Your health is the most important gift you have!

LETTERS

I DIDN'T KNOW THAT! As a new member of Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 1829, I attended their annual meeting recently. I learned that each year, at least for the past few years, this organization has returned over $30,000 to our community. This money is distributed to Lutheran churches, organizations and individuals who have expressed their needs to the Lutheran Brotherhood branch here. Approval by the branch officers and the parent organization is a requirement.

The amount of money distributed by each branch is determined by the business activity of the local Lutheran Brotherhood. It is able to do this because of its fraternal status.

The $30,000 returned to our community has been a best-kept secret—at least to me—so now I'm shouting it from the roof tops.

Have a Merry Christmas.

Thief River Falls

He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk,
And laying his finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose;

OUR ADVERTISERS SAVE YOU MONEY!

"Uff Da" can be appropriate at Christmas, too

"Uff Da" is an expression which cannot be defined by a standard dictionary sort of definition. Its true meaning can only be understood by examing a list of some of the circumstances which would cause a real Norwegian to use the expression. The following list of appropriate times to say "Uff Da" during the holiday season was prepared by a committee of "real" Norwegians: that is, several persons who are 100 percent of Norwegian descent plus a couple who claim to be two-thirds Norwegian.

Uff Da is...

...realizing you accidentally used the leftover cat food in the fridge on the crackers you served at the office Christmas party yesterday

...finding out as you are loading Christmas presents into your car that you went through the check-out line with the wrong cart

...losing the Father-Son Hockey game to a team of Tiny Mites

...plugging in the 200-foot string of Christmas lights already strung for the entire length of the roof and realizing there is a burned-out bulb somewhere that is keeping all of them from coming on

...having Swedish meatballs at a lutefisk supper

...in fact, anything to do with lutefisk (who said that?).

Even Santa Claus may have occasion to use the term "Uff Da" since Norway is pretty close to the North Pole, after all:

Uff Da is...

...when Santa realizes that the reason the toddler on his lap was crying wasn't fear of his beard, but was because she needed to go to the bathroom

...traveling over all the world Christmas Eve landing on every roof, but forgetting to bring along the reindeer pooper-scooper

...after the exhausting rush of his Christmas Eve work, finally arriving at the Pole, all ready to relax and take a nap, raising his head out of the sleigh and seeing penguins.

Merry Christmas to everyone from the committee!

Post office keeps busy with holiday

One of the truest examples of Santa's helpers during the Christmas season is the post office. Volume of mail literally doubles for about three weeks in December, according to Richard McCloskey, postmaster of the Thief River Falls Post Office.

He says that the busiest day of the year is generally the Monday before Christmas with the post office handling between 150,000 and 175,000 pieces of mail daily at the peak. About five percent of this mail is packages.

There are 5,968 homes to which mail is delivered directly from the Thief River Falls post office, including four city routes and eight rural routes and McCloskey says that most of them get Christmas mail. Fortunately for the postal clerical staff of 24 locally, the number of ads in the mail tends to decline during the month of December, although this type of mail is heaviest in November and January.

McCloskey adds that if there is nice weather, people don't seem to think about Christmas, so there could be more of a rush with lots of "priority mail" just before the holiday.

The Thief River Falls post office had a special visitor last Thursday for the fourth year, when Santa Claus spent some time there to hear what about 90 children would like for Christmas and receive their let-

Polk County Nursing Service in Gully

Tuesday December 14 from 1 to 3 p.m. and Tuesday, December 28 from 1 to 3 p.m. the Polk County Nursing service will be at the Gully Community Center.

Mrs. Herman Jansen and Mrs. Darrel Christopherson hosted a birthday party for Mavis Christopherson at her apartment with many of her relatives and friends from Trail, Gully and Gonvick area attending. A delicious lunch was served, including a decorated birthday cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Nelson, Marian Reiche of Wausau, WI and Emma Nyland were Wednesday afternoon callers at Effie Handy's.

Andor and Diana Ness of Detroit Lakes came and got Natalie Haugen on Wednesday to spend the Thanksgiving weekend with them and they brought her home on Sunday. They all had dinner at the Gully cafe and Dianne and Andor also visited over at Gonvick with the new families.

Alice Forsberg went to the Cities with her cousin Harry Stode and his wife Maria from Sweden. They visited with Alice's family in the Cities and left for Sweden. Alice came home last Monday with the Rydeens.

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

How to be a good person

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

Our Father in heaven wants us to be good sons and daughters for Him. He wants us to respect Him. He wants us to love Him wholeheartedly (Deut. 6:5). He wants us to stop swearing so we won't bring curses upon ourselves. He wants us to stop dwelling on what is evil because those evil thoughts will eventually become evil actions. He wants us to practice moderation in all things because He doesn't want us to hurt ourselves. He wants us to do good things for ourselves instead of bad things that can harm us (Deut. 6:18, 24). He wants us to stay out of trouble by engaging in good and productive things (Titus 3:14).

What better way could there be to do good things than to help those who are in need? By helping the blind, the lame, the sick and the elderly, we learn to care for others in need (Luke 14:13-14; 10:37). We learn to be sensitive to the needs of others. We learn compassion, forgiveness, patience, kindness, goodness, joy, faithfulness, gentleness, and most of all, how to love our neighbor. These are the fruits of the Spirit, which come from serving others in a godly way every day (Gal. 5:22-24). Remember, the greatest in the kingdom will be the servant of the most (Matt. 25:33-40; 23:11; Mark 9:35; 10:43-44)!

December 8, 1993
School District 564
Regular Board Meeting
November 8, 1993, 7:00 p.m.
S.D.S.C. Conference Room

A Regular Board Meeting of Independent School District #564 was held on Monday, November 8, 1993, at 7:00 p.m. in Conference Room A of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Maryel Anderson, Carl Clark, Hank Hallstrom, Dennis Kiesow and Darla Twomey. Also present was Dr. Robert Duncan, Superintendent of Schools.

Vice Chair Dennis Kiesow called the meeting to order and Clerk Darla Twomey established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by M. Anderson and seconded by C. Clark to approve the agenda as amended. Motion carried unanimously.

Information was distributed concerning the MSBA Combination Phase I & II New Board Member Orientation to be held in Minneapolis on December 6.

The Boys Cross Country Team was recognized for being named Class AA Academic State Champions with a 3.95 GPA. Team members include Jon Hendrickson, Dan Bjorkness, David Johnson, Nick Doe, Stefan Ronchetti, Brian Unbehaun, and Nathan Anderson. Head Coach is Lynn Dyer and Assistant Coach is Clark Hendrickson. E & V, Inc. and St. Paul Book and Stationary were also recognized for donating $250 each for a dinner for all elementary staff to begin planning for their move into Challenger Elementary School. The Academic Boosters Club was recognized for donating $100 for a Carbo Reading Method which is a specialized reading program where students read with recorded tapes.

Jim Haspas, Building Project Superintendent, updated the Board on progress of the building projects at Challenger Elementary School, Lincoln High School and Franklin Middle School.

Darla Twomey reported on the Shared Decisions Minnesota session she attended last week along with Superintendent Duncan, Cheryl Lee, Jeff Mumm, Mary Follett, Judy Lindquist, Gerri Stocks and Pete Solem. They felt the session was very informative.

Business Manager Harry Nelson discussed the Energy Management Program being recommended indicating that a committee would be formed to work in January and February developing specifics of the program with a detailed document ready for the Board in February or March. Harry also reviewed the end-of-year fund balances and indicated Roy Lunde would be presenting the auditor's report at the next meeting. Other items presented for Board action that Harry reviewed included the purchase of buses and a discharge machine for the metals program, the refinancing of the 1978 TC and 1988 Lincoln bond issues, and an agreement with Norwest Bank to increase collateral.

Superintendent Bob Duncan reviewed the PER Committee recommendations including roles and responsibilities, Policy AF PER Commitment, and membership for the 1993-94 school year. Bob also reviewed the proposed application for Block Grant funds and the Executive Summary concerning MEEP which discussed a study that was done comparing MEEP schools to non-MEEP schools throughout the state. An Agreement to form an alliance with a number of schools as School-to-Work Transition Partners was also reviewed. Parties to the alliance include the Northwest Technical College, Minnesota Business Partnership, West Central ECSU, Prairie Lakes Education District, Tech Prep Consortium, and the school districts of Pelican Rapids, Detroit Lakes, Perham, Frazee, New York Mills, and Thief River Falls.

A motion was made by D. Twomey and seconded by H. Hallstrom to approve the Minutes of the October 25, 1993, Regular Board Meeting. Motion carried unanimously.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
PENNINGTON COUNTY
NOVEMBER 9, 1993 - 10:00 A.M.

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Commissioners room in the courthouse in Thief River Falls, on Tuesday, November 9, 1993 at 10:00 a.m., Members present: Jenson, Comstock, Swanson, Murphy & Naplin. Members absent: none.

Delton Schultz, County Engineer met with the County Board to give them a status update on projects being done by the County Highway department.

The following resolution was moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Naplin and upon vote was unanimously carried.

WHEREAS, Contact No. 93004 has in all things been completed and the County Board being fully advised in the premises.

NOW THEN BE IT RESOLVED: That we do hereby accept said completed project for and in behalf of the County of Pennington and authorize final payment as specified herein.

The County Engineer then discussed Pennington County becoming a member in the Partnership for Greater Minnesota. The cost of membership for one year is $100.00. Moved by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to join the Partnership for Greater Minnesota and pay one years membership fee in the amount of $100.00. Motion carried.

Heidi Hoks from the Northwest Regional Library met with the Board to discuss their concerns and feelings as to where they as representatives would like to see the library go in the next five years.

Judge Murphy met with the County Board to inform them that the District Judges have acquired an additional County. The State Senator's and Representative's from our region are pushing to get on line TV for the Court Systems. Moved by Commissioner Comstock, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to approve the concept of obtaining on line TV for the Court Systems. Motion unanimously carried.

Sheriff Moe, Judge Murphy and Scot Peters Sentence to Service coordinator discussed Pennington County applying for a grant in the amount of $24,899.88 through the Juvenile Restitution Grant Program. There would be no match required by the County for this Grant.

The following resolution was moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Comstock and upon vote was unanimously carried.

WHEREAS, Minnesota Statutes 242.39 is to provide and finance work for eligible juveniles who have monetary restitution obligations to victims and,

WHEREAS, applications must be submitted to the Department of Corrections by December 1st, 1993.

BE IT RESOLVED that the Pennington County Board approve of submitting an application for a $24,899.88 grant through the Juvenile Restitution Grant Program.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the County Board Chairman and County Auditor be authorized to sign the application form on behalf of Pennington County.

Sheriff Moe and Scott Peters then discussed entering into a Joint Powers Agreement with Marshall and Kittson Counties for the Sentence to Service Program. Moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to approve the Sentence to Service Agreement between Pennington, Marshall and Kittson Counties and authorize Sheriff Moe to enter into a Sentence to Service contract with these counties. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Jenson to recind their previous motion to advertise for misdemeanor public defender services. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Commissioner Jenson, seconded by Commissioner Murphy to extend the misdemeanor public defender contract with Don Aandal for 1 year. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Commissioner Jenson, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to sell the smashed up squad car to Bakers acres for $560.00. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Sheriff then discussed a request he had received from Nancy Olson for a six month personal leave of absence. Moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to approve the six month leave of absence for Nancy Olson with no pay and all benefits to cease during time of leave. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Board then discussed the actions and work attendance of Greg Sandahl after receiving complaints about not being able to find him during working hours. Moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to send a letter of reprimand to Greg Sandahl's and to place the letter in his personnel file for not complying with previous time sheet orders and putting at least six visable hours per day in. The foregoing motion was carried upon roll call vote. Commissioner Jenson-Aye, Commissioner Comstock-Aye, Commissioner Swanson-Aye, Commissioner Murphy-Aye and Commissioner Naplin-Aye.

The County Board along with Orrin Bendickson then opened bids for Health, Life, Disability Insurance and Cafeteria Plan Administration. All bids are on file in the County Auditor's Office.

Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Murphy to request that Orrin Bendickson, Insurance Advisor research all the bids for Health, Life, Disability Insurance and Cafeteria Plan Administration and return to the County Board with a spread sheet on November 23, 1993. Motion unanimously carried.

Cheryl Reed of Meadowbrook Insurance will also summarize the bids.

Ken Olson, County Auditor then discussed a request for abatement of interest on back taxes on property owned by Charles Joyce described as: The East 147' of Lot 3, Block 8 Riverside Addition to Thief Rive Falls. Abatement was denied.

The County Board then discussed the delinquent taxes on property owned by Carl Anderson described as: The West 100' of Lots 13 & 14, Block 34 of the Original Townsite of Thief River Falls. No action was taken.

The County Auditor then discussed the problems with Louis Keller's well being situated on the tax forfeited property described as: Thief River Addition, Block 3 which is located next to his property. The DNR will not allow Pennington County to sell this tax forfeited property since it is located next to the river. However, they do not see a problem with having the piece of this property where the well is located surveyed and then sold to Mr. Keller. Moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to approve that Mr. Keller pay for the survey costs and additional costs to separate the piece of this property that his well is on from the remainder of this tax forfeited property. Mr. Keller may then acquire the land that his well is on for $1.00 upon approval of the DNR. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Commissioner Jenson, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to approve payment of $240.00/year/participant to Green Thumb to help defray the costs of Worker's Compensation on Green Thumb employees working for Pennington County. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to approve the minutes of October 26, 1993 as written. Motion unanimously carried.

Howard Person then discussed the Insecticide, Chemicals Review Draft that he had received from the Minnesota Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Person also discussed the bid advertising for administration and or Lease for the solid waste facility. Moved by Commissioner Jenson, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to change the date for bid proposal openings for the Solid Waste Facility to 2:30 p.m. December 15th, 1993 with bids to be delivered no later than 2:00 p.m. December 15th, 1993. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Commissioner Jenson, seconded by Commissioner to pay $50.00/year membership fee to the Volunteer Program. Motion carried.

The County Auditor then discussed a request for a nomination by the County Board to the Regional Arts Council. Moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to recommend John Mattson as a member for a 3-year term on the Regional Arts Council. Motion unanimously carried.

December 8, 1993
School District 564
Regular Board Meeting
November 8, 1993, 7:00 p.m.
S.D.S.C. Conference Room

A Regular Board Meeting of Independent School District #564 was held on Monday, November 8, 1993, at 7:00 p.m. in Conference Room A of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Maryel Anderson, Carl Clark, Hank Hallstrom, Dennis Kiesow and Darla Twomey. Also present was Dr. Robert Duncan, Superintendent of Schools.

Vice Chair Dennis Kiesow called the meeting to order and Clerk Darla Twomey established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by M. Anderson and seconded by C. Clark to approve the agenda as amended. Motion carried unanimously.

Information was distributed concerning the MSBA Combination Phase I & II New Board Member Orientation to be held in Minneapolis on December 6.

The Boys Cross Country Team was recognized for being named Class AA Academic State Champions with a 3.95 GPA. Team members include Jon Hendrickson, Dan Bjorkness, David Johnson, Nick Dee, Stefan Ronchetti, Brian Unbehaun, and Nathan Anderson. Head Coach is Lynn Dyer and Assistant Coach is Clark Hendrickson. E & V, Inc. and St. Paul Book and Stationary were also recognized for donating $250 each for a dinner for all elementary staff to begin planning for their move into Challenger Elementary School. The Academic Boosters Club was recognized for donating $100 for a Carbo Reading Method which is a specialized reading program where students read with recorded tapes.

Jim Haspas, Building Project Superintendent, updated the Board on progress of the building projects at Challenger Elementary School, Lincoln High School and Franklin Middle School.

Darla Twomey reported on the Shared Decisions Minnesota session she attended last week along with Superintendent Duncan, Cheryl Lee, Jeff Mumm, Mary Follett, Judy Lindquist, Gerri Stocks and Pete Solem. They felt the session was very informative.

Business Manager Harry Nelson discussed the Energy Management Program being recommended indicating that a committee would be formed to work in January and February developing specifics of the program with a detailed document ready for the Board in February or March. Harry also reviewed the end-of-year fund balances and indicated Roy Lunde would be presenting the auditor's report at the next meeting. Other items presented for Board action that Harry reviewed included the purchase of buses and a discharge machine for the metals program, the refinancing of the 1978 TC and 1988 Lincoln bond issues, and an agreement with Norwest Bank to increase collateral.

Superintendent Bob Duncan reviewed the PER Committee recommendations including roles and responsibilities, Policy AF PER Commitment, and membership for the 1993-94 school year. Bob also reviewed the proposed application for Block Grant funds and the Executive Summary concerning MEEP which discussed a study that was done comparing MEEP schools to non-MEEP schools throughout the state. An Agreement to form an alliance with a number of schools as School-to-Work Transition Partners was also reviewed. Parties to the alliance include the Northwest Technical College, Minnesota Business Partnership, West Central ECSU, Prairie Lakes Education District, Tech Prep Consortium, and the school districts of Pelican Rapids, Detroit Lakes, Perham, Frazee, New York Mills, and Thief River Falls.

WHEREAS, Contact No. 93004 has in all things been completed and the County Board being fully advised in the promises.

NOW THEN BE IT RESOLVED: That we do hereby accept said completed project for and in behalf of the County of Pennington and authorize final payment as specified herein.

The County Engineer then discussed Pennington County becoming a member in the Partnership for Greater Minnesota. The cost of membership for one year is $100.00. Moved by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to join the Partnership for Greater Minnesota and pay one years membership fee in the amount of $100.00. Motion carried.

Heidi Hoks from the Northwest Regional Library met with the Board to discuss their concerns and feelings as to where they as representatives would like to see the library go in the next five years.

Judge Murphy met with the County Board to inform them that the District Judges have acquired an additional County. The State Senator's and Representative's from our region are pushing to get on line TV for the Court Systems. Moved by Commissioner Comstock, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to approve the concept of obtaining on line TV for the Court Systems. Motion unanimously carried.

Sheriff Moe, Judge Murphy and Scot Peters Sentence to Service coordinator discussed Pennington County applying for a grant in the amount of $24,899.88 through the Juvenile Restitution Grant Program. There would be no match required by the County for this Grant.

The following resolution was moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Comstock and upon vote was unanimously carried.

WHEREAS, Minnesota Statutes 242.39 is to provide and finance work for eligible juveniles who have monetary restitution obligations to victims and,

WHEREAS, applications must be submitted to the Department of Corrections by December 1st, 1993.

BE IT RESOLVED that the Pennington County Board approve of submitting an application for a $24,899.88 grant through the Juvenile Restitution Grant Program.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the County Board Chairman and County Auditor be authorized to sign the application form on behalf of Pennington County.

Sheriff Moe and Scott Peters then discussed entering into a Joint Powers Agreement with Marshall and Kittson Counties for the Sentence to Service Program. Moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to approve the Sentence to Service Agreement between Pennington, Marshall and Kittson Counties and authorize Sheriff Moe to enter into a Sentence to Service contract with these counties. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to recind their previous motion to advertise for misdemeanor public defender services. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Murphy to extend the misdemeanor public defender contract with Don Aandal for 1 year. Motion unanimously carried.

Bunny DuChamp returned on Sunday evening after spending a month with her daughter Candy and Dan Stanley and her new granddaughter at Bradenton, FL. While there, she attended the baptism of little Danica Jesse at Manatee Historical Park church where Candy and Dan were married. Sponsors of Danica were her aunts Jana Granum, Cathy DuChamp (by proxy) Dana Allen and Debbie Keiffer. Dan's parents, Frank and Flo Stanley of Lake Wales, FL also attended. Most of Bunny's visit was spent in the Stanley home, but they did make a trip to Fort Meyers and toured the winter home of Henry Ford.

Eddy Eskell and Lorna Huotari were recent visitors of Tom and Wilma Huotari.

Harley and Alice Schiefert and children of Fargo spent Sunday afternoon and were supper guests of Edna Hyde.

Clara Holley and Alma Hanson visited with Bunny DuChamp on Tuesday bringing cake and coffee.

Birthday for Chandler

The birthday of Chandler Burns was celebrated on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Sandy Greenwald with guests Karen and Megan Demarais, Edna Hyde, Kaysee and Jamie Lee.

Edna Hyde was a Tuesday supper guest at the Herb Walter home.

Annie Blair of Altona, Manitoba came on Wednesday to spent Thanksgiving Day and the weekend with her cousin, Edna Hyde. Sons Dennis of Medicine Lake and Roger were with them too for the holiday.

Outreach Team

An Outreach Team from Concordia College in Moorhead came on Saturday evening and conducted Sunday services at Immanuel and Ebenezer churches. Team members were Hope Dahl, Jenny Stoner, Shawna Harmon, Nikki Bakko, Becky Bartlett, Jonathan Norberg, Tracy Langerud and Mavis Miller. They were housed in various homes: Lorna Huotari, Howard LaFayette, Martin Eskeli, Deb DuChamp, the Byer home. They were a vibrant group and were well received.

SPORTSMANSHIP POLICY FOR 1993-1994 ATHLETIC PROGRAMS AT LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL

Good sportsmanship is strived for in all School District #564 events. Good sportsmanship is a responsibility of players, coaches, faculty, cheerleaders, students, adult spectators, officials and the media. Promotion of good sportsmanship at School District #564 events shall include a demonstration of respect for opponents and officials. All involved in an event shall maintain selfcontrol throughout the contest. Rules of the event shall be understood and skill and performance shall be recognized regardless of team affiliation. Good sportsmanship is the cornerstone of a quality activity program.

City tax levy for 1994 to rise 5.8 per cent

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Thief River Falls' tax levy will increase by 5.8 per cent over last year's tax levy. The dozen or so people who attended the city's truth in taxation hearing December 7 at the public library, learned of the increase and how it affected their estimated property taxes for 1994.

The net tax levy for Thief River Falls' general fund is expected to raise $910,324, which is a 5.8 per cent increase over the previous year. Last year, the total net tax levy was $860,420.

Seventy per cent of the increase this year is due to bonded debt. According to City Finance Officer Roger DeLap, the bonded indebtedness levy of $277,000 represents the city's attempt to maintain one year's principal and interest on reserve, and to establish a debt service fund for the current 1993 improvement project. Last year, bonded indebtedness was $236,121.

In other funds, increases in expenses over the 1993 budget are anticipated in the police department fund (7.1%), fire department (20.4%), and principal and interest — bonds (12.5%). The signficant expense increase for the fire department is due to some repairs that will be made to the fire department building. Decreases in expenses are anticipated in streets and highways (9.1%), parks and recreation (0.7%), miscellaneous, insurance and trust fund (5.7%), and engineering, CDAB and police relief (9.6%).

A summary of government fund expenditures for 1994 show the following: $681,314 for general government, $855,288 for the police department, $428,902 for the fire department, $429,985 for streets and highways, $628,199 for parks and recreation; $970,000 for principal and interest (bonds), $580,738 for miscellaneous insurance and trust funds, and $283,646 for engineering, CDAB and police relief.

Overall, expenses in all funds are expected to increase 3.6 per cent.

Revenue from other funds are expected to increase by 2.6 per cent overall. Increases in revenue are expected in Minnesota local gov-

Glenmore Recovery Center purchases Trident Services

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Glenmore Recovery Center recently announced the purchase of Trident Services in Thief River Falls.

Trident Services, a chemical dependency treatment service provider, has been in operation in Thief River Falls since January 28, 1987. It wasn't an easy process. Upon opening as a halfway house on North LaBree, however, it grew rapidly, obtaining an out-patient license, then a detoxification license, then a primary treatment license then an extended care license. It also expanded to another halfway house on North Knight and then a treatment services center on Highway 59 south.

Jon Furuseth, owner and operator, said as quickly as it grew, funding sources dried up. At one time they employed 23 people. Trident Services currently employs 15 people.

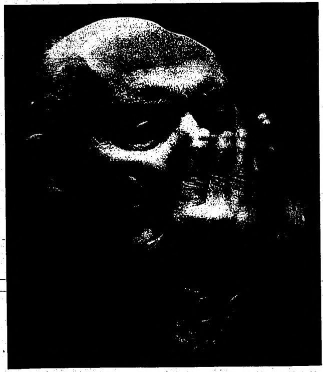
Furuseth is very positive about Glenmore taking over Trident Services. He said they have the experience and qualified staff to provide good service. The major reason he decided to sell the business was because of what he termed the "Bureaucratic Jurassic Park", which is a reference to the paperwork and regulations imposed upon chemical dependency treatment service providers. He said he does not have another policy or procedure in him — he's just burned out on it all.

Furuseth said he feels good about what he has been able to accomplish in Thief River Falls. He said he lived up to his promises to the Planning commission and city council when he said he would keep things under control. And, he provided a needed service. He said Glenmore purchased the halfway house at 621 North LaBree, the name, the five licenses, and a non-compete clause. He said three out of five licenses will remain in Thief River Falls.

Glenmore has been serving the Northwestern region of Minnesota for 20 years and is a leader in the treatment of chemical dependency. It has operated an outpatient clinic in Thief River Falls for 10 years and looks forward to becoming more involved in the Thief River Falls community. With the acquisition of Trident Services, Glenmore will offer outpatient care, extended care, and operate a half-way house out of Thief River Falls. Trident's inpatient and detoxification services will be transferred to Glenmore's main facility at Riverview in Crookston.

Glenmore Recovery Center is owned and operated by Riverview Healthcare Association of Crookston.

Furuseth said he hopes the transition will be vary natural, and smooth. He doesn't foresee any problems in Glenmore taking over. His plans call for taking a couple of months off. Operating the business and putting up with all the paperwork and regulation has taken its toll physically and emotionally.



Two harmonica solos will be presented by Tilman Swenson, a resident of Valley Home in Thief River Falls, at the annual Christmas program Friday, December 17, at 7:30 p.m. Tilman has played the harmonica since early childhood and also played a number of other instruments for many years. Arthritis in his hands has restricted his ability to play other instruments, but Tilman still is able to coax good sound from his small harmonica. More photos and a story about the program are on page 8 of today's issue of The Times.

Operators of Miz Ellies plan to vacate property

Commissioners wants to keep businesses operating in county

Pennington County Board of Commissioners held an informational hearing Tuesday morning with liquor license holders of Miz Ellies, a Goodridge lounge. Lonnie Watne and Al Kiesow, who are the license holders, declared at the end of the hour-long meeting that they had no intention of reapplying for a liquor license or operating Miz Ellies, but not before explaining the difficulties they have faced and accusing the sheriff's department and media of blowing those problems out of proportion and contributing to more problems.

Pennington County board chairman Skip Swanson stated at the outset that the county board is the authority for issuing liquor licenses in Pennington county and it is also responsible for law enforcement and safety and well-being of citizens in the county. He said he feels these have come into serious conflict at Miz Ellies and that was the reason for the meeting.

Pennington County Attorney Dave Olin explained that the meeting was not an official hearing as Watne's attorney was not present and a court recorder was not present.

Commissioner Ken Murphy was somewhat disappointed as he thought the original intent of his motion to hold the hearing was to take action at the conclusion of the meeting.

After the confusion was dispelled, Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe summarized the problems occurring and thus providing a reason for the meeting. Moe stated that in comparing the years of 1992 and 1993 and the number of incidents at Miz Ellies, he found that there had been 58 contacts in 1993 since January, some of which were merely information. Under different management in 1992 there were a total of 14 contacts made. Moe stated that these incidents included minors being served alcohol as well as other liquor violations, and assaults. In all, he concluded, it "shows a total disrespect for the law".

Watne and Kiesow were able to explain many of the problems. Kiesow, for example, noted that business had increased by about one-third. Watne explained that many of the complaints came from people outside the bar, who either had some problems with the operators of the establishment or with other people, but their problems had nothing to do with the bar. Kiesow and Watne both said they had been encouraged to contact the sheriff's department whenever a problem occurred and that's what they did. Kiesow said that when incidents were reported many of those incidents were not properly investigated.

With the amount of publicity these incidents have been generating, Watne and Kiesow said it has been difficult to operate the business. Watne said that when these incidents occurred, the media failed to contact him. (Watne contacted The Times on three occasions, but asked to remain off-the-record on all three occasions, except when he requested a correction.)

Commissioner Murphy noted that it wasn't the intent of the county board to "pick on Miz Ellies". He said that when one business has a higher rate of incidence than the others they have to look at that.

Commissioner Bud Comstock

Leadership for medical center foundation set

James Rogalla has been selected to chair the newly-formed Northwest Medical Center Foundation, an organization formed to assist the medical center and soon to begin its public endowment campaign.

Larry McDowell will serve as vice chairman with Cathy Belmont as secretary and Roger DeLap as treasurer. Yet to be named are three persons from the area who believe strongly in the mission of Northwest Medical Center and its goal of remaining in the forefront of health care in northwestern Minnesota.

Kick-off for the public phase of the campaign to fund the foundation has been scheduled for Thursday, February 3, at the Best Western Inn. Marilyn Wigness heads the kick-off committee, assisted by Maryel Anderson, Judy Dimich, Bunny Dondelinger, Diane Freeman, Judy Johnson, Linda Spyhalski and Janice Uphan.

Dr. Thomas Clifford, President Emeritus of the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, will be the keynote speaker for the kick-off program.

A recently-completed employees' campaign which involved the nearly 400 employees of the medical center exceeded expectations and will set the pace for other areas of solicitation to follow, according to Rogalla. Pat Troskey headed the employees' campaign with primary assistance from Gail Holland, Darlene Kelley, Melodee Rupprecht and Barb Trickle.

Bob Flynn heads the planned giving committee which also includes Larry McDowell, Regan Rohl and Kay Wedul-Steiger.

A number of other committees have begun preliminary work and their involvement will increase after the public phase of the effort begins in early February. The cam-

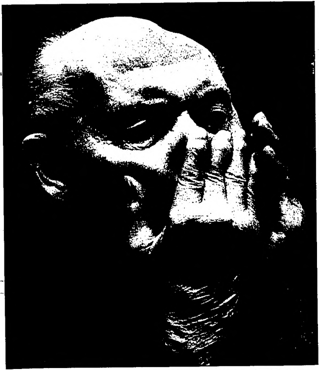
He said he does not have another policy or procedure in him — he's just burned out on it all.

Furuseth said he feels good about what he has been able to accomplish in Thief River Falls. He said he lived up to his promises to the Planning commission and city council when he said he would keep things under control. And, he provided a needed service. He said Glenmore purchased the halfway house at 621 North LaBree, the name, the five licenses, and a non-compete clause. He said three out of five licenses will remain in Thief River Falls.

Glenmore has been serving the Northwestern region of Minnesota for 20 years and is a leader in the treatment of chemical dependency. It has operated an outpatient clinic in Thief River Falls for 10 years and looks forward to becoming more involved in the Thief River Falls community. With the acquisition of Trident Services, Glenmore will offer outpatient care, extended care, and operate a half-way house out of Thief River Falls. Trident's inpatient and detoxification services will be transferred to Glenmore's main facility at Riverview in Crookston.

Glenmore Recovery Center is owned and operated by Riverview Healthcare Association of Crookston.

Furuseth said he hopes the transition will be vary natural, and smooth. He doesn't foresee any problems in Glenmore taking over. His plans call for taking a couple of months off. Operating the business and putting up with all the paperwork and regulation has taken its toll physically and emotionally.



Two harmonica solos will be presented by Tilman Swenson, a resident of Valley Home in Thief River Falls, at the annual Christmas program Friday, December 17, at 7:30 p.m. Tilman has played the harmonica since early childhood and also played a number of other instruments for many years. Arthritis in his hands has restricted his ability to play other instruments, but Tilman still is able to coax good sound from his small harmonica. More photos and a story about the program are on page 8 of today's issue of The Times.

Operators of Miz Ellies plan to vacate property

Commissioners wants to keep businesses operating in county

Pennington County Board of Commissioners held an informational hearing Tuesday morning with liquor license holders of Miz Ellies, a Goodridge lounge. Lonnie Watne and Al Kiesow, who are the license holders, declared at the end of the hour-long meeting that they had no intention of reapplying for a liquor license or operating Miz Ellies, but not before explaining the difficulties they have faced and accusing the sheriff's department and media of blowing those problems out of proportion and contributing to more problems.

Pennington County board chairman Skip Swanson stated at the outset that the county board is the authority for issuing liquor licenses in Pennington county and it is also responsible for law enforcement and safety and well-being of citizens in the county. He said he feels these have come into serious conflict at Miz Ellies and that was the reason for the meeting.

Pennington County Attorney Dave Olin explained that the meeting was not an official hearing as Watne's attorney was not present and a court recorder was not present.

Commissioner Ken Murphy was somewhat disappointed as he thought the original intent of his motion to hold the hearing was to take action at the conclusion of the meeting.

After the confusion was dispelled, Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe summarized the problems occurring and thus providing a reason for the meeting. Moe stated that in comparing the years of 1992 and 1993 and the number of incidents at Miz Ellies, he found that there had been 58 contacts in 1993 since January, some of which were merely information. Under different management in 1992 there were a total of 14 contacts made. Moe stated that these incidents included minors being served alcohol as well as other liquor violations, and assaults. In all, he concluded, it "shows a total disrespect for the law".

Watne and Kiesow were able to explain many of the problems. Kiesow, for example, noted that business had increased by about one-third. Watne explained that many of the complaints came from people outside the bar, who either had some problems with the operators of the establishment or with other people, but their problems had nothing to do with the bar. Kiesow and Watne both said they had been encouraged to contact the sheriff's department whenever a problem occurred and that's what they did. Kiesow said that when incidents were reported many of those incidents were not properly investigated.

With the amount of publicity these incidents have been generating, Watne and Kiesow said it has been difficult to operate the business. Watne said that when these incidents occurred, the media failed to contact him. (Watne contacted The Times on three occasions, but asked to remain off-the-record on all three occasions, except when he requested a correction.)

Commissioner Murphy noted that it wasn't the intent of the county board to "pick on Miz Ellies". He said that when one business has a higher rate of incidence than the others they have to look at that.

Leadership for medical center foundation set

James Rogalla has been selected to chair the newly-formed Northwest Medical Center Foundation, an organization formed to assist the medical center and soon to begin its public endowment campaign.

Larry McDowell will serve as vice-chairman with Cathy Belmont as secretary and Roger DeLap as treasurer. Yet to be named are three persons from the area who believe strongly in the mission of Northwest Medical Center and its goal of remaining in the forefront of health care in northwestern Minnesota.

Kick-off for the public phase of the campaign to fund the foundation has been scheduled for Thursday, February 3, at the Best Western Inn. Marilyn Wigness heads the kick-off committee, assisted by Maryel Anderson, Judy Dimich, Bunny Dondelinger, Diane Freeman, Judy Johnson, Linda Spyhalski and Janice Upham.

Dr. Thomas Clifford, President Emeritus of the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, will be the keynote speaker for the kick-off program.

A recently-completed employees' campaign which involved the nearly 400 employees of the medical center exceeded expectations and will set the pace for other areas of solicitation to follow, according to Rogalla. Pat Troskey headed the employees' campaign with primary assistance from Gail Holland, Darlene Kelley, Melodee Rupprecht and Barb Trickle.

Bob Flynn heads the planned giving committee which also includes Larry McDowell, Regan Rohl and Kay Wedul-Steiger.

A number of other committees have begun preliminary work and their involvement will increase after the public phase of the effort begins in early February. The cam-

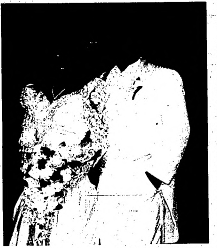
Pittman and Koropatnicki wed October 9 in Thief River Falls



Lorray Pittman and Dale Koropatnicki were united in marriage October 9 at St. Bernard's Catholic church in Thief River Falls. Rev. Joe DeCrans officiated at the 2 p.m., double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Larry and Loretta Pittman and parents of the groom are James and Phyllis Koropatnicki. All are of Thief River Falls.

Music was provided by Lisa Simenson, friend of the couple, and Steve Olson, cousin of the groom. Pianist was Charity Wicks, cousin of the bride. Carl Dugstad and Matthew Balstad, cousins of the bride, were servers at the wedding mass.

Serving her sister as maid of honor was Lana Pittman of Thief River Falls. Bridemaids were Val Noel of St. Paul, friend of the couple; Janet Berberich of Thief River Falls, aunt of the bride; Melissa Breuer of Fargo, ND, cousin of the bride; and Tammy Alberg, also of Thief River Falls, friend of the couple.

Brittney Odberg was flower girl. She is a friend of the couple from Thief River Falls. Ring bearer was Dale Swanson, cousin of the groom, also from Thief River Falls.

Dean Koropatnicki of Tokyo, Japan, served as his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Darrel Miller, Hillsboro, ND; Scott Severinson, Grand Forks, ND; and Jack Milender, Thief River Falls, all friends of the couple; and Loren Pittman, Thief River Falls, brother of the bride.

Ushering the guests were Steve Olson, Stone Mountain, GA, cousin of the groom; Chad Swan, Woodberry, friend of the couple; Roger Solem, Apple Valley, cousin of the groom; and Rodney Harder, Thief River Falls, friend of the couple.

Honored guests at the ceremony were Gordon and Gloria Pittman of Thief River Falls and Mayme Berberich of Brooks, grandparents of the bride; Tillie Sabo, great-grandmother of the bride; and Celia Koropatnicki, grandmother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for the couple. Connie Dugstad, aunt of the bride, Charlie, friend of the couple, and Candi and Marv Olson, friends of the groom, served as hosts and hostesses.

Presiding at the guest book was Lisa Pittman, sister-in-law of the bride. Alice Balstad and Sue Olson cut the wedding cake, and Betty Lindy and Rita Berberich served coffee. All are aunts of the bride. Punch was served to the guests by Andrea Pittman, cousin of the bride, and Tana Olson, friend of the couple.

Gift carriers were Kurt and Paul Fenner and Luke Balstad, friends of the bride, and Benjamin Berberich, cousin of the bride. Ted and Darlene Koropatnicki, aunt and uncle of the groom, were in charge of transporting the gifts.

Serving as flower hostesses were Rae Ann Pittman, aunt of the bride, and Pam Pearson, cousin of the groom. Programs were distributed by Brittany Berberich, cousin of the bride, and Lindsey Swanson, cousin of the groom.

Serving as waitresses were Stephanie and Tammy Berberich, cousins of the bride, Desirae Alberg, friend of the bride, and Jaclyn Miller, cousin of the groom.

After a wedding trip to Fargo, ND, the couple is at home in Mesa, AZ. The bride, a 1989 graduate of Lincoln high school and 1991 graduate of Moorhead Technical College, is employed at Buffalo Ranch in Tempe, AZ. The groom is the owner and operator of Koro's Refrigeration, Air Conditioning and Heating in Mesa, AZ. He is a 1986 graduate of Lincoln high school and a 1991 graduate of Moorhead Technical College.

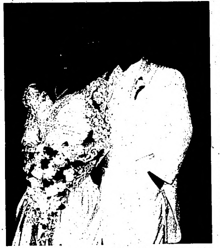
Pittman and Koropatnicki wed October 9 in Thief River Falls



Lorray Pittman and Dale Koropatnicki were united in marriage October 9 at St. Bernard's Catholic church in Thief River Falls. Rev. Joe DeCrans officiated at the 2 p.m., double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Larry and Loretta Pittman and parents of the groom are James and Phyllis Koropatnicki. All are of Thief River Falls.

Music was provided by Lisa Simenson, friend of the couple, and Steve Olson, cousin of the groom. Pianist was Charity Wicks, cousin of the bride. Carl Dugstad and Matthew Balstad, cousins of the bride, were servers at the wedding mass.

Serving her sister as maid of honor was Lana Pittman of Thief River Falls. Bridemaids were Val Noel of St. Paul, friend of the couple; Janet Berberich of Thief River Falls, aunt of the bride; Melissa Breuer of Fargo, ND, cousin of the bride; and Tammy Alberg, also of Thief River Falls, friend of the couple.

Brittney Odberg was flower girl. She is a friend of the couple from Thief River Falls. Ring bearer was Dale Swanson, cousin of the groom, also from Thief River Falls.

Dean Koropatnicki of Tokyo, Japan, served as his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Darrel Miller, Hillsboro, ND; Scott Severinson, Grand Forks, ND; and Jack Milender, Thief River Falls, all friends of the couple; and Loren Pittman, Thief River Falls, brother of the bride.

Ushering the guests were Steve Olson, Stone Mountain, GA, cousin of the groom; Chad Swan, Woodberry, friend of the couple, Roger Solem, Apple Valley, cousin of the groom; and Rodney Harder, Thief River Falls, friend of the couple.

Honored guests at the ceremony were Gordon and Gloria Pittman of Thief River Falls and Mayme Berberich of Brooks, grandparents of the bride; Tillie Sabo, great-grandmother of the bride; and Celia Koropatnicki, grandmother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for the couple. Connie Dugstad, aunt of the bride, Charlie, friend of the couple, and Candi and Marv Olson, friends of the groom, served as hosts and hostesses.

Presiding at the guest book was Lisa Pittman, sister-in-law of the bride. Alice Balstad and Sue Olson cut the wedding cake, and Betty Lindy and Rita Berberich served coffee. All are aunts of the bride. Punch was served to the guests by Andrea Pittman, cousin of the bride, and Tana Olson, friend of the couple.

Gift carriers were Kurt and Paul Fenner and Luke Balstad, friends of the bride, and Benjamin Berberich, cousin of the bride. Ted and Darlene Koropatnicki, aunt and uncle of the groom, were in charge of transporting the gifts.

Serving as flower hostesses were Rae Ann Pittman, aunt of the bride, and Pam Pearson, cousin of the groom. Programs were distributed by Brittany Berberich, cousin of the bride, and Lindsey Swanson, cousin of the groom.

Serving as waitresses were Stephanie and Tammy Berberich, cousins of the bride, Desirae Alberg, friend of the bride, and Jaclyn Miller, cousin of the groom.

After a wedding trip to Fargo, ND, the couple is at home in Mesa, AZ. The bride, a 1989 graduate of Lincoln high school and 1991 graduate of Moorhead Technical College, is employed at Buffalo Ranch in Tempe, AZ. The groom is the owner and operator of Koro's Refrigeration, Air Conditioning and Heating in Mesa, AZ. He is a 1986 graduate of Lincoln high school and a 1991 graduate of Moorhead Technical College.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Christmas Goodies May Not be so Good

I know I make too many Christmas goodies. Every year I spend my nights and weekends baking cookies and bars and making candies. This year I have spent so much time with my head in the oven that my eyebrows are singed. I have been spending my time baking for Christmas for so long that I have forgotten what it is like to come home from work and sit down or have a relaxing weekend.

I know it isn't necessary to have every kind of cookie I've had every single Christmas throughout my life time, but that is what I seem to be trying to do, bake every kind of cookie I have ever tasted and then some more.

One year I made 35 different kinds of Christmas treats. That is ridiculous! (Actually, it was stupid - after the holidays I ended up giving them away to every relative and friend I had because I couldn't stand the sight of them any more. I made my relatives and friends pretty happy, though.)

Usually before the holidays I make a list of what cookies I "have" to bake because the children will say, "Why didn't you make (blank) or (blank) this year? They are my favorites!" I have no idea how they can possibly tell which cookies are missing. I can't tell. Actually, I can't even remember what kinds I made last year, let alone which ones each particular child is fond of.

I used to make lists that I kept from one year to another to tell me what kind of cookies and candies I made. The lists just kept getting longer because I would also try some new recipes along with last year's old ones. I think that is how I ended up making 35 kinds.

I've decided that I am not going to make any more lists. So, I forget a cookie or two that just happens to be someone's favorite. Tough luck! They are all old enough to take a recipe and bake their own cookies. I will even find the recipe for them, if I can remember in which of my cookbooks it is.

This year I stuck to my decision and did not make a list. I just went through my cookbooks and baked cookies that I saw and remembered were good. However, the problem with that is that I have now remembered a couple or three or four kinds that I especially like that didn't get baked. Now I will have to bake some more because I can't possibly leave out those particular ones or the cookie trays won't look the same.

One rule we have at our house is that cookies and candies are not to be eaten until after our Christmas Eve meal. The only cookies and candies we taste before Christmas Eve are the ones that have burned or fallen apart or not turned out right. Those we can eat. All the rest get frozen solid or hidden until the big day.

After the Christmas Eve meal, punch is made and all of the goodies are brought out on trays and set on the table. Then everyone can eat all they want. Never mind that they are usually too full of the Christmas Eve feast to eat much. They will eventually get down to serious cookie snacking some time before the evening is through.

Every year the children say I have made too many cookies and too much candy and I shouldn't make so much next year. But why is it they always say this late on Christmas Eve night, sitting there like stuffed teddy bears with chocolate on their chins and crumbs on their cheeks? I don't think they mean a word of what they say and I am going to keep making as many cookies and candies as my poor, singed eyebrows can take.

I wonder, could it be that all that cookie baking and candy making is what is causing me to be such a grouch this year?

Organ donors decided by families

To help create an awareness about the organ donor shortage, LifeSource is encouraging families to make a New Year's resolution this year to talk with their loved ones about organ donation. LifeSource is an Upper Midwest organ procurement organization.

More than $32,000 Americans are currently on a national waiting list hoping to receive a life-saving organ transplant. About 900 of these people live within Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota. The number of people waiting for transplants far exceeds the organs available, and seven people die each day while waiting for the organ they need.

One reason for the organ donor shortage is the fact that people fail to tell their families or loved ones their decision about donation. When the time comes to make a decision about organ donation, the family must give written permission for the donation.

According to a 1993 Gallup Poll, 85 per cent of American support organ donation. However, 79 per cent mistakenly believe that it is necessary to note their wishes on their driver's license or carry a signed donor card.

"A driver's license or a donor card are only indications of your wishes but they are non-binding documents," explains Susan Gunderson, executive director of LifeSource. "Many people don't realize that their next of kin makes the final decision about organ donation for them. That's why it's so important that individuals tell their family of their decision. The only way your loved ones will know your wishes is if you tell them."

LifeSource is the nonprofit organization, selected by the federal government, to manage the recovery of organs for transplantation in the Upper Midwest. For a brochure about organ donation call LifeSource toll-free at 1-800-247-4273.

Live Nativity at St. John's church

St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls is continuing its tradition of holding a live Nativity scene at the church on the corner of First Street and Pine Avenue. The event will be staged from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Sunday, December 19.

Junior and Senior choirs and the Junior and Senior handbell choirs will present a musical concert in the church sanctuary at 5 p.m. along with the singing of congregational hymns. The Sunday School children's Christmas service will be at 6:30 p.m.

People from the community are welcome and encouraged to stop by the church and enjoy the pre-Christmas celebration. Refreshments will be served in the education wing of the church throughout the evening.

The Christmas celebration will continue with festival worship services at 7 p.m. on Christmas Eve and 9 a.m. on Christmas Day.

A. Goulet to attend Concordia

Angelique Goulet, the daughter of Mrs. Linda and the late John Goulet, has announced her decision to enroll at Concordia College in Moorhead for the start of the 1994-95 school year.

Angelique will graduate from Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls in the spring of 1994. At Lincoln she has participated in student senate, business club, National Honor Society, Investment Society, concert choir and the Swingsations jazz choir.

G. Rhineberger is VISTO volunteer

Gayle Rhineberger, daughter of Karen Rhineberger of Thief River Falls and Stephen Rhineberger, is a member of the Volunteers in Service to Others (VISTO) at the College of St. Benedict at St. Joseph.

A sophomore social work major, Gayle is active in St. Cloud Woman House, a shelter that provides safety and advocacy services for battered women and their children. Her responsibilities include answering crisis calls, interacting with the women and children, accompanying women to court or planning activities with children.

VISTO is a non-profit organization comprised of CSB and Saint John's University students who recognize the importance and value of hospitality and concern for the welfare of others. Members seek to be of service in a variety of ways to those in the surrounding community who are in need.

Except for an advisor on each campus, VISTO is entirely student-run. It consists of 19 different services in four basic areas of (1) youth programs such as Project Friends and Kidstop; (2) developmental disability programs, such as the Special Olympics; (3) senior citizen programs throughout the area; and (4) special service programs like Birthline, the Stearns county jail and the community shelter.

Golden Age passports require fee

Golden Age passports, entitling holders 62 years of age or older to free entrance at all national parks and a 50 per cent reduction in user fees at federal recreation areas, will be issued free of charge through December 31, 1993.

Beginning Jan. 1, 1994, there will be a one-time $10 charge to cover the administrative costs of issuing the passports. The fee was directed in the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993.

Passports may be obtained at most United States Army Corps of Engineers offices. All federal agencies which honor the passports will also begin collecting the fee on or after January 1.

For more information contact Ken Gardner of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers office for the St. Paul District at 612-290-5201.

Technical college instructors vote in favor of UTCE

In votes counted Friday, December 10, 96 per cent of technical college instructors in Minnesota voted in favor of creation of the United Technical College Educators. In a similar vote, instructors also approved newly-written UTCE bylaws and constitution.

Parent organizations of the UTCE will be the Minnesota and National Education Association and the Minnesota and American Federation of Teachers.

"In an era of constant change, we must be united to guarantee success for our technical college students and faculty alike," stated Bruce Hemstad, co-president of UTCE and an instructor at the Bemidji campus of the Northwest Technical College.

Now UTCE's goals are to begin preparations for contract negotiations, which will begin in July of 1994, and to put together a lobbying agenda.

This marks the second time MFT and MEA affiliates have joined forces. In October of 1992, K-12 teachers in Rosemount-Apple Valley-Eagan merged to form a new group called Dakota County United Educators. Talks also continue on state and national levels to merge the two education organizations.

Faith Rud

Rud joins faculty at Northland

Northland Community College in Thief River Falls has recently hired Faith Rud to teach the political science and sociology courses at the college. She began her duties at the beginning of the winter quarter November 29.

For the past seven years Rud has served as the director of the Northwest Area Agency on Aging, which operates out of the Northwest Regional Development Commission office at 525 Brooks Avenue South in Thief River Falls. She continues to work with the agency on a temporary basis through December 31.

Danica Robson, who began work as grants manager with the Northwest Area Agency on Aging in October, has been named interim program director.

Rud has an associate in arts degree from Northland and bachelor and master of arts degrees from the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks. She has taught part time at the College of St. Francis in Joliet, IL, and at the University of North Dakota, and since 1983 has taught part-time for Northland.

Although Rud has served as an administrator for the past seven years, she says her real interests lie in teaching. "I have always enjoyed the atmosphere at Northland and I'm looking forward to teaching here on a full-time basis," she said.

Faith and her husband Larry farm near Warren. They have two daughters, Lynnae and Laurie, who live in Minneapolis.

Potato Growers elect officers for next year

Chuck Gunnerson of Ada was elected chairman of the Red River Valley Potato Growers Association at the annual meeting held recently. Mark Thompson of Park River, ND, was named vice chairman and Jim Pederson of Kennedy was elected secretary-treasurer.

Gunnerson's family has been involved in the potato business for the past 75 years. Chuck has college degrees in psychology and sociology from Bemidji State University in 1974, the year he moved back to Ada and began working with the family farm operation.

His father Lester and grandfather Charlie Gunnerson formed Ada Produce Company in 1949, which included a wash plant used to wash and package potatoes for several growers in the Ada area. Chuck is now president and general manager of the company and operates the family farm which includes 650 acres of potatoes, wheat and barley. About 200 to 300 acres are annually planted to potatoes marketed for tablestock.

Among goals Gunnerson has for his term as board chairman are expanding potato research, increasing awareness and involvement among members, promoting an organized bargaining effort, promoting greater alternate uses of potatoes and continued support of a merchandising program.

His wife Pam is an elementary teacher at Twin Valley and they have two children, Michael, 11 and Christopher, 5.

Social Security rep here Dec. 21

A representative of the Grand Forks Social Security office will be at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls Tuesday, December 21, from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Applications for benefits are not completed during the town visit. All Social Security business can be completed by telephone at 1-800-772-1213—a national toll-free number which does not ring in Grand Forks.

Polk, Marshall share funds in collaborative

Polk and Marshall counties form one of eight projects representing 18 counties in Minnesota sharing $325,000 in start-up grants for the integrated children's mental health collaboratives.

The collaboratives were created in 1993 legislation "to integrate efforts among social services, health care providers, schools and others at the local level, according to Minnesota Human Services Commissioner Natalie Haas Steffen.

"Although children's problems with school failure, juvenile delinquency and ill health often have common causes, existing systems treat the pieces separately," Commissioner Steffen said. "Gov. Arne Carlson's administration believes integration is needed to more effectively serve the child and family."

The start-up grants will pay for integrated system development including funding mechanisms, interagency planning and coordinated reporting systems. The state is providing technical assistance to the projects.

A second round of grants totaling $370,000 will be awarded in February of 1994. Applications are due Jan. 1, 1994. Any child-serving agency may seek to form a local children's mental health collaborative and become a member of a collaborative.

The state encourages local collaboratives that will ultimately consist of counties, school districts or special education cooperatives, mental health agencies, juvenile courts, community corrections agencies, public health agencies, medical care providers, and vocational training agencies.

A local collaborative must include, at a minimum, one county, one school district or special education cooperative and one mental health entity.

For more information contact the Children's Mental Health Team at the Department of Human Services, phone (612) 296-4489.

Gladys Hamre, 89

Thief River Falls — Gladys Hamre died Friday at Oakland Park Nursing home in Thief River Falls at the age of 89.

Funeral services for Gladys Hamre were held Sunday at 2 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran church with Rev. Robert Posschl officiating. Dorothy Larson was organist and the Golden Years Choir provided special selections.

Active casketbearers were Gary, Donald and Daniel Aandal; Gordon and Tony Moe; and Perry, Kevin and Kirby Hamre. Honorary bearers were Lori Barth; Lee, Kent, Kirk and John Hamre; Judy Machal; Peggy Knutson, James and Jill Moe; Cindy Nordby; Tawnya Morkrid; and Wayne Nomeland. Interment was at Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls with the Green Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Gladys Nora Olson was born August 13, 1904, in Mickinock township, Roseau county, the daughter of Ole and Mary Jacobson Olson. She was baptized and confirmed in the Riverside church at Wannaska and attended school there. She was employed at the Evelyn Hotel and Physicians' hospital in Thief River Falls.

July 9, 1928, she was united in marriage to Melvin Hamre in Thief River Falls. The couple lived in International Falls for a short time before moving to Grand Plain township, Marshall county, where they resided until his death on November 13, 1962.

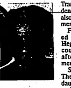
She moved into Thief River Falls after his death and has since made her home there. She has been a resident of Oakland Park Nursing Home for the past few years. She was a member of Trinity Lutheran church, the Eagle's, Legion and VFW auxiliaries, and an active helper in the Oakland Park Nursing Home craft room.

Survivors include two daughters, Frances (Mrs. Ray) Aandal, Goodridge, and Barbara (Mrs. Bernie) Picolet, Grygla; two sons, LaVerne (wife: Bev), and Ron (wife: Sharon); and a daughter-in-law, Marilyn Hamre, all of Thief River Falls.

She is also survived by 20 grandchildren; 32 great-grandchildren; one great-great-granddaughter; a sister, Coral Anderson, St. Louis Park; and three sisters-in-law, Frances Olson, Klamath Falls, OR, Gertie Hamre, Omaha, NE, and Marie Hamre Faulks, Spokane, WA.

Margaret Hegtvedt, 77

Thief River Falls — Margaret Hegtvedt died Saturday at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls at the age of 77.



Mass of Christian Burial for Margaret Hegtvedt was scheduled for Tuesday, December 14, at 2 p.m. at St. Bernard's Catholic church with Rev. Joe DeCrans presiding.

Carol Amundson will serve as organist and Jackie Helm will be cantor. Special music will be provided by the Resurrection Choir.

Honorary casketbearers will be all of the deceased's granddaughters. Active bearers are grandsons, Jim and Mark Amundson; Corey and Kevin Hegtvedt; Jeff, Marlin, Scott and Tim Johnson; and Dane, Larry and Randy Jones. Interment was in the church cemetery with the Green Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Margaret "Mugs" Lucille O'Hara was born March 25, 1916, in Thief River Falls, the daughter of Edward and Dora Hostettler O'Hara. She was baptized and confirmed in St. Bernard's Catholic church and attended school in Thief River Falls. She graduated from Lincoln high school in 1934.

She worked for some years after school at the O'Hara Fuel and Transfer office and at the Palm Garden cafe for a short time. She was also employed in the sewing department of Arctco, Inc. in Karlstad.

February 14, 1948, she was united in marriage to Theodore Hegtvedt in Thief River Falls. The couple lived in Thief River Falls after their marriage. She was a member of St. Bernard's parish.

Survivors include her husband, Theodore, Thief River Falls; two daughters, Joni (Mrs. L.L.) Jones, and Sharon (Mrs. Lyle) Johnson, both of Thief River Falls; two sons, Roger (wife: Carol) Amundson, Thief River Falls, and Mark (wife: Chris) Hegtvedt, Park Rapids; 19 grandchildren; and 27 great-grandchildren.

She is also survived by three sisters, Harriet Matthew, Yuma, AZ, Loella "Lu" Hendrickson and Gertrude (Mrs. Clarence) Grindeland, both of Thief River Falls, as well as several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her grandson, Chad Hegtvedt; a granddaughter, Peggy Lynn Wahlbeck; a great-granddaughter, Brandy Lee Brown; five brothers, Clair, Ray, Jake, Horace and Robert; and two sisters, Lorine Ranum and Dorothy Risberg.

Margaret Weigelt, 85

Thief River Falls — Margaret Weigelt, 85, died Wednesday at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Private funeral services for family and invited guests were held Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Green Funeral Chapel. Organist was Dorothy Larson, with LeRoy Aasland singing.

Honorary casketbearers were Harry Kling, Jeff Gustafson, Dwight Tangquist, David Dupree, Todd Benson and Craig Benson. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Margaret Benson was born November 4, 1908, in St. Peter, the daughter of Henry and Lillian Marchant Benson. She attended school there, graduating in 1927. She attended Gustavus Adolphus college in St. Peter and graduated in 1931. She taught school in Houston and Princeton, MN, for some years.

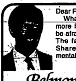
She was united in marriage to Walter Weigelt in the summer of 1934. The couple lived in various places before moving to Thief River Falls in 1940, where they have resided since. Walter Weigelt died November 13, 1966.

She was a substitute teacher and a member of Trinity Lutheran church and its choir, a Sunday School teacher and the Ladies Group. She was a hospital volunteer, an officer in the county Historical Society, a member of the Friends of the Library, and appointed to the Board of Directors of the Zoological Board by Governor Harold Levander.

Survivors include her daughter, Marilyl de los Santos, Fort Worth, TX; two sons, William, Thief River Falls, and John (wife: Cindy), West Bend, WI; six grandchildren, Robert (wife: Wendy), Sarah, Heather, Joshua, Benjamin and Jacquelyn; and a great-grandchild, Maximillian.

She is also survived by three sisters-in-law, several nieces and nephews, and a special friend, Irene Schlechter.

Preceding her in death were her husband, Walter; a sister, Alice Benson; and brother, Henry Benson, Jr.



Dear Readers,
What do I say? Whatever you do say, the more heartfelt and personal the better. Don't be afraid to speak about the person who died. The family wants to talk about their loss. Shared burdens lighten the physical and mental load.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

Arthur Dicken, 80

Thief River Falls — Funeral services were held Friday at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls for Arthur Dicken, 80, who died Tuesday, December 7, at Northwest Medical Center.

Rev. Gary Johnson officiated at the service, with Ida Nordvall as organist and Rev. Dennis and Naomi Raymond singing duets.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Sara Tyler
Lincoln High School

I would like to take this week's column to thank the teachers of America. I know I have only had the privilege to be taught by a small percentage of them, but I want to say thank you.

I want to thank teachers for their dedication to shaping the future. After all, how would the children of today run the future without an education? Maybe I am prejudiced toward teachers. I have grown up with both my parents in this field, but I think that has only made me more aware of how precious teaching in. I have realized how important it is to educate the young, and develop a love for learning in their hearts. I have also realized it isn't the easiest job in the world. So, thank you.

It is strange what we remember from school. We may choose to remember a few isolated incidents that seem insignificant to others, but are important to us. I remember a story about a dog and a cat eating each other that no one else remembers. I am positive I heard it in kindergarten, but I'm beginning to think I dreamt it. I also remember nap time, the unicorn song, and playing in the loft. From first grade I remember getting a wooden toothbrush holder shaped like a doll. Second grade brings back memories of saltwater taffy and directing a play. In third grade each of us had to write a story about "Charlie" the ghost that lived above our classroom. That may be what started my interest in writing.

What sticks out most in my mind from fourth grade is getting trouble for talking in class. I never got in trouble, but someone (I won't mention any names, but this boy has been in my class since kindergarten) too my bracelet and wouldn't give it back. One of my friends and I tried to get it back, and the three of us got in trouble. All of us were good kids, though. Really. That's the only time I remember any of us getting in trouble... except when another friend and I walked through water puddles with water-proof boots on. I still think that is stupid. They were WATER-PROOF boots, and if I want to get sick, let me.

I think it was during fourth grade that a poet came to our class. I remember writing poems, and my poem "Grandma and the Hummingbird" got published in a state-wide poetry book. That reinforced my love for writing.

Fifth grade I remember because I had my dad as the teach. People thought I'd get special treatment. It was special all right. Specially hard. I was expected to be better. Maybe he just had to be harder on me so he wouldn't be accused of special treatment. I'm not sure. I remember going on school patrol one day and being so late that our class was coming down for lunch. We played kick-ball a lot in fifth grade. One day I went to kick the ball and stepped on it. I flew up and landed on my arm. Needless to say, my arm hurt pretty badly after that. I had to walk my bike home.

In sixth grade I sat next to a girl who tried to copy my papers. It made me mad. No one had ever tried that before. I guess Knox kids were just incredibly honest.

In seventh grade I took shop. I remember being told stories about people losing finger and hands right before we went to the machines. I got so scared I didn't want to touch anything. The only machine I liked was the big circular saw. At least I think that's what it was.

Eighth grade was a horrible year. At times I think everybody's eighth grade year is horrible. How can anyone actually enjoy being that age? I remember our eighth grade restaurant. I dropped a tray of plates and cups. Thankfully only one plate broke. What I remember most is that Tim died. It was a chock. He'd been in my class for years.

I blocked out much of my Franklin years. I wouldn't go back if I was paid. They were horrible. I keep reminding myself so I won't tell my children those are the best years of their lives.

Ninth grade was good. I remember playing broom ball. It was a big change from gym at Franklin. Anna died that year. It was tough losing classmates two years in a row.

Tenth grade was o.k. I loved my honors English class. That class, and its teacher, was a deciding point in my love for writing. I liked college-prep biology, too. There were some interesting conversations in that class.

My junior year had its moments. I joined the magnet arts school and enjoyed it immensely. I started Spanish. There were some incredibly interesting conversations there, too.

I'm a senior now and looking back I realize I've been lucky to have so many wonderful teachers. I haven't had one that discouraged me, and have had many that encouraged me greatly.

So thank you to all the teachers I have had. Thank you to all the teachers I will never have. Thank you to all the teachers I will have in the future.

Revenue Dep't. clamps down on cigarette taxes

Untaxed cigarettes are contraband and the Minnesota Department of Revenue has begun an enforcement plan to combat this area of tax evasion.

Minnesota law gives designated Revenue Department agents the authority to inspect business operations of cigarette retailers, subjobbers or distributors and check for contraband cigarettes. In Minnesota, the following is considered contraband:

- Cigarette packages without Minnesota tax stamps;
- Cigarette packages received by a retailer for resale from a source not licensed as a Minnesota distributor or subjobber; and
- Cigarette packages with stamps designed for American Indian reservations sold by retailers off the reservation.

When revenue agents visit a retail business, they identify themselves and ask to inspect the cigarette and tobacco product inventory and compare it with the appropriate invoices. They check the tax stamp, the purchase price of the cigarettes and tobacco, and the retail selling price. This tells the agents if the retailer is complying with state law, including the Minnesota Unfair Cigarette Sales Act.

Agents may also perform field tests on tax stamps to determine their authenticity. Quality stamping is important since cigarettes are traced back to the wholesaler through the stamp.

Persons who suspect someone of cigarette and tobacco product tax evasion are asked to call the Minnesota Department of Revenue Tipline at 1-800-657-3500. Tips about liquor, wine and beer and petroleum and gasoline tax evasion are also welcome. Callers remain anonymous.

Possession of untaxed cigarettes and tobacco products is a gross misdemeanor under state law. Each violation is punishable by a $3,000 fine, one year in prison, or both.

Finseth upset over trust fund uses

Rep. Tim Finseth of Angus says he "cannot abide with an agency shuffling money from one account to another to give people a pay boost, however justified."

He was referring to a report by the Legislative Auditor which showed that the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources "inappropriately" awarded bonuses to 34 employees from the Environmental Trust Fund and spent $44,091 in trust fund money for salaries instead of a specific outdoor project.

Rep. Finseth points out that the Environmental Trust Fund was established when voters approved a constitutional amendment to dedicate 40 per cent of the Minnesota State Lottery profits to be used for wildlife projects such as habitat improvement.

"The dedication of this lottery money to the Trust Fund is for at least two reasons," Rep. Finseth said. "Number one is to make sure the money is used for projects that benefit wildlife, not people. Number two is to make sure that Twin Cities lawmakers don't spend the money for some hare-brained idea that has nothing to do with the original purpose of the trust fund."

Finseth said he will be closely watching the action of those who would squander trust fund money. "When people play the lottery, they at least ought to know that their losses are going for a purpose that they agree with and that we support in northwestern Minnesota," he said.

Sgt. Jay Cota in Okinawa

Marine Gunnery Sgt. Jay M. Cota, son of Medi and Esther Cota of rural Red Lake Falls, recently reported for duty with Headquarters and Service Company, 3rd Marine Expeditionary Force, Okinawa, Japan.

A gradute of Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls, he joined the Marine Corps in February of 1979.

I would like to take this week's column to thank the teachers of America. I know I have only had the privilege to be taught by a small percentage of them, but I want to say thank you.

I want to thank teachers for their dedication to shaping the future. After all, how would the children of today run the future without an education? Maybe I am prejudiced toward teachers. I have grown up with both my parents in this field, but I think that has only made me more aware of how precious teaching in. I have realized how important it is to educate the young, and develop a love for learning in their hearts. I have also realized it isn't the easiest job in the world. So, thank you.

It is strange what we remember from school. We may choose to remember a few isolated incidents that seem insignificant to others, but are important to us. I remember a story about a dog and a cat eating each other that no one else remembers. I am positive I heard it in kindergarten, but I'm beginning to think I dreamt it. I also remember nap time, the unicorn song, and playing in the loft. From first grade I remember getting a wooden toothbrush holder shaped like a doll. Second grade brings back memories of saltwater taffy and directing a play. In third grade each of us had to write a story about "Charlie" the ghost that lived above our classroom. That may be what started my interest in writing.

What sticks out most in my mind from fourth grade is getting trouble for talking in class. I never got in trouble, but someone (I won't mention any names, but this boy has been in my class since kindergarten) too my bracelet and wouldn't give it back. One of my friends and I tried to get it back, and the three of us got in trouble. All of us were good kids, though. Really. That's the only time I remember any of us getting in trouble... except when another friend and I walked through water puddles with water-proof boots on. I still think that is stupid. They were WATER-PROOF boots, and if I want to get sick, let me.

I think it was during fourth grade that a poet came to our class. I remember writing poems, and my poem "Grandma and the Hummingbird" got published in a state-wide poetry book. That reinforced my love for writing.

Fifth grade I remember because I had my dad as the teach. People thought I'd get special treatment. It was special all right. Specially hard. I was expected to be better. Maybe he just had to be harder on me so he wouldn't be accused of special treatment. I'm not sure. I remember going on school patrol one day and being so late that our class was coming down for lunch. We played kick-ball a lot in fifth grade. One day I went to kick the ball and stepped on it. I flew up and landed on my arm. Needless to say, my arm hurt pretty badly after that. I had to walk my bike home.

In sixth grade I sat next to a girl who tried to copy my papers. It made me mad. No one had ever tried that before. I guess Knox kids were just incredibly honest.

In seventh grade I took shop. I remember being told stories about people losing finger and hands right before we went to the machines. I got so scared I didn't want to touch anything. The only machine I liked was the big circular saw. At least I think that's what it was.

Eighth grade was a horrible year. At times I think everybody's eighth grade year is horrible. How can anyone actually enjoy being that age? I remember our eighth grade restaurant. I dropped a tray of plates and cups. Thankfully only one plate broke. What I remember most is that Tim died. It was a chock. He'd been in my class for years.

I blocked out much of my Franklin years. I wouldn't go back if I was paid. They were horrible. I keep reminding myself so I won't tell my children those are the best years of their lives.

Ninth grade was good. I remember playing broom ball. It was a big change from gym at Franklin. Anna died that year. It was tough losing classmates two years in a row.

Tenth grade was o.k. I loved my honors English class. That class, and its teacher, was a deciding point in my love for writing. I liked college-prep biology, too. There were some interesting conversations in that class.

My junior year had its moments. I joined the magnet arts school and enjoyed it immensely. I started Spanish. There were some incredibly interesting conversations there, too.

I'm a senior now and looking back I realize I've been lucky to have so many wonderful teachers. I haven't had one that discouraged me, and have had many that encouraged me greatly.

So thank you to all the teachers I have had. Thank you to all the teachers I will never have. Thank you to all the teachers I will have in the future.

Revenue Dep't. clamps down on cigarette taxes

Untaxed cigarettes are contraband and the Minnesota Department of Revenue has begun an enforcement plan to combat this area of tax evasion.

Minnesota law gives designated Revenue Department agents the authority to inspect business operations of cigarette retailers, subjobbers or distributors and check for contraband cigarettes. In Minnesota, the following is considered contraband:

- Cigarette packages without Minnesota tax stamps;
- Cigarette packages received by a retailer for resale from a source not licensed as a Minnesota distributor or subjobber; and
- Cigarette packages with stamps designed for American Indian reservations sold by retailers off the reservation.

When revenue agents visit a retail business, they identify themselves and ask to inspect the cigarette and tobacco product inventory and compare it with the appropriate invoices. They check the tax stamp, the purchase price of the cigarettes and tobacco, and the retail selling price. This tells the agents if the retailer is complying with state law, including the Minnesota Unfair Cigarette Sales Act.

Agents may also perform field tests on tax stamps to determine their authenticity. Quality stamping is important since cigarettes are traced back to the wholesaler through the stamp.

Persons who suspect someone of cigarette and tobacco product tax evasion are asked to call the Minnesota Department of Revenue Tipline at 1-800-657-3500. Tips about liquor, wine and beer and petroleum and gasoline tax evasion are also welcome. Callers remain anonymous.

Possession of untaxed cigarettes and tobacco products is a gross misdemeanor under state law. Each violation is punishable by a $3,000 fine, one year in prison, or both.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Sara Tyler
Lincoln High School

I would like to take this week's column to thank the teachers of America. I know I have only had the privilege to be taught by a small percentage of them, but I want to say thank you.

I want to thank teachers for their dedication to shaping the future. After all, how would the children of today run the future without an education? Maybe I am prejudiced toward teachers. I have grown up with both my parents in this field, but I think that has only made me more aware of how precious teaching in. I have realized how important it is to educate the young, and develop a love for learning in their hearts. I have also realized it isn't the easiest job in the world. So, thank you.

It is strange what we remember from school. We may choose to remember a few isolated incidents that seem insignificant to others, but are important to us. I remember a story about a dog and a cat eating each other that no one else remembers. I am positive I heard it in kindergarten, but I'm beginning to think I dreamt it. I also remember nap time, the unicorn song, and playing in the loft. From first grade I remember getting a wooden toothbrush holder shaped like a doll. Second grade brings back memories of saltwater taffy and directing a play. In third grade each of us had to write a story about "Charlie" the ghost that lived above our classroom. That may be what started my interest in writing.

What sticks out most in my mind from fourth grade is getting trouble for talking in class. I never got in trouble, but someone (I won't mention any names, but this boy has been in my class since kindergarten) too my bracelet and wouldn't give it back. One of my friends and I tried to get it back, and the three of us got in trouble. All of us were good kids, though. Really. That's the only time I remember any of us getting in trouble... except when another friend and I walked through water puddles with water-proof boots on. I still think that is stupid. They were WATER-PROOF boots, and if I want to get sick, let me.

I think it was during fourth grade that a poet came to our class. I remember writing poems, and my poem "Grandma and the Hummingbird" got published in a state-wide poetry book. That reinforced my love for writing.

Fifth grade I remember because I had my dad as the teach. People thought I'd get special treatment. It was special all right. Specially hard. I was expected to be better. Maybe he just had to be harder on me so he wouldn't be accused of special treatment. I'm not sure. I remember going on school patrol one day and being so late that our class was coming down for lunch. We played kick-ball a lot in fifth grade. One day I went to kick the ball and stepped on it. I flew up and landed on my arm. Needless to say, my arm hurt pretty badly after that. I had to walk my bike home.

In sixth grade I sat next to a girl who tried to copy my papers. It made me mad. No one had ever tried that before. I guess Knox kids were just incredibly honest.

In seventh grade I took shop. I remember being told stories about people losing finger and hands right before we went to the machines. I got so scared I didn't want to touch anything. The only machine I liked was the big circular saw. At least I think that's what it was.

Eighth grade was a horrible year. At times I think everybody's eighth grade year is horrible. How can anyone actually enjoy being that age? I remember our eighth grade restaurant. I dropped a tray of plates and cups. Thankfully only one plate broke. What I remember most is that Tim died. It was a chock. He'd been in my class for years.

I blocked out much of my Franklin years. I wouldn't go back if I was paid. They were horrible. I keep reminding myself so I won't tell my children those are the best years of their lives.

Ninth grade was good. I remember playing broom ball. It was a big change from gym at Franklin. Anna died that year. It was tough losing classmates two years in a row.

Tenth grade was o.k. I loved my honors English class. That class, and its teacher, was a deciding point in my love for writing. I liked college-prep-biology, too. There were some interesting conversations in that class.

My junior year had its moments. I joined the magnet arts school and enjoyed it immensely. I started Spanish. There were some incredibly interesting conversations there, too.

I'm a senior now and looking back I realize I've been lucky to have so many wonderful teachers. I haven't had one that discouraged me, and have had many that encouraged me greatly.

So thank you to all the teachers I have had. Thank you to all the teachers I will never have. Thank you to all the teachers I will have in the future.

Revenue Dep't. clamps down on cigarette taxes

Untaxed cigarettes are contraband and the Minnesota Department of Revenue has begun an enforcement plan to combat this area of tax evasion.

Minnesota law gives designated Revenue Department agents the authority to inspect business operations of cigarette retailers, subjobbers or distributors and check for contraband cigarettes. In Minnesota, the following is considered contraband:

- Cigarette packages without Minnesota tax stamps;
- Cigarette packages received by a retailer for resale from a source not licensed as a Minnesota distributor or subjobber; and
- Cigarette packages with stamps designed for American Indian reservations sold by retailers off the reservation.

When revenue agents visit a retail business, they identify themselves and ask to inspect the cigarette and tobacco product inventory and compare it with the appropriate invoices. They check the tax stamp, the purchase price of the cigarettes and tobacco, and the retail selling price. This tells the agents if the retailer is complying with state law, including the Minnesota Unfair Cigarette Sales Act.

Agents may also perform field tests on tax stamps to determine their authenticity. Quality stamping is important since cigarettes are traced back to the wholesaler through the stamp.

Persons who suspect someone of cigarette and tobacco product tax evasion are asked to call the Minnesota Department of Revenue Tipline at 1-800-657-3500. Tips about liquor, wine and beer and petroleum and gasoline tax evasion are also welcome. Callers remain anonymous.

Possession of untaxed cigarettes and tobacco products is a gross misdemeanor under state law. Each violation is punishable by a $3,000 fine, one year in prison, or both.

He is also survived by several cousins and friends in this area.

The family requests that memorials go to the Rosewood Memorial Gardens, where the deceased's parents, grandparents and sisters are interred. (Rosewood Memorial Garden Fund, % Mrs. Clarence Molskness, Route 5, Box 136, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.)

Finseth upset over trust fund uses

Rep. Tim Finseth of Angus says he "cannot abide with an agency shuffling money from one account to another to give people a pay boost, however justified."

He was referring to a report by the Legislative Auditor which showed that the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources "inappropriately" awarded bonuses to 34 employees from the Environmental Trust Fund and spent $44,091 in trust fund money for salaries instead of a specific outdoor project.

Rep. Finseth points out that the Environmental Trust Fund was established when voters approved a constitutional amendment to dedicate 40 per cent of the Minnesota State Lottery profits to be used for wildlife projects such as habitat improvement.

"The dedication of this lottery money to the Trust Fund is for at least two reasons," Rep. Finseth said. "Number one is to make sure the money is used for projects that benefit wildlife, not people. Number two is to make sure that Twin Cities lawmakers don't spend the money for some hare-brained idea that has nothing to do with the original purpose of the trust fund."

Finseth said he will be closely watching the action of those who would squander trust fund money. "When people play the lottery, they at least ought to know that their losses are going for a purpose that they agree with and that we support in northwestern Minnesota," he said.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

FAMILY HEALTH

Sherry LaCoursiere

The infant death rate in Minnesota decreased from 7.5 to 7.1 deaths per thousand live births between 1991 and 1992, equalling the all-time low infant death rate recorded in 1989.

State health officials cautioned, however, that the apparent decrease between 1991 and 1992 was not statistically significant — that it may have been the result of random variation in the number of infant deaths in the state. In addition, officials say the infant death rate is still much higher among some groups of Minnesotans. The 1992 infant death rate for African Americans in Minnesota was 14.5 deaths per thousand births, and the rate for Native Americans was 18.9 deaths per thousand births.

The new figures are based on an analysis of information from birth and death records for calendar year 1992, completed recently by the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH).

"The infant death rate is an important measure of our success — as a society — in providing for the health of our citizens," said Mary Jo O'Brien, Minnesota Commissioner of Health. "In particular, it's a reflection of our ability to provide access to appropriate health care services for those who need them. That includes things like pre-pregnancy care, prenatal care, and infant care. As we work to reform our health care system, we need to take a broad, systematic approach to problems like infant mortality. We need to do that if we are to achieve further gains in the health status of Minnesota's people."

The infant death rate has declined by almost 25 per cent in Minnesota since 1980, when the rate was 10 deaths per thousand births, Commissioner O'Brien noted.

The new MDH analysis found little change in other major indicators of maternal and child health. The percentage of babies born before 37 weeks of gestation remained at 8.8 per cent between 1991 and 1992, and the percentage of babies weighing less than 2500 grams at birth decreased from 5.3 per cent in 1991 to 5.2 per cent in 1992.

During 1992, 3.4 per cent of women giving birth didn't receive any prenatal care until the last three months of pregnancy — or received no prenatal care at all. That compared with 3.7 per cent during 1991. Continuing a long term trend, the percentage of births taking place out of wedlock was up slightly in 1992 — to 22.9 per cent. In 1980, only 11.4 per cent of births in the state occurred out of wedlock.

Death certificate data for 1992 revealed little change in the leading causes of death among Minnesotans. Heart disease accounted for 29.2 per cent of all deaths, cancer for 24.4 per cent and stroke for eight per cent. Other leading causes of death included pneumonia and influenza, chronic obstructive lung disease, injuries, diabetes, suicide, artoriosclerosis and kidney disease.

The MDH analysis of 1992 health statistics will be included in a published report, due out in December. In the meantime, local health agencies around the state can contact MDH if they want to obtain and analyze statistical data for individual counties. The should contact the Minnesota Center for Health Statistics at 612-623-5353.

Bernice Trochmann and Myrtle Solberg joined other Friends and Neighbors on a Holi-Dazzle tour to Minneapolis on Wednesday. That evening they attended the dinner show at the Chanhasson where they saw "One Fine Christmas" a festive Christmas story. Other things of interest were a Christmas show at Dayton's, the Holi-Dazzle parade down Nicollet Avenue, a demonstration at Bachman's Floral shop and a visit to the Mall of America before returning home on Friday.

Howard Nelson visited with his mother, Ethel Nelson, at her apartment on Sunday afternoon.

Shirley and Ron Osborne from Duluth spent the weekend at the Mabel and Eddie Anderson home.

Ida Rupprecht visited at the Judy and Ray Vories home at Goodridge on Sunday afternoon where they celebrated Raymond's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Maruska from Angus hosted an early Christmas dinner celebration at the home of Clarence and Emma Peterson. On Sunday, those present for the dinner and afternoon of visiting were Margaret and Donald Rupprecht, Arnold and Marian Peterson, Pearl and Irwin Johnson, Fred and Lorraine Dallman, Mildred Peterson and Roger and Sharon Peterson.

Martha Torgerson and Deb Williams left Friday and spent the weekend with Lisa and Mike Parent at their home in Otsego. On Saturday, Martha, Lisa and Deb were late afternoon luncheon guests at the home of Pam Johnson in Minneapolis. While there, they had a visit with Pam's son and grandson, Russell Johnson from Upsala and Jim Ellovsky from Columbia Heights.

Bernice and Ray Barth left Friday for Fergus Falls where they visited with Ray's cousin, Lorona Hartman and another cousin Gordon Abel from Greensborough, SC who was also visiting at the Hartman home. Ray and Bernice were Friday overnight guests at the home of William and Donna Langenwalter at Main. On Saturday afternoon, they attended the 50th wedding anniversary celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Barth at Battle Lake. In the evening, they attended the 10th wedding celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Tom Barth at Sabin. Ray and Bernice spent Saturday and Sunday nights at the Clifford Barth home in Breckenridge. Sunday afternoon they visited with Connie Nennig and son in Breckenridge. Sunday evening, Ray and Bernice were supper guests at the Ben and Jennie Zoucha home in Campbell. On Monday, they visited at the Lawrence Shillinger home in Campbell before returning home.

Beverly and Roger Rupprecht hosted a birthday dinner on Sunday honoring their daughter, Kim, on her birthday. Dinner guests besides Kim were Edna Rupprecht, Kristi Sigerud, Aaron and Amanda, Travis Kotrba from Goodridge, and Kim's friend Robin from Thief River Falls. In the afternoon, Margaret and Darren Nelson brought birthday wishes to Kim. She also received birthday wishes from her grandparents via telephone, Gladys and Pete Tvlets from New Rockford, ND.

Seventh-day Adventist church in Thief River Falls will present its annual Christmas program December 18 and 19 at the church located at 1024 Tindolph Avenue South in Thief River Falls. There is no admission charge.

SDA church plans annual Christmas program Dec. 18,19

Seventh-day Adventist church in Thief River Falls will present its annual Christmas program December 18 and 19 at the church. This year they will present the dramatic Christmas musical, "He is Born. Child Divine". The program on both nights begins at 7:30 p.m.

A musical prelude will include congregational singing, handbell choir, marimba/piano duet, and vocal selections. Playing in the handbell choir are: Cynthia Efta of Greenbush; Helen Juhl and Amy Pervis of Middle River; Jolayne Simpson of Plummer; Arlene and Cori Walseth, Diane Meekma and Heather Forbes of Thief River Falls. The director is Margie Stevenson. An instrumental duet to "Sweet Little Jesus Boy" will be performed by Sylvia Grindley on marimba and Mrs. Ida Nordvall on piano. Vocal selections will be provided by Dr. Jim Grindley, Jeff Loe and the Sweet Assurance Trio consisting of Jim Grindley, Margie Stevenson and Marilyn Sayler. Sylvia Grindley will accompany on the piano. Emcees will be Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Bray.

The major work to be performed is Dennis and Nan Allen's "He is Born. Child Divine", a story of the Messiah's birth as experienced by His immediate earthly relatives. Yvonne Asp will portray a young Mary, who as a child, shares her dream of wanting to be a good wife and mother with her girlhood friend, Sarah (Annie Forbes). As the girls mature into young women, time and distance separate them. A more mature Mary, portrayed by Penny Nordvick, is visited by the Angel Gabriel (Pastor Robert Forbes) who brings an announcement which will change Mary's life forever. Mary's mother (Heidi Hoks) and Joseph's father (Alan Rogalla) react as typical parents when Mary and Joseph (Curtis Hawks) break the news of Mary's pregnancy. Just prior to the anticipated birth, a Roman decree forces Joseph to journey to Bethlehem to pay taxes. Mary accompanies him and, after giving birth, recognizes that among the visitors to greet the newborn, is her childhood friend, (Holly Nordvick).

Other members of the cast include: Jim Hoks as Mary's father; Alvin Nordvick of Grygla; Sylvia and Leonard Rondorf; Matthew Forbes and Cody Frame as shepherds; Ray Juhl, Middle River; Glenn Meekma, Newfolden; and Eugene Meyer, St. Hilaire as wise men.

Choir members include: Larry, Jr. and Grace Juhl, Lake Bronson; Nancy Dailey, Fertile; Cynthia Efta, Eddie and Vi Hanson, Greenbush; Chuck, Jolayne and Mindy Simpson, Plummer; Helen Juhl, Amy, Aaron and Lisa Pervis, Middle River; Darcy Nordvick, Grygla; Candy Kroll, Argyle; Solveig Swenson, Gary York and Dennis Johnson, St. Hilaire; Cori and Arlene Walseth, Deb and Diane Meekma, Sylvia and Dr. Jim Grindley; Margie Stevenson, Sarah Erickson, Heather Forbes, Dr. Tim Rittenour, Benji, Danny and Marilyne Sayler, Scott Wesler, Jeff Loe, Jim Daag, of Thief River Falls. Soloists will be Mindy Simpson, Yvonne Asp and Annie Forbes, Holly and Penny Nordvick and Heidi Hoks. The choir director is Dr. Ben Sayler. The accompanist is Mrs. Ida Nordvall.

Orchestra members include: Kari Lindemoen, Warren, concertmistress; Bonnie Swantek, and Melanie Krepp, of Thief River Falls on violin; Dawn Klopp on cello and Jan Klopp on basson, Thief River Falls; Tom Swantek and Bonnie Knapp of Thief River Falls on bass, and Lisa Erickson of Badger on flute. The conductor is Dr. Ben Sayler.

Supporting cast members include: Jim Hoks as Mary's father; Sylvia Rondorf as a villager; Alvin Norvick of Grygla; Leonard Rondorf, Cody Frame and Matthew Forbes as shepherds; Ray Juhl, Middle River; Glenn Meekma, Newfolden; and Eugene Meyer, St. Hilaire as wise men. The stage director is Joyce Meekma of Newfolden. The narrators are Key Teeters-Asp of Thief River Falls, and Larry Juhl of Lake Bronson.

The set design is by Helen Juhl and Arlene Walseth. Costumes were made and designed by Barbara Holt, Deb and Diane Meekma. The sound system is run by Ron Meekma. The light is operated by Rod Glass

There will be no admission charge for the performance. A free-will offering will be accepted. A time of fellowship and refreshments will follow the program in the adjacent SDA school auditorium. The public is invited to attend and off-street parking will be provided across from the church.

Arctco video stresses snowmobile safety

Arctco, Inc. of Thief River Falls is observing International Snowmobile Safety Week this week (December 12-18) with the distribution of more than 4,000 safety videos to snowmobile clubs and Arctic Cat dealers.

"Snowmobile Safety for the '90s" is the title of the video released this week as Arctco sends its message of caution to North America's 10 million snowmobilers.

The video underscores the major causes of snowmobile accidents: alcohol combined with excessive speed, riding on unfamiliar terrain and night riding. It also describes, in detail, techniques for improving personal safety while snowmobiling.

Arctco is providing the tapes free of charge to more than 3,000 snowmobile clubs and approximately 1,000 Arctic Cat dealers across the United States and Canada. The company has also donated videos to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources for use when training beginner snowmobilers. Each year the Minnesota DNR trains more than 5,000 new snowmobilers. All snowmobilers, regardless of age or skill level, are encouraged by Arctco to view the video and share it with fellow snowmobiling enthusiasts.

Arctco is also asking snowmobilers to follow some simple safety guidelines this winter. "Arctic Cat's 12 Safety Tips" were prepared in conjunction with the International Association of Snowmobile Administrators and the International Snowmobile Council. These tips (listed below) are printed on hang tags on all Arctic Cat snowmobiles:

(1) Never consume alcohol before or during snowmobiling.

(2) Always wear a helmet.

(3) Never ride across a lake you aren't familiar with, or you aren't certain has a covering of ice at least five inches thick.

(4) Use extreme cautions when crossing roads and train tracks.

(5) Be extra cautious at night and don't ride after midnight.

(6) Beware of trees and other hazards. Never ride on unfamiliar terrain and stay on market trails and areas where snowmobiling is permitted.

(7) Always use a solid hitch for towing.

(8) Observe proper rider capacity (maximum one rider on 1-Up sleds maximum two riders on 2-Up sleds).

(9) Become familiar with your snowmobile and its controls and keep it properly maintained.

(10) Obey age laws in the state you will be riding.

(11) Read and understand your owner's manual.

(12) Obey all local laws and regulations and use common sense. Operate your snowmobile at safe speeds and never exceed posted speed limits.

Student Ass'n recognizes Stumpf

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls was among 40 state legislators recognized by the Minnesota State University Student Association for their work during the 1993 legislative session on behalf of state university students. The list included 33 DFL and seven IR legislators.

Anthony Kassa

Kassa named to edition of "Who's Who"

Anthony Kassa, son of Timothy and Paulette Kassa and a junior at Goodridge high school, has been selected for inclusion in the 27th annual edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students 1992-93. The book will be released this month.

The recognition is given to only five per cent of the nation's high school students each year. Since 1967 the major objective of "Who's Who" has been to recognize the achievements of the nation's outstanding students who have contributed to their schools and communities.

Students selected are eligible to apply for "Who's Who" sponsored scholarships and to use the organization's college referral service.

Anthony holds the honor of "Student of the Month" at Goodridge for grades six through nine and has consistently been on the honor roll. He was on the varsity Knowledge Bowl team as a sophomore and also will compete as a junior.

He played Blue Devil football for four years, plays trumpet in the band and is varsity basketball team manager. He is also active in German club.

Anthony is active in the Goodridge St. Anne's Catholic parish and a member of the youth group. He enjoys working with computers, hunting, ATV riding, camping and fishing. He has one brother, Adam, who is a sixth grader at Goodridge school.

Miz Ellies opens after back taxes are paid Friday

Events regarding Miz Ellies, a lounge in Goodridge, have been changing quickly — so quickly indeed that as a story in the Northern Watch about the Minnesota department of revenue closing the lounge hit the news stands the story was already outdated.

Al Kiesow, a liquor license holder at the lounge, said Friday afternoon that when they learned of the closing Thursday evening they raised the necessary funds to pay off taxes owed for the third quarter. Friday morning they paid off the taxes owed and also paid off the fourth quarter taxes. When the taxes were paid, the Minnesota department of revenue returned their property and the lounge was open for business by Friday noon.

In between those two events, the media learned of the closing and, unable to reach other sources, the story was duly reported to the public on the basis of information available. When the liquor license holders learned the story had reached the public, they contacted the media (local radio and newspaper).

Semi-weekly newspapers have their advantages, but being able to report on events that change quickly is not one of those advantages. It was too late to report the changes in the story for the Northern Watch edition, which had already gone to press.

Kiesow was somewhat disappointed in how events unfolded. It is an important time of year for any business. Several parties at the lounge had been planned. As the news about the closing hit the streets, phone calls had to be made to reassure organizations planning to rent the facility for parties that they were still open.

Early issues of the Northern Watch require deadline changes

To permit distribution of the Northern Watch prior to the Christmas and New Year's holidays, publication will be moved ahead one day for both the December 25 and January 1 issues.

Printing of the Watch normally takes place on Fridays. For the above two issues, printing will be done on Thursdays, December 23 and December 30, and the publication will be distributed on Fridays, December 24 and 31.

Advanced publication will require earlier deadlines for advertising and news copy for both of these issues. Deadline for display advertising will be 12 noon on Wednesdays, December 22 and 29 and for classified advertising will be at 3 p.m. on Tuesdays, December 21 and 28.

The news staff will be accepting timely items for publication until 5 p.m. on Wednesdays, December 22 and 29, although efforts to provide early copy or information will be greatly appreciated and increase likelihood of preparation for publishing.

Cooperation of advertisers and news sources in being aware of the advanced deadlines and providing timely copy will be sincerely appreciated by the Northern Watch staff.

The Times and Northern Watch office will be closed all day on Fridays, December 24 and 31, Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve.

Thief River Falls tax levy for 1994 will rise 5.8 per cent

ernment aid (31.7%), which pretty much matches a decrease in Minnesota property tax aids (30%). Miscellaneous state and county aids, however, will decrease (26.8%). Fines, rent and department revenue are expected to increase (8.8%). Increases are also anticipated from miscellaneous and RCF transfer (36.7%), and transfers from electric and liquor departments (4.8%). Decreases in revenue are anticipated in specials, licenses and interest (10%), and engineering services and CDAB loans (5.1%).

A statement for Thief River Falls enterprise funds was also prepared. Figures show 1994 budgeted revenue at $9,917,847. Total budgeted expenses are estimated at $9,790,079.

A summary of payroll costs was prepared for the truth in taxation hearing also. According to a summary of payroll costs for the city of Thief River Falls, there are 97 full-time employees in city government. The city also employs an average of 72 part-time employees each year. The 72 part-time employees include 24 volunteer firefighters, and actual hours worked on a part-time basis will vary from 100 to 1,800 hours.

Payroll costs represent an average of 27.5 per cent of the city's total budget (1992-27.3, 1993-27.1, 1994-28.1). The percent of the 1994 total budget representing payroll costs varies from a low of 8.5 per cent in the liquor fund to 82.5 per cent in the engineering and technical services fund (General fund 58.3%). The city also uses consultants and or independent contractors on a recurring basis to provide services to the city. Total payroll costs for 1994, which includes employee benefits, was estimated at $4,120,874.

Who's responsible for property tax increases?

There are a number of explanation for why individual property taxes have increased. In addition to increases in levies demanded by local government, property taxes are also affected to market value of property, changes in state tax classification rates, changes in a property tax classification, and changes in the city's overall market value.

According to the League of Minnesota Cities (LMC), four factors contribute to increases in property tax estimates: structural changes in the property tax, state and federal mandates, tax and budget estimates, and local spending decisions.

• Structural changes in local property valuations and changes in property tax class rates shift tax burdens. In many parts of Minnesota, the assessed value of property, especially commercial property, has gone down, sometimes dramatically. This shifts a greater portion of the total tax burden onto other properties, particularly homes and apartments.

Another structural change is in property class rates. Different types of property (farms, homes, businesses) pay a different proportion of the property tax. Unless the state provides additional revenues when it makes changes to these class rates, the property tax burden shifts from one type of property to another. In some areas of the state there has been a shift from farms to other properties.

• The second factor that leads to increases in property taxes is state and federal mandates. The federal and state governments require cities, counties, and schools to spend large amounts of money and time to comply with federal and state laws. This causes spending to increase without the local governing body making deliberate decisions to spend more on services. These new laws may, or may not, be responding to local priorities.

• By September 15 of the current year, local governments need to estimate their budgets and the tax revenues they will need for the upcoming calendar year. The estimates show up on the truth in taxation notice. Local governments emphasize that these are estimates and not the final decisions. Some parts of the estimate may change between September 15 and December because of changes in revenue projections such as state aid, fees and fines, and interest earnings. Because the law prohibits local governments from increasing the amount of the proposed levy, some local officials believe it's better to err on the side of over estimating revenue needs.

• Although these factors make up a signficant portion of the increase many citizens see on their property tax bill, increased spending is also a factor. Some local units are proposing increases in spending or increases in the proportion of revenue that comes from the proper tax.

Tuesday night, Mayor Robert Reeve concluded the meeting by thanking city staff and department supervisors for their help and patience. He also encouraged anyone with questions to contact the city clerk's office.

Board discusses Miz Ellie's lounge

added that the county board had no control over what the media wrote about.

Commissioner Swanson noted — with concurrence coming from several commissioners — that it was also not the intent of the county board to shut down businesses in the county. The county wants to encourage business.

Swanson said that with as many incidents taking place at the establishment they must have realized that there was a problem. He asked what they had done to change things?

Kiesow said they had hired bouncers. Watne then corrected Kiesow stating that they never actually hired a bouncer, they had friends and acquaintances watch the door, sometimes for $20 a night. In one instance, however, the bouncer began taking free drinks and it became a problem.

Commissioner Charles Naplin asked whether he thought the reasonable response was to provide appropriate security? If they had, he suggested that a lot of these incidents would have been eliminated.

Commissioner Murphy said they they weren't trying to tell them how to run their business, but telling them what they won't tolerate.

Watne said because business was picking up, there were a lot of new people. When the casino opened, he said, a lot of "Indians" started stopping by. At first, he said, there were problems, but it is getting better, he said.

Sheriff Moe noted however, that very few of the incidents involve "Native Americans."

During the meeting, Swanson said that maybe the county board should have put the hammer down earlier. The board cannot, however, he said, let the lives of the people continue to be placed in danger. There's coming a time, he said, when this board might be asked to renew a liquor license for the current operators. Personally, he said, he has a problem with that.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Kiesow and Watne said they did not intend to reapply for a liquor license to operate Miz Ellies. Kiesow issued a lengthy and angry statement which pretty much blamed the sheriff's department for many of their problems. "Instead of entering the establishment and investigating for alcohol violations, Gerald Moe and the department 'created' illegal activities by setting up the establishment with minors on only two publicly known occasions . . . ." He also stated that many of the stories released to the media contained errors and exaggerations. Because of those releases, he argued that "Miz Ellies became a victim of a media trial".

Kiesow said that with all that has been going on, he could only conclude that Miz Ellies was being "subjected to extreme harassment from the sheriff's department". "Criminal activity," he stated, "does not occur at Miz Ellies and it never has. The complaints that the sheriff's department has received are all very minor . . . ."

"I have made the decision that if operating a business in Pennington county means constantly experiencing hassles and putting up with pure nonsense, I do not want anything to do with a business in this area. It's not feasible for myself to try to continue when everyday brings another ridiculous battle that simply cannot be won."

The meeting ended with the board denying a motion to hold a hearing on December 30 that could result in a revocation of the liquor license. Commissioners were also trying to dispel confusion over ownership of the establishment. Watne has stated that they own the building and suggested that there is a lease-to-purchase agreement. At a prior meeting, the attorney for the owners said they were operating the business on a month-to-month lease. The problem is not frivolous as it may have a bearing on whether a liquor license can be issued immediately after Kiesow and Watne vacate the premises.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Christmas Lights

During this busy time of year, it is important to share the season with your young child, and to spend time with him or her. An easy and enjoyable time for both of you would be to go out and see the Christmas lights.

Be sure to set aside time when, both you and your child will have time and not be too tired. If it is possible to walk and look at the lights and scenes, it will help keep the wiggles out. But driving from neighborhood to neighborhood is also very enjoyable. Do not hurry this adventure. Stop and look, enjoy and talk about what you see.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need a favorite book and your time.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

With Christmas in mind, the Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following:

Price, Moe. The Reindeer Christmas. This lighthearted tale explains how Santa's original reindeer were chosen and how a solution was found for a major Christmas dilemma.

Christmas Trolls. When Treva unravels the mystery behind the disappearing Christmas decorations, she finds two irresistable little trolls who don't understand Christmas.

VIDEO VARIETY

The Best Christmas Pageant Ever. When the curtain goes up, a miracle begins when the nastiest, dirtiest kids you could ever meet are in this year's Christmas pageant.

*Don't forget to attend Storytime every Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the Thief River Falls public library.

PARENTING TIPS

Giving Gifts

Many of you are struggling with the problems of a materialistic society at a time when gift-giving is not only appropriate but expected! We expect to give to our children. We give food, shelter, clothing and love all year as best we can. We also expect to give to them at Christmas. But what does all this giving teach children? If children are always on the receiving end, will they think that only big people give and only little people receive?

All children start out as selfish, self-centered individuals; as they grow so does their ability to give and share. The holiday season is an ideal time to reinforce a child's developing spirit of generosity. According to Parents magazine, December 1991, children as young as two or three don't yet have a real understanding of giving but are aware of the good feelings associated with it. So even though you'll have to pick out the gifts they give, you can involve a toddler in the act of giving the gift. By giving gifts with you, your child will share your good feelings and will also begin to learn the joys that are associated with giving.

Even though each child's generosity develops at a different pace, you should try to keep him/her involved in the entire process of giving as much as possible. The ability to give as well as receive is a life long process which begins at birth.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

When your child gives you something such as a hug or a "drawing," be sure to show and express your appreciation.

Warroad man to head board of medical practice

Dr. David Kidder, Warroad optometrist, was elected president of the Minnesota Board of Medical Practice at its annual meeting recently in St. Paul.

The Board of Medical Practice is made up of 11 physicians and five public members, all of whom are appointed by the Governor. Over 14,000 physicians are licensed by the board of Medical Practice and the board also registers athletic trainers, physical therapists, physician assistants, respiratory care therapists and professional corporations. Its mission is to protect the public by investigating complaints relating to the competency or behavior of individual licensees or registrants.

Adrienne Breiner, a public member from Owatonna, was elected vice president and Paul Spilseth, a medical doctor from Stillwater, was elected secretary. The new officers will begin one-year terms in January of 1994.

The board approved in concept the creation of a "Health Professionals Services Program" which would provide monitoring and other services to ill physicians. It also announced the addition of an 800 line to receive complaints from throughout Minnesota. The new number (1-800-657-3709) is limited to calls from within the state relating to complaints. Metro area resident should call 642-0538.

Nicole Schenker, Amity student from Switzerland, will be going home for the Christmas holidays after attending English and social studies classes and assisting in the German language program at Lincoln high school since school opened in September. She is the fourth Amity scholar to assist German language instructor Paivi Young. Both will be world travelers for the holidays. While Nicole points to her area of Switzerland on this globe in the Lincoln media center, Paivi shows that she will not be too far away, visiting in Finland.

Amity student reviews Christmas in Switzerland

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

When American children hear that they better not shout, pout or cry because Santa Claus is coming to town, the reason exactly why is left to their imagination. The idea is that if they are not good children, they will get no presents.

In Nicole Schenker's home country of Switzerland, the visit by Santa Claus is even more threatening.

"For the younger children," the Amity student at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls explains, "Santa Claus comes on December 6, the St. Nicholas holiday in the Catholic church.

"He doesn't live at the North Pole; he lives in a log cabin somewhere deep in the woods. No one knows just where. He brings presents to good children, but if they are bad, he will put them in his sack and carry them off to his cabin and they will have to stay there forever."

The occasion of Santa's visit is usually marked by small parties in groups with presents for the young children. Older children often give their parents a token gift, such as fruit, that day but the main gift-giving among families takes place on December 24, Christmas Eve.

That is also when the Christmas tree is decorated. "We always have a real tree," Nicole emphasized. "It is cut just before it is brought into the house. We use a lot of evergreen branches and real candles for decoration. We don't have so many electric lights as you have here."

The only church service for people to attend is a midnight mass but few go there, Nicole said. People are church members because the government collects support for the church as part of the taxes, but few attend church on any kind of regular basis.

Larger family gatherings are held on Christmas Day December 25 or on December 26 or 27 which are holidays by national law. All stores and shops are required to be closed those days. Most shops normally close at 4 p.m. Saturday and remain closed until Monday morning. They are not open Sundays.

Nicole lives with her mother and father and 19-year-old sister Rahel in a village of about 4,000 people only a few kilometers from Zurich. Their house is one of the newer ones in the village—only about 200 years old. The village itself is about 900 years old and the houses, made of stone, are built to last.

Most of the people in the village work in Zurich and there is bus service every half hour during the day and more frequently in the morning and evening when people are traveling to and from work. Most families have a car—rarely more than one—but it is not routinely used by most to drive to work. Gasoline costs between $4 and $5 per gallon. The Schenker family's car is a German-made Ford.

"My father does drive the car to and from work," Nicole explains. "He works as a supervisor with a construction company that builds tunnels and he must have a car to get to his work. My mother is a librarian in a community library."

Nicole has attended three years at the University of Zurich and will have two years remaining when she returns. She is studying history, English and Scandinavian languages with expectations that she will become a teacher.

Host family for Nicole Schenker during her stay in Thief River Falls as an Amity scholar is Art and Joan Heinze and their son Steve.

Everyone in Switzerland attends grades 1-5 in the elementary school, then will go to one of three levels in grades 6-9. In grades 10-13 about 20 per cent of the students attend the gymnasium (academic high school) in preparation to attend a university. The remainder attend either of two vocational schools.

"Those who attend the vocational schools can go on to a technical college to earn a degree," Nicole adds. "They can become engineers and have important jobs that pay good wages." She said it is not unusual for people with full-time jobs in education to earn $50,000 to $60,000 per year, but quickly adds that living expenses are also extremely high.

Nicole said she believes schools in the United States to be easier than those in Switzerland with fewer subjects and less homework. She said at the gymnasium she would have 12 or 13 subjects throughout the course of a week with not all classes meeting every day. She has studied English, French, Italian and German along with Spanish and Latin.

Switzerland is world-renowned for its skiing, and with good reason. Despite the emphasis on education and the time spent in study, the schools close for a two-week ski holiday in February. Nicole enjoys downhill skiing as one of her favorite outdoor sports, although her village receives very little snow. She has to travel a couple of hours to reach ski territory.

Although she can speak Spanish, she converses with the other Amity scholars from Spanish-speaking countries in English. And like them, she handles the English language very well.

Nicole said she likes the snow which has fallen on Thief River Falls and enjoys going to the Lincoln high school Prowler hockey games. She said that people in this community seem more open than in Switzerland and that she has been able to meet and get to know many of them.

While an Amity scholar here, Nicole will attend English and social studies classes at Lincoln and assist Paivi Young with instruction in the German language classes. This is the fourth year Mrs. Young has had an Amity student assist with her classes and she has enjoyed and appreciated them all.

Nicole will be leaving Thursday for a brief return trip to Switzerland for the holidays, then return to complete the rest of the school year here.

"It will be good to go home," she said, "but I will also be glad to come back. I like it here."

Nicole and the other two Amity students are available to talk about their countries and experiences to local groups and organizations and to do language tutoring. Nicole may be contacted at her host family's home, the Art Heinze residence. This is the second year Art and Joan Heinze have hosted an Amity student.

Crops index up nine points

Led by dry edible beans, sunflowers, soybeans and corn, the mid-November index of crop prices received by Minnesota farmers climbed nine points to 125 during the month, according to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service.

Dry edible beans were up $1 per hundredweight to an average of $23.50. Navy beans at $16.10 were up 70 cents, pinto beans at $27.60 were up 20 cents and kidney beans at $32.30 were up $2.40.

Sunflowers at $12.10 per hundredweight were up 90 cents from the revised October price for the four-state area including North Dakota, Minnesota, South Dakota and Kansas. Corn was up 25 cents to $2.40 per bushel and soybeans were up 60 cents to $6.35 per bushel.

All wheat at $3.18 per bushel was down three cents, oats at $1.34 was up seven cents and barley at $1.75 was up six cents. Potatoes at $5.30 per hundredweight were up a nickel. Alfalfa hay at $98 a ton was unchanged while other hay at $63 per ton was down $7.

Turkeys at 36 cents per pound liveweight were up one cent from a month earlier. The dairy index remained unchanged at 154 but the meat animal index dropped four points to 151. Sows at $36.20 a hundredweight were down 70 cents and barrows and gilts at $45.30 were down $3.30.

Beef cattle averaged $61.60 per hundredweight, up 50 cents, on the strength of steers and heifers which were up 90 cents to $63.70. Calves were down $4.20 to $89.50 and cows were down $2.20 to $44.30.

146 donate blood at TRF

There were 165 people registering and 146 being able to donate blood during the Thief River Falls blood drive November 23 and 24, according to United Blood Services of Fargo, ND, which conducts the blood collection. Eight of the 146 were first-time donors.

"Sponsoring a blood drive near a holiday is a very important responsibility," states Rhonda Ellefson of United Blood Services. "Because many donors make plans for other activities, they sometimes forget to allow time for donating blood."

Sharon Odegaard coordinated the drive held at Northwest Medical Center and sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary. Support was provided by Kay and Buzz Nelson, Fern Kranz, Senora Skay, Donna Poole, Tress Noel, Barb Horien, Eleanor Forberg, Annabelle Cuppett, Alverda Noel, JoAnn Reeve, Audrey Hermanson, Marilyn Winters, Lorraine Dallmann, Gladys Narverud, Hugo's, McDonald's and Northern State Bank.

"Blood drives don't just happen," Ellefson said. "Hours of work are necessary to organize a successful blood drive, and many people have helped to make Thief River Falls' community blood drive work well."

Cenex earnings $80.5 million

Earnings of $80.5 million on sales of $2.048 billion for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1993, were reported by Cenex cooperative at its annual meeting in the Minneapolis Convention Center December 8—the third consecutive year of record net income for the regional cooperative.

It was the first year the cooperative had broken the $2 billion mark in sales and it did so by $48 million. The 1993 results compare with net income of $63.9 million on sales of $1.779 billion for fiscal 1992.

Although the company has had five years of record or near-record earnings, president Noel Estenson projects lower earnings in 1994. It has set a net income goal of $35 million due to expected factors such as an environmental upgrade at its refinery and repercussions from depressed 1993 plant food margins and flooding of the past spring.

Cash returns to members, in the form of patronage and stock retirements, have totaled nearly $100 million in the past five years. Based upon 1993 results, Cenex member-owners will share in more than $32 million in cash.

With its 1993 disbursements, Cenex has returned 51.4 per cent of its cumulative net earnings—or $372.1 million—to its owners.

Santa arrives in Goodridge this Saturday

Santa Claus will pay his annual visit to Goodridge area youngsters Saturday, December 18, from 12 noon to 2:30 p.m. at the community center. His appearance is sponsored by the Goodridge Lions clubs and participating area business places.

Rides will be given on horse-drawn sleighs and treats will be given to the community children. Coffee will also be provided for parents bringing their children to the event.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Christmas Lights

During this busy time of year, it is important to share the season with your young child, and to spend time with him or her. An easy and enjoyable time for both of you would be to go out and see the Christmas lights.

Be sure to set aside time when, both you and your child will have time and not be too tired. If it is possible to walk and look at the lights and scenes, it will help keep the wiggles out. But driving from neighborhood to neighborhood is also very enjoyable. Do not hurry this adventure. Stop and look, enjoy and talk about what you see.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need a favorite book and your time.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

With Christmas in mind, the Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following:

Price, Moe. The Reindeer Christmas. This lighthearted tale explains how Santa's original reindeer were chosen and how a solution was found for a major Christmas dilemma.

Christmas Trolls. When Treva unravels the mystery behind the disappearing Christmas decorations, she finds two irresistable little trolls who don't understand Christmas.

VIDEO VARIETY

The Best Christmas Pageant Ever. When the curtain goes up, a miracle begins when the nastiest, dirtiest kids you could ever meet are in this year's Christmas pageant.

*Don't forget to attend Storytime every Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the Thief River Falls public library.

PARENTING TIPS

Giving Gifts

Many of you are struggling with the problems of a materialistic society at a time when gift-giving is not only appropriate but expected! We expect to give to our children. We give food, shelter, clothing and love all year as best we can. We also expect to give to them at Christmas. But what does all this giving teach children? If children are always on the receiving end, will they think that only big people give and only little people receive?

All children start out as selfish, self-centered individuals; as they grow so does their ability to give and share. The holiday season is an ideal time to reinforce a child's developing spirit of generosity. According to Parents magazine, December 1991, children as young as two or three don't yet have a real understanding of giving but are aware of the good feelings associated with it. So even though you'll have to pick out the gifts they give, you can involve a toddler in the act of giving the gift. By giving gifts with you, your child will share your good feelings and will also begin to learn the joys that are associated with giving.

Even though each child's generosity develops at a different pace, you should try to keep him/her involved in the entire process of giving as much as possible. The ability to give as well as receive is a life long process which begins at birth.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

When your child gives you something such as a hug or a "drawing," be sure to show and express your appreciation.

Warroad man to head board of medical practice

Dr. David Kidder, Warroad optometrist, was elected president of the Minnesota Board of Medical Practice at its annual meeting recently in St. Paul.

The Board of Medical Practice is made up of 11 physicians and five public members, all of whom are appointed by the Governor. Over 14,000 physicians are licensed by the board of Medical Practice and the board also registers athletic trainers, physical therapists, physician assistants, respiratory care therapists and professional corporations. Its mission is to protect the public by investigating complaints relating to the competency or behavior of individual licensees or registrants.

Adrienne Breiner, a public member from Owatonna, was elected vice president and Paul Spilseth, a medical doctor from Stillwater, was elected secretary. The new officers will begin one-year terms in January of 1994.

The board approved in concept the creation of a "Health Professionals Services Program" which would provide monitoring and other services to ill physicians. It also announced the addition of an 800 line to receive complaints from throughout Minnesota. The new number (1-800-657-3709) is limited to calls from within the state relating to complaints. Metro area resident should call 642-0538.

When American children hear that they better not shout, pout or cry because Santa Claus is coming to town, the reason exactly why is left to their imagination. The idea is that if they are not good children, they will get no presents.

In Nicole Schenker's home country of Switzerland, the visit by Santa Claus is even more threatening.

"For the younger children," the Amity student at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls explains, "Santa Claus comes on December 6, the St. Nicholas holiday in the Catholic church.

"He doesn't live at the North Pole; he lives in a log cabin somewhere deep in the woods. No one knows just where. He brings presents to good children, but if they are bad, he will put them in his sack and carry them off to his cabin and they will have to stay there forever."

The occasion of Santa's visit is usually marked by small parties in groups with presents for the young children. Older children often give their parents a token gift, such as fruit, that day but the main gift-giving among families takes place on December 24, Christmas Eve.

That is also when the Christmas tree is decorated. "We always have a real tree," Nicole emphasized. "It is cut just before it is brought into the house. We use a lot of evergreen branches and real candles for decoration. We don't have so many electric lights as you have here."

The only church service for people to attend is a midnight mass but few go there, Nicole said. People are church members because the government collects support for the church as part of the taxes, but few attend church on any kind of regular basis.

Larger family gatherings are held on Christmas Day December 25 or on December 26 or 27 which are holidays by national law. All stores and shops are required to be closed those days. Most shops normally close at 4 p.m. Saturday and remain closed until Monday morning. They are not open Sundays.

Nicole lives with her mother and father and 19-year-old sister Rahel in a village of about 4,000 people only a few kilometers from Zurich. Their house is one of the newer ones in the village—only about 200 years old. The village itself is about 900 years old and the houses, made of stone, are built to last.

Most of the people in the village work in Zurich and there is bus service every half hour during the day and more frequently in the morning and evening when people are traveling to and from work. Most families have a car—rarely more than one—but it is not routinely used by most to drive to work. Gasoline costs between $4 and $5 per gallon. The Schenker family's car is a German-made Ford.

"My father does drive the car to and from work," Nicole explains. "He works as a supervisor with a construction company that builds tunnels and he must have a car to get to his work. My mother is a librarian in a community library."

Nicole has attended three years at the University of Zurich and will have two years remaining when she returns. She is studying history, English and Scandinavian languages with expectations that she will become a teacher.

Host family for Nicole Schenker during her stay in Thief River Falls as an Amity scholar is Art and Joan Heinze and their son Steve.

Everyone in Switzerland attends grades 1-5 in the elementary school, then will go to one of three levels in grades 6-9. In grades 10-13 about 20 per cent of the students attend the gymnasium (academic high school) in preparation to attend a university. The remainder attend either of two vocational schools.

"Those who attend the vocational schools can go on to a technical college to earn a degree," Nicole adds. "They can become engineers and have important jobs that pay good wages." She said it is not unusual for people with full-time jobs in education to earn $50,000 to $60,000 per year, but quickly adds that living expenses are also extremely high.

Nicole said she believes schools in the United States to be easier than those in Switzerland with fewer subjects and less homework. She said at the gymnasium she would have 12 or 13 subjects throughout the course of a week with not all classes meeting every day. She has studied English, French, Italian and German along with Spanish and Latin.

Switzerland is world-renowned for its skiing, and with good reason. Despite the emphasis on education and the time spent in study, the schools close for a two-week ski holiday in February. Nicole enjoys downhill skiing as one of her favorite outdoor sports, although her village receives very little snow. She has to travel a couple of hours to reach ski territory.

Although she can speak Spanish, she converses with the other Amity scholars from Spanish-speaking countries in English. And like them, she handles the English language very well.

Nicole said she likes the snow which has fallen on Thief River Falls and enjoys going to the Lincoln high school Prowler hockey games. She said that people in this community seem more open than in Switzerland and that she has been able to meet and get to know many of them.

While an Amity scholar here, Nicole will attend English and social studies classes at Lincoln and assist Paivi Young with instruction in the German language classes. This is the fourth year Mrs. Young has had an Amity student assist with her classes and she has enjoyed and appreciated them all.

Nicole will be leaving Thursday for a brief return trip to Switzerland for the holidays, then return to complete the rest of the school year here.

"It will be good to go home," she said, "but I will also be glad to come back. I like it here."

Nicole and the other two Amity students are available to talk about their countries and experiences to local groups and organizations and to do language tutoring. Nicole may be contacted at her host family's home, the Art Heinze residence. This is the second year Art and Joan Heinze have hosted an Amity student.

Crops index up nine points

Led by dry edible beans, sunflowers, soybeans and corn, the mid-November index of crop prices received by Minnesota farmers climbed nine points to 125 during the month, according to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service.

Dry edible beans were up $1 per hundredweight to an average of $23.50. Navy beans at $16.10 were up 70 cents, pinto beans at $27.60 were up 20 cents and kidney beans at $32.30 were up $2.40.

Sunflowers at $12.10 per hundredweight were up 90 cents from the revised October price for the four-state area including North Dakota, Minnesota, South Dakota and Kansas. Corn was up 25 cents to $2.40 per bushel and soybeans were up 60 cents to $6.35 per bushel.

All wheat at $3.18 per bushel was down three cents, oats at $1.34 was up seven cents and barley at $1.75 was up six cents. Potatoes at $5.30 per hundredweight were up a nickel. Alfalfa hay at $98 a ton was unchanged while other hay at $63 per ton was down $7.

Turkeys at 36 cents per pound liveweight were up one cent from a month earlier. The dairy index remained unchanged at 154 but the meat animal index dropped four points to 151. Sows at $36.20 a hundredweight were down 70 cents and barrows and gilts at $45.30 were down $3.30.

Beef cattle averaged $61.60 per hundredweight, up 50 cents, on the strength of steers and heifers which were up 90 cents to $63.70. Calves were down $4.20 to $89.50 and cows were down $2.20 to $44.30.

146 donate blood at TRF

There were 165 people registering and 146 being able to donate blood during the Thief River Falls blood drive November 23 and 24, according to United Blood Services of Fargo, ND, which conducts the blood collection. Eight of the 146 were first-time donors.

"Sponsoring a blood drive near a holiday is a very important responsibility," states Rhonda Ellefson of United Blood Services. "Because many donors make plans for other activities, they sometimes forget to allow time for donating blood."

Sharon Odegaard coordinated the drive held at Northwest Medical Center and sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary. Support was provided by Kay and Buzz Nelson, Fern Kranz, Senora Skay, Donna Poole, Tress Noel, Barb Horien, Eleanor Forberg, Annabelle Cuppett, Alverda Noel, JoAnn Reeve, Audrey Hermanson, Marilyn Winters, Lorraine Dallmann, Gladys Narverud, Hugo's, McDonald's and Northern State Bank.

"Blood drives don't just happen," Ellefson said. "Hours of work are necessary to organize a successful blood drive, and many people have helped to make Thief River Falls' community blood drive work well."

Cenex earnings $80.5 million

Earnings of $80.5 million on sales of $2.048 billion for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1993, were reported by Cenex cooperative at its annual meeting in the Minneapolis Convention Center December 8—the third consecutive year of record net income for the regional cooperative.

It was the first year the cooperative had broken the $2 billion mark in sales and it did so by $48 million. The 1993 results compare with net income of $63.9 million on sales of $1.779 billion for fiscal 1992.

Although the company has had five years of record or near-record earnings, president Noel Estenson projects lower earnings in 1994. It has set a net income goal of $35 million due to expected factors such as an environmental upgrade at its refinery and repercussions from depressed 1993 plant food margins and flooding of the past spring.

Cash returns to members, in the form of patronage and stock retirements, have totaled nearly $100 million in the past five years. Based upon 1993 results, Cenex member-owners will share in more than $32 million in cash.

With its 1993 disbursements, Cenex has returned 51.4 per cent of its cumulative net earnings—or $372.1 million—to its owners.

Santa arrives in Goodridge this Saturday

Lakehead Pipe Line proposes expansion of pipeline system

Lakehead Pipe Line Company is proposing an expansion of its pipeline system., The proposed expansion, estimated to cost up to $150 million, would include addition of a 20-inch pipeline from the North Dakota/Canadian border near Gretna, Manitoba to Clearbrook using existing pipeline route and right-of-way. Two new crude oil storage tanks are also proposed at the current breakout storage facility in Clearbrook. Lakehead is also considering other modifications in the pipeline system east of Clearbrook. The proposed expansion will interconnect with an expansion of the Interprovicial Pipe Line pipeline system in Canada which has been proposed to the National Energy board in Canada.

The expansion would increase capacity on the Lakehead's pipeline system by approximately 155,000 barrels per day to primarily serve refineries in Minneapolis/St. Paul and the Chicago areas. Approximately 75 per cent of all crude oil delivered to Minnesota and 100 per cent of crude oil delivered to Wisconsin is transported by Lakehead Pipe Line.

Appropriate regulatory review is underway. A series of community meeting will be held in February or March 1994 for residents along the route of the new 20-inch pipeline. Detailed information about the expansion, regional economic benefits, environmental safeguards and construction practices will be discussed. Public notices will be placed in local newspapers to announced the meeting schedules.

Lakehead Pipe Line is committed to meeting or exceeding all environmental protection and safety requirements. Whenever possible, local contractors will be hired to work on the project, adding to the positive economic benefit this project will have on the six northwestern counties in Minnesota and northeastern portion of North Dakota.

IMPRESSIONS

Beth Johnson

Have you looked at the calendar recently? It will soon be the middle of the month of December. What sort of images do you have of past Decembers?

I remember a December, a couple of Decembers ago, which had subzero temperature readings for the greater part of the weeks before Christmas. We must not truly be in December as the temperature, so far, is relatively mild. If there have been subzero readings, they have been early in the day when most of us are still in the warm comfort of our beds.

This December we have yet to experience the thrill of driving on "square" tires. This December we have not yet had to blindly navigate through the fog of subzero exhaust. This December, we may have had to scrape our car windows, but plugging in our vehicles has still been optional. This year December is teasing us. It is letting us think that we just might be able to coast through winter relatively untouched by winter.

But we live in northwest Minnesota. By nature, the weather in northwest Minnesota is partly a teasing sort of weather. It seems to like to lull us into thinking that no storm will subdue us this season, but we really do not need to fret. Winter will make her presence known to us in the fury of a good storm or two, in spite of the mild December we are experiencing.

Now is the time, if you have not already done so, to prepare yourself for the unknown of the winter that we will experience. In the next couple of weeks many of us will be traveling to visit our friends and relatives as we celebrate Christmas and the New Year. Are you prepared for winter travel? Have you bothered to put a winter survival kit in your vehicle?

Every year in the early winter, we go to our basement and once again find the bags of winter wear that we place in our cars as part of our winter survival kit. I must admit I kind of like clearing out the spot in the basement that stores these bags of gear during the spring and summer and fall. As soon as these bags are inspected for appropriate clothing, they are put in our vehicles. When a sleeping bag or two is also included, the space in the cargo area of our station wagons is clearly diminished. It's tempting to remove these bags of survival gear when we go on any lengthy trip so as to make more room for the suitcases we may want to carry. But, these bags stay in our car. We never know when winter will come with a vengeance and catch us in need of their aid. Hopefully, never.

Do you have extra winter wear in your car? Don't let our teasing winter weather find you without extra warm clothing in your vehicle.

Another part of our winter survival kit is a bit of food. Now, when I consider the quantity of food that each of my boys can consume, I know that what we have in our survival kit is simply that – survival, not sustenance!! But, a few candy bars, and a can of peanuts will most likely look like a feast if we ever became stranded in a good winter storm. Hopefully, we will never have that occasion.

Do you have some food in your vehicles – just in case?? Don't let our teasing winter weather find you without survival food in your vehicle.

Another part of our winter survival kit is a couple of coffee cans and a candle and some matches. All of these could be used for a variety of purposes if our teasing winter weather caused us to be stranded. We also have a portable radio and a flashlight and a first aid kit of sorts in our vehicle. Hopefully, none of these will be needed, but just in case the winter weather catches us, we would be thankful for them.

A basic of travel during the winter here in northwest Minnesota is the ability to get oneself out of a snowdrift. A shovel usually helps to do that. Don't let this teasing December lull you into thinking that there won't be too many snowbanks this winter.

Winter will come to us in northwest Minnesota. December is teasing us with "mild" weather. We know that this cannot last. In fact, as you read this you may be watching a snow storm. Be prepared as you travel this winter. Pack a winter survival kit in your vehicles. A bit of trunk space occupied by a winter survival kit is a small price to pay for safety in a winter storm.

Despite an uneven economy, students in Midwest pay off loans

Despite an uneven economy, students in the Upper Midwest are successfully meeting their student loan commitments, resulting in the lowest default rate in five years by one of the companies serving the secondary market for student loans in the Midwest.

Student Loan Finance Corporation (SLFC) of Aberdeen, SD—a private, non-profit corporation which services loans to about 87,000 students, reported that its default rate for fiscal 1993 was at a five-year low of 2.95 per cent. The company has over $360 million in student loans. National student loan default rate is about 17 per cent.

SLFC president Norg Sanderson attributed the low default rate to two main factors: (1) That Midwest students are generally more dedicated to meeting their loan commitments and (2) the quality of the company's loan servicing program which includes flexible payment options and being responsive to borrowers' questions. In its 14 years of operation, SLFC has never exceeded its self-imposed default rate ceiling of 3.5 per cent.

SLFC buys and services student loans primarily from banks in eight states in the Upper Midwest. By acquiring the loans, it frees funds for lenders to make new loans. SLFC assumes loan collection and reporting requirements for the loans.

Nationally, the student loan default rate was 17.5 per cent for fiscal 1991, the latest year for which figures are available, according to the U.S. Education Department. That was down from 22.4 per cent for fiscal 1990.

Lakehead Pipe Line proposes expansion of pipeline system

Lakehead Pipe Line Company is proposing an expansion of its pipeline system. The proposed expansion, estimated to cost up to $150 million, would include addition of a 20-inch pipeline from the North Dakota/Canadian border near Gretna, Manitoba to Clearbrook using existing pipeline route and right-of-way. Two new crude oil storage tanks are also proposed at the current breakout storage facility in Clearbrook. Lakehead is also considering other modifications in the pipeline system east of Clearbrook. The proposed expansion will interconnect with an expansion of the Interprovicial Pipe Line pipeline system in Canada which has been proposed to the National Energy board in Canada.

The expansion would increase capacity on the Lakehead's pipeline system by approximately 155,000 barrels per day to primarily serve refineries in Minneapolis/St. Paul and the Chicago areas. Approximately 75 per cent of all crude oil delivered to Minnesota and 100 per cent of crude oil delivered to Wisconsin is transported by Lakehead Pipe Line.

Appropriate regulatory review is underway. A series of community meeting will be held in February or March 1994 for residents along the route of the new 20-inch pipeline. Detailed information about the expansion, regional economic benefits, environmental safeguards and construction practices will be discussed. Public notices will be placed in local newspapers to announced the meeting schedules.

Lakehead Pipe Line is committed to meeting or exceeding all environmental protection and safety requirements. Whenever possible, local contractors will be hired to work on the project, adding to the positive economic benefit this project will have on the six northwestern counties in Minnesota and northeastern portion of North Dakota.

IMPRESSIONS

Beth Johnson

Have you looked at the calendar recently? It will soon be the middle of the month of December. What sort of images do you have of past Decembers?

I remember a December, a couple of Decembers ago, which had subzero temperature readings for the greater part of the weeks before Christmas. We must not truly be in December as the temperature, so far, is relatively mild. If there have been subzero readings, they have been early in the day when most of us are still in the warm comfort of our beds.

This December we have yet to experience the thrill of driving on "square" tires. This December we have not yet had to blindly navigate through the fog of subzero exhaust. This December, we may have had to scrape our car windows, but plugging in our vehicles has still been optional. This year December is teasing us. It is letting us think that we just might be able to coast through winter relatively untouched by winter.

But we live in northwest Minnesota. By nature, the weather in northwest Minnesota is partly a teasing sort of weather. It seems to like to lull us into thinking that no storm will subdue us this season, but we really do not need to fret. Winter will make her presence known to us in the fury of a good storm or two, in spite of the mild December we are experiencing.

Now is the time, if you have not already done so, to prepare yourself for the unknown of the winter that we will experience. In the next couple of weeks many of us will be traveling to visit our friends and relatives as we celebrate Christmas and the New Year. Are you prepared for winter travel? Have you bothered to put a winter survival kit in your vehicle?

Every year in the early winter, we go to our basement and once again find the bags of winter wear that we place in our cars as part of our winter survival kit. I must admit I kind of like clearing out the spot in the basement that stores these bags of gear during the spring and summer and fall. As soon as these bags are inspected for appropriate clothing, they are put in our vehicles. When a sleeping bag or two is also included, the space in the cargo area of our station wagons is clearly diminished. It's tempting to remove these bags of survival gear when we go on any lengthy trip so as to make more room for the suitcases we may want to carry. But, these bags stay in our car. We never know when winter will come with a vengeance and catch us in need of their aid. Hopefully, never.

Do you have extra winter wear in your car? Don't let our teasing winter weather find you without extra warm clothing in your vehicle.

Another part of our winter survival kit is a bit of food. Now, when I consider the quantity of food that each of my boys can consume, I know that what we have in our survival kit is simply that – survival, not sustenance!! But, a few candy bars, and a can of peanuts will most likely look like a feast if we ever became stranded in a good winter storm. Hopefully, we will never have that occasion.

Do you have some food in your vehicles – just in case?? Don't let our teasing winter weather find you without survival food in your vehicle.

Another part of our winter survival kit is a couple of coffee cans and a candle and some matches. All of these could be used for a variety of purposes if our teasing winter weather caused us to be stranded. We also have a portable radio and a flashlight and a first aid kit of sorts in our vehicle. Hopefully, none of these will be needed, but just in case the winter weather catches us, we would be thankful for them.

A basic of travel during the winter here in northwest Minnesota is the ability to get oneself out of a snowdrift. A shovel usually helps to do that. Don't let this teasing December lull you into thinking that there won't be too many snowbanks this winter.

Winter will come to us in northwest Minnesota. December is teasing us with "mild" weather. We know that this cannot last. In fact, as you read this you may be watching a snow storm. Goodridge defense produces 60-38 win

Goodridge put together a top-notch defensive effort Saturday to shut down Roseau 60-38 in boys high school basketball.

The 1-1 Huskies were never threatened after grabbing a 13-2 first quarter lead.

"We played a real, real good defensive game," noted Goodridge coach John Rahn. "The kids played hard. They did a real nice job."

Despite a front line that went 6-7, 6-6, 6-5, the visiting Rams lost the rebound battle 41-29. Martin Dahlen led the winners with 10 rebounds.

Offensively the balanced Huskies got double-figure production out of Mitch Smsky with 13 points, Brady Wiseth 11 and Eldon Quam 10. Scott Lunos had a game-high 16 points for the Rams, but he was their only double figure scorer.

It wasn't a great shooting night for the Huskies, who were 20-for-59 from the field (34 percent) and 14-for-23 at the free throw line. But the Rams didn't do any better with a 14-for-46 night from the floor (30 percent) and a 5-for-12 free throw showing.

Scoring

MCC wins opener in Stephen Invitational

Balanced scoring and 59 percent shooting from the field carried Marshall County Central past Argyle 60-46 Monday in the opening round semifinals of the Stephen Invitational girls high school basketball tournament.

Sara Lokstad scored 16 points to lead the Nordics, while teammates Tricia Pederson, Darlene Nelson and Wendy Inman had 10 points apiece.

Shanon Magner was a basket away from giving Marshall County Central five double figure scorers, and her outside shooting in the second quarter helped provide the Nordics with a 28-23 halftime lead.

"The balanced scoring was nice to see," said Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "It was a good team effort.

Argyle shot 41 percent from the field on a 20-for-49 showing. The Nordics made 29 of 49 shots.

Marshall County Central had a perfect, but quiet 2-for-2 night at the free throw line, where Argyle was 6-for-9.

The Nordics had a 30-27 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 13-8.

Marshall County Central, 4-1, advanced to the Tuesday finals against Stephen, a 49-41 Monday semifinal winner over Tri-County.

Scoring

Argyle - Angie Gostanzik 5, Angie Morberg 8, Trisha Tulibaski 11, Melanie Dufault 2, Lindsay Bergeron 2, Jenny Mercil 2, Caroline Timm 10, Gayle Durand 6.

Mustangs collect third straight win

Working the ball inside against a smaller Win-E-Mac team, Red Lake County Central either got the high-percentage shot, or drew the foul Friday as the Mustangs beat the host Patriots 73-63 in boys high school basketball.

Aaron Chaput scored 26 points, Ryan Salberg added 13 and Bryce Huotari had 12 for the winners, who went to 3-0.

Red Lake County Central had a 50 percent, 24-for-48 night from the field and a productive 23-for-30 showing at the free throw line. Win-E-Mac was 22-for-59 from the field (37 percent) and 13-for-18 at the line. The Mustangs finished with a 33-20 rebound advantage.

"We shot pretty well," acknowledged Red Lake County Central coach Todd Fore, "and we've been pretty decent on our free throws so far."

Win-E-Mac jumped out to a 9-0 lead before the Red Lake County Central size took over. The Mustangs were still down 16-13 when the first quarter ended, but they had a 37-27 lead at halftime.

Thief River Falls senior Ryan Browning handled the butterfly Saturday during the season-opening Prowler Relays boys high school swim meet at the Franklin Middle School pool.

Lumberjacks win Prowler Relays

Bemidji was a winner Saturday in the Prowler Relays, a season-opening boys high school swim meet at the Franklin Middle School pool.

The Lumberjacks finished with 144 points, followed by Fergus Falls with 135, Moorhead 80, Crookston 74, Detroit Lakes 68, Fosston/Bagley 52, Thief River Falls 42, Park Rapids Area 26.

It was either a Bemidji or Fergus Falls entry winning all nine of the relay events, with the Lumberjacks producing five first places and the Otters four.

Thief River Falls' best showing was a second place effort by Ryan Browning, Brad Cota and Jason Curfman in the 300-yard individual medley relay.

"We're extremely young," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken. "We went into the meet to see what we could do. We weren't that concerned about placing. I think we're better than what the scoring might indicate."

Bemidji also won the junior varsity portion of the meet with 144 points, followed by Thief River Falls with 62, Fergus Falls 58, Moorhead 54, Fosston/Bagley 48, Crookston 44, Detroit Lakes 40, Park Rapids Area 0.

NCC women lose to Itasca in finals

■ Northland Northern Lights Invitational basketball

Itasca got by Northland 54-49 Saturday afternoon in the finals of the Pioneers' Northern Lights Invitational women's community college basketball tournament.

The Viking beat Mesabi 58-38 and the Pioneers handled Hibbing 80-41 in the Friday semifinals.

Mesabi was a 55-51 third place game winner over Hibbing in overtime.

NCC Northern Lights Invitational

■ Friday semifinals - Itasca 58, Mesabi 38; Northland 80, Hibbing 41.

■ Saturday finals - (championship) Itasca 54, Northland 49; (third place) Mesabi 55, Hibbing 51 (ot).

Northland	80
Hibbing	41

Five Northland scorers reached double figures as the Pioneers overwhelmed a smaller Hibbing team 80-41 in first round play.

Fay Cassavant, a 5-11 sophomore from Red Lake Falls, led the winners with 20 points.

Northland led 45-12 at halftime.

"We were a lot bigger than they were," pointed out Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We just pounded the ball inside."

Scoring

Hibbing	45	35	80
Northland	12	29	41

Hibbing - Nicole Schloessler 16, Kari Hildebrandt 2, Shannon Holman 7, Wendy Graves 8, Amy Lee 8.

Northland - Lisa Verbout 8, Carlene Jadmy 3, Denise Johnson 13, Ronda Olson 10, Holly Gram 10, Sandi Gustafson 2, Renae Blazejewski 11, Kelli Kronschnabel 5, Fay Cassavant 20.

Itasca	54
Northland	49

Itasca finally shook off upset-minded Northland down the stretch Saturday as the Vikings edged the Pioneers 54-49 for the tournament title.

"It was a really good ball game," noted Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "It was close all the way. They made good decisions and came up with the big plays at the end. We didn't. We didn't have many turnovers in the game, but the mistakes we made came at the wrong time."

It was tied 27-27 at halftime. The final score was the biggest spread of the second half.

Scoring

Itasca - Rachel Rademacher 2, Lea Till 14, Jenny Demenge 2, Erika Rahne 2, Jennifer Hawk 4, Sandy Line 16, Melanie Hill 10, Chris Metzer 4.

Northland - Denise Johnson 5, Ronda Olson 10, Holly Gram 12, Sandi Gustafson 4, Renae Blazejewski 6, Kelli Kronschnabel 7, Fay Cassavant 5.

Nordics hold off Bears 53-50

It didn't go quite the way Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland had anticipated, but he wasn't about to argue with the end results Friday as the Nordics got by Lake of the Woods 53-50 in a boys high school basketball game played at Baudette.

The game plan, according to Ueland, was for the Nordics to limit their mistakes in an effort to offset an anticipated Warroad rebound advantage. So what happens? The Nordics turned it over 25 times, but wound up beating the Bears on the boards 39-28.

"It was exactly the opposite from what we thought we had to do to win the ball game," noted Ueland. "That just show how much the coaches know."

Marshall County Central trimmed a 10-point third quarter deficit to 46-41 at the start of the fourth quarter, then out-scored the Bears 12-4 over the final eight minutes. Two free throws by Jake Rantanen with 20 seconds left finally sealed it.

"Our defense really stepped it up a notch in the fourth quarter," pointed out Ueland. "We took away the inside on them, and we did a great job on the boards. It was a big win for us. They're a much-improved ball club."

The two teams wound up with identical numbers from the field (23/59 – 39 percent) and at the free throw line (4/6). The margin of victory was a basket from three-point range, where the Nordics had their troubles (3-for-21), but still got the game-winner.

Scott Zak had a 24-point, 12-rebound game for the winners, while Rantanen contributed 11 points and 13 rebounds.

The win put the Nordics at 2-1.

Rally falls short for TRF girls in loss to Fosston

Fosston pulled away from Thief River Falls in the fourth quarter Saturday as the host Greyhounds beat Thief River Falls 51-42 in girls high school basketball.

The Prowlers trimmed a 30-20 halftime deficit to 36-33 by the end of the third quarter, but couldn't complete the comeback over the final eight minutes.

"It was a pretty good basketball game," reported Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse. "We played pretty well. We hung right with them."

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 1-3.

Lisa Ulrich scored 14 points and Lisa Rendulich had 12 to lead the Thief River Falls offense. Leah Sontstelie had a game-high 20-point night for the winners, who got a 12-point first half from Angie Carlin – on four three-point baskets -- and a 9-point fourth quarter from Erin Reitmeier.

Thief River Falls went 19-for-55 from the field (35 percent) and 2-for-3 at the free throw line. Fosston was 19-for-45 from the floor (39 percent) and 6-for-17 at the line. The Greyhounds out-rebounded the Prowlers 37-23.

"The rebounds hurt," acknowledged Wiltse. "We were out of position."

Thief River Falls topped the turnover charts 19-13.

Eagles miss free throws, lose by one

Missed free throws cost Grygla-Gatzke Friday in a 43-42 boys high school basketball loss to Stephen.

The Eagles were just 8-for-24 at the line, including a 3-for-12 fourth quarter.

"That's what cost us the ball game," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson, looking at the free throw figures.

The Eagles had their shooting problems from the field, too, with a 30 percent, 17-for-56 night

"The kids hustled. They worked hard. They just missed too many shots. The ball wouldn't drop for us," explained Johnson.

The game was tied 34-34 at the end of the third quarter.

Stephen was 19-for-52 from the floor (37 percent) and 5-for-9 at the line. The 1-1 Eagles had a 35-34 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 22-19.

Scoring

Thief River Falls weekend high school hockey trip to Twin Cities area...

Prowlers beat St. Paul Johnson 6-4, lose to Blake 7-2

Thief River Falls wound up with a weekend split in a two-game high school hockey trip to the Twin Cities area.

A Friday night comeback netted a 6-4 win over St. Paul Johnson, but a stronger Blake team handled the Prowlers 7-2 Saturday afternoon.

The win over the Governors at Roseville Arena was the first victory of the year for the Prowlers. The loss to the Bears in Hopkins the next day left them 1-4 for the year.

"We needed that (Friday) win," said Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "We needed that to happen. We needed some success for our effort. It did a lot for our confidence."

But youthful Johnson showed 12 sophomores and a freshman on its roster. A group of 11 seniors lead state-ranked Blake.

"We didn't play very well early Saturday, and the the competition was definitely better," acknowledged Chiodo. "For us to be successful, we just can't afford to make very many mistakes."

Thief River Falls	6
St. Paul Johnson	4

Five third period goals – for a team that had score only four times in three season-opening losses – erased a 3-1 deficit as Thief River Falls beat St. Paul Johnson 6-4.

Thief River Falls' Kaine Martell put a carom off the boards into an empty net 3:42 into the game to start the scoring, but the Governors went ahead 2-1 on a waist-high shot by Jason Merlin at 7:30 and on a well-executed power play effort by Steve Olson at 10:10.

It remained a 2-1 game until Denis Shlepnev beat Thief River Falls goalie Eric Dowers on a race to the puck and scored a shorthanded goal at 2:10 of the third period.

But that's when the Thief River Falls comeback kicked in. The power play was still in effect when Marc Seaverson scored a quick 16 seconds later. Seaverson scored again at 4:49 when he was allowed to walk out in front of Johnson goalie Joe Adams to tie it 3-3.

Defenseman Joby Looker, the trailer a Scott Grand breakaway, put the Prowlers ahead 4-3 just 29 seconds later, and Nick Chiodo jumped on an uncovered rebound at 8:45 for a 5-3 edge.

Johnson made it interesting at the end when a shot from the face-off circle by Shawn Pogreba sailed into the net at 13:18, but with Adams pulled in favor of an extra attacker, Jeff Twomey tapped in Seaverson's goal-mouth feed with 26 seconds left to seal it.

Scoring

First period - TRF, Kaine Martell (Nick Chiodo), 3:42; SPJ, Jason Merlin (Jeff Abbott), 7:03; SPJ, Steve Olson (un.), 10:10.

Second period - none.

Third period - SPJ, Denis Shlepnev (un.), 2:10; TRF, Marc Seaverson (Jeff Twomey-Joby Looker), 2:26; TRF, Seaverson (Jason Brelland), 4:49; TRF, Looker (Scott Grand), 5:18; TRF, Nick Chiodo (Keith Anderson), 8:06; SPJ, Shawn Pogreba (Jason Falk-Olson), 13:18; TRF, Jeff Twomey (Seaverson), 14:34.

Goalie Saves

TRF - Chanc Keefe 10-8-x, Eric Dowers x-6-10, TRF total - 34; SPJ - Joe Adams 6-9-9-24.

Blake	7
Thief River Falls	2

Blake showed its quickness in scoring on a pair of breakaways as the Bears, coached by Lincoln High School graduate Jeff Lindquist, beat Thief River Falls 7-2.

Stuart Howell walked out of the corner with the puck and opened the scoring at 4:48 of the first period.

Marc Seaverson tied it at 9:03 when he caught the corner of the net as he went 1-on-1 against a Blake defender. But the Bears' David Phillips shot and scored on a 2-on-0

Goodridge/Grygla girls win pair of low-scoring games...

Wolverines win RLCC title

Coaches were shaking their heads following the completion of the 1993 Red Lake County Central Invitational girls high school basketball tournament Saturday. They had a tough time believing what they saw – four extremely low-scoring, not-so-pretty contests that were decided by a total of five points.

Goodridge/Grygla went home with the championship trophy by picking up one-point wins over Red Lake County Central 39-38 and Valley North 30-29.

The third place game was also a one-pointer as Red Lake County Central got by Kittson County North 25-24.

Widest margin of victory was a 32-30 Valley North semifinal win over Kittson County North.

Even with a championship in his pocket, Goodridge/Grygla coach Mike Gast admitted it wasn't great basketball. "We didn't play real well," he said. "I was happy to win; I wasn't happy with the way we played. I want us to play better. But if we play ugly and still win, I guess I'll take it."

It wasn't top-caliber basketball, acknowledged Gast. Poor offense had as much to do with the low scores as good defense.

But it certainly was competitive.

RLCC Invitational

■ Semifinals Friday - Valley North 32, Kittson County Central 30; Goodridge/Grygla 39, Red Lake County Central 38.

■ Finals Saturday - (championship) Goodridge/Grygla 30, Valley North 29; (third place) Red Lake County Central 25, Kittson County North 24.

Goodridge/Grygla	39
Red Lake Co. Central	38

Goodridge/Grygla built a nine-point third quarter lead, but had to wait until a game-ending shot by Red Lake County Central missed the mark before laying claim to a 39-38 Friday semifinal win.

The balanced Wolverines were led by Melissa Bernstein with 9 points. Amy Arlt of Red Lake County Central was the game's top scorer, netting 12 points.

Goodridge/Grygla was 17-for-48 from the field (35 percent) and 4-for-11 at the free throw line. Red Lake County Central was just 14-for-61 from the field (23 percent) and made 9 of 14 free throws. The Mustangs lost, despite finishing with a decided 44-27 rebound advantage.

Goodridge/Grygla	30
Valley North	29

Goodridge/Grygla never trailed in the Saturday title game against Valley North, but a 14-5 halftime lead nearly disappeared before the Wolverines managed to win it 30-29.

Deanna Kotrba of Goodridge/Grygla and Rachel Riskey of Valley North shared game-high scoring honors with 10 points each.

The Wolverines won, despite going 14-for-49 from the field (29 percent) and 2-for-9 at the free throw line.

The reason Goodridge/Grygla got by with the poor shooting is that Valley North had an even harder time trying to get the ball to drop – 11-for-39 from the field (28 percent) and 3-for-11 at the line.

Winning the two tournament games put the Wolverines at 3-2 for the year.

VN - Brit Grinde 9, Erin Osowski 7, Andrea Shane 3, Rachel Riskey 10.

Red Lake Co. Central	25
Kittson Co. North	24

Red Lake County Central nearly blew a 20-8 third quarter lead in a 25-24 third place game win over Kittson County North.

"It wasn't very pretty," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto, whose team shot 21 percent field the field (11/53) and still won. The Cougars were a similar 11-for-52. The difference came at the free throw line, where the Mustangs missed 11, but did make three. Kittson County North, meanwhile, went 0-for-3 at the line.

Only double figure scorer was the Cougars' LaVonne Wilson with 10 points.

The tournament split left the host Mustangs with a 3-2 season mark.

MSU JV women hand Northland a 74-49 setback

Mayville State junior varsity was an easy 74-49 winner over Northland Community College Monday in a women's basketball game played at Mayville, ND.

"It was terrible," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen in describing the Pioneers' showing. "It was the worst performance of the year for us. We were a step slow on every play."

The Pioneers trailed 48-27 at halftime and never recovered as they fell to 1-6. The game ended the 1993 portion of the 1993-94 schedule for the Pioneers, who will be idle until a Jan. 12 trip to NDSU-Bottineau.

Snowmobile safety is stressed by DNR

With six snowmobiling fatalities recorded in Minnesota already this season, conservation officers with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Division of Enforcement are stepping up activities to promote snowmobiling safety.

"Over the next three months, DNR conservation officers will be using radar guns to enforce speed limits, and conducting random sobriety checks for SWI (snowmobiling while intoxicated) violations," said Lt. Victor Koosmann, DNR Regional Safety Training Specialist at Bemidji.

During the past two snowmobiling seasons (fall 1991 to spring 1993) the DNR recorded 34 fatal accidents – 24 of which involved snowmobilers whose judgement and driving skills were impaired by alcohol or illegal drugs.

A majority of serious snowmobile accidents occur at night, where factors of reduced visibility and excessive speed often result in collisions with stationary objects or other snowmobiles.

"The speed limit on designated trails, and on public lands and (frozen) waters in Minnesota is 50 mph," said Koosmann, "unless a slower limit is posted, or circumstances require a slower speed for safety's sake."

Under state law, snowmobile operators may be ticked for traveling faster, "...than is reasonable or proper under all of the surrounding circumstance."

Such circumstances may include rough or slick trail conditions that could cause a loss of control; poor visibility conditions, such as snowmobiling at night, in a heavy snowfall or in the "snow cloud" behind another snowmobile; heavy traffic conditions where rear-end or head-on collisions with other snowmobiles are possible; crossing roads or trail intersections where collisions with motor vehicles or other snowmobiles are possible; and snowmobiling near thin-ice or open-water hazards, especially at night.

Snowmobile speeding is a misdemeanor under Minnesota law, punishable by a maximum fine of $700 and up to 90-days in jail.

Snowmobiling while intoxicated (SWI) is also a misdemeanor subject to the same penalty, plus the loss of snowmobiling privileges for one year. A second SWI offense within five years, or a third offense within ten years, is a gross misdemeanor with a maximum fine of $3,000 and up to one-year in jail

Snowmobile owners who knowingly let another person operate under the influence of alcohol or drugs may also be charged with a misdemeanor.

Enforcement officers can require SWI suspects to submit to alcohol and drug testing. And, just like Minnesota's DWI laws, there are additional legal and civil penalties for suspects who refuse to be tested.

According to Minnesota state law, youngsters under age 12 may not legally operate a snowmobile on public lands or waters. Between the ages of 12 and 14, youngsters may not legally operate a snowmobile on public lands or waters unless they are accompanied by an adult or have a valid DNR snowmobile safety certificate from a snowmobile safety training class.

The DNR sponsors snowmobile safety training classes through a statewide network of volunteer instructors. Classes are primarily intended for young snowmobilers, age 12 to 18, but parents and other adults who want to improve their knowledge of snowmobiling and riding safety are welcome to enroll.

Even with a snowmobile safety certificate, minors are still subject to some restrictions depending on their age.

Persons under age 14 may not operate a snowmobile on public streets or highways within a municipality, nor may they cross a county road or highway on a snowmobile.

Snowmobilers between the ages of 14 and 18, must have a valid safety certificate in possession to operate a snowmobile on a street or highway within a municipality or to cross a county road or highway.

Minors, age 16 to 18, do not need a snowmobile safety certificate if they already have a valid motor-vehicle driver's license.

For information on the availability of DNR sponsored snowmobile safety training, contact your local snowmobile club or DNR conservation officer. (Conservation officers may be contacted through your county sheriff's office or local law enforcement center).

Gift Idea

Searching for the perfect gift for outdoor enthusiasts? The problem is, they don't need another fishing lure and already have every other fishing and boating gadget. Consider giving them something they wished they had every sleet-soaked dawn in a duck blind, or anytime a sudden storm popped up while they were fishing – a new life jacket. (No, not an ugly orange one. Chances are they already have a bunch of those orange ones stuffed under the boat seat.)

Today there attractive, U.S. Coast Guard approved life jackets in the low $20 range made for just about any water-based sport. there are life jackets that look like fishing vests with a multitude of pockets to hold those fishing necessities. They are comfortable and don't make a person look like a H.M.S. Titanic survivor.

One of the best life jackets for early and late season fishing as well as duck hunting is literally a jacket. Called a "float coat," these full-sleeved jackets don't look at all like life preservers, so the gift recipient is more likely to wear one. They have a couple of other advantages over regular life jackets: they offer protection from the elements, and they offer even more protection from hypothermia if the wearer winds up in the water.

Hypothermia, a life-threatening lowering of the body's inner temperature, accounts for as many boating accident fatalities as alcohol – about 50 percent. A float coat helps protect a victim from cold water effects until help arrives or the victim can climb back into the boat. Float coats cost $80 to $100, but are worth the expense for those who use boats in the spring and fall. They also make great ice fishing jackets.

Another excellent boating safety gift is a marine fire extinguisher, which costs about $15. Boats with compartments that could trap gas fumes are legally required to carry a fie extinguisher, but extinguishers are a good idea for any boat with a gasoline-powered motor. The extinguisher should be labeled as U.S. Coast Guard approved.

DNR office offers holiday gift ideas

Holiday gift givers can give gifts of Minnesota's great outdoors and help out Minnesota's natural resources and environmental education at the same time.

Minnesota State Parks Nature Store catalog features 50 gifts that reflect the natural beauty and wonder of the great outdoors, according to Kate Brady, supervisor of public affairs and marketing for Minnesota State Parks. Gifts range in price from $3.50 to $89, with many under $16.

"We've selected affordable gifts, made by local artists, that show Minnesota's great beauty," said Brady. "Folks can choose from an array of T-shirts and sweatshirts with bold images of bears, lady's slippers, the colorful brook trout, or north country woodcuts."

Brady said that one of the more popular items is the Minnesota state parks calendar. "It not only features beautiful photographs of state parks scenes, but is also packed with information about park activities, history and things to see in state parks."

Brady also suggested a gift to take the edge off winter's chill: a warm north country cotton throw, woven with bear and moose designs. According to Brady, one of the more unusual items in the catalog is the falling rain chime box that relaxes the listener for up to an hour with the sound of tiny beads "raining" down on hand-tuned pentatonic chimes.

Annual state parks vehicle permit, which features the colorful brook trout, and the 1994 Minnesota state parks calendar are also available through the catalog at a special combination price of $25. Another combination, the annual permit and coffee mug, is $24.50. An individual gift of the annual permit is $18. Permits, calendars and the permit mug can also be purchased at most state parks.

"These catalog items offer the rare opportunity to purchase a holiday gift that gives twice," said Brady. Proceeds fund conservation and education projects in Minnesota state parks. In 1992, more than $200,000 was spent on projects like the extension of the bog walk at Lake Bemidji State Park, tree planting projects at Itasca and Cascade River state parks, and an environmental education display at Whitewater State Park.

Catalogs are available at all Minnesota state parks and DNR regional offices, or call 1-800-324-8261. Orders may be charged on Visa, MasterCard, Discover, or paid by check or money order.

Camping reservation system set for parks

The Connection, a Minnesota-based company, has been chosen by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources to handle the campground and lodging reservation service for Minnesota State Parks.

Minnesota State Parks Director Bill Morrissey said he is pleased a Minnesota company has been selected to provide reservation service to the more than 90,000 people who call annually to reserve campsites and lodging at Minnesota State Parks. "After careful review of the proposals received, I am confident that The Connection will serve our customers well in the years ahead," said Morrissey.

The Connection, a Burnsville firm, currently operates a Twin Cities information service as well as a media response and ticket/reservations service that serves over 100 cities nationwide.

For the DNR Parks and Recreation Division, the company will provide a reservation system that will be similar to the current services offered. Callers will be able to use a toll free number to reserve campsites up to 90 days in advance of their arrival at the park. Lodging facilities can be reserved up to 365 days in advance. Final contract details will be worked out in the weeks ahead.

"Through customer surveys and other market research, the Division of Parks and Recreation has gathered additional data on what services customers want," said Morrissey. "We will be reviewing that data as we work with The Connection to finalize a new contract."

According to terms of the agreement, The Connection will take over as the state parks computerized reservation service beginning February 1, 1994, for a period of two years, with options for renewal through the year 2001. Between now and the February start date, the Division of Parks and Recreation will work with the staff of The Connection to review the software and campground inventory of state parks facilities as well as the training package for service operators.

"We want to make sure that we deliver the best possible service to our customers, but we also want to make sure our customers understand what the reservation system can and cannot provide," Morrissey said. "In all of our marketing efforts, we want the public to realize that the role of the reservation operator is to make a camping or lodging reservation for the customer at the park requested by the caller. If all facilities are filled, the operator is prepared to suggest an alternate park and facilities."

Morrissey said that reservation system operators do not and can not do trip planning or give detailed descriptions of all park facilities and programs. He suggested that visitors who need trip planning advice or more information about what Minnesota State Parks offer should contact the toll free number for the DNR Information Center or the Office of Tourism. The DNR Information Center can sent brochures and maps to callers so they can determine which park they would like to visit.

"Once prospective visitors decide where they want to stay, the reservation system can help them reserve a site," Morrissey said. "Customer service is a priority. We want to make sure that our customers contact the appropriate service to meet their needs."

Through the end of the year, lodging reservations at Minnesota State Parks can continue to be made through the current reservation system vendor, the Mistix Corp. All reservations made through Mistix will be honored. Reservations are not necessary for winter camping at Minnesota State parks, since sites are on a first-come, first-served basis. No reservations will be taken during the transition period from December 31 to January 31.

Beginning February 1, 1994, campground reservations for arrival dates after May 1, and lodging reservations will be taken by The Connection.

For trip planning or information about Minnesota State Parks, contact the DNR Information Center, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4040; call toll free in Minnesota 1-800-766-6000.

Early-winter thin ice danger warning issued by DNR

As ice begins to skim Minnesota's lakes and ponds, anglers begin to think about heading out for a little early season fishing. Those potential anglers ask a common question this time of year: "Is the ice save yet?"

Tim Smalley, Department of Natural Resources boat and water safety specialist, has a stock answer: "No, ice is never safe." Realizing that statement is usually misunderstood as bureaucratic rear-covering, Smalley explains that even if ice is a foot thick on one area of any given lake, it may be only one inch thick a few yards away.

"Obviously, people aren't going to avoid going out on the ice all together," Smalley said. "But there are some general guidelines for use by winter recreationalists to lessen their chances of an icy dip, or worse."

It is impossible to judge the strength of ice by its appearance, thickness, daily temperature, or snow cover, Smalley noted. Strength of ice is actually dependent on all four factors, plus the depth of water under the ice, size of the lake, water chemistry, load distribution on the ice, and local climactic conditions.

Smalley offered the following advice.

- Wait to walk out until there are at least four inches of clear, solid ice. True, slightly thinner ice will support one angler, but just because it's fourinches thick in one location doesn't mean it isn't one-quarter inch thick a few yards away. Some factors that can cause changes in ice thickness include flocks of ducks and geese, and the schooling of carp. By congregating in a certain area, the fish force warmer water to the surface, weakening the ice or actually causing an opening.
- Snowmobiles and ATVs need at least 5 inches of ice, and automobiles and light trucks require at least 8 to 12 inches of solid ice.
- Contact a local resort or bait shop owner for information about known thin ice areas.
- Move your vehicle frequently. Parking a vehicle in one spot tends to weaken ice. Don't park near cracks.
- Be especially careful when driving across ice at night or while it is snowing.

Several thefts noted in Law enforcement news

Law enforcement officials have received several reports of thefts in the past week.

Thefts. On December 5 at 11:16 a.m. police received a report of a theft of various tools, two log chains and a cooler from the back of a pickup owned by Marilyn Hamre, Thief River Falls, and parked in the Oakland Park Nursing home parking lot during work hours. A tarp covering the pickup bed had been ripped. Total theft loss was estimated at $1,240. Damage loss was estimated at $60. The missing equipment belonged to Scott Peters of Viking.

On December 6 at 9:02 a.m. police received a report that someone had entered an unlocked garage, smashed the sunroof of a vehicle, and removed a radio-CD player from the vehicle. Theft loss was estimated at $190. Damage loss was estimated at $194.

On December 7 at 8 a.m. police received a report that persons working temporarily at the American Legion had taken two wooden drum sticks valued at $11. They belonged to members of a Grand Forks, ND, band. A juvenile petition for theft is being prepared against a 14-year-old boy.

On December 7 at 3:30 p.m. Linda Sletten, Thief River Falls, reported the theft of a parcel delivered by a mailman and left between two front doors. The value of the package was unknown.

On December 7 at 10:30 a.m. the sheriff's department received a report that various tools, equipment and clothes had been taken from a semi trailer parked at a job site in River Falls township. The value of the items, those considered very expensive, has not been determined.

On December 8 at 5:32 p.m. Kari Kirkeby, route 3, Thief River Falls, reported that she had left a jacket with her purse in a school locker room. When she returned, she discovered she was missing $50.

Leann Wikert, Goodridge, recently reported to the sheriff's department that sometime during the week of November 25, someone took a $350 chainsaw from their yard.

On December 9 at 10:48 a.m. Northland Community College officials reported that sometime during the night, two rooms had been entered and television equipment taken. Missing are a television, VCR and television/VCR combination, and a language master [illegible] It was also reported that [illegible] taken a television and [illegible] sometime during [illegible] theft loss had not [illegible]. The incident is still under investigation.

Accidents. On December 8 at 11:55 a.m. police received a report of an accident at Fourth and Knight. According to the accident report, Delbert Vaudrin, route 3, Crookston, was driving west on Fourth and failed to yield at Knight and collided with a Bronco driven by Rachael Marshall, route 6, Thief River Falls, which was going south on Knight. Damages were estimated at $750 to the Vaudrin vehicle and $250 to the Marshall vehicle. Vaudrin was cited for failure to yield.

On December 7 at 3:50 p.m. Stephen Beste, route 1, Thief River Falls, was driving a van owned by Lee Plumbing and was facing south on Main at Second street and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Doris Groslie, which was going south on Main. Damages were estimated at $100 to the Lee Plumbing van and $200 to the Groslie vehicle. Groslie had a cut on her chin.

On December 10 at 12:02 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Third and Brooks. According to the accident report, Michelle Beito, route 5, Thief River Falls, was going west on Third and making a left turn onto Brooks. After making the turn she had to wait in traffic, but a pickup driven by Brian Keith Bugge, route 3, Thief River Falls, was also going west and making a left turn and was unable to stop and collided with the rear of the Beito vehicle. Damages were estimated at $600 to the Beito vehicle and none to the Bugge vehicle. RHonda Gram, 35, Middle River, a passenger in the Beito vehicle, complained of neck pain.

On December 10 at 4:41 p.m. police responded to a report of an accident at Highway 32 and Greenwood. Beth Harmoning, Thief River Falls, was driving south on Highway 32 when Lori Ann Thompson, Grygla, attempted to cross Highway 32 on Greenwood in a vehicle owned by Rydell Chevrolet when it collided with the Harmoning vehicle. Damages were estimated at $500 to the Harmoning vehicle and $500 plus to the Thompson vehicle.

On December 10 at 10:52 p.m. police received a report of an accident near Amoco. Chad Nething, route 1, Goodridge, allegedly made a wide turn while turning onto the frontage road from Dale street when a car driven by Jason Aarestad, Thief River Falls, was going south on the Frontage road. Aarestad swerved to avoid a collision believing that Nething was turning into the gas station. Nething pulled back into his own lane and the vehicles collided. Damages were estimated at $300 to the Nething vehicle and $500 to the Aarestad vehicle.

On November 10 at 11:10 p.m. police received a report of an accident near Amoco. Melissa Rodriguez, Thief River Falls, was leaving the Amoco parking lot and slid onto the frontage road on ice and struck a car driven by Darin Feragen, Thief River Falls, which was going south on the frontage road. Damages were estimated at $100 to the Rodriguez vehicle and $750 to the Feragen vehicle.

On November 11 at 5:30 a.m. police received a report of an accident in the 600 block of North LaBree. According to the accident report, Mark Allen McCraw, allegedly fell asleep while driving his car north on LaBree. His car struck a parked car owned by Sara Erickson, route 3, Thief River Falls, and then spun around and struck another parked car owned by Doris Marie Johnson, Warroad. Damages were estimated at over $1,000 to the McCraw vehicle and the Erickson vehicle and $300 to the Johnson vehicle. McCraw complained of a bump to his forehead.

Assault. On December 11 at 10:53 p.m. police received a report of a domestic incident at a residence on North St. Paul. A man had allegedly entered a home and hit a woman. She had a cut to her lip, a red mark on her face, a bruise on her rupper right arm. Steven Bergland, 41, Thief River Falls, was arrested for fifth degree assault.

DWI. On December 11, Ronald F. Vondal, route 4, Thief River Falls, was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

THANKS FOR A GREAT GRAND OPENING!

Thanks to all of you who made our Grand Opening a huge success. It was a great celebration after three years of planning and construction. This project has accomplished several objectives for the bank: greater privacy for our customers, improvement of internal structural support, redesign of the bank exterior, better departmental organization and handicapped assessable toilets. This project continues our long-standing policy of investing in our community.

Thank you to our general contractor, RAM builders and the local builders who joined with them to complete this project. Thanks to all of you who were inconvenienced by the scaffolding, moving, and noise that our building project required.

Thief River Falls continues to advance in the areas of greater employment, new and improved public facilities, and increased commercial services. Thief River Falls is a progressive, industrious and safe community of which Northern State Bank is proud to be a part.

Sincerely,
Directors, Officers, and Staff

Blood drive set at Grygla on Dec. 16

Goal for the Grygla-Gatzke-Skime blood drive Thursday, December 16, is for 75 appointments, according to Ralph Rundell, blood drive coordinator. Blood will be drawn from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Grygla community center.

To schedule an appointment to donate blood, call Rundell at 294-6177, Ione Aune at 294-6375, Mildred Klamar at 459-3436 or Loren Lusignan at 294-6155 or 294-6294. Sponsors of the drive are the Lions and Lioness clubs of the Grygla-Gatzke-Skime area.

Generally, most healthy people who are over 17 years of age and weigh at least 110 pounds may donate. People who are taking vitamins, hormones, birth control pills, diet pills, high blood pressure medication or antibiotics "MAY" donate, reports United Blood Services, which draws the blood.

People who are otherwise eligible to donate may be unable to give at this drive because of the following circumstances:

- Blood transfusion within the past 12 months;
- Wait one week after last dosage of antibiotics for an infection;
- Any dental work, including cleaning, within the past 24 hours;
- Flu shot within the past 24 hours.

In addition, ear piercing not done with an air gun and tattoos defer a donor for 12 months.

Every unit of donated blood is sent to the United Blood Services laboratory in Fargo, ND for testing and processing. Technicians separate the whole blood into components such as red blood cells, plasma, platelets and cryoprecipitate so that one donation can help several patients.

Red blood cells are used for surgery patients. Plasma is needed to treat trauma and burn patients. Platelets are required for cancer and leukemia patients undergoing chemotherapy. Cryoprecipitate is a special blood clotting factor used by those with hemophilia.

Area students receive Alliss grants

Three area students at St. Cloud State University have received Alliss scholarships, according to the SCSU office of scholarships and financial aid.

Recipients include senior Joel Swanson II, Thief River Falls, $300; junior Martin Jerome, St. Vincent, $450; and sophomore Leslie Hexum, Roseau, $375.

There were 363 Alliss scholarships awarded to full-time undergraduate Minnesota students who demonstrated financial need and have grade point averages of 3.5 or higher on a 4.0 scale.

NWTC, UMC share $200,000 grant for engineering training

Northwest Technical College and the University of Minnesota—Crookston will share a $200,000 training grant from the Minnesota Job Skills Partnership to jointly develop a training program in Control Engineering Technology.

George Karnas, chairman of the Job Skills Partnership (MJSP), announced the grant Tuesday at UMC.

The grant will be matched with over $400,000 in private contributions and will involve northwest Minnesota employers including American Crystal Sugar Company, Dee, Inc. and Dahlgren & Co., Inc. NWTC and UMC will use the funds to develop and provide the Control Engineering Technology training at the participating companies.

According to officials at NWTC and UMC, the program will include "individualized computer base instruction" and will "provide workers, especially those on rotating shift, with a flexible learning system which will enable existing workers to become skilled at their own pace. It is expected that training received through this project will apply toward a two-year degree in control engineering and eventually articulate to a four-year UMC degree. At least 50 trainees are expected to participate in the pilot stage of the project.

The Minnesota Job Skills Partnership, with administrative support from the Business and Economic Development division of the Department of Trade and Economic Development, provides matching grants to education institutions which, in turn, develop and provide training for Minnesota businesses to meet the changing need of Minnesota's labor market.

"With the change in mission at UMC and serving the needs of the area, new programs will be more responsive to industry in the area," stated UMC Chancellor Donald Sargeant at the grant award ceremony. "This grant is the seed money to begin this commitment."

Dr. Ray Cross, president and chief executive officer of the Northwest Technical College, said "the time has come to grow employees and companies. We've passed the competitive mode and are moving into the collaborative mode."

Sen. Roger Moe of Erskine said that "collaborative efforts such as these are essential to insure an educational infrastructure which can support economic growth in the region. Both institutions should be congratulated."

Commissioner E. Peter Gillette of the Department of Trade and Economic Development, who is also a member of the Jobs Training Partnership board, said that "in today's economy human resource development is required to achieve economic development. This project serves the economic development interests of the participating businesses and the communities in which they operate."

College students take part in violence in television study

Kim Johnson, Ellen Olson and Heather Olson, all of Thief River Falls and currently enrolled at Concordina College in Moorhead, are participating in a demonstration project dealing with the issue of violence in television programming. Concordia is working in cooperation with North Dakota Senator Byron Dorgan to create a TV Violence report card modeled after legislation Dorgan is sponsoring.

Kim Johnson, a senior majoring in social work and psychology, is the daughter of Leon and Karen Johnson of Thief River Falls. Ellen Olson, a sophomore majoring in psychology, is the daughter of Ronald and Regina Olson of Thief River Falls. Heather Olson, a junior majoring in English, is the daughter of Myles and Susan Olson of Thief River Falls.

About 130 Concordia students volunteered to view and rate the violence contained in one week of prime time network television shows, along with Saturday morning children's programming and one night's programming on 12 cable TV channels.

The students working on the project counted the number of violent acts, judged how serious the violence was, and noted the commercial sponsors for the programs. The Dorgan legislation would require the Federal Communications Commission to do a similar rating of TV on a quarterly basis. It would provide viewers with a measure of the violence contained in each program.

Concordia President Paul Dovre testified on the project before the United States Senate Commerce committee in Washington, D.C. The project is being coordinated by Dr. Mark Covey, associate professor of psychology at Concordia.

The results of the survey will be distributed to government officials, news media and interested civic and parent groups.

It is expected that training received through this project will apply toward a two-year degree in control engineering and eventually articulate to a four-year UMC degree. At least 50 trainees are expected to participate in the pilot stage of the project.

The Minnesota Job Skills Partnership, with administrative support from the Business and Economic Development division of the Department of Trade and Economic Development, provides matching grants to education institutions which, in turn, develop and provide training for Minnesota businesses to meet the changing need of Minnesota's labor market.

"With the change in mission at UMC and serving the needs of the area, new programs will be more responsive to industry in the area," stated UMC Chancellor Donald Sargeant at the grant award ceremony. "This grant is the seed money to begin this commitment."

Dr. Ray Cross, president and chief executive officer of the Northwest Technical College, said "the time has come to grow employees and companies. We've passed the competitive mode and are moving into the collaborative mode."

Sen. Roger Moe of Erskine said that "collaborative efforts such as these are essential to insure an educational infrastructure which can support economic growth in the region. Both institutions should be congratulated."

Commissioner E. Peter Gillette of the Department of Trade and Economic Development, who is also a member of the Jobs Training Partnership board, said that "in today's economy human resource development is required to achieve economic development. This project serves the economic development interests of the participating businesses and the communities in which they operate."

Blood drive set at Grygla on Dec. 16

Goal for the Grygla-Gatzke-Skime blood drive Thursday, December 16, is for 75 appointments, according to Ralph Rundell, blood drive coordinator. Blood will be drawn from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Grygla community center.

To schedule an appointment to donate blood, call Rundell at 294-6177, Ione Aune at 294-6375, Mildred Klamar at 459-3436 or Loren Lusignan at 294-6155 or 294-6294. Sponsors of the drive are the Lions and Lioness clubs of the Grygla-Gatzke-Skime area.

Generally, most healthy people who are over 17 years of age and weigh at least 110 pounds may donate. People who are taking vitamins, hormones, birth control pills, diet pills, high blood pressure medication or antibiotics "MAY" donate, reports United Blood Services, which draws the blood.

People who are otherwise eligible to donate may be unable to give at this drive because of the following circumstances:

- Blood transfusion within the past 12 months;
- Wait one week after last dosage of antibiotics for an infection;.
- Any dental work, including cleaning, within the past 24 hours;
- Flu shot within the past 24 hours.

In addition, ear piercing not done with an air gun and tattoos defer a donor for 12 months.

Every unit of donated blood is sent to the United Blood Services laboratory in Fargo, ND for testing and processing. Technicians separate the whole blood into components such as red blood cells, plasma, platelets and cryoprecipitate so that one donation can help several patients.

Red blood cells are used for surgery patients. Plasma is needed to treat trauma and burn patients. Platelets are required for cancer and leukemia patients undergoing chemotherapy. Cryoprecipitate is a special blood clotting factor used by those with hemophilia.

Area students receive Alliss grants

Three area students at St. Cloud State University have received Alliss scholarships, according to the SCSU office of scholarships and financial aid.

Recipients include senior Joel Swanson II, Thief River Falls, $300; junior Martin Jerome, St. Vincent, $450; and sophomore Leslie Hexum, Roseau, $375.

There were 363 Alliss scholarships awarded to full-time undergraduate Minnesota students who demonstrated financial need and have grade point averages of 3.5 or higher on a 4.0 scale.

College students take part in violence in television study

Kim Johnson, Ellen Olson and Heather Olson, all of Thief River Falls and currently enrolled at Concordia College in Moorhead, are participating in a demonstration project dealing with the issue of violence in television programming. Concordia is working in cooperation with North Dakota Senator Byron Dorgan to create a TV Violence report card modeled after legislation Dorgan is sponsoring.

Kim Johnson, a senior majoring in social work and psychology, is the daughter of Leon and Karen Johnson of Thief River Falls. Ellen Olson, a sophomore majoring in psychology, is the daughter of Ronald and Regina Olson of Thief River Falls. Heather Olson, a junior majoring in English, is the daughter of Myles and Susan Olson of Thief River Falls.

About 130 Concordia students volunteered to view and rate the violence contained in one week of prime time network television shows, along with Saturday morning children's programming and one night's programming on 12 cable TV channels.

The students working on the project counted the number of violent acts, judged how serious the violence was, and noted the commercial sponsors for the programs. The Dorgan legislation would require the Federal Communications Commission to do a similar rating of TV on a quarterly basis. It would provide viewers with a measure of the violence contained in each program.

Concordia President Paul Dovre testified on the project before the United States Senate Commerce committee in Washington, D.C. The project is being coordinated by Dr. Mark Covey, associate professor of psychology at Concordia.

The results of the survey will be distributed to government officials, news media and interested civic and parent groups.

Whole Wheat Bible Study

God's childlike gospel

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

God's childlike message is simply: Live to please your heavenly Father each day.

We, as earthly parents, teach our children not to use foul language and not to use God's name in vain. We want our children to learn to do good by doing what is right and good on a daily basis. This pleases us and God. We bring them up in the discipline and instruction of the Lord (Eph. 6:4). We teach them to share what they have with others, and be concerned for the rights, welfare and comforts of others. We do our best to teach them to be honest, loving, charitable, giving and forgiving human beings. We teach them the principle that doing good works for God daily brings great rewards into one's life (Eph. 6:8; Heb. 6:10; Rom. 2:6; Matt. 16:27).

Everyone is eagerly waiting for the world to become a better place, but few people are interested in being the first to make it a reality by living God's Way each day. Now that's not too much to ask, is it? After all, we were created to find the purpose of our existence and then perform it on a daily basis (Eph. 2:10). That purpose is to overcome evil by practicing good so we will abide forever and be considered worthy to attain to the age of the resurrection (Psalm 37:27; Phil. 3:11; Luke 20:35).

Employers, law officers, judges, mayors, governors and kings are all pleased with people who have built good character in their lives. People maintain good character by continually doing those things that are right and good. Will you remain a problem of the world or will you be part of the solution? Will you be one who cares or one who could care less about others?

As parents, we teach our children to have good character. Good character is living by godly principles that are pleasing to God as well as man. This is God's Will, and Jesus Christ said doing it is easy and pleasant (Matt. 11:30). God's commandments are not burdensome or hard to keep, but pleasant (1 John 5:3).

It doesn't take great intelligence to do God's Will. It just takes simple, daily obedience to a living, heavenly Father who wants to bless those whom He has created (Acts 3:26). If we are created in God's image, is it right for us to live like the devil, talk like the devil and walk like the devil, daily ignoring God in heaven?

This gospel message is so easy, even a child can understand it! But it takes the mind of a child and the simple obedience of a child for an adult to live it. Time is really running out and the Lord is going to come when no one expects He will (Matt. 24:44). Will you be a child of God and fulfill the Scriptures that the righteous are commanded to fulfill? Or will you, by omission, be fulfilling the Scriptures that the wicked fulfill?

Snow removal key to safe mail delivery

Now that winter has arrived, employees of the United States Postal Service are asking customers to make sure their mailboxes are not blocked by snow or ice. Sidewalks, steps and the curb for streetside delivery should all be cleared of snow so carriers can quickly and safely deliver the mail.

"Safety on the job is a high priority of the United States Postal Service," said Joleen Baxa, manager of customer services for Dakotas District. "Making sure mailboxes have easy accessibility is the single most important thing customers can do to help the Postal Service during the winter."

Baxa makes the following recommendations:

Curb side delivery — If your mailbox is located at the street or along a country road, the approach to, and the exit from, the mailbox should be cleared of snow and ice.

Sidewalk delivery — When a mailbox is located across the sidewalk, your carrier will park so a direct approach can be made to the mailbox. A path from the mailbox to the postal vehicle should be free of snow and ice.

Porch delivery — Keep a clear path from the street to your mailbox. Placing salt and sand on the steps will help make the path safer for your letter carrier or anyone else visiting your home.

Neighborhood delivery units — All four sides of the delivery unit should be cleared as well as a path from the street.

"We sincerely appreciate the cooperation of our customers during the winter months," said Baxa. "If anyone has any questions about what steps they should take to keep their mailbox clear of snow and ice, please feel free to call your local postmaster."

Mary's Christmas Dream

The following essay was submitted to The Times by Patty Skibicki, Mary Herried, Diane Kalsnes and Theresa Mutnansky who like the message it expressed and wanted it shared with a larger readership. The author is unknown:

I had a dream, Joseph. I don't understand it, not really, but I think it was about a birthday celebration for our Son. I think that was what it was all about.

The people had been preparing for it for about six weeks. They had decorated the house and bought new clothes. They'd gone shopping many times and bought elaborate gifts. It was peculiar, though, because the presents weren't for our Son. They wrapped them in beautiful paper and tied them with lovely bows and stacked them under a tree.

Yes, a tree, Joseph, right in their house. They'd decorated the tree also. The branches were full of glowing balls and sparkling ornaments. There was a figure on the top of the tree. It looked like an angel might look. Oh, it was beautiful!

Everyone was laughing and happy. They were all excited about the gifts. They gave the gifts to each other, Joseph, not to our Son. I don't think they even knew Him. They never mentioned His name. Doesn't it seem odd for people to go to all that trouble to celebrate someone's birthday if they don't know him? I had the strangest feeling that if our Son had gone to this celebration He would have been intruding.

Everything was so beautiful, Joseph, and everyone so happy, but it made me want to cry. How sad for Jesus—not to be wanted at His own birthday party. I'm glad it was only a dream. How terrible, Joseph, if it had been real!

"First A Friend, Then A Host" Is A Good Theme

"Friends have the right priorities," reminds Barbara Tezak, spokesperson for the American Automobile Association (AAA) of Minnesota. "They know it's important to be a responsible host, and that means being a real friend first. A responsible host sees that friends have a good time and get home safely. That means putting guests' welfare first and not forcing drinks on anyone."

For a number of years AAA has promoted the theme of "First a Friend, Then a Host" in emphasizing that care should be taken in holiday hosting. It's a good theme with a good message and makes a good deal of common sense.

"Most important, a responsible host encourages drivers to stay sober," Tezak adds. "When there's enough life in a party, guests are less likely to overindulge. The secret is plenty of food, good conversation and activities. Protein-rich and starch foods help slow the absorption of alcohol into the bloodstream and conversation or activities divert guests from drinking.

"It's a good idea to mix drinks on the light side. Punch made with a non-carbonated base such as tea or juice is a good idea. Prepared this way, alcohol is not absorbed by the body as quickly. Winter weather and motorists who drink and drive can be a deadly combination—and the cause of holiday tragedies. However, responsible hosts can make a difference."

The good news is that emphasis such as that being made by AAA and the concentrated efforts on law enforcement and education to keep drunk and drinking drivers off the road have had a positive effect. In 1992 about 45 per cent of all traffic fatalities involved an intoxicated or alcohol-impaired driver or non-occupant (such as pedestrians). The 17,699 alcohol-related fatalities in 1992 represent a 30 per cent reduction from the 25,165 alcohol-related fatalities reported in 1982 (57.3 per cent of the total).

The bad news is that the number and percentage of crashes involving drinking drivers is still far too high. The night rate for fatal crashes involving alcohol is especially disturbing. More than 75 per cent of all fatal crashes between 8 p.m. and 4 a.m. on any night of the week involve alcohol and 79 per cent of fatal traffic crashes that happen on weekend nights are alcohol related. The percentage of all fatally injured drivers with high BACs in night time single-vehicle crashes increased from a 10-year low of 67 per cent in 1987 to 71 per cent in 1991.

Crashes involving men are twice as likely to be alcohol-related as those involving women. Among fatally injured male drivers, 46 per cent had blood alcohol content (BAC) of 0.10 or more in 1991 studies while the rate for women was 23 per cent. Sixty-nine per cent of all passenger vehicle drivers, 74 per cent of all motorcyclists and 60 per cent of all adult pedestrians who were killed in alcohol-related crashes during 1992 had BACs of 0.10 per cent or more.

Being "First a Friend" is good advice for those who host holiday parties. The emphasis is on having a good time "this" time in a manner that permits many more "next" times. Friends help take care of each other.

Visitors are most welcome and now as you send Christmas cards, why not remember her, as well as other folks at our nursing home.

Correction

The pot luck dinner reported recently of the Rewertz and Wilkens families was held at the Barry Rewertz home and not at his mother's, Idella's, home.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I am writing in response to the Bemidji resident who feels TRF grocery prices are lower than Bemidji's (The Times editorials, Dec. 8 issue).

Thief River Falls grocery stores do have super sale prices. I am not talking about the sale items, I am talking about the regular priced items. Sure, some things are higher in Bemidji, but some things are higher in TRF. Most things compare within a few cents, and when you can add a double coupon to that, you do save money. You need to be a smart shopper and know prices. Then, you just don't buy the items that are higher.

I go though a lot of groceries and cleaning supplies and I know from experience that I do save money shopping occasionally in Bemidji or Fargo, even if you count the traveling expenses (which are usually split between two people).

I already do most of my shopping locally. My whole point is that it just would be nice if we could bring double coupons back to our town. I know a lot of other TRF shoppers would like that, too. Even if we could have it one day a week, or even just one day a month. I think most people would be happy with that.

Sincerely,
Colleen Bergeron

TURNING BACK THE TIMES

By Donna Myhrer

1893 — One Hundred Years Ago

—The Norwegian Lutheran church will have a Christmas tree in the Nelson building.

—The fair under the auspices of the Ladies Aid last Friday night was successful; most of the fancy work was disposed of and some money was raised toward seats for the new church.

—G. F. Cowan of the Golden Rule store is giving Christmas gifts to children under 13 who visit the store.

1903 — Ninety Years Ago

—A cut of 25 percent in the wages of woodmen has this week been announced at a number of lumber camps. The prevailing wages at present are $26 to 30 per month.

—The city schools close tomorrow for a two-week vacation. Most of the teachers will leave that evening for their homes to spend the holidays.

—At the school board meeting Tuesday evening E. E. Zeh was instructed to purchase 25 cords of wood.

1913 — Eighty Years Ago

—The Thief River Falls city council has been accused of "creating" local jobs for their faithful friends.

—Albert Oski, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Oski of Cloverleaf township, died from an accidental gun shot by his nine-year-old brother.

—A total of 300 people attended the Commercial club banquet Wednesday evening at the city auditorium.

1923 — Seventy Years Ago

—Oscar R. Smith was elected commander of the local American Legion post, succeeding D. W. Robinson.

—Dr. M. George Milan, superintendent of Oakland Park sanatorium, left for Warren to engage in private practice.

—Mrs. C. M. Haug was named president of the local Legion auxiliary.

1933 — Sixty Years Ago

—Walter H. Quist of Thief River Falls was named chief game warden in District 12.

—W. E. Dahlquist was named president of the Red River Valley Development association at its annual meeting in Crookston.

—A total of 210 county residents were employed on federal PWA projects this week.

1943 — Fifty Years Ago

—Pennington county has been given a quota of $386,000 in the fourth war loan campaign, it was announced by Paul A. Lundgren, chairman.

—J. H. Ulvan, former editor of the Tri-County Forum here, is now working for the Los Angeles Daily News.

—With the ice in the river pool now 15 inches thick, the O'Hara Fuel and Ice company has started cutting wash ice.

1953 — Forty Years Ago

—Construction in Thief River Falls set a new record in 1953, with building permits totaling $1,490,790.

—Total non-homestead tax rate for Thief River Falls in 1953 was set at 151.32 mills.

—Arthur Christenson was named to succeed L. A. Ihle as president of the civic and commerce association.

1963 — Thirty Years Ago

—College students home for the holidays were guests of the Rotary club at its meeting Monday noon.

—Year 1963 will go down in the record books as having established an all-time record dollar volume of building permits in Thief River Falls, with the total volume for the city being in excess of $3.1 million, as the new elementary and junior high school building on the east side accounted for more than two-thirds of the total at $1,495,000 and the addition to Northwestern hospital costing $840,000.

—The Baptist church will present a cantata, "Christmas Story in Song," December 29 at the church.

1973 — Twenty Years Ago

—Leonard Skaar of Thief River Falls was elected chairman of the Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation districts at the 37th annual convention held in Rochester.

—Area residents are warned not to use the dam as a river crossing for snowmobiles.

—Early morning fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Wedul about two miles south of Thief River Falls.

1983 — Ten Years Ago

—Plans are being made for the eighth annual Christmas Eve dinner at Lon's restaurant in Thief River Falls for anyone who will be alone.

—Roger Tunberg has been named president of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce for 1984.

—Gary Kostrzewski has been elected president of the Pennington county historical society, succeeding Inga Geving.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

From The Times Files of Fifty Years Ago

Skating Rink in Arena Ready For Use Friday

"Good news for local skaters, young and old, is contained in the announcement today by T. M. Thronson of the arena management committee, that the ice sheet in the arena will be ready for use by skaters Friday afternoon, just as the Christmas holiday period in the local schools gets under way. With the arrival of subzero temperatures last week-end, rapid progress has since been made on the task of creating the huge sheet of ice."

Boy Scouts Tell Rotarians of Campaign

"L. B. Hartz, local finance chairman of the Boy Scouts, explained the objectives of the annual fund campaign opening Monday December 20, in a talk at the Rotary club luncheon Tuesday noon at the Evelyn hotel. Supt. Philip L. Fjelstad, district Boy Scout chairman, also discussed various features of the organization."

Asks Release of Water from Red Lake in Winter

"In a letter this week to Tom C. White, superintendent of the Red Lake Indian agency, Walter S. Olson, director of the state division of water resources, recommended that the dam at the outlet of Red Lake be opened up to release as much water as possible during the winter months. This action will make possible additional water storage in the lake next spring, at which time flood conditions might make it advisable to shut off the outflow from the lake entirely for a period of time during the growing season."

26 Carloads of Dressed Turkeys Go in December

"Up to Wednesday morning of this week, a total of 26 carloads of dressed turkeys had been shipped from Thief River Falls in December, compared with 24 carloads for the Thanksgiving market in November."

Taxpayers Group Discusses County Affairs

"Twenty members of the Pennington County Taxpayers association, most of them from rural areas, engaged in a spirited discussion of county affairs at a meeting Saturday afternoon in the Civic and Commerce room. A discussion of rural real estate valuations brought out the opinion that valuations are still out of line with those in adjoining counties. A poll taken at the meeting indicated that a majority were opposed to a county appropriation in 1944 for the county public health nursing service, as well as for the Valley Winter Shows at Crookston."

New Law Helps Old-Age Recipients

"Now that the state law providing maximum old-age assistance payments of $40 a month has been in operation for eight months, the need for this socially progressive piece of legislation can be clearly shown, states John X. Lynskey, executive secretary of the Pennington county welfare board.

"He said that almost half of the recipients in this county have benefited from the law to date by receiving a payment in one or more months which was greater than the old $30 limit. This, however, he explained does not mean that 50 per cent receive that much every month.

"For the current month of December the payments are as follows: $6 to $9, two per cent of those receiving assistance; $10 to $19, ten per cent; $20 to $29, 54 per cent; and $30 to $40, 34 per cent."

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of Olga (Mrs. Olaf) Ryan who passed away on December 11th, 1977.

If we could have one Christmas wish
We'd wish you could be here
To laugh, to talk and sit awhile
Once again to see you smile
These dreams remain within our hearts
Though you are gone
You're still a part
Of every yesterday and every tomorrow.

Dearly loved & sadly missed

Goodridge SD 561 board meeting

(November 23, 1993)

■ Roy Lunde, auditor, presented the 1993 annual audit. The auditor reported that the district's fund balance has been reduced significantly.

■ John Lovly, president of the Goodridge Area Development Corporation, reported that it has set aside $800 to assist the district in paying for a building renovations feasibility study.

■ Parents of students in the junior class have been given surveys to fill out. The school is looking for input on the junior-senior prom, banquet and after prom party.

December 15, 1993
School District #561
Regular Meeting Proceedings
November 23, 1993, 4:00 P.M.

The following minutes are not official until approved by the Board at the next regularly scheduled meeting.

Members present: Alson Hyland, Martin Kotrba, Tom Scheel, Alan Swanson, Joe Philipp, John Gallagher. Members absent: none. Also present: Superintendent Hoffert, Principal Winge.

The meeting was called to order at 4:05 P.M. by chairperson Hyland. Pledge of allegiance was given.

Swanson moved, Kotrba seconded, to approve the November meeting agenda. Motion carried.

Philipp moved, Scheel seconded, to approve the minutes of the October 25, 1993, regular meeting. Motion carried.

Scheel moved, Swanson seconded to approve the November computer checks $21,965.60, October handpayables $42,203.79 and October extra payroll $3,252.91 for a total of $67,422.30. Motion carried. (See report #3.11-#3.13 attached to the official board minutes.)

Superintendent Hoffert gave the revenue budget, expenditure budget and cash flow reports. (See reports #3.21-#3.23 attached to the official board minutes.)

Roy Lunde, auditor from Brady, Martz and Associates P.C., presented the 1993 annual audit. The auditor reported that the district's fund balance has been reduced significantly due to the building renovations, appropriated severance pay and the post secondary enrollment options program in Thief River Falls. (See audit report on file in the school district office.)

No patron concerns were given.

Patti Johnson, student council advisor, reported that a goal of the high school student council is to adopt a constitution for their organization.

Patti Johnson and Diane Paulson, G.E.A. representatives, gave reports on the Global Fair which was held during American Education Week. The board thanked the committee members and many volunteers for making the activities available to the students. (See report #5.21 attached to the official board reports.)

Principal Winge reported on the role of the curriculum consortium that the district is participating in and that the Minnesota Educational Effectiveness program team will be making regular reports to the school board and will be working on a school mission statement. (See report #6.1 attached to the official board reports.)

John Lovly, president of the Goodridge Area Development Corporation, reported that the G.A.D.C. has set aside $800 to assist the district in paying for a building renovations feasibility study. Scheel moved, Gallagher seconded, to hire Jones Architectural Engineering Firm of Clearbrook to do a feasibility study for continued building renovations. Motion carried.

Swanson moved, Kotrba seconded, to become a participant in the North Borders Tech Prep consortium as outlined in board report #8.1. Motion carried. (See report #8.1 attached to the official board minutes.)

Principal Winge reported that Bill Rust has agreed to become the junior high basketball coach for the 1993-1994 basketball season.

He also reported that Marcia Kjono will be the long-term substitute for Lois Anderson in grade 2 and Nicole Jalowiec will be the long term substitute for Jodi Dahl in the high school music program.

Kotrba reported on the last pairing meeting held on November 2, 1993. (See report #10.11 attached to the official board minutes.)

The board discussed various options for coat racks to be used during ball games and concerts. The matter was referred to the administration to work out a solution that would also comply with fire safety standards.

Superintendent Hoffert reported on the last meeting of the N.W. RIC.

Hyland and Winge reported on the last student foundation meeting.

Principal Winge reported that fall evening conferences were much better attended than the day conferences.

Principal Winge reported that a parent survey has been sent to the parents of the junior class to get input on plans being made for the junior-senior prom, banquet and after prom party. Surveys have indicated very little change is expected from past years.

Superintendent Hoffert reviewed population projections and average daily membership projections as distributed at the Annual Minnesota Rural Education Fall Conference.

The superintendent reminded the board of the tax levy hearing to be held on Tuesday, November 30 at 7:00 P.M.

The regular December meeting was scheduled for Monday, December 20, 1993, at 7:00 P.M.

The meeting adjourned at 6:30 P.M.

Julie Kiesow, Deputy Clerk

Attest:
Martin Kotrba, Clerk-Treasurer
Aldon Hyland, Chairperson

Newfolden

Thursday evening LaVoi Thun visited and had coffee with Arnold and Vernice Larson.

Lloyd Larson was up to his trailer house at Lake of the Woods from Friday until Sunday.

Sunday, November 21, those that visited and brought Hanna Moen early birthday wishes, cake and gifts were Marvin and Betty Moen, Dennis and Beverly Moen and Douglas of Oklee, Kathy Harstad and Nathan Nelson.

Aaron and Blanche Waterworth visited with Emma Gustofson on Friday evening.

Friday forenoon visitors at the Inga Melo home were Pastor Paulson and Vi Melvie. In the afternoon Anita Skadsem and Harlan Melo visited with Inga.

Thursday afternoon, December 2, Elaine Thompson attended the Ladies Mission Fellowship Christmas program and party at the Vernace Stokke home. Beverly Flickinger had devotions reading the Christmas story recorded in Matthew and Luke. We sang many of the lovely Christmas carols with readings in between the songs. Katherine Knutson was in charge of it. She took us back down memory lane to the old school houses where we were youngsters again and had parts to say about our time years ago. Each held a candle and it was lit by older students. We all sang "This Little Light of Mine." It was so very interesting and brought back many precious memories of our childhood Christmas programs. Eighteen ladies atended and enjoyed a delicious pot luck lunch and visit afterwards.

Thursday, December 2, visitors at the Ernest and Eunice Hanson home were Adeline Roppe, Floyd Hanson, Harvey and Myrtle Dyrud and Pastor Floistad.

Myron and Illa Anderson came and took Lucille Skadsem to Grand Forks, ND where they enjoyed a meal at the Red Lobster and took her to a movie. They also did some shopping. Lucille spent the night at the Myron Anderson home and came home the next day.

Mark and Jane Schaumberg and Matt spent the weekend at the Milton Erickson home.

Francis Gerszewski attended the Mary Jo circle meeting last Thursday evening at the Laura Roppe home.

Lloyd and Harryet Larson were visitors at the Helen Sorenson apartment in Thief River Falls on Monday.

Thanksgiving Day dinner guests at the Gene Waterworth home in Fargo, ND were Aaron and Blanche Waterworth and Evelyn Johnson of Moorhead.

Saturday afternoon visitors at the Inga Melo home were Amy Lind, Hanna Moen, Della Elseth and Muriel Nelson.

Curt and Elaine Thompson visited with Emma Kammen last Thursday evening, December 2.

Milton and Beverly Erickson visited at the Dean Anderson home last Sunday.

Patty Wagner and Floyd and Mary Otto visited with Peter and Francis Gerszewski on Sunday afternoon.

Arnold and Vernice Larson visited and enjoyed lunch with Shirley Lefrooth and Rick Anderson on Monday evening.

Thursdy forenoon Gladys Garfve visited with Inga Melo.

Tuesday evening, December 7, Curt and Elaine Thompson, Olga Thompson, Laura Haaseth, Shirley Wagner and Greg Carlson brought greetings and gifts to Emma Kammen who celebrated her 83rd birthday. Elaine and Olga brought the cakes. Birthday blessings, Emma.

Visitors during the week at the Milton Erickson home were Edward and Janice Carlson and Robbie, Dean and Mary Anderson and Jill, Ernie and Linda Johnson, Luke and Cassie, Brian Gillund, Scott Nelson and Shane Nelson.

"Good things come in little packages — just like me". That's the name of a tune being sung by students performing in St. Bernard's production of the musical "Greatest Gift of All". The musical will be performed 7 p.m. December 16 at St. Bernard's in Thief River Falls. There is no admission charge and it is open to the public. The musical explores what Christmas really means. Pictured above are Taylor Breitenfeldt, 7-year-old daughter of Patty and Darryl Breitenfeldt, and Alexandra McClaflin, 7-year-old daughter of Teresa and Gary McClaflin.
